To help another man to help himself is the best kind of help. From the standpoint of altruism, the less fortunate man has a greater claim on our friendship than the man in our own class, though usually we dodge this issue. While helping the individual is very practical, we must not neglect the group or the community. No man can be true to his duty and neglect the interests of the community; every man should vote; every man should help to right the wrongs and he should help to make the city clean physically and morally. That man who is an active member of the church, and lives a consistent life in habits, but who ignores his duty to the individual and the community is, in a sense a hypocrit; he is certainly a poor representative of the Christ he pretends to serve.

Commanded U. S. S. Texas

The sudden death early in the week of Admiral Victor Blue, while on his way from Florida to Washington to enter a hospital for treatment recalled the fact here that in 1917 the Texas, while commanded by Captain Blue, ran aground off Block Island. The courtmartial sentenced him to a loss of twenty numbers, but Admiral Mayo recommended a reduction of the punishment to ten, and Secretary Daniels agreed, adding praise of Captain Blue's record, and remarking that the accident was an instance of placing too much reliance on a navigating officer.

F. B. Club Held Meeting

Monday evening the F. B. club met at the home of Mrs. Thomas Gauthier and were entertained by Mrs. Eva Rigby. The club is to hold a theatre party next Monday evening, the regular meeting being postponed to the following week.

LAFAYETTE MAIN DEFENDING SUIT BROUGHT FOR LAWYER'S SERVICES

Suit brought by Attorney Telley E. Babcock, of this city, against Lafayette F. Main, a North Stonington farmer, to collect fees claimed for legal services, which has been on trial in New London in the common pleas court before Judge C. B. Waller and a jury, is expected to reach the jury today (Thursday). Attorney H. H. Pettis is counsel for Mr. Babcock, while Main is acting as his own counsel.

Attorney Babcock, in his bill of particulars, claims that Main owes him a total of $202 on the following items:

March, 1919—Examining land records in reference to description and title of land in and north of Winthrop swamp—$25.

March 3, 1919—Consultations and one day appraising sheep at Ayers place in Ledyard—$15.

To examination of premises along the Norwich-Westerly highway and appearing as witness before committee on land damages—$10.

March, 1920—To drawing notice of claim on Main against R. W. Perkins, receiver of Shore Line Electric Railway Co., and consultations—$15.

June, 1920—One day appraising sheep at Ayers place and consultation—$12.

Sept. 10, 1921—To drawing application and consultation to obtain two patents in United States patent office—$25.

1921-1922—Bringing suit, preparatory for trial and trial by jury in the case of Main against John D. Avery in the court of common pleas—$75.

April 1, 1922—Consultations and letter to the L. Suzio Construction Co. for claim of $1,145—$25.

Main, in his answer and counterclaim, denies the statements in Attorney Babcock's bill of particulars. As to the examination of records, Main claims to have no knowledge, but says that if Mr. Babcock did so, it was done on his own account with a view of purchase.

Main claims that the appraising of sheep by Attorney Babcock was paid by the town of Ledyard. He claims that on Aug. 26, 1921, he paid Attorney Babcock $35 for services in connection with the patent work. Main claims that on Aug. 30, 1921, he paid items of $25.61 and a retainer of $20 of agreed charge of $75 to Attorney Babcock for services in connection with the Main-Avery suit. Main sets up that the claim against the L. Suzio Construction Co., was taken up on a contingent collection basis.

By way of counter claim, Main sets up that Attorney Babcock occupied for a saw mill set up for two years, land of Main's, which the latter claims was reasonably worth $150. He also claims that Attorney Babcock left an unfilled hole into which a cow worth $75 fell and had to be killed.

Main also represents that Attorney Babcock agreed to saw certain timber of the defendant on a "share and share alike" basis and that Attorney Babcock left unsawed the defendant's share to rot. Main claims that his share was worth $150. Main further sets up that Attorney Babcock cut, destroyed and used timber on said hired premises, worth $50.

The defendant also claims that Attorney Babcock accepted from Ernest Bennett an order to pay Main $50 for rent due and that he has not paid the same.

In set-off and damages, Main asks $450.

The following jury is hearing the case: New London—Francis P. D'Avignon, Edward J. Murray, Albert C. Boardman, Fred E. Denison, Jerome J. Collins; Groton—Benjamin F. Allen; Montville—Raymond Palmer, Milton Mitchell; East Lyme—Clifford B. Clark; Old Lyme—Frank J. Howard; Waterford—Joseph Hardwick, Donald B. Daboll.

In the course of cross examination of Main in court Wednesday he shouted out "You look me in the eye and see if you see a horse or a mule!"

This remark followed testimony by Attorney Babcock to the effect that Main had taken a horse and a mule from the lawyer. Main, who is not an attorney, but who is in the habit of conducting his own cases in court, was very active Wednesday, his glasses set on the very end of his nose and his rugged hands, used to farm implements, clutching tightly to a big stack of papers.

Main was extremely angry and made his anger known, when Judge Pettis placed Clerk George E. Parsons of the superior court on the stand to read Main's conviction in 1902 for the theft of a heifer from the records.

"I'm objecting to this, your honor," roared Main, "on the grounds that this here matter's got nothing to do with the facts of this case." However, Judge Waller allowed it, saying that he could not keep it out.

Judge Waller would not allow Clerk Parsons to answer a cross-question put by Main as to who was state attorney in 1902.

Unless Main consented, Clerk Parsons could not take the record back to Norwich, and it would remain in the evidence of the case.

"I ain't doing any consenting," said Main. "Brother Pettis brought this business in and I've got nothing to do with it."

Judge Waller later explained that if Main would admit that the records were true, Clerk Parsons might take the file back to Norwich.

"Anything to hasten matters," said Main. "Course I admit it—the records show it, don't they?"

Elmer E. Pitcher, civil engineer and surveyor of this city, was called to the stand and he displayed photographs and explained them to the court and jury. George E. Pitcher, civil engineer and surveyor, followed and over the objection of Judge Pettis, he valued the swamp land of Main for purposes of renting for a saw mill set-up as between $75 to $100 a year.

Over another objection of Judge Pettis, Mr. Pitcher valued timber which was alleged to have been cut down by Attorney Babcock on Main's land as worth between $40 and $75. Herbert C. Whitford, a carpenter of North Stonington, also testified for Main.

WHITAKER FAMILY FUNERAL TO BE HELD AT CHURCH

Anouncement was made Wednesday that the funeral of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Whitaker and their three daughters, Dorothy, Lucille and Elaine, will be held today at Christ church, instead of at Buckingham Memorial as originally planned. Rev. C. Montgomery Budiong will conduct the service. The family were devout members of the parish and Allen, the 10-year-old boy whose body with that of his brother, Herbert, 3, has not been recovered from the Shetucket river, was a member of the church choir. Special arrangements are being made to accommodate the many friends of the family with reservations for the members of Sedgwick Woman's Relief Corps, No. 16, of which Mrs. Harriet Whitaker, of New Haven, mother of Mr. Whitaker, is a member.

At 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, Undertaker C. A. Gager opened the doors of his undertaking rooms on Franklin street to the general public to afford them a chance to view the five bodies. Hundreds of people visited the rooms throughout the late afternoon and evening. The bodies will lie in state at the vestibule of Christ church this (Thursday) afternoon from 11 until 1 o'clock. The funeral service will be held at 2:30 o'clock and the burial will take place in Preston City cemetery.

A high wind and rough water Wednesday prevented dragging the river for the bodies of the two missing boys. One attempt was made about 1 o'clock in the afternoon by two men in a rowboat, but the boat was tossed back and forth in the rough water and the attempt was abandoned.

News of the tragedy came as a distinct shock to the residents of the villages of Poquetanuck and Hallville. Mr. and Mrs. Whitaker resided in Hallville for several years and had many friends in that village and in Poquetanuck. Mrs. Whitaker was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis LaValle of Preston. She is survived by her father, three brothers, George LaValle of Hallville, Joseph LaValle, also of Hallville, William LaValle of Trading Cove and five half-sisters, Mrs. Clifford DeWolf and Miss Florence LaValle of Hallville, Mrs. Albert Derosier, Mrs. Walter Chapman, of Norwich, and Mrs. Edward Riley of New York.

She was severely injured about the right elbow and arm so that she was unable to work at her trade as a weaver at which she earned $35 a week. The suit is returnable to the superior court in February.

CLIFF STREET RESIDENT SUES CITY FOR $3,000

Alleging negligence on the part of the city in the care given to Cliff street to maintain it in a proper condition, Mary Suplicki of 167 Cliff street has brought suit against the city for $3,000 damages. She claims that at least four times in the last year water from the street has overflowed portions of her property with the result that she will be obliged to expend large sums of money in replacing and repairing the walls, floors, partitions, wall paper, carpets, furniture, foundation, wainscoting, sills and frame of the house and in restoring the lot to grade.

By reason of the flooding, the plaintiff also claims that she has suffered and does suffer in her health and has been obliged to expend and will be obliged to expend sums of money for physicians, drugs and medicines in the attempt to recover her health.

The papers set out that there is a catch basin about opposite the property of Mrs. Suplicki, but this has become clogged and blocked and caused water to overflow on her land.

SUITS FOR DAMAGES FOR SON'S BROKEN LEG

Two suits against Harry B. Ford, as administrator of the estate of John H. Ford of this city have been brought in the superior court because of injuries sustained by Chester J. Oddie of Lisbon, a minor of the age of 16 years.

On behalf of the young man, his father, Frank L. Oddie, sues for $25,000 damages on the claim that a motor truck of the defendant estate hit the bicycle which young Oddie was riding on March 22, 1927 on the Norwich-Jewett City highway near the J. B. Martiq Co. mill, whereby Oddie suffered a compound fracture of the left leg between the knee and the ankle and has been permanently injured.

In another suit Frank L. Oddie seeks $2,500 damages claiming that he expended upwards of $700 in hospital bills, for medical attendance and medicines upwards of $2,500, and for care and nursing a large sum and has also been deprived of the wages of Chester Oddie which amounted to $12 a week.

The suits are returnable before the superior court in February.

NORWICH WATER SUPPLY IN EXCELLENT SHAPE

The Norwich water supply in Fairview and Stony Brook reservoirs promises to be in excellent shape with the opening of the spring season as Stony Brook reservoir is now near the full pond mark and Fairview reservoir is over full pond.

The heavy storm of Tuesday night gave a rainfall that lacked only one tenth of making a full inch. Fairview reservoir is now 7 inches above full pond and Stony Brook is 8 inches below the new full pond mark. Both should show gains because of the storm of Tuesday night.

Workmen's Compensation.

Three workmen's compensation agreements as follows have been approved by Commissioner Albert J. Bailey:

Ashland Cotton Co., Jewett City, employer, and Samuel D. Champlain employe, injury to knee, Dec. 29, at the rate of $6.25.

John Chittenden, East River, employer, and Irving Stillman, Preston, employe, finger infected, Sept. 26, at rate of $13.50.

New London water and sewer department, employer, and Louis Inzinga, Waterford, employe, bruised foot, Oct. 31, at rate of $11.23.

Withdrawal Of Suit.

Withdrawal without costs has been filed with the clerk of the superior court in the suit of Frank J. Batterby against Alfred Heneault, both of Norwich, brought for $5,000 damages for injuries in an automobile accident in this city on the night of Oct. 28, 1926.

THREE CHARGES MADE AGAINST AUTO DRIVER

George L'Heroux of No. 75 Dunham street was presented in the city court Wednesday morning on charges of reckless driving, failure to obey an officer and evading responsibility. Tuesday night L'Heroux failed to heed a police whistle signal to stop at Thames square. He drove on through West Main street and up Washington street and crashed into a Cadillac owned by A. P. Streeter of No. 39 East Town street and parked near No. 181 Washington street. L'Heroux left his machine there and disappeared, it is said. Later he was arrested at his brother's home where he was being treated by Dr. David Sussler. In court Wednesday the case was continued until next Monday.

Both machines were extensively damaged. Officer Albert Lamphere blew his whistle to stop L'Heroux after the latter's machine had collided with the traffic beacon at Thames square, knocking off a large piece of the cement base.

WIND BLEW BIG LIMB FROM WARREN ST. TREE

During the high wind about 9 o'clock Wednesday night a 75-foot limb from a tree at the residence of Shepard B. Palmer at 142 Broad street on the corner of Warren street was torn loose from the tree and blown across Warren street to the residence of James L. Case. It just missed landing on top of Mr. Case's automobile which was standing in front of the house.

Employes from the street department and the gas and electric department got to work to remove the limb and the tangle of wires which came down with it.

The estate is one of about $15,000, and gifts of $500 each were made to two Connecticut nephews, Edwin S. Gordon of Willimantic and John H. Gordon of Danielson.

BOSTON WHIRLWINDS WIN CLOSE GAME FROM PLAINFIELD PROS 27 TO 25

(Special to The Bulletin)

PLAINFIELD, Jan. 26—The Boston Whirlwinds tonight for the third time this season were just a bit too good for the Plainfield Pros and won one of the most bitterly contested games ever staged in the Community house by a 27-25 score. A basket half the distance of the floor by Piddie Morley was the deciding margin, coming in the final minute of play.

But it was little greater of value than Whitey Bernot's nine sensational baskets that were the mainspring of Plainfield's attack. Bernot gave one of the greatest exhibitions of shooting tonight that even the old-timers could recall, the Plainfield captain throwing them in from all angles under all conditions.

Whitey Bernot in Rare Form

Bernot scored 13 of Plainfield's 25 points. He tossed in seven of them in the first half. He sent in four right off the reel after Crotty had gained the lead for Boston and after giving the Pros the lead with this wonderful spurt proceeded to keep them ahead during the half with the other three at opportune moments. He sank two more in the second half that also helped greatly.

Boston had an edge on the Pros in teamwork all the way but it was not a very wide edge. At passing the ball around in the backcourt and up to mid floor the Whirlwinds were supreme. Plainfield could do nothing with this sort of play. Meanwhile, Plainfield took no time in tossing the ball under her own goal but immediately started excursions toward the other end of the floor. When the Pros struck the rugged Boston defense they were in real trouble but Bernot's shooting pulled them through at many critical moments. Mondi Normandin also was there when needed for his two baskets were of real help, one coming in the first half when the Pros were just beginning to make some impression on the Boston guards and the other in the second half in the Pros' vain attempt to ward off the Hub team.

Pros Lead Most of First Half

During the first half the Whirlwinds led for the first few minutes when Crotty dropped in a field goal but Plainfield had the lead for the remaining three quarters or more of the way although Boston again came very close just before the half to set the score at intermission at 13 to 17.

The Pros led for just about five minutes in the second half before the Whirlwinds first tied and then went ahead by one point. It was either one, two points or a tie most all the way until with a minute and a half to play the Whirlwinds led by 25-24. Benson was fouled for the third time in less than a few minutes and he made good time, tieing the count and sending the house wild.

The teams went at it again and for about three quarters of a minute nothing happened. Then, Morley grabbed a pass and with one flick of the arm sent the ball from where he was standing in the center irons through the net as clean as a whistle. There was little doing from then on for both teams pulled and tugged more than anything.

For the Pros, of course, Bernot was the star performer with Mondi Normandin and Hap Madden also showing nice games. Crotty, the little speed merchant, was the Whirlwinds best bet, with Kiley right behind.

Phil. Colored Giants Next Week

Next Wednesday the Pros have the world famous Philadelphia Royal Colored Giants as the opposition at the Community house.

In the prelim the Plainfield Buddies swamped the Danielson Town Team Seconds by 39 to 17. The Buddies led all the way having a 22-7 lead at half time. This was the Buddies second win in their series with the up-staters.

Reiselt Wins Second Block.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 25.—(AP)—Otto Reiselt, Philadelphia, world's 3-cushion billiard champion, won the second block of the challenge match with Tiff Denton, Kansas City, this afternoon, 50 to 40, increasing his lead for the two blocks to 35. The match is for 300 points in five blocks of 60 points each. The total score now stands: Reiselt 120, Denton 85.

HAHN WINS HIS FOURTH RACE OF THE SEASON

NEWARK, N. J., Jan. 25. —(AP)— Lloyd Hahn, Boston A. A. star, won his fourth successive victory of the season in the Butler Memorial 1,000 at the St. Joseph's Catholic club meet here tonight. The time was 2:14 4-5.

Phil Edwards, New York university Negro, who pushed Hahn in a half mile race two weeks ago, was second ten yards behind the little Boston flier. Ray Dodge, Illinois A. C., beat out Ed Swinbourne, New York, for third place. Hahn's slow time was due to an error to the officials which allowed the runners to go a lap over the thousand yard distance.

At the start Edwards jumped into the lead defying Hahn's efforts to pass him until the halfway mark was reached. Once ahead, Hahn ran easily until he received the signal that only two laps were left. He then put on speed easily drawing away from the New Yorker. At the sound of the gun denoting the start of the final lap he let out another notch staging an unnecessary sprint to win easily.

Hahn's teammate, Leo Lermond, ran away with the two-mile handicap finishing 50 yards ahead of Ed Kirby Newark A. C., to win in 9:33 4-5. Both started from scratch. W. Schultze, New York stock exchange was third.

Lermond and Kirby stayed close together alternating in setting the pace until the last few laps when Lermond drew away with a powerful sprint.

R. V. Bontecou, Newark A. C., captured the pole vault event with a leap of 12 feet. F. M. Martin, University of Pennsylvania and S. S. Scholip, New York A. C. tied for second place.

ACADEMY PREPARING FOR BATTLE WITH BULKELEY

Once more Academy and Bulkeley teams gird for battle. Both outfits are nearly ready for their second annual battle at basketball here Saturday night and, although one of the teams Bulkeley will have a bit of a handle on its name (Rovers), still that makes little difference for this game will be regarded by the contestants as between N. F. A. and Bulkeley and that's all. But that's enough for any red-blooded citizen of Norwich or New London who has followed or heard tell of the athletic rivalry between these two schools down through the ages.

Bulkeley is getting in some stiff licks in preparation for this game. Last year the Whalers lost, but in going down they gave the Red and White a great battle for the majority of the game. Last year they had no practice either when they came here. This year they have, in fact, they have been thinking of this game ever since the season opened.

Such familiar names will grace the score-book on the Bulkeley side Saturday night as Frank Locke, Ray Palmer, Bernstein, Ellis, Watterson and others, all players who have battled the Red and White in other fields of athletic endeavor.

The Academy is reported to be shifting its style of play, both offensively and defensively, and Bulkeley will be the first team on which this new experiment will be tried. The Academy will hold its regular drills today and Friday after the usual Wednesday rest. All regulars are ready for this game, which carries more tradition, even though it is not a bona-fide scholastic clash, than any other tilt on the Academy schedule.

SPEAKER WILL GET HIS RELEASE FEB. 1

TAMPA, Fla., Jan. 25. —(AP)— Tris Speaker, today had apparently passed out of the drama as far as the 1928 Washington Senators are concerned. Clark Griffith, president of the club, announced today that the famous "Spoke" was unconditionally released effective Feb. 1.

Informed of the action, Speaker had little to say at Georgetown, S. C., where he is visiting on a hunting trip.

"Too much salary and a desire by the baseball public at Washington for a younger club," were given by Griffith as the reason for releasing the centerfielder.

Speaker's comment was:

"I am the property of the Senators until Feb. 1 and there the matter rests."

HAHN AND PELTZER MAY MEET AT MILLROSE GAMES

BOSTON, Jan. 25.—(AP)—The possibility of a meeting between Lloyd Hahn, the Boston A. A. U.'s crack miler, and Dr. Otto Peltzer, of Germany, at the Millrose A. A. games in New York, on February 2, was indicated here today by Jack Ryder, B. A. A. coach.

"Why not settle the thing at the Millrose games?" Ryder said. "They're both entered in that, Hahn in the mile and Peltzer in the 880. Hahn's perfectly willing to shift to the half if the officials are willing and we could put Bob Dalrymple into the Wanamaker mile in his place."

SCHAEFER BEATS COCHRAN IN MATCH

Nearing the end of a billiard exhibition tour together, Jake Schaefer, world's champion 18.2 balkline billiard player, and Welker Cochran, former title holder, visited the Elks' club last night and thrilled an audience of about 300 people by their wizardry with the cue and cue balls. Playing a 250 point 18.2 balkline match, a 15 point three cushion billiard match and winding up with a series of seemingly impossible trick hots, the artists kept their audience spellbound for nearly two hours.

The balkline match featured by runs of 109 and 128 made by Schaefer and Cochran respectively was won by the former by a score of 250 to 197 after 5 1-2 innings of play. Holding a lead of 244 to 69 in the first half of the fifth inning having scored his longest run in the second inning, Schaefer appeared to be an easy winner.

Playing against the breaks of the game up to this time Cochran in his half started on a run which brought him closer and closer to the champ. After having passed the 100 mark for the session, Cochran was being conceded a fair chance to win. However, on his 129th shot after having reached 197 points he missed and Jake, son of the old wizard soon had gathered in the necessary six points to win.

During this game each player made brilliant shots which drew for them hearty applause.

The inning scores:

Schaefer—	4	109	9	95	23	4	6	—250
Cochran—	18	1	24	6	25	128		—197

High runs—Cochran 129; Schaefer 109.

Averages—Schaefer 35.5-7; Cochran 32 5-6.

The 15 point 3 cushion billiard match also was won by Schaefer 15 to 14 and was probably the most interesting feature of the evening's performances.

During this match the men were called upon to demonstrate their ability to make the balls travel around the table, timing, playing equally as important a part as accuracy to strike the necessary points on the various cushions. Again in this match Schaefer took an early lead, only to be overtaken by Cochran later in the contest. Apparently the winner, the former king of the cues, slipped after he had scored 14 points, allowing Schaefer to first tie him and then win.

With both matches tucked safely away Schaefer then proceeded with his demonstration of trick shots, featuring the force draw 3 cushion on 3 rails, force follow around the table, and several time shots five cushions.

Cochran wound up the exhibition with a series of billiard masse shots.

The pair left Norwich for Hartford shortly after the performance. They are to play exhibitions there, tomorrow afternoon and evening.

They are to continue their tour until the middle of March when Schaefer defends his title against Edward Horemans, Belgian contender, at California. At that time Cochran will bid farewell to the billiard game to enter the brokerage business in New York city. Although he will not play any exhibitions after he enters the brokerage business, Cochran expects to keep in shape for the championships next year.

McMAHON ADMITS TELEGRAM WAS DECOY FOR BUCKLEY

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—(AP)—The elements of a farce entered the so-called heavyweight elimination business today, with the customary details of suspense, the faked telegram and the grand climax all involved in the signing of Jack Sharkey and Johnny Risko for a 15-round match in Madison Square Garden on March 12.

The stage picture yesterday revealed Jess McMahon, Tex Rickard's matchmaker hurrying to Boston for consultation with Sharkey's manager, haggling for 2½ hours over terms, finally conceding Sharkey a "shot" at Gene Tunney as the reward of victory over Risko and, with this flourishing climax, clinching the match.

It turns out, instead, that there was no haggling, except to give the appearance of prolonged controversy; that the match was ready to be signed at any time; that the reputed telegram from Tex Rickard, promising Sharkey the first bout with Tunney, was only a hoax to influence Johnny Buckley, Sharkey's manager; and that no assurances were given to Sharkey about a title engagement.

The joker in the plot, whether calculated or not, was that Buckley, zealous to help the Sharkey ballyhoo, gave out to newspapermen in Boston as authentic the text of Rickard's alleged telegram, which, in fact, had been framed by McMahon as a decoy.

Today Buckley, in Boston, had this to say:

"It may have been real or they may have sent one to themselves and put one over on me. I don't know. Of course all the contract calls for is a fight with Risko, but one thing is certain. I was promised a bout with Tunney if Jack shows well against Risko and I'll take that bout or nothing."

Here's McMahon's version:

"Sharkey signed only for Risko. No conditions or strings are attached to it about a future title bout with Tunney or a match with anyone else. The Sharkey-Risko bout has the same status in the elimination series as the Heeney-Delaney bout on March 1. If Buckley took that telegram seriously it's his own funeral. We fixed it up as a decoy but had no intention of it getting into print. I had no communication at all with Rickard. It wasn't necessary."

MILLVILLE BRINGING FAST TEAM TO DANIELSON TONIGHT

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Jan. 25.—The Millville team which comes to Danielson Thursday night to play the Danielson Town team is rated with the very fastest teams of New England, having beaten such teams as the Boston Whirlwinds, the famous Indian team and also having met and held their own with practically all other teams in Massachusetts and Connecticut.

Their lineup will include the following men; Peloquin, ex-Holy Cross star; Kasper, of the Purple College gians as well as Isdell of the same team, Curran and Kilbredge will furnish the rest of the opposition.

This team is drawing record crowds all over New England and it is hoped that every fan will be on hand to cheer the Danielson team to victory. The Danielson boys will use their regular lineup led by Coach Bill Schofield and if the team plays the brand of ball they have been exhibiting the last month the fans can rest assured of a great game.

WARNER FAVORS TWO-TEAM PLAN IN COLLEGES

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Calif. Jan. 25.—(AP)—Glenn Scobey Warner, veteran Stanford coach, came out today as an advocate of the two-team football system, which will be given a trial by several mid-western universities next season.

Warner has devised the following plan:

Divide the squad into the two teams, one being composed of seniors and the other of juniors. Sophomores would fill in as substitutes on both elevens.

Neither team would be considered the first varsity, being classed "A" and "B" to suit the purpose. The elevens would represent Stanford on alternate Saturdays.

Stanford's schedule is so arranged that the juniors would be called upon to meet Washington and Southern California if the seniors played against California in the annual "big game."

A majority of the veterans next season will be seniors. It is expected that Coach Warner's plan will be submitted to the aculty and students for study.

AMERICAN SKATERS BETTER TWO WORLD'S RECORDS

OSLO, Norway, Jan. 25.—(AP)—American skaters in training for the Olympic races at St. Moritz, Switzerland, today bettered the world's records for the mile and quarter-mile in exhibition practice races at the Municipal rink.

O'Neil Farrell, of Chicago, made the quarter mile in 36 1-10 seconds, while Valentine Bialis, of Lake Placid, N. Y., was close behind with 36 1-5. Irving Jaffee of New York and Eddie Murphy of Chicago made the quarter mile in 36 3-16 seconds. (Charley Gorman o Canada holds the world's record for the quarter mile in 36.3-5 seconds.)

Jaffee made the mile today in 2 minutes 30 3-5 seconds, Bialis made it in 2 minutes 30 7-10, Murphy and Farrell tieing again in 2 minutes 32 1-10. (The world's record for the mile, 2 38 1-5, is held by Clas Thunberg of Finland.)

Y EMPS TO CLASH WITH STONINGTON TEAM TONIGHT

The Y Emps return to the court after nearly a month's rest tonight in meeting the Stonington All-Stars reported as one of the strongest junior clubs in the southeastern part of the state.

The Emps will present a much different lineup than that which performed in their last appearance, against the New Britain Phantoms. Five of their members were lost to the Academy squad so that Coach Conklin, with but two regulars, has had to do some tall re-building.

It is probable that Economous, a veteran, and Oguinick will trot to the forwards with Sussman and Murphy, the other veteran, and Diachyshyn or Hamil at guards. The Stonington lineup has not been announced.

O'KEEFE FORCES PECHEENE TO GIVE UP FIGHT IN THE SIXTH ROUND

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Jan. 25—Tom Kerakas, so-called claimant to the Greek lightweight championship over Phil McGraw, failed to prove himself of any championship calibre against Bobby Mays at the Thames A. C. al star boxing show here tonight. The first round had only gone about a minute and a half when Kerakas went down and out from one of Mays lefts to the jaw. The New England champ, peppered the Greek with a few rights, and without a return blow, landed the left which ended the fight.

Bout Stopped in Second

The third bout was between Sid Taylor of the Coast Guard and Sailor Darden of New York, was stopped in the second round on account of a bad cut over the eye that Taylor received in a mixup. The bout started off at a fast clip with Taylor piling up the most points against the sailor, and it would have been an interesting go had not the unfortunate accident happened. Darden was awarded the fight on a technical K. O.

Aquinaldo-Connelly Bout Fast

The second eight-round bout brought together two fast bantamweights in Pete Aquinaldo, hard-hitting member of the Coast Guard and Mickey Connelly of Patterson, New Jersey. They started off with a bang and had the crowd on their feet throughout the fight. Connelly, a cool and unconcerned lad with a faculty of weaving and riding Aquinaldo's blows, had the Coast Guarder missing frequently while he continued to shoot in lefts and rights, and piled up a lead in the first three rounds. Aquinaldo seemed to solve his style in the fourth and coming out for the fifth took the lead from Connelly and forced the fighting throughout the next two rounds. Connelly decided it was useless to swap punches with the Filipino and was content to keep out of his reach, but Peter managed to get in some hard blows and had the Jerseyite hanging on in the seventh. Connelly started out at the bell for the eighth and last round and refused to let Aquinaldo get set keeping on top of him with lefts to the face and took the last roun dby a margin after which he did a few handsprings. The referee, Jack Conway, awarded the fight to the Coast Guard boy which met with disapproval by the fans, they thinking that Connelly should have got a draw. It was an excellent bout between two pleasing performers.

Pecheenie Badly Beaten

Johnnie O'Keefe of Hartford right uppercutted his way to a technical K. O. over the popular Norwich boy, Young Pecheeni, in the sixth round of the opening bout. Pecheeni couldn't seem to get away from O'Keefe's terrific right hand, and went down in the third round for the count of nine, from one to the jaw. O'Keefe forced the fighting from the first round and outpointed and outfought the game Norwich boy. In the sixth, Pecheeni got in a few light lefts to O'Keefe's jaw which only made the Hartford boy fight harder, and had Pecheeni practically out on his feet, but instinctively fighting back.

However, it was only a matter of time before Pecheeni would go down for the count and the referee stepped in and waved the Norwich boy to his corner and awarded the fight to O'Keefe on a technical K. O.

An Extra Bout

On account of the brevity of the last two bouts another four rounder was put on between Young Belizzi of New London and Frank Chislak of the Coast Guard. Belizzi seemed to be outweighed at least ten pounds and took some bad body punishment until his second decided that the going was too one-sided and tossed in the sponge.

JONES AND GUNN TO PLAY BENEFIT MATCHES

ATLANTA, Jan. 25.—(AP)—A desire to aid the Olympic committee in raising funds for America's international athletes has caused Bobby Jones to change his plan of golf idleness this spring. PLAN TO REMODEL THE HARVARD STADIUM

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Jan. 25.—(AP)—Plans for remodelling the Harvard stadium will be presented to the Harvard corporation for approval within the next few weeks by William J. Bingham, director of athletics, it was learned today.

The proposed changes are necessitated by an edict of the Boston building commission last fall barring the further erection of wooden stands at the open end o the big Allston horseshoe. The restriction cuts the seating capacity of 34,000 leaving room for but 30,000 spectators for such games as Army, Dartmouth and Pennsylvania next fall.

Director Bingham said he would not announce any definite plans until he appearse before the corporation, but it was understood that an engineer had given the opinion that the stadium could be reconstructed to a seating capacity of 80,000 at a cost of about $900,000.

DELANEY MUST FIGHT WORTHY OPPONENT SAYS DONOHUE

NEW LONDON, Jan. 25—(AP)—Jack Delaney will not be allowed to fight in this state unless he meets an opponent worthy of his steel, was the edict of Commissioner Thomas E. Donohue delivered to the former light heavyweight champion of the world tonight, when informed that the French-Canadian had been matched with Jack McAuliffe, 2nd, of Detroit, for February 20, at the New Haven arena.

"I will absolutely not stand for a fighter of Delaney's caliber meeting McAuliffe or any other fighter of McAuliffe's type," he declared.

The commissioner made it plain that he had nothing against McAuliffe but that his quarrel was with Delaney.

"If Jack can't find a better opponent than McAuliffe, I'd rather he wouldn't fight at all. We don't want any set-up fights in this state," he continued.

Crescents at Westerly Saturday

Battery E, 243rd R. I. C. A. C. basketball team at the Dixon street state armory Westerly on Saturday night will have for their adversaries the Taftville Crescents quintet from Norwich. The Crescents go to Southbridge this evening for a game.

BASKETBALL BRIEFS

In the Marines, the Y seniors will be meeting their ancient rival, Saturday night at the Y gym.

It ought to be a great appetizer for the main go between the Academy and Bulkeley.

The Taftville Crescents sure have improved by the proverbial bounds and leaps.

In Normandin and Dessinger, forwards, Harris, center, and Brown and Eccleston, guards, they have as good a quintet as can be found in Connecticut outside of the Plainfield Pros and state league. It is hoped that the Windsor Locks Advertisers can be brought here to give the locals a chance to atone for the setback of a few weeks ago.

The Crescents go to Southbridge, Mass., tonight to battle the team of that place.

Danielson looks to be in for a stormy evening for the Millville, Mass., outfit seems to have quite a capable bunch of tossers lined up.

The Connecticut Aggie varsity lost its first game Tuesday at Worcester to Holy Cross, 36 to 27.

The Y Emps and Stonington All-Stars should provide some fast going tonight at the Y gym. This is the Emps' first game in nearly a month.

Benson appeared with the Plainfield Pros last night for the first time this season. He was given a great ovation as he took the court and then when he got into the game in the closing minutes he tied up things with a foul shot.

The Whirlwinds are still the team of old, according to their work last night and that defeat by Meriden will have to go into history as only another unsolved mystery.

DANGEROUS DAN McGREW SHOT

New Old Gold Factory

"Doc" Farrell, who runs the drug store, sandwich shop and Sheik Club down at the corner of Main and First streets, says a cigarette salesman told him that pretty soon 30,000,000 Old Golds a day won't be enough to keep the country supplied. He says the P. Lorillard Company is going to open another plant down in Louisville very soon that will boost the production up to 50,000,000 cigarettes daily.

"Doc," who is always right up to date, only got his first stock of Old Golds about a year and a half ago, so an output of 50,000,000 cigarettes a day isn't a bad record for a product less than two years old.

LOCAL HAPPENINGS

A young medical school graduate from Ypsilanti came to town last week with an idea of practising as a throat specialist here. Russ Lake told him he'd starve to death if he hung out his shingle in this burg because most everybody smokes Old Golds.

Jappy Clegg has closed the Lincoln Highway barbecue and lunch room for the winter. He specializes in hot dogs and Old Gold Cigarettes. "Two of a kind," says Jappy, "because you can't get a bark out of either of 'em."

Les Hamlin, who has the biggest Old Gold trade in town, got his new auto license Tuesday. It sure is an appropriate number—"20—4—15."

Dance Hall Girl Murders One of Gold Dust Twins

"Dangerous Dan" McGrew, once the terror of the Yukon, is now quite as docile as only a dead man can be, the big nugget and gold man from Nome having been shot last night in the Malamute Saloon.

It was bitter cold, the thermometer registering 40 below, and as Dan walked into the saloon the boys had started to whoop it up, and the ragtime kid at the end of the mahogany bar was tinkling a merry tune.

"What are we going to have men," roared Dan, "rain or snow?"

The words, spoken with a Scotch burr, were hardly out of his mouth when a notorious dance hall girl, known as Lou, approached "Dangerous Dan," pulled her rod and plugged him through the heart, and as he fell to the floor she kissed him, according to witnesses of the tragedy, as she frisked him for his bag of yellow dust.

"Sure, I killed him," Lou brazenly told Trooper Ginsberg, who arrested her. "I didn't care how much he beat me, for that was only his way of showing his affection. I put up with his halitosis, too, for I was his best friend and couldn't tell him. But when he scoffed at me when I begged him to smoke Old Golds and get rid of that irritating cough of his I bumped him off."

Lou says she's going to ask a change of venue to Chicago when indicted. After that she plans to do a couple of pictures in Hollywood before accepting a lucrative vaudeville contract.

WESTERLY

SIXTY-MILE GALE LASHES WAVES AT NEARBY BEACHES

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Jan. 25—Winds of almost hurricane force swept Westerly in the early hours of Wednesday and continued throughout the day. Branches were ripped from trees, windows blown in and windshields of autos were reported smashed by the gusts. Late Tuesday evening rain fell which was followed by a fog which rose and fell as the wind continued to blow from the south. About midnight heavy rains driven by the wind beat against windows and doors, but shortly before 3 a. m. the direction of the wind changed from east to south to a westerly quarter. It was during this early morning change of wind that much damage was done. The sound of the fog horn at Watch Hill point was borne on the heavy air so that the wailing of the reed horn was plainly heard all about Westerly and far inland.

Off Watch Hill and Weekapaug points and all along the South County shore giant combers of the Atlantic tossed in fury. A sound captain telephoned his wife in Stonington that in all the years he had sailed the sound Tuesday night and Wednesday morning was the roughest he had ever experienced. The change of wind in veering to the west before high tide time, at about 10.30 Wednesday morning, undoubtedly saved much damage to cottages and property at Weekapaug, Atlantic Beach, Pleasant View and Watch Hill, for the surf did not continue to run so high with the tops of the waves blown off by the howling gales. Many shingles and roof covering of seashore property, however, were loosed or blown off. At the end of Bay street, Watch Hill, so much sand was blown from the bathing beach across the highway that a sand drift of over a foot in depth crossed the foot of the hill where the Westerly road begins. In Little Narragansett bay, covered with huge whitecaps, the waves swept across the Plimpton dock, recently re-spiled and well up on the dock of the Watch Hill Yacht club. At the retaining wall west of Bay street the spray dashed over the rustic stone protecting wall to the cement sidewalk and out into the street. Spray from the wild waves off the bathing beach broke in a similar manner against the retaining wall protecting the driveway to the Watch Hill Coast Guard station and lighthouse.

From the protection of the hornhouse, Watch Hill Light Keeper L. H. Condon and Assistant Keeper Carl F. W. Anderson, viewing the high waves crashing across the reefs, estimated the wind as having a velocity of at least sixty miles an hour. Almost directly south the waves crashed over Gangway rock about half way to the flashing beacon buoy.

NEW FIRE ALARM SIREN LIKE PAWCATUCK WHISTLE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Jan. 25—Future Westerly fire alarms will be sounded from the steam siren located on the top of the Main street brick mill of the Clyde Mills, Inc. For the past few days the work of changing over from the big chime bell on Christ Episcopal church has been in progress and Monday and Tuesday there were intermittent blasts of the whistle. The sound is not unlike the fire alarm whistle of the Pawcatuck fire department which is located on the C. B. Cottrell and Sons Co., press works on Mechanic street and as a result it is feared there may be many false moves on the part of firemen on both sides of the Pawcatuck river. Shortly before noon Wednesday, Supt. Nelson G. Himes sounded the alarm from the box in front of the Westerly post office, when there was a seventy pound pressure at the whistle.

The following transfers have been recorded with the town clerk:

Jan. 24. George L. Stillman to Alexander C. Thompson, fifty foot strip of land leading easterly from Beach street, for a right of way.

Alexander C. Thompson to George L. Stillman, Lot No. 32, in Thompson plat, easterly side of Beach street.

Jan. 25. Charles Ferrago, et ux to Peter Fusaro, et ux, Lots Nos. 126 and 127, Central Park.

Lina B. Sisson, wife of Edgar W Sisson, deeded to Harold B. Green land with buildings and improvements on the north side of Palmer street, Ashaway, in the town of Hopkinton.

Members of P. S. Barber Hose company, Pawcatuck fire department, responded at 6 15 a. m. Wednesday to a telephone call for a chimney fire in the three-tenement house owned by Max Lahn, in Solomonville, outside the fire district. Chemicals were used by the firemen to extinguish the chimney blaze. No damage to property resulted.

At 11.45 a. m. Wednesday the Westerly fire department responded to a telephone call for a fire in the chimney of the house of Michael DePerry, 125 High street. Chief George E. Egger, Driver Charles Button with firemen went to the fire in the Seagrave pumper. The blaze was put out without loss.

LAUNCHING NEW BOAT PROVES NOT SO EASY

Down at the shipyard the other morning at 11 o'clock, a large crowd and a long line o autos gathered to see the launching of the new fishing boat, the first time since the war that a craft was launched. The first rally took place under direction of Arthur McDonald. All the boats were dolled up with flags, making it a real day at the yard. Then came the second rally. For ten minutes the men were hard at it and the final one came with all the keel blocks split and the craft ready for her dip into the water. Frank Porter said: "There she goes!" and slowly down the ways the boat went. Standing with bottle in hand was Alwin Meister and it went all to pieces on the bow to christen the new boat, but it was not the real stuff in it, since the 18th amendment came into effect. Whistle were blowing and the automolie horns could be heard a mile away and the crowd gave three cheers. But the boat went only 70 feet, then stopped, so a rope was hitched to it by a tug which gave it a pull and again it moved. As the boat slid off the cradle, the tide was going out fast. Two men were aboard standing by with the lines and quick as a flash the boat tipped at a 45 degree angle right over on the port side, with water coming on deck. Ben Chappell was saved from going into the water. He slipped and put his right hand into a gallon of paint, but held on until he got his feet straightened out again. His mate, William Holiday, ran for the other side and made it. The boat only went to the end of the ways. The reason it stuck so, the blocking on the right side held fast and would not get loose in time, which made it tip over. Also there was no weight to hold the boat up. But that happens to the best of them as the owner said. Any way the craft is in the water, and Foreman Charles Butson won a box of cigars for his men.

Miss Irene Merritt is ill with grip.

President Billie Fitzgerald, of the Sardines club, was sitting in an easy chair reading about Lindy in aPnama, at his home on Bennett avenue Tuesday evening. Soon a knock came on the door and ten members of the club gave him a surprise by walking in and asking "Don't you know, president, what day it is?" Thinking for a minute, he said, "Yes, it is my birthday!" "We have come to help you make it a party!" they told him, so the visitors played games. Flash McDonald wanted to play pin the tail on the donkey. The and who came the nearest received a prize. The judges were Ted Anderson and E. Franche. With eyes blindfolded, the fun started, as Billie trie it and came pretty close. The next fellow had it about in the right place and soon the donkey had a lot of tails. The luck one was John Camerey; he got a pocket-book. Then the Sardines orchestra of four sheiks that made plenty of noise played for the dancing and Rollin Rathbun did the new Lindbergh hop, which he learned at a dancing school in Boston. The guests gave him a big hand. Later all went to the dining room where thirty were soon seated. In the center of the table was a three-layer borthday cake decorated "To the President of our club." It held 22 candles and Leland MacGrath had the honor of blowing them out. A chicken supper with jello, ice cream and cake was enjoyed. The table had decorations in the club's colors of gold and black. Then Stretch Morrison, the treasurer, rose and made a short speech saying: "In behalf of the brother members, I wish to present our faithful President Fitzgerald in honor of his birthday this small gift." Opening it, the president found it was a smoking coat and a gold pen-knife with his initials on it, "B. F." The president said: "Well, members, I thank you all for the gift and hope to have you all here again. On my next birthday." Then the orchestra played "Smile Awhile" and "Until We Meet Again." He received 75 post cards and many gifts.

Just now prices are high at Fulton market for that fish.

Chatterer the Red Squirrel Loses His Tongue.

Some folk always talk too much;
The world is cluttered up with such.
—Old Mother Nature.

Chatterer the Red Squirrel is one of this kind. If there is any one in all the Green Forest who really loves the sound of his voice it is Chatterer the Red Squirrel. He never misses a chance to use it. No, sir, Chatterer never misses a chance to use that noisy tongue of his. The result is he is forever getting himself into trouble, or getting other people into trouble.

You will remember that Billy Mink was hastening toward Chatterer when he was discovered and put to flight by Spite the Marten. Chatterer had known nothing about this, for they had not been near enough for Chatterer to see them. So Chatterer had continued to exercise his voice, and he kept on doing it from time to time. So it was that when Spite and little Joe Otter stopped quarreling and each went on his way about his own business Spite's keen ears caught the sound of Chatterer's voice.

Now, Spite has a liking for squirrel. In fact, there isn't anything that Spite likes any better than he does squirrel. So now he started toward the place from which Chatterer's voice was coming. "I'd rather have that fellow than Billy Mink," thought Spite. "My, my, just listen to him! You would think that if he had any sense at all in his head he would know enough to keep still, instead of letting his enemies know just where he is. I hope he hasn't a hole right handy. If he hasn't he's mine in side the next few minutes."

Meanwhile Chatterer had discovered Sammy Jay and was engaged in his favorite occupation of telling Sammy Jay just what he thought about him. Chatterer's thoughts about Sammy Jay are never pleasant thoughts. These two never have any good to say of each other. No, sir, they never have any good to say of each other. But they do have a lot of bad to say. And they do dearly love to call each other names. When they get to going it is a good deal like the pot calling the kettle black. Just now Chatterer was working himself into a great rage and fairly making his tongue fly. Sammy was making no reply and this made Chatterer angrier than ever. He had no eyes nor ears for anything else.

Chatterer was enjoying himself. Yes, sir, he was enjoying himself. "Thief! Thief! Robber! Robber!" he screamed. Over and over and over and over he called Sammy Jay "thief" and "robber." And then, right in the very middle of a word, he lost his tongue! He did so! If his tongue had been cut right out at the roots he couldn't have lost it any more completely. A shiver ran over him. It was a shiver of fright. For just a second he was so frightened that he couldn't move. Then he started off through the treetops. My, my, my, how Chatterer did run and jump! He took all sorts of chances.

And behind Chatterer, also running through the treetops, came Spite the Marten. Chatterer had seen him only just in the nick of time. Now, Spite can travel through the treetops quite as readily as Chatterer and he can make even longer jumps from tree to tree. Chatterer had just one chance for his life, and he knew it. That one chance was to get into a hole in a tree, a hole so small that Spite couldn't get into it and so deep that Spite couldn't reach in and get hold of him with his claws.

My, but that was an exciting race through the treetops! Chatterer knew just where that hole was in which he would be safe. Some of the trees were not as near together as he could wish for, but he didn't hesitate; he raced along out to the end of the branch of one tree and leaped madly for the nearest branch of another tree. Once he missed and sailed clear down to the ground. Spite didn't try this jump. He turned and, like a flash, ran down the tree. By the time Chatterer was near the top of the next tree Spite was at the bottom of it starting up. (Copyright, 1928, by W. T. Burgess)

Afterward

When the Present has latched its postern behind my tremulous stay,
And the May month flaps its glad green leaves like wings,
Delicate-clothed as new spun silk, will the neighbors say:
"He was a man who used to notice such things?"

If it be in the dusk when, like an eyelid's soundless blink,
The dewfall-hawk comes across the shades to alight
Upon the wind-warped upland thorn, a gazer may think:
"To him this must have been a familiar sight."

If I pass during some nocturnal blackness, mothy and warm,
When the hedgehog travels furtively over the lawn,
One may say: "He strove that such innocent creatures should come to no harm,
But he could do little for them; and now he is gone."

If, when hearing that I have been stilled at last, they stand at the door,
Watching the full-starred heavens that winter sees,
Will this thought rise on those who will meet my face no more:
"He was one who had an eye for such mysteries?"

And will any say when my bell of quittance is heard in the gloom,
And a crossing breeze cuts a pause in its outrollings,
Till they rise again, as they were a new bell's boom:
"He hears it not now, but used to notice such things?"
—Thomas Hardy in "Collected Poems."

Crossing the Plains

What great yoked brutes with briskets low,
With wrinkled necks like buffalo,
With round, brown, liquid, pleading eyes,
That turn so slow and sad to you,
That shone like love's eyes soft with tears,
That seemed to plead, and make replies,
That while they bowed their necks and drew
The creaking load; and looked at you,
Their sable briskets swept the ground,
Their cloven feet kept solemn sound.

Two sullen bullocks led the line,
Their great eyes shining bright like wine;
Two sullen captive kings were they,
That had in time held herds at bay,
And even now they crushed the sod
With stolid sense of majesty,
And stately stepped and stately trod,
As if 'twere something still to be
Kings even in captivity.
—Joaquin Miller.

A mother discovering her small daughter washing the kitten with soap and water, exclaimed:

A well-dressed, middle-aged woman boarded a elevated train at Philadelphia and immediately several persons in the crowded car began to laugh. At her station the woman left the car still unaware that the joke was on her. When she went up the stairs a newsboy started giggling. The woman in an angry tone, asked what he saw in her that was so funny. The boy reached up and unpinned a piece of paper from her back. On it was printed in large letters: "Won't you please help me find a husband."

During the summer vacations which recently ended, an exchange of school children between Sweden and Germany took place. According to Dr. H. Helmer, the leader of the Swedish group, the experiment proved a highly beneficial and interesting one. Two hundred and fifty German boys and girls were invited on a four weeks' tour of Sweden. Some of the children remained in Stockholm, while others seized the opportunity of traveling to Lapland, and other northern provinces. Somewhat earlier Germany entertained a group of Swedish youngsters who spent about a month there.

NEW LONDON AND ITS SUBURBS EXPERIENCE FULL FORCE OF GALE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Jan. 25—A southwest gale accompanied by rain raked the city during Tuesday night and drove many vessels to seek shelter in the harbor. Sound steamers ran in here and forwarded passengers to New York by rail. Today the wind abated somewhat, but it held its force until sundown. At Niantic a limb from a huge elm that had decayed was broken off and fell upon the little building occupied by Howard Parks, crushing the roof. At Pleasure Beach the tide came up into the highway. Houses were rocked by the force of the wind and their occupants were given a genuine fright lest the buildings be overturned. The tide rose to unusual height at Ocean beach flooding the boardwalk, but did little damage to property. Trees were broken off or blown over in various sections of the city. There was some property damage, but it was not of consequence.

GALLANT TARS REFUSE TO INCRIMINATE ERMA, CLEO

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Jan. 25—Erma McRae and Cleo Carter, both colored and with police court records on immorality charges, were again in court today, this time on charges of lascivious cartiage. They escaped punishment because of sailors being unable, or unwilling to identify the women as having been their companions of earlier in the day. As the result of the failure of the sailors to establish identification of the women, Judge Victor Prince ordered the Carter woman to leave the city by Feb. 1 and administered some advice to the McRae woman, which she will heed, if she wants to escape a jail sentence. About midnight, Automobile Patrol Officer Clarence Martin and Patrolman George Cockell were on John street and when in front of 14 the officers observed sailors at the rear and talking with a woman. Later the officers saw the sailors enter the house. Sergeant Samuel Hick was summoned and the officers attempted to gain admission to the place, but no response was made to warnings at the doors. Neither could any signs of life be detected in the place. The officers waited a long time and when they heard the front door being opened they gained entrance. A search of the house found the sailors there, but no women. Before the officers left, a public service automobile in which were the McRae and Carter women drove up to the house entrance and on the suspicion that the women had departed before the officers arrived and had returned by automobile as a ruse, they were arrested. However, when they were presented in court neither of the sailors was positive that either the McRae or Carter women had been in the house earlier in the night, so their conviction did not result.

The only other cases presented were two of intoxication. One was sentenced to 20 days in jail and the other was discharged.

BIG LUMBER SCHOONER HELD IN FISHERS ISLAND SOUND

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Jan. 25—The schooner Bainbridge, loaded with lumber and bound from Jacksonville, Fla., to the state pier, this port, is lying in the teeth of a southwester off Seaflower Reef, Fishers Island sound, tonight, with the United States Coast Guard patrol boat McLane, lying close by. The schooner has a cargo of about a million feet of yellow pine, which is to be discharged at this port. The vessel arrived off Seaflower Reef this morning and because of the terrific gale and high seas was unable to proceed across the sound and into the harbor. Her master dropped anchors and from the shore it was apparent that the schooner was in distress. A message to that effect was sent to the coast guard station here and the patrol boat, in command of Ensign H. T. Jewell was sent to the assistance of the Bainbridge. Even in the teeth of the gale the Bainbridge did not drag her anchors and it is believed that she will ride out the gale in safety. Seaflower Reef is near the middle of the western entrance of Fishers Island sound and about three-quarters of a mile northeast of North Dumpling lighthouse and is marked by a granite beacon at its southwest end.

THE LONG ARM OF THE LAW GATHERS IN PETER PIJEAUX

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Jan. 25—Peter Pijeaux, former United States Coast Guard seaman, who has been under arrest in New York several weeks charged with statutory burglary by the New London police, was brought back to this city this afternoon by Detective Sergeant John Cavanaugh. He will be given a hearing in the police court tomorrow morning. Pijeaux, who has been arrested before for theft and who was dishonorably discharged from the federal service because of having been convicted of the theft of government property, is specifically charged with having robbed the residence of Joseph L. Jackson, 12 Richards street about six weeks ago. Jackson and his family were absent from the city and Pijeaux had knowledge of that fact. He went to the rear entrance and entered by means of a duplicate key. He ransacked the house and sought only men's apparel for Jackson, is a tailor and conducts his business in the lower part of the building. Pijeaux ransacked the house taking clothing and furnishings of the value of $475. The robbery was not discovered until after Jackson returned home when he reported it to the police. An investigation by Sergeants Cavanaugh and Nelson Smith indicated that Pijeaux was the thief. A visit to the residence of his mother on Hempstead street disclosed that Pijeaux had brought to the house a large quantity of clothing and that he had left for New York, taking the clothing with him. Jackson was sent to New York and from acquaintances of Pijeaux, ascertained where the latter was lodging. Jackson sought the aid of the New York police, and accompanied by the officer went to Pijeaux's rooming house where much of the stolen goods was found, although Pijeaux had disposed of some of the loot. He was arrested and held for the New London police. Before extradition papers could be issued, Pijeaux was taken ill and has since been a patient at Bellevue hospital. He was recently discharged and the New London police being informed of that fact Sergeant Cavanaugh went to New York last night and today took charge of the prisoner.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Strand Theatre

A western picture of high quality now showing at the Strand is "Code of the Cow Country" a real cowboy tale of the west. Buddy Roosevelt as foreman of the Diamond A ranch proves that he is equal to the best in the portrayal of western heroes. Fighting cattle rustlers as well as trying to keep an errant youth out of dangerous complications is a strenuous business as Bubby soon finds out. Hank Bell, Elsa Benham and Richard Neill are some of the others in the cast.

"Backstage" is an interesting tale of the life of the girls who embellish the front row of the choruses, their mode of living, their frolics and tragedies. Four chorus girls find that during rehearsals they are shy money for rent and food so when evicted from their boarding house, they use a taxi for a bedroom. Alberta Vaughn, Eileen Percy, Shirley O'Hara and Barbara Bedford are the four chorines. Wm. Collier Jr., is the sweetheart of Barbara, Bayne Whitman is the "angel" of the show and Guinn Williams is the chauffeur whose taxi the girls sleep in.

"Aesop's Fables" complete the bill.

Broadway Theatre

The vaudeville program for the last three days of the week at the Broadway theatre will be the equal of the show presented the first three days, which received so much favorable comment. Headlining is "Moonlight Fantasies" a gorgeous seven people production, staged by Myer Golden, the leading vaudeville producer of the country. Mr. Golden's acts are very seldom seen in the smaller cities and the act should prove to be successful during its local showing. Ralph Fielder and Company present a comedy sketch, "We're in the Navy Now" in which the three principals involved are out on shore leave and get themselves into some funny mix-ups. Friend and Watkins have just finished a tour over the Keith circuit, showing their act, "The Smuggler" in almost every city in the country during their engagement with the Keith interests. The Paul Rondas Trio offer a distinct novelty in their presentation of playing musical instruments while performing tricks on the bicycles. Billie Harding has a very clever routine of songs interspersed with sparkling comedy.

Four characters—a dozen complications, and a veritable hurricane of fun—these are what make up the details of "Baby Mine." Metro-Goldwyn—Mayer's second hilarious vehicle for the comedy team of Karl Dane and George K. Arthur, waited to fame on a gale of merriment in "Rookies" and now the center of a new storm of laughs at the Broadway theatre.

"Baby Mine" is just one laugh after another. Adapted from one of the most famous stage comedies, the screen version preserves all the original fun—to which is added not only the Dane-Arthur combination of laugh-makers, but Charlotte Greenwood, lanky comedienne of "So Long Letty" and other famous stage shows. It's Charlotte's debut on the screen, incidentally—but judging by the laughs she gets it's not going to be her last appearance by a good deal.

STOCK PRICES CRASHED 2 TO 8 POINTS IN SWEEPING REACTION IN MARKET

NEW YORK, Jan. 25—(AP)—A sweeping reaction in stock prices was Wall street's response to the raising of the Chicago Federal Reserve bank rediscount rate. Extreme declines, which ran from 2 to nearly 8 points in scores of issues, were partially recovered in a series of bri railies. Total sales ran above 2,800,000 shares.

Although many pools which have been operating in special stocks hastily withdrew their support, several others stubbornly contested the general selling movement. This was particularly true in such issues as Hupp Motors, Gold Dust, Federal Light & Traction, Montana Power and Youngstown Sheet & Tube, all of which closed above yesterday's final quotations.

Opening prices were weak, and in many cases the lowest of the day, but the fixing of the renewal rate on call loans at 3 1-2 per cent helped to restore confidence and started a moderate rally before the end of the first hour. This was stimulated by a series of favorable dividend announcements and reports of a further increase in steel mill operations. Renewed liquidation developed, however, when banks called $20,000,000 in loans and the call money rate was marked up to 4 per cent in the afternoon.

There was a general disposition in Wall street to regard the higher Chicago bank rate as a warning against a further expansion in brokers' loans, which are nearly one billion dollars above the total a year ago There is a wide divergence of opinion as to whether the advance will be followed by other Federal Reserve institutions, so that added interest will be given to the weekly meeting of the directors of the New York institution tomorrow afternoon.

Having advanced almost steadily for five consecutive days, the market was in a vulnerable position for selling attacks at the opening this morning. Bear traders, who have tried unsuccessfully in recent weeks to bring about a major reaction, were quick to take advantage of the situation and their offerings swelled the volume of liquidation which came from frightened speculators and investors.

The sharpest declines came in the high priced pool specialties. Midland Steel Products preferred, Abraham & Straus, Air Reduction, American Express, American Railway Express, Borden, Case Threshing, Dupont, Greene Cananea Copper, International Harvester, International Silver, Montgomery-Ward, and U. S. Cast Iron Pipe all sold down 4 to 8 points, and most of them closed near the bottom. U. S. Steel common sold down to 144 1-8, but rallied to 146 1-4, off 2 5-8 net, and General Motors showed a net loss of 2 1-2 at 133 3-4 after selling down to 133.

On the other hand, Gold Dust, after dipping to 88, rallied to a new high record at 96, closing about a point below that level. Laclede Gas soared nearly 20 points to 238 and was followed into new high ground by Federal Light & Traction, First National Stores, Youngstown Sheet & Tube and several others Hupp closed fractionally higher at 39 1-8 after selling below 37, one block of 10,000 shares changing hands just before the close.

Rails yielded with the industrials, although the losses were not as large. Canadian Pacific fell 3 1-2 points and Atchison, New York Central, Frisco common and most of the others lost a point or two.

Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Commodity markets were slightly reactionary.

Foreign exchanges also drifted lower. Sterling Cables yielding 1-8 of a cent to $4.87 1-2 on the theory that higher bank rates here might force the return of American funds now deposited in London.

THE CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Jan. 25—(AP)—Favorable earnings reports, which had given the curb market a continued upward trend, were forgotten today, and a day of unsettled trading, marked largely by liquidation sales, ended with prices in virtually all groups in lower ground. Utilities resisted the wave of selling inspired by the increase in the Chicago rediscount rate and the calling of loans by local banks, but elsewhere there were declines as great as 14 points.

The chain store and food shares, leaders of the advance for several days, were among the many to sag, although National Baking preferred, Pender Grocery B, May Drug Stores, and Royal Baking Powder were exceptions, closing at new highs.

American Rolling Mills, Atlas Plywood, Dominion Stores and a few other industrials showed slight gains, while the new U. S. Radiator stock reached a new high. Bohack and Tubize Art Silk lost 14 points each, Safeway Stores 13 and Bancitaly, Neisner Brothers, Spalding, Sheaffer Pen, new, and other favorites experienced smaller declines.

Heavy profit taking sales failed to influence the utilities more than a point or two either way, Lehigh Power closing about 2 points up, and some others gaining fractionally. A few, such as American Gas and Electric, Electric Bond and Share, Electric Investors and United Gas Improvement, sold off.

The oils and pipe lines generally closed lower, Vacuum and Standard of Kentucky dropping about 2 points each and Gulf and Humble about a point each. Pantepec and Pandem, recent favorites in the rise, lost a half-point each.

Ford Motor of Canada suffered an additional loss of 8 points and Firestone Tire was down 5. Other motors sagged with the exception of Durant, which gained an eighth.

New Mont Mines dropped 8 points under heavy selling, carrying most of the other mines down with it.

NEW YORK, Jan. 25—(AP)—Although January shipments of the U. S. Steel corporation are reported to have increased several thousand tons daily over the December rate, incoming business is running far ahead of deliveries, present indications being that a gain of about 250,000 tons in bookings on hand will be shown at the close of this month.

Offerings of $10,000,000 Keith-Orpheum 7 per cent preferred stock will be made early next week by Lehman Bros. The issue probably will be convertible into common stock.

Net loss of $2,113,167 for the year ended Oct. 29 is reported by Allied Packers, Inc. Net loss the year before was $164,627.

Public utility companies have been well regulated for years in the opinion of George E. Hardy, presidnet of Commonwealth Power corporation, sailing for Bermuda. "Provided the federal investigation is fair and impartial, I do not see where there is anything to fear. I do not see the necessity for an investigation, but if there is any doubt in the public mind as to the integrity of public utility management and supervision, I think it best to have a thorough airing of the situation."

Common stockholders of International Silver Co. at the close of business Feb. 15, are offered the right to subscribe until March 31, for common stock at $110 a share on the basis of one half share for each share held. Proceeds will be used to retire the company's outstanding bonds and other purposes. The regular quarterly dividend of $1.50 on the common was declared.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Jan. 25—(AP)—Heavy selling in some sections of the bond list today reflected uneasiness of investors and traders as a result of the raising of the Chicago Federal Reserve bank's rediscount rate to 4 from 3 1-2 per cent. There appeared to be a rather general feeling that the Chicago action might be a forerunner of firmer money rates here. Charges for time loans were unchanged.

Liquidation of high grade bonds included most of the federal treasury issues, losses in this group ranging from 1-2 to nearly a point, rather drastic one-day recessions in securities of this class. Heaviest offerings of the government bonds appeared on the market in the last few minutes of trading.

In the domestic corporation list there were numerous recessions of a point or more, particularly among convertible issues which follow the trend of prices on the "big board." Andes Copper 7s, Liquid Carbonic 6s, Pierce Arrow 8s and Consolidated Coal 5s were among the heaviest of the industrials, while selling of railway mortgages embraced such issues as Delaware & Hudson 5s, Erie 5s, Mobile & Ohio 4 1-2s and most of the St. Paul liens.

A few independent firm spots appeared here and there, gains ranging from fractions to a point or so being recorded by Pennsylvania 5s, American Writing Paper 6s and Interborough Rapid Transit 5s.

In the foreign department firmness was displayed by most of the Belgian issues, but the list generally showed a reactionary tendency. German, French and Italian securities were quoted fractionally lower.

The Public Service corporation of New Jersey, early in February, will offer to holders of common and 8 per cent preferred stock $45,588,000 convertible debenture 4 1-2s. Holders of 50 shares of either stock will be entitled to subscribe to $500 of bonds at 98 and interest. Proceeds will be used to refund outstanding 6 per cent and 5 1-2 per cent bonds of the corporation.

New England Industries

THE COTTON GOODS INDUSTRY.

The cotton goods industry as considered in a survey conducted by the United States Department of Commerce in cooperation with the New England Council includes the processes preparatory to spinning and the spinning and weaving of piece goods.

This industry leads all others in New England in its total value of output. In 1923, census figures show the total value of New England cotton goods products as $720,000,000 which was 37.9 per cent of the country's production value and 10.2 per cent of the total production of manufactured goods in New England. New Hampshire manufactured 20 per cent of the output of this region, Rhode Island 18 per cent and Massachusetts 58 per cent.

New England's share of the country's product value dropped, however, from 48.5 per cent in 1914 to 37.9 per cent in 1923, because while the value of products from this area increased 120 per cent there was an increase of 240 per cent for the rest of the country.

In 1923 wages consumed 27.7 per cent of the value of product in comparison with 16.7 per cent for the rest of the United States, and material costs amounted to 53.9 per cent in New England with 64 per cent the average for the rest of the country.

Many mills have been in operation for more than a century, but the average period for the group reporting is forty-six years. Twenty per cent were established within the last ten years. One fourth of the mills operating have made changes in management during the last five years, and eleven per cent within fifteen years.

Nearness to market and labor conditions were the main reasons given for location in New England, with transportation facilities, water power and banking facilities also reported by a few mills as influential factors. Nine per cent of the concerns making reports have established branches in southern states, mostly since 1924. Thirteen per cent have New England branches.

The number of employes on a piece work or other incentive wage basis as reported by the establishments with which this survey is concerned, average 49 per cent, the figures for the several states being: Maine 51 per cent, New Hampshire 45 per cent, Vermont 42 per cent, Massachusetts 48 per cent, Connecticut 64 per cent and Rhode Island 39 per cent.

Seasonal employment fluctuations are reported as a problem. The variation between minimum and maximum periods of 8 per cent in 1923 increased in 1925 to 13 per cent. Many mills in an attempt to lessen such fluctuation have resorted to diversification of products, supplementary lines and manufacture for stock. At least 80 per cent of the mills report manufacturing improvements in recent years. Accident prevention leads the list, followed by production control, organization and executive control, continuous maintenance, uniform cost accounting, etc.

New England sales have moved upward in the last five years for 29 per cent of the reporting concerns. New England sales average 21 per cent of the total sales of this group.

Reasons for increasing total sales were reported as development of new products, lower manufacturing costs, new sales methods and extension of territories, while declining sales were attributed to general overproduction, labor costs, competition, and change in nature of demand.

Reports of sales methods show that salesmen are generally on a salary basis and that wide use is made of commission houses. Many concerns have branches in other large cities and send salesmen out from these. Thirty-six per cent of the reporting concerns use brands or trademarks, and among these mills 37 per cent of sales consist of branded goods.

The main channels of distribution reported were through commission agents, through wholesalers or jobbers direct to consumer (converter) and direct to retailer.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre

In the Swiss Alps last winter there were gathered the world's greatest winter sportsmen. Many of these men became actors when drafted by Dr. Arnold Fanck for "Peaks of Destiny" which will be shown at the Palace theatre this afternoon for the last time. This evenings' performance will be omitted on account of the Phidelah Rice Players in "Meet the Wife". Some of the sequences needed ski runners and ski jumpers and the good Doctor certainly was able to procure the best. They come from all parts of Europe, most of them are champions in their own countries.

One of the male leads is Louis Trenker who for many years has held some of the highest ski awards. What beautiful scenes were shot! How true the entire picturization of what the mountains effect on man is!

Two men and a girl. The story that has been told hundreds of times. But in "Peaks of Destiny" there is much of the unusual that makes you forget that fact. Thrilling episodes piling one on the other make the most interesting hour of screen enjoyment that will have been yours in a long while.

A replica of the Ringling Bros., Circus as it first went on tour provides the setting of the prologue in "The Clown," the co-feature.

All the details of the old time one-ring show were duplicated to lend realism to the scene—and the result has won approval from the most critical of circus folk.

For the later sequences of the picture, in which the circus has become a three-ring affair, Columbia Pictures rented the huge Al. G. Barnes Circus, which winters in Venice, California, with all its resources, as the background for the many dramatic incidents of the story.

Johnnie Walker, William V. Mong, John Miljan and Dorothy Revier comprise the featured cast which brought "The Clown" to the screen under the direction of Wm. James Craft.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Breed Theatre.

"Daredevil's Reward," a Fox Films production starring Tom Mix, which opens at the Breed theatre today for a three-day run, is a story of a Texas Ranger, who kept peace with a six shooter and whose business was bagging bad men.

For more than a hundred years, the name of "Texas Ranger" has stood for fearlessness in facing danger and for any uncanny skill in the use of firearms.

Action is the keynote of the story and Mix, with the aid of Tony, brings to the screen one of his best fighting pictures. The manner in which Tom transports Tony around, concealed in a huge truck, is one of the humorous highlights of the picture.

The rapid manner in which Tom changes from one character to another keeps the audience guessing as to the outcome. The supporting cast is exceptionally good and includes Natalie Joyce, Lawford Davidson, Billy Bletcher and Harry Cording. Gene Forde directed the production.

Duwell Club Entertainment

Tonight at the Palace theater, under the auspices of the Duwell club, the Phidelah Rice Players will present the three act play, Meet the Wife. On Friday night the same troupe will present "Hell Bent for Heaven," another Broadway success.

Phidelah Rice is an impersonator, actor and producer. It is his belief that people of evgry community wish for a return of the spoken drama. His group of actors have a summer theater at East Chop on the island of Martha's Vineyard. They present a play each week in the summer and at the same time work up their repertoire for the winter.

Included in the troupe are such well known names as Geraldyn True, from the Eva La Galliene company, Clinton Sundberg, well known for playing juvenile leads, Elizabeth Hunt, who has been with Rice for three years, Dorothy Rolfe and Wallace Acton.

PLAINFIELD

The Bridge club met at the home of Miss Joan Kirby Monday evening. Prizes were won by Miss Marion Lee and Miss Marjorie Winson. Refreshments were served by the hostess.

Miss Helen Krauss has recovered after her illness and is able to be in school.

Tonight (Thursday) at 7:30 a fellowship meeting for the Sunday school teachers is to be held at the Congregational parsonage. Subject: Training Our Children and Young People.

Plainfield people attended the whist given by Canterbury Grange Tuesday evening at Grange hall, Canterbury. Eleven tables were played. The prizes were won by Mrs. Eva Pike, of Plainfield, Miss Grace Dawley of Canterbury, Mr. Wright and Bobby Kerr of Canterbury. A clam chowder supper was provided.

NORWICH TOWN

The work committee, Mrs. Herbert L. Yerrington, chairman, of the League of Service of the First Congregational church, will hold its first meeting at the home of Mrs. Charles P. Learned, 61 East Town street, at 2:30, Friday afternoon. A general invitation has been extended all women of the parish, to attend this meeting and come prepared to work. Mrs. Dwight W. Avery is chairman of the woman's department of the League of Service.

Rev. Duncan F. Dodd, a Chinese missionary, who returned recently from the Orient, while in Norwich over the coming week-end, is to give an address at the Norwich Town Methodist church, Sunday evening, at seven o'clock. This service will take the place of the Sunday evening Christian Endeavor meeting. Rev. Mr. Dodd, who barely escaped with his life, has a thrilling story to relate of the strenuous condition in the area of revolution; yet has much faith in the future welfare of the vast republic of China.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Carlson (Natalie Hamilton), who were married Saturday, January 14th, have returned from their wedding trip. Wednesday, the household effects of Mr. and Mrs. Carlson were moved to the Fuller apartments, at 364 Washington street, Norwich Town, where they are to take up their residence.

Cards with cheery messages, beautiful flowers, interesting literature and various other gifts, continue to come to the home of Mrs. Alice H. Kennedy, of Norwich Town, who for the past week has shown marked improvement in health, following several weeks' serious illness. Miss Kennedy's friends rejoice that she has made such steady progress toward complete recovery.

During this week, Theodore Sterry, violinist, of Norwich Town, has filled engagements in orchestras in Mystic and Plainfield, having played at the former place Tuesday evening, and at the latter, Wednesday evening.

Many a man who is fancy free does not fancy his freedom.

NEED ANY PLUMBING DONE? THEN CALL J. A. FITZGERALD

Maybe some people in eastern Connecticut are experiencing trouble with the heating plants in their houses this winter. Perhaps some radiator just simply refuses to get hot and stay that way. If any of these things are true at your home then you surely do need the services of J. A. Fitzgerald of 81 Franklin street and should hurry and call 2267, Norwich.

Many people fail to realize that a clogged section of the heating system is costing them dollars as the winter rolls by. Besides the loss of money there is the loss of heat to consider. This of course means less comfort for those within the house, especially on extremely cold days.

Plumbing, steam and hot water heating is a specialty with Mr. Fitzgerald and there is no need of anyone suffering for lack of proper heat when a phone call will bring an expert plumber to the house for repairs.

There is no time like the winter for a survey of the heating equipment of a house. In the warm months repairs can be made to any heating plant, but it is only in the winter, when the heating plant is in operation, that a real study can be made of the individual problem.

Perhaps a return pipe has become clogged; again it may be possible that there is a sink in the return feed pipe and a trap has been formed which catches the water as it returns to the boiler and thus prevents live steam from reaching the radiators except when a forced fire is kept.

These things can be quickly remedied by an experienced plumber and Mr. Fitzgerald guarantees that type of service to every customer. Why suffer during the remaining weeks of the winter when a few dollars spent now can remedy the fault of your heating plant.

CONSULT ABOUT YOUR BUILDING WITH P. F. SWEENEY

With the spring months rapidly drawing near there are many people in eastern Connecticut who are making plans for building a new house, garage, cottage, bungalow, or barn.

Probably the sport of selecting just the type desired has afforded the means of passing many a pleasant evening this winter. However, now that the choice has been made, the next step is to consult a contractor or builder.

P. F. Sweeney of Chestnut street, Norwich phone 1208-2, has long enjoyed the name of being a good contractor and builder. Mr. Sweeney has the plans and means of saving prospective house builders money. Before going any further, let us say, before deciding definitely on some thing which might have to be changed later, why not consult with him.

It is known to everyone that changes made after plans and specifications have been drawn up send building costs considerably higher than the average person desires to have them go.

If you have planned the type of house you want and have also settled the amount of money you feel you can afford to put into its construction, the next step is to consult with Mr. Sweeney. He will gladly assist you in correcting any mistakes, show you the latest improvements in building, and give you estimates of costs of construction.

Call Norwich 1208-2 while the time is right and thus have plenty of time to complete all necessary details before spring is with us and all contractors are working at top speed on construction work planned this winter by someone with foresight enough to get in ahead of the rush.

Where Quality and Service are the Watchword

TAKE YOUR CAR TO THE NORWICH AUTO RADIATOR WORKS

With the cold of winter now with us there are probably many Norwich automobile owners who are having trouble with the radiators of their cars. In mild weather the bad points about the radiators remained in hiding but with the first biting cold weather, when radiators always have to stand the test of a freeze, many a radiator gives up the fight and leaks develop. These leaks, however small at first, are dangerous for the car. Clogged circulation means overheated motors and this in turn means damaged motors.

The Norwich Auto Radiator Works at 375 Main street has always enjoyed the name of being a fine place to go when trouble is experienced along these lines. Expert radiator repair work is our specialty and we guarantee to make that damaged radiator as good as new and at a cost surprisingly low.

Besides being in the radiator business this company also repairs or makes radiators, bodies and fenders for cars. Many times a damaged fender can be repaired at a small cost, thus saving the purchase of a new fender.

We also specialize in the making and repairing of automobile tops and curtains and guarantee our workmanship.

Another line carried is new and used tubes and tires and here again the Norwich Auto Radiator Works stands by as a friend in need to the motorist desiring this type of service.

Everything we do is guaranteed and the workmanship is of the best. Hundreds have patronized us in the past and have found this to be true. We now invite the other hundreds who have not enjoyed our service, to come to us the next time they need repairs to radiators, fenders, bodies of cars, curtains, or, if they need new or used tires or tubes.

THE DEL-HOFF IS KNOWN AS THE HOMELIKE HOTEL

To the travelling man or woman the hotel which offers a homelike atmosphere is always one which attracts them. We feel that the Del-Hoff Hotel of Norwich, located at 26 Broadway, is just that type of a stopping place.

It has ever been the custom of the management of this hotel to make their patrons feel at home and at ease immediately upon their arrival within the doors. This atmosphere of friendship has made a name for this hotel and perhaps that is why the Del-Hoff is chosen by so many when they make a stop over in Norwich for one day or several weeks.

Courtesy to patrons and a desire to see that their every want is cared for is the watchword of the management, and, in turn, they have found that patrons have spread the name of Del-Hoff wherever they have gone after leaving Norwich.

If you have not already been a guest of this hotel we invite you to register here the next time you are in Norwich. Recommend us to your friends and rest assured that you are safe in doing so and that they will thank you for suggesting that they stop next at the Del-Hoff hotel, the friendly stopping place of Norwich.

EAST. CONNECTICUT POWER CO. GIVES EXCELLENT SERVICE

The Eastern Connecticut Power Company with general offices at 362 Main street, Norwich, stands ready at any time to service residences of Baltic, Danielson, Putnam and Niantic with electric power and furnish gas service for residents of Danielson and Putnam. Perhaps some of the readers of this page are still struggling along with the old fashioned and dangerous kerosene lamp service. In these days, when electric companies stand ready to give service to many houses which in the past were seemingly isolated many of you may be surprised if you called this power company and asked if service could not be installed in your houses.

With the addition of electric and gas service many other modern conveniences are introduced into the home. Practically every electrical or gas device, which means saving of labor to the housewife, is carried by the appliance department of the Eastern Connecticut Power Company and at prices surprisingly low to the consumer.

Do not stand back and say that there is no chance of electric or gas service coming out your way. Start the ball rolling, perhaps there is some neighbor who also wants service, and between you others may become interested, and within a short space of time the long awaited electric service may be passing by your door and the wires that bring light and added comforts may enter your home, bringing with them the hundreds of work savers, time savers, and joy givers, known to all who know enjoy electric service in their homes.

Call the office of this company nearest your home and talk the matter over with us and soon you too will enjoy electricity in your homes.

GREENEVILLE

The J. G. club held its weekly meeting Tuesday evening at the home of the president, Miss Cecelia Duquette. Music and dancing was enjoyed. After the sewing hour refreshments were served by Mrs. Charles T. Gauthier, which consisted of cake, ice cream and fancy cookies. The members have been enjoying several evenings of skating at Mohegan park skating pond.

The floral tributes at the funeral of William Roney Tuesday afternoon at the home of his sister, Mrs. Harlow Ladd of North Main street included: Mr. and Mrs. Harlow Ladd, a pillow marked brother; Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Roney, spray; Mrs. Mary Roney, wreath; Mrs. Andrew Cary, wreath; Mr. and Mrs. William Ibbison and daughter Elizabeth, spray; Myron Allen and family, spray. The shopmates of Mr. Roney, who was in the employ of the Airlie Mills of Hanover sent a large beautiful standing wreath with a card expressing sympathy to the brother and sister in the bereavement of their brother and also stating how faithful their brother was to his duties at the mill and to his employer.

Rev. William H. Kennedy of Newtown was calling on his many friends in Greeneville Wednesday. Rev. Kennedy was at one time curate at St. Mary's church.

Monday evening at the Greeneville Congregational church Sunday school rooms a comedy sketch, "Dearies" was successfully given by the C. L. class of the Trinity Methodist church before a large audience. The characters played their parts to perfection and received well merited applause from the audience. The following are the cast and as they made their appearance on the stage: Deborah Main, matron of orphans' home, Miss Gladys B. Newbury; Barbara, Kate, Lena, orphans, the Misses Susan M. McNeely, Isabel H. Shearer, Lillian D. Steisner; Mrs. Langthorne, the mother, Miss Josephine E. Moor; Sylvia, the daughter, Miss Marguerite M. Hill; Mrs. Chase, the grandmother, Miss Katherine J. Floyd; Mammy, the cook and Dixanna, Mammy's twin, Miss Florence L. Allen.

Act 1 office at the orphan's home; act 2, sitting room at the Langthrones two weeks later, act 3, same as act 2, one month later.

The hall was artistically decorated for the occasion. The affair was in charge of Alexander Finlayson, who is chairman of the Sunday school committee of the Greeneville Congregational church. The proceeds of the evening were equally divided to be added to the treasury of the respective churches.

A terrific wind and rain storm which swept this section Tuesday evening caused property damage and caused much trouble for the Southern New England Telephone company and gas and electrical department. Repair crews were out Wednesday making the necessary repairs. Street Commissioner John C. Donovan had a number of his men clearing the streets including Prospect, Hamilton avenue and Smith avenue of limbs that fell during the storm and filling in the washouts caused by the heavy rainfall.

At St. Mary's Memorial church Sunday the parishioners who rallied to the support of the association of the Catholic Near East Welfare last year will be asked to renew their membership for 1928 and new members will also be sought. This is the second annual roll call.

Among the local people to attend the basketball game Wednesday evening at Plainfield between the Whirlwinds and Plainfield were Maurice Goldblatt, John Ryan, Maurice Richie, Raymond Harris, Chauncey Geer, George Woolly, Jacob Goldblatt, James Daley, Albert Prodell and George Morris.

TAFTVILLE

The United Workers of Norwich are to hold one of their Rocknook Child Welfare conferences Friday afternoon at the Red Cross rooms in the Ponemah building.

Taftville was visited by a terrific gale Tuesday night, which did considerable damage about the town. In the Merchants avenue section a number of houses were damaged and shutters were torn from the buildings in various parts of the town. On South Second avenue two electric light poles were blown down and one was felled in Blissville. The gale was accompanied by a heavy rain which caused some bad washouts and miniature lakes formed on some streets where the gutters were unable to take care of the great volume of water that fell. Ice disappeared almost entirely on the Shetucket river, and on other ponds in the vicinity it was fast breaking up on Wednesday.

Miss Rose Ashby has resigned her position with the local mills.

The sum of $25.75 was realized from the food sale held Tuesday afternoon at the People's store by the American Legion auxiliary.

Local dealers are beginning to lay in their annual stock of valentines.

CITY ATTORNEY POINTS OUT DEFECTS THAT HAMPER LAW ENFORCEMENT

Members of the Norwich Rotary club were given an insight into the process of law enforcement and some of its difficulties, by Lee Roy Robbins, prosecuting attorney for the city of Norwich, at the weekly meeting of the club held Wednesday noon.

Mr. Robbins divided his talk under three classifications, the courts, the law and the police department. Speaking of the courts, he said that the greatest fault was the delay in the disposition of the cases. A criminal is apprehended and then there is a long delay between this time and the time when the criminal is either found guilty or not guilty. Another thing, said Mr. Robbins, in my opinion is the option of the accused in taking the stand in his own defense. The state cannot force him to take the witness stand, neither can they cross examine him nor can they remark in anyway upon his reluctance to testify. There is no proper balance on this point and it hampers the court in proving beyond a reasonable doubt that the man is guilty or not. The state should be given the power to put the accused on the stand.

Under the classification of law Mr. Robbins said there are two kinds of laws, good and bad, the good law usually has the sentiment of the people in back of it and it is easy to enforce but the law with little public support is very difficult to enforce. A law that goes through our legislature needs only a bare majority to make it a statute, and it may be a very drastic law that has not the support of the majority of the people. The legislature has to guess what the people want and they are some times wrong. The prohibition law when it reaches into the home and says a man shall not drink liquor when it is doing no one harm has not the sentiment in back of it to make enforcement easy. If you tell a person he can't drink liquor in his home you are interfering with his personal liberty as much as though you told him he could not have tea or coffee. When a person thinks that a law has overstepped its bounds he becomes contemptuous of it. If a law has the backing of the sentiment of the people it is easy to enforce for the people themselves generally support a good law.

The enforcement agencies, the police departments, etc., are handicapped by political influences. When we divorce the politics from the police departments we will have better law enforcement. What we have now is a political enforcement and the criminal has a big advantage over the police department in almost every city in the country. Improvements are needed in all three of these branches that go to make up law enforcement.

Mr. Robbins was given a hearty vote of appreciation.

DAMAGE AT FAIR GROUNDS BY THE HIGH WIND

The high wind early Wednesday morning caused extensive damage at the fairgrounds of the New London County Agricultural society. The 100 foot merchants booth erected three years ago was blown about 100 feet and reduced to kindling wood. The men's lavatory building was blown over three times and landed against the race track fence. Some damage resulted to the grandstand.

Trees and limbs in many sections of the town were blown down, about 150 telephone stations were put out of commission and electric light wires were down in several sections of the city. For a short time about 2.20 o'clock Wednesday morning the city was in darkness as the street lights were out owing to wire trouble. A number of electric service lines were out of commission for several hours.

Employes of the street department were engaged during the day in clearing away fallen trees and limbs. Washouts were reported from Talman street, Clairemont avenue and Watercress avenue and minor washouts were noticed in many other sections of the city.

MYSTIC CHURCH STEEPLE SWAYED IN GALE

Swaying in a heavy gale, the steeple of the Mystic Congregational church at Broadway and East Main street, Mystic, was close to falling Wednesday afternoon.

Rotten timbers in the steeple had weakened the structure and persons were wondering whether the sound wood would long stand the steady strain which the gale was causing. The steeple, which extends high in the air, was leaning at a dangerous angle.

Mystic police roped off the section of Broadway near the church and had prohibited traffic there for the danger of the steeple's crash was thought imminent.

LEDYARD MAN FINED IN COURT AT GROTON

After he had pleaded guilty to a amended charge of speeding, Walter Siko, of Ledyard, was fined $15 and costs of $13.55, by Judge Cornelius C. Costello in Groton town court Monday morning. He was originally charged with driving under the influence of liquor.

Siko was arrested on Jan. 15 by State Policeman Donald C. Browne, when an automobile driven by Siko, proceeding towards Groton along the Boston Post rad, failed to make the dangerus curve at the top of Fort hill, the automobile shooting across the highway and crashing into a bank along the south side of the highway. The automobile was badly damaged, but Siko and Mrs. Amelia Snock, of Old Mystic, who was a passenger in the car, were uninjured.

Testimony heard a week ago when Siko was presented in court was that the automobile was traveling at 30 miles per hour when it came to the turn at the top of the hill, State Policeman Browne testified that Siko was intoxicated. The trial of the charge of driving under the influence of liquor was adjourned to Monday morning, and no testimony was heard Monday when Siko pleaded guilty to the amended complaint.

GARDNER LAKE SITE FOR GIRL SCOUTS

A camp site on the eastern shore of Gardner lake has been secured by New London council of Girl Scouts from Milo Light of Pennsylvania, who has his private camps, Juanita and Adajuan, located there. The land, which adjoins Mr. Light's camps, has been leased from him for five years. A new log cabin with a fireplace is to be erected for the New London Scouts and will be ready for occupancy in the early spring. This building is to be constructed by Mr. Light in accordance with his agreement with the Scout council.

The privileges of the adjoining property, comprising hundreds of acres of woodland, are assured for the scouts.

THIRTEEN ON WEEKLY LIST OF SUSPENSIONS

There are thirteen names on the list. Two were Connecticut operators convicted in other states. The list follows:

Bridgeport, Edgar Shepard; Hartford, Dennis McCarthy, James W. Ryan, Clint Williams; Lexington, Mass., Charles E. Pratt; New Haven, Edward J. Finnerty, Joseph Spageante; Norwalk, Fred S. Roscoe; Stafford Springs, Frank L. Roberts; Waterbury, Joseph Sauvageau; Watertown, Karol Nitikow; Winsted, Ernest C. Tuttle; New York City, Nicholas Tucci.

Entertaining Social Service Speaker.

Miss Victoria A. Larmour, A. M., of the diocesan bureau of social service, Hartford, is in Norwich speaking to the Connecticut Council of Catholic Women and their friends. STATE DEPARTMENT FOUND WORK FOR 33,167

Applications for employment were received from 53,448 people in Connecticut in 1927 at the five free employment bureaus, the state labor bureau has announced. In contrast to this number, 35,586 applications for help were received from employers and 33,167 positions were secured for applicants. This is a decrease of 3,901 in the number, 35,886 applications for help corresponding decrease in the number of applications received for employment and help, as compared to the figures for 1926.

In 1926 there were 53,019 applications for employment received, 40,539 applications for help, and 37,068 situations were secured.

October was the most favorable month for 1927 for securing positions the figures show. The number of situations secured follows closely the fluctuations in the number of applications for help. In October, 3,454 situations were secured and 3,722 applications for help were received, the largest number for any month. The applications for employment, however, were greatest in September, there being 4,858. In that month, 3,396 situations were secured, the second highest monthly number in the year.

Less situations, 2,049, were secured in February than in any other month, and less applications for help were received, 2,214. There were 3,764 applications for employment during that month.

JUDGMENT IS RENDERED IN FAVOR OF LEVINSON

Judge Charles B. Waller has entered judgment in the amount of $243.83 in favor of Robert Levinson of New London, against William R. Golding, also of that city. In the case of the F. L. Warner Manufacturing Co. against the same defendant, Judge Waller took the papers and reserved decision. Both suits were tried jointly in the court of common pleas.

Levinson, represented by Attorney Thomas E. Troland, claimed that Golding by his promissory note of Sept. 1, 1926, agreed to pay the F. L. Warner Manufacturing Co., $225, 12 months from date. He claimed that the Warner company endorsed the note over to him and that it was unpaid.

Golding, represented by Attorney George Curtis Morgan, claimed that in giving his note to the Warner Co. it was in consideration of an agreement that the latter should install two oil heating systems in his houses and that they should be put in by a certain time and that they should be found to operate in a first class manner. Golding claimed that they did not come up to standard and set up that Levinson knew of the conditions when he received the note.

NEW LONDON HOPEFUL YET OF OCEAN LINE

The vision of a fleet of huge airplane-carrying, speedly trans-Atlantic liners crossing the ocean in four days, with possibly New London as the western terminus, seemed nearer realization Wednesday with the general belief that the United States Shipping board would report favorably to congress, following a hearing Tuesday at Washington in which Laurence R. Wilder, chairman of the American Brown-Boveri Electric Corp. shipbuilding division, and a corps of technical experts laid before board their plans for the building and operation of six giant liners with the request that the government loan at a reasonable interest rate, $94,500,000 as 75 per cent of the cost of building, while the Transoceanic Corp., organized to operate the new liners, would put $25,000,000 into the construction of the ships and $25,000,000 into their operation.

Although there is little that the shipping board can do in the way of making the loan necessary without action by congress, and also because of the fact that some changes are requested in the matter of mail contracts, any definite assurance that the most stupendous plans devised in the past decade to regain the former prestige of the American merchant marine is still awaiting the presentation of the various details of the undertaking before congress and subsequent favorable action by that body. With the support of the shipping board, combined with a national sentiment for a greater merchant marine and the salient fact that the proposed liners of the Transoceanic Corp. are designed to become a most important part of the Navy in time of war, it was the common belief in Washington Wednesday that the proposed four-day liner service would meet with considerable support and little opposition.

As yet, two things vitally concerning New London in connection with the plans for the four-day service, have not been definitely announced; one is the location of the western terminus, for which New London has been prominently mentioned, and the other is the source of the $50,000,000 which will be put into the huge project by private interests. Reports have emanated from Washington to the effect that the money is being underwritten by five different railroads and the American Brown-Boveri Electric Corp. Officials closely allied with the four-day project have declined to make any specific statements concerning either the location except to say that the western terminus of the proposed line will be either at a port on Long Island or along the New England coast.

New Scoring for Cleanliness of Milk

A new method for scoring milk for cleanliness was adopted at the meeting held at the state capitol on January 8 at which representatives from Connecticut approved laboratories were present.

It was decided that pint samples only shall be regarded as standard and where it is necessary to filter any other size sample, the size of the sample must be stated on the report. One type of tester, the Wisconsin or Lorenz model and the type of disc furnished with that model were adopted and the amount of dirt on any disc, secured from filtering a pint of milk, shall be compared against a standard photograph and scored in terms of clean, fairly clean, slightly dirty, dirty and very dirty and also in terms representing milligrams per pint. Bottled milk shall always be cleaner than fairly clean and shall not show even a score of 1.25 to be classed as satisfactory. The disc containing the dirt actually filtered from the sample of milk shall in all cases be returned to the dairyman, health or dairy official or the milk inspector, together with the report. The former method of reporting samples in terms of percentage clean is to be completely abandoned on future samples.

PREHISTORIC MOUNTAINS WERE OF ALPINE HEIGHT

"It is certain that physical change and organic change have gone on in a co-ordinated manner as long as the earth has stood. Many of the details of this past change must forever remain hidden, but also a great deal of this past is also known," said Dr. G. R. Wieland of Yale university, in a lecture on The Flowering Plants of Dinosaur Times, at Connecticut college Tuesday.

Dr. Wieland gave a preliminary survey of geologic succession as exhibited in the continually changing aspect of the landscape, before describing animals and plants of millions of years ago. The age of the earth has been placed at one billion years, according to Dr. Wieland. Geologic changes have been both dynamic and slow over this period. Mountain ranges have been raised and lowered many times.

Connecticut in mid-geologic times boasted a mountain range of Alpine height.

"Every lump of coal in the basements of modern homes is filled with fossil plants," said the speaker. If a piece of coal could be sliced into thin sections, as is done in paleobotanic laboratories, stems and leaves of plants could be found in their fossil form.

The origin of the flowering plants is no longer the mystery that it was 50 years ago. By a study of fossil forms the history of modern plants has been traced back to early geologic time. Dr. Wieland showed numbers of interesting lantern slides with restorations of geologic landscapes. Huge dinosaurs roamed the earth in this ancient Age of Reptiles. Plants were correspondingly strange when compared with modern forms.

TELEPHONE OPERATORS GAVE PRETTY DANCE

Seventy-five couples attended a dance of the season given by the telephone operators at the Wauregan hotel Tuesday evening. The hall was very prettily decorated in colored balloons, which hung from the center lights. The telephone banner which hung in the center was also unusual. The rest of the decorations were telephone colors, streamers over orchestra circle and side lights. Each and everyone enjoyed the Paul Jones, tag and balloon dances. The committee consisted of Chairman Anna Spicer, Mary Connelli, Cora Watrous, Norma Shaffer, Norman Frazier, Henry Lye John Walsh.

"Always Tired at Night"—Try This

A healthy person never feels constantly tired. Being "too tired" continually tells of something wrong. When John R. Gordon, Danville, Ill., found himself "always tired at night and burdened with backache," he took Foley Pills, a diuretic stimulant for the kidneys, and writes: "After a few doses, I felt better, could work easier, became stronger, and slept soundly." Men and women everywhere use and recommend them. Satisfaction guaranteed. Ask for Foley Pills diuretic.

BORDER PATROLS TOPIC AT THE HAVANA CONFERENCE

Argentine Delegate Advocated the Right of Pursuit of Criminals Into a Neighboring Country—Delegate From Salvador Opposed the Proposal—The Matter Was Referred to a Sub-Committee, Which is Later to Report to the Full Committee.

HAVANA, Jan. 26.—(AP)—Intervention in the internal affairs of one state by another, which was to have come up for discussion today at the meeting of the Pan-American conference's committee on public international law, gave way to consideration of border patrols and the pursuit of criminals across the borders of another country.

Honorio Pueyrredon, head of the Argentine delegation, in presenting his report, recommended closest cooperation between patrols guarding the respective borders of countries, and the right of pursuit into a neighboring country. A lengthy discussion followed, and Hector David Castro, of Salvador, moved that the Pan-American congress definitely restrict the right of pursuit to cases where previous treaties to this effect had been concluded.

The question was referred to a subcommittee, which is later to report to the full committee.

Dr. Pueyrredon, in the course of the debate, remarked it appeared that most of the delegates were opposed to the principle of the right of pursuit. He pointed out that a treaty of that kind had been most successful with Chile.

Alejandro Alvarez, Chilean delegate, confirmed this. Jose Antezana, president of the Bolivian delegation, declared that the same state of affairs existed between Argentina and Bolivia.

Gustavo Diaz, of the Dominican republic, intimated that his country would not be able to agree to a convention allowing the right of pursuit.

Aviation occupied the time of the communications committee. Various amendments to the projected Pan-American aviation treaty were introduced by the United States, Mexico, Brazil and Paraguay. Ambassador Fletcher is chairman of the sub-committee which will examine these amendments. He announced at the committee meeting that Colombia and the United States had come to an understanding over the proposals of the United States with respect to agreements between countries on areas prohibited to aviation for military purposes.

Mexico is desirous that countries shall have the right to establish air routes according to national interests.

ACOSTA SAYS EVERYTHING WILL COME OUT ALL RIGHT

NEW HAVEN, Jan. 26.—(AP)—Bert Acosta, trans-Atlantic birdman who piloted the crew of the America to safety and fame, told the Associated Press tonight that "everything will come out all right," when he is arraigned in New Jersey for the larceny of a plane. Acosta, who started a five-day jail sentence here today which was meted out to him by the borough court of Naugatuck for skimming the housetops of that community in violation of the state aviation laws, was visited at the jail by Goyas Cerignes, head of the syndicate whose plane he is said to have stolen.

After Cerignes' visit, Acosta told the Associated Press that it was a case of misunderstanding and that he had thought himself to be in the right when he took off with the plane on which attachments had been placed. The plane is at present at Bethany field where he landed in it.

The plane was presented to Acosta with the stipulation that it was to be used in an endurance flight which he and Clarence Chamberlin were planing. Acosta was taken ill just before the time set for the flight and Chamberlin took another partner and another plane. Acosta, according to his statements tonight, understood that the agreement still stood and consequently retained possession of the plane when the owners sought to regain it.

He declared that he would return to New Jersey to stand trial in Bergen county for the larceny of the plane but that, in view of his talk with Cerignes, he is confident that the matter will be adjusted.

ASSEMBLING EVIDENE AGAINST DR. GUILFOYLE

HARTFORD, Jan. 26.—(AP)—Mrs. Matilda Guilfoyle, wife of Dr. Harold N. Guilfoyle, the veterinary charged with the murder of Mrs. Clara Cavanaugh Gaudet in a Maple avenue apartment January 18, will not be released from the county jail, where she is held in default of $10,000 bail on a charge of breach of peace, if the state's opposition to her motion for release or reduction of her bond is successful at a police court hearing tomorrow.

After a conference with her lawyer, Judge Samuel Rosenthal, and Prosecutor Frank J. Carlson, tonight, the state's attorney's office announced that any defense move to have her released or her bond reduced would be vigorously opposed by the state.

This was the chief development in the case today as counsel for Mrs. Guilfoyle and the prosecutor's office prepared to meet the issue of her release tomorrow.

The state declined to disclose its purpose in holding Mrs. Guilfoyle in jail. Mrs. Guilfoyle's lawyer, Judge Rosenthal, had no comment to make after his conference with the state's representatives. "I have nothing to say," said the judge when asked what his plans for today are.

The state's attorney's office went steadily forward today with the assembling of the evidence on which it may seek a first degree indictment against the veterinary.

Dr. Guilfoyle, who is at the Hartford hospital with a bullet wound in his right eye, is reported to be gradually improving. He is under a police guard.

HEAVY DECREASE IN FEDERAL EXCISE TAXES

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—(AP)—Income from federal excise taxes for the calendar year 1927 showed a decrease of $54,693,158 from the total for 1926. Internal revenue reports disclosed today that receipts from these taxes totalled $587,363,598 in 1927 against $642,056,756 for the year before.

The losses, it was explained, were due in the main to a lowering of the tax rates, reflected particularly in the estate tax, which declined from $207,941,905 to $69,842,392.

The most pronounced increase despite a lowering of rates was shown by tobacco products which brought in a total of $387,427,880 in 1927 as compared with $371,677,583 in 1926, showing an increase of $15,750,297.

ARGUMENTS END IN $45,000,000 BREACH OF CONTRACT SUIT

NEWARK, N. J., Jan. 26.—(AP)—Argument on the motion by the defense to throw out of court the $45,000,000 breach of contract suit brought by George D. Haskell, of Springfield, Mass., against the estate of James B. Duke, ended today.

Federal Judge Runyon, before whom the case is being tried, indicated he would announce his decision early next week.

NO SOLUTION OF THE BOMBINGS IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Jan. 26.—(AP)—Bombings of the homes of Charles C. Fitzmorris, city comptroller and former chief of police, and Dr. William H. Reid, stalwarts of the administration of Mayor William Hale Thompson, remained official mysteries tonight but were subjects for wide newspaper and other speculation.

Nobody was hurt when the bombs exploded.

The Chicago Daily News in reporting the story of the bombings said they "were interpreted in gambling circles as a protest against gambling in Chicago whereby the Al Capone, the Joe Saltis and the Bertsche-Zuta gangs went out and more favored individuals came in."

At 12:21 a. m., a poor marksman threw a bomb at the Reid home, but it fell short and only smashed windows. Three minutes later the bomb sharpshooter got a better range at the Fitzmorris place in which thirteen windows were broken and much damage done.

Both Fitzmorris and Dr. Reid expressed themselves as unable to supply a motive or clew.

"Politicians and others who have been watching recent developments in the protected gambling situation in Chicago, however, professed to see little mystery in the double bombing," said the Daily News.

The newspaper said that organizations and cliques were frowned upon in the reorganization of the control of gambling and that the new scheme called for the protection of individuals.

Detectives constantly are on guard at Mayor Thompson's home.

A DEVICE TO MINIMIZE OR PREVENT NOSE DIVES

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—(AP)—The Handley-Page automatic slot, designed to minimize or prevent nose dives, stalling and incipient tailspins, was put through a series of tests at the naval air station here today and pronounced a success by the officers in charge.

Rear Admiral Moffett, chief of the bureau of aeronautics, termed it one of the greatest safety devices ever invented for aircraft.

The effect of the "automatic slot" is to increase, when necessary, the lifting capacity of the wing and to prevent "burbling" or "eddying," the cause of loss of lift at the usual stalling angle. It consists of an auxiliary air foil switch which, when closed, is part of the nose of the ordinary air foil. It is secured to the wing of the plane in such a manner that under ordinary flying conditions and at normal or fast speed it remains closed.

When, however, the speed of the plane is reduced beyond a certain point, the slot opens automatically, giving the plane the increased lifting capacity.

LEGISLATIVE MATTERS DISCUSSED IN CONGRESS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26—(AP)—Business before pleasure was the slogan of both ends of congress today, the delights of partisan politics being put aside to a large degree in favor of legislative activity. Both house and senate talked, to be sure, but they discussed the legislative matters under immediate consideration.

The house worked so hard that it felt justified in taking a three day week-end rest, adjourning until Monday. It worked on undisputed—and therefore uninteresting—bills on the docket. A flock of these, covering as wide a range of subjects as any half page of the dictionary, were put through.

The senate got going on the merchant marine bill which goes exactly counter to the views President Coolidge transmitted to congress against continued government ownership and operation of the merchant fleet. It is going through despite white house dislike, the wise ones say.

FORD FLIVVER TO TAKE OFF FOR DETROIT TODAY

WAHINGTON, Jan. 26—(AP)—Harry J. Brooks, who flew a Ford Flivver plane here from Spartanburg, S. C., today plans to leave for Detroit tomorrow morning.

Thirteen and one half gallons of his 46 gallon supply of gasoline were consumed on his flight today, Brooks said, adding that though he set the small machine to fly about 78 miles an hour, the wind was favorable and he averaged about 91. The flight required four hours and 35 minutes, Brooks figuring he covered 410 miles.

The aviator is returning to Detroit after an unsuccessful attempt to make non-stop flight from Detroit to Miami. He was forced to land at Asheville, N. C., because of bad weather conditions.

SENATE VOTES FOR THE JONES SHIPPING BILL

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—(AP)—The provision of the Jones shipping bill requiring unanimous consent of the shipping board for the sale of any government vessels hereafter was upheld today by the senate, 51 to 35, against the assault of administration leaders who declared it meant permanent federal operation of the merchant marine.

Heeding the advice of President Coolidge for early disposal of the government fleet into private hands, republican leaders had waged a determined fight against this provision of the bill to build up American shipping under the decision of the agency formed during the World war.

Sponsored by Senator Jones, republican, Washington, the chairman of the commerce committee, the sale provision of the measure drew an almost solid democratic vote along with a lineup of western republican independents.

An attempt by Senator Edge, republican, New Jersey, to permit the sale of ships upon the vote of four members of the board—a majority—was rejected 54 to 24. However, previously the senate went on record, 43 to 34, to permit the sale upon the vote of five of the seven members of the board.

STEWART TO TESTIFY IN TEAPOT DOME INVESTIGATION

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—(AP)—An overnight change of attitude by Robert W. Stewart, chairman of the board of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, promises new developments next week in the new Teapot Dome oil investigation.

Stewart today notified Chairman Nye of the senate lands committee that he would forego business engagements in Mexico for the time being to return from Havana and testify when the committee resumes its inquiry Tuesday. Previously Stewart had indicated that the committee would have to await completion of his business trip in South and Central America.

The committee desires to inquire of the Standard Oil of Indiana official what he knows about the operations of the Continental Trading Company, Ltd., of Canada, which bought and sold oil in this country and converted its profits into Liberty bonds, $233,000 of which Harry F. Sinclair paid over to Albert B. Fall after the former interior secretary had leased the Teapot Dome naval oil reserve in Wyoming to the New York oil operator.

TWO-WAY COMMUNICATION BY RADIO-PHONE ON TRAIN

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 26—(AP)—A new chapter in railroad history was written today when, for the first time, the front and rear ends of a mile-long moving freight train maintained two-way communication by radio-phone with a railway signal tower.

E. W. Rice, Jr., E. E. Edwards and W. B. Potter, officials of the General Electric Co., where the radio equipment was designed, talked from the signal tower at South Schenectady to D. B. Fleming, general manager, and E. C. Keenan, general superintendent of telephones and telegraphs, of the New York Centryl system, on board a New York Central freight train.

The General company men questioned the railroad executives concerning the efficiency of the new radio control of the train, and the railroad men replied that it was successful in every respect.

Nicaragua[redacted]els Lose Stronghold

Sandino's Fortifications Were Destroyed by 400 United States Marines.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Jan. 26—(AP)—General Augustino Sandino's last known stronghold on El Chipote mountain has been wiped out by United States marines.

Airplanes returning from a flight over El Chipote today reported that a column of 400 men under Maj. Archibald Young had reached the crest of the mountain, destroying the rebel chief's fortifications on the way.

Sandino fled to El Chipote after the marines took Quilali, his former headquarters, from him in a battle Dec. 30. El Chipote was heavily bombed about two weeks ago, and Sandino's forces are believed to have scattered in small bands afterward. At the time Sandino was reported to have been killed, but marine headquarters believe he was wounded.

Marines have been advancing cautiously up the slopes of El Chipote since then, and there has been sporadic resistance by Sandinistas, but opposition has been swept away and today's movement of Major Young's column gives the marines control of the entire mountain.

The airplane reports are that all of Sandino's fortifications, trenches and camps have been destroyed. The peak itself is a natural fortress that Sandino boasted for eight months could never be taken.

There have been no casualties among the marines in the later advances and Major Young signalled to aviators today that all was well with the marines, who were having little difficulty.

The marines reached the top of the 5,000 foot peak at 10 o'clock in the morning.

SUBSTITUTE FOR M'NARY-HAUGEN BILL COMPLETED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27—(AP)—After discussing farm relief with President Coolidge today, Representative Ketcham, republican, Michigan, completed the drafting of his export debenture bill, the principle of which has been indorsed by the National Grange. He announced that his proposal would be introduced tomorrow as a substitute for the McNary-Haugen bill which of late has had rather rough sledding.

Ketcham, one of the house agriculture committeemen who have declined to go along any longer on the controversial equalization fee of the McNary-Haugen measure, said he found President Coolidge deeply interested in the farm relief question. While at the white house, he said, he told the president of his plan to embody the grange's debenture plan in a bill, but did not discuss with him the various proposals already offered for relief of the farmer.

Lindbergh Resumes His Good-Will Tour

Has Landed at Cartagena, Colombia—Warmly Greeted by South Americans.

CARTAGENA, Colombia, Jan. 26—(AP)—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, fresh from his 10 day vacation in Panama, today was off again on his good-will tour that will carry him to the Pan-American conference at Havana.

The American air hero left France field, Colon, at 9:26 o'clock this morning and four hours and 30 minutes later came to earth at the Boca Grande flying field outside of Cartagena. He estimated the hop at 400 miles.

It was the first time the people of South America had an opportunity to greet the flier whose exploits in North America, Central America and Europe had thrilled them so often. Nor were these South Americans behind their brethren of the other continents in their enthusiasm for the American airman.

As the famous Spirit of St. Louis came into sight over the city at 1:45 p. m. the spectators broke into enthusiastic cheers. Factory whistles and train whistles shrieked and the sirens of the ships in the bay added to the clamor.

Smilingly, the American flier climbed from the cockpit of his plane and was welcomed by the official delegation which had been selected yesterday when it became known that he would stop here en route to Bogota, the capital of Colombia.

Walking through the great crowd of spectators which filled the field, Colonel Lindbergh entered an automobile with the governor of the state of Bolivar and several high public officers. Later he went to the suburb of Isla De Manga where he was the guest of H. O. Ware, an American business man.

The greatest crowds ever seen in this city gathered in and around the flying field, and when Lindbergh sighted the multitude from aloft he made several circuits of the field before deciding to alight. When he did land he came down gracefully in front of the governor's box.

Then the spectators broke through the strong police cordon and surrounded the plane, and it was with difficulty that a passageway was clearer so that he might proceed to where the official welcome awaited him.

The weather during his flight from Colon was ideal.

DENIES THAT SHE IS THE MISSING COLLEGE GIRL

OLIVE HILL, Ky., Jan. 26—(AP)—The nationwide net spread for the missing Frances St. John Smith held in this little Kentucky mountain town today, a boy and girl who explained that they were just hiking through the country and for 24 hours declined to give police their names or say where they were from.

Late today, however, the girl who resembled in nearly every particular the missing Smith college student, said she was Martha Mitchell, daughter of Henry M. Mitchell, a broker of Glendale, Long Island, N. Y., and her companion said he was Fred Fuchs, who had come to this country 18 months ago from Alsace-Lorraine.

Through a telephone number given by the girl, however, police said they found out that the Mitchell she referred to in New York was supposed to be an employe of the Holley hotel in Washington Square. They were unable to communicate with him however. Meantime, telephonic instructions came from the office of Mayor Walker of New York to spare no expense in efforts to identify the girl.

EIGHT JURORS SELECTED FOR TRIAL OF HICKMAN

HALL OF JUSTICE, LOS ANGELES, Jan. 26.—(AP)—The personality of a country judge dominated the actual opening today of the sanity trial of William Edward Hickman, kidnaper slayer of Marian Parker.

His honor, Judge J. J. Trabucco, called in from the wide open spaces of Mariposa county to replace Judge Carlos Hardy, disqualified yesterday on motion of the defense, energetically injected speed into the selection of a jury when it lagged at the hands of counsel.

After assuring himself of the prisoner's plea of "not guilty" by reason of insanity," to both charges of kidnaping and murder, the veteran jurist from the "cow country" lost no opportunity to hasten proceedings and at one juncture cut off all individual questions to talesmen by the defense and ordered that the probable jurors be interrogated in groups.

The jury box was occupied by eight men and four women accepted tentatively by the defense shortly before court adjourned and the prosecution had taken up the querying.

GEN. PERSHING FORSOOK DIGNITY IN GREETING HIS HOME TOWN FOLKS

LACLEDE, Mo., Jan. 26—(AP)—Returning to his home town today for a second time since the World war, Gen. John J. Pershing, commander of the American expeditionary forces in France, again received the plaudits of his old friends and neighbors.

From the time of his arrival in a private railroad car shortly after noon until his departure after a dinner in his honor tonight, Pershing was rushed about from one meeting place to another and was kept busy shaking hands.

Approximately 300 persons, or three-fourths of the town's population, were at the station when Pershing's train arrived. A few seconds after the private car had been switched off, "Johnny" Pershing showed himself on the platform. For moments there was silence. Pershing, grim, gray and military, looked at the crowd and the crowd looked at him. Then some one shouted "Hello!" and the ice was broken.

Mayor Edmund B. Allen, boyhood friend of the general, was the first to greet him formally. Others quickly gathered around, among them Mrs. Mattie Packer, Pershing's cousin, and Henry Lomax, Laclede bank president who was a clerked in the store of John F. Pershing, the general's father.

Habitually dignified, Pershing thawed under the warm greetings of his boyhood friends, six of whom still live here. He called them each by name and they, grinning with pleasure, strove more or less vainly to feel as much at ease with him as in the days when he was considered something of a "tissy" because he preferred to read at home instead of accompanying them on exciting expeditions into forbidden orchards in quest of apples.

Mose Stevens, an aged Negro, made his way through the reception committee.

"General," he said, "you ought to stop calling yourself Black Jack; you ain't one of us colored people."

Smiling, Pershing explained he had nothing to do with that nickname and promised never to use it.

With the preliminary reception over, Pershing returned to the car for luncheon.

During the afternoon he made several addresses the final event on the program being a visit to his boyhood home, a large brown house near the business district. Then he sat down with 25 selected guests at an informal dinner at the Methodist church, of which he is a member.

TO RECOUNT BALLOTS IN SIX PENNSYLVANIA COUNTIES

Order Issued by the Senate Elections Committee to Clarify the Vare-Wilson 1926 Senatorial Election—Republican Members of the Committee Reversed Their Action of Wednesday—Vare Has Been Given an Opportunity to Call For a Recount in Other Counties.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26—(AP)—An immediate recount of the ballots cast in six Pennsylvania counties in the Vare-Wilson 1926 senatorial election was ordered today by the senate elections committee.

The eight republicans of the committee who had voted down six democrats yesterday in denying a recount reversed their stand at a meeting suddenly called after Senator Reed, democrat, Missouri, had asked the senate to override the committee's decision.

Action was taken late today by the committee on an amended petition filed by Mr. Wilson which went more specifically into the charge of a conspiracy by Vare and his republican party associates in the 1926 election. Chairman Shortridge explained that the amended plea met objections voiced yesteday.

Mr. Vare now faces a double barreled attack against his sen. The campaign funds committee, headed by Reed of Missouri, which has been instructed by the senate to examine into Vare's primary expenditures will work with the sub committee of the elections committee in some instances in the latter's inquiry into the contest of Wilson against the election.

On the basis of the slush fund committee's report Vare already has been denied the oath of office by the senate. However, if Vare is denied a seat on its report, Mr. Wilson would not be given it, and it would be considered vacant.

But if Wilson wins his contest before the elections committee and the senate upholds it he will get the seat. Chairman Shortbridge plans to name the subcommittee which is to conduct the recount in the six counties challenged by Wilson tomorrow.

Meanwhile, Mr. Vare who has indicated he would like all ballots cast in Pennsylvania to be recounted if anyone are to be, has been given ten days in which to file an answer and to ask for recounts in other counties.

Like Mr. Wilson, however, he will be required to file specific charges in each county or precinct in which he desires the recount.

The senate already has in its possession the ballots from Philadelphia and Allegheny counties. The ballots in the other four contested counties—Luzerne, Delaware, Lackawanna and Schuylkill have been impounded and they will be brought here at an early date on conditions to be agreed upon between Wilson and Vare.

Senator Reed, of Missouri, who led the fight for a recount by the committee explained later that he intended to have the campaign funds committee also examine some of the ballot boxes and ballots but that he wanted to do this in cooperation with the elections committees.

He announced he would ask for early action on the recount.

NO COMMENT BY VARE ON ACTION OF COMMITTEE

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 26—(AP)—Senator-elect William S. Vare declined to comment tonight upon the action of the senate committee on privileges and elections in ordering an immediate recount of the ballots cast in the senatorial election in six Pennsylvania counties.

The physical task of recounting the ballots will be big. There are nearly 4,000 voting divisions to be gone over in the six counties involved, necessitating, it is expected, the employment of many skilled clerks. In his original answer to Wilson's petition, Vare's counsel said that it would require many months to complete the work, even if experts were hired.

HONORARY DEGREE FOR PRESIDENT COSGRAVE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—(AP)—President William T. Cosgrave of the Irish Free State executive council today entered the select circle upon which Catholic university has conferred honorary degrees.

Beneath the blended colors of Ireland and the United States, the executive received the honary degree of doctor of laws after listening to laudations which linked his name with the tireless band which fought for Irish freedom.

The degree, the third of its kind to be bestowed, the first going to Cardinal Mercier and the second to King Albert of Belgium, was conferred by Archbishop Curley, chancellor of the university, who declared that "seven centuries of suffering have at last found surcease."

The archbishop declared that "the soul of Ireland, never for a moment enslaved, has carried the proud little nation through its trials." Ireland has taken its place among the nations of the world, he said, and received the cordial felicitations of the world "as it stepped out of the dark."

President Cosgrave, responding briefly, said that the bestowal of the degree "increases the debt of gratitude my nation owes this country of free men."

NATION'S CRIME BILL IS $7,000,000,000 ANNUALLY

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 26.—(AP)—The nation's crime bill was estimated today at $7,000,000,000 annually by Dr. Benjamin Franklin Battin, of New York, vice president of a surety company, speaking before the Poor Richard club.

He declared that crime was a growing menace to business and described fake bankruptcy, embezzlement, larceny, forgery, false casualty and insurance claims and misrepresentations of merchants as crimes that annually reap a harvest of more than $200,000,000.

Embezzlement and larceny, in particular payroll robberies, he said, can be decreased three-fourths by bonding employes and by paying employes with checks instead of cash.

"Usually it is the trusted employe who steals," he said. "When a bank is looted or the treasurer of a corporation runs off with company funds, they are, invariably, trusted employes.

"Next, do not carry cash in a little black bag from the bank to the business office. Stop carrying the payroll over a fixed route. Never send a woman—two or three women are hit over the head in New York every day carrying payrolls."

RELIGIOUS QUESTIONS FLARING UP IN MEXICO

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 26.—(AP)—Religious questions are again flaring up with renewed police activity in closing Catholic schools alleged to be operating in violation of the laws, and in arresting persons said to be engaged in seditious activites.

It is estimated that between 250 and 300 persons have been arrested in the past few days. Four Catholic schools have been closed. Those arrested included both students and teachers.

"Long live Christ the King!" some of the students cried when the police appeared this morning and closed the Catholic Seminary De Regina. The entire student body and the teachers, numbering about 225 were taken to police headquarters, where they were held for examination.

HENRY SCHUMANN-HEINK ARRESTED FOR THEFT

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Jan. 26.—(AP)—Henry Schumann-Heink, son of Mme. Ernestine Schumann-Heink, was arrested today on a grand jury indictment carrying six counts of grand theft and two counts charging violation of the state corporate securities act. His bail was fixed at $10,000.

The charges grew out of alleged transactions by the Henry Schumann-Heink Investment company, the state license of which was revoked some months ago.

ALLEGED MURDERER TELLS OF ABUSE AFTER ARREST

OTTAWA, Ill., Jan. 26—(AP)—Harry Hill, smiling and confident, electrified the crowded, drab little county courtroom here today by climbing unexpectedly into the witness chair to tell Judge Joseph Davis, in the absence of the jury, what Seattle police did to him when he was arrested there last fall.

The spectacular move of the defense was to counteract the effect of a story which Detective Captain William Kent from the western city, planned to tell, and also to attempt to show Harry made statements under duress without the advice of friends or attorney.

To settle the point, Judge Davis excused the jury and the state put the captain of detectives upon the stand. Kent testified he had not abused Harry and so far as he knew the youth had not been mistreated at the hands of others.

Hill then hustled eagerly to the seat beside the judge and told his story.

"I was arrested about 9 in the evening and given nothing to eat until 4:30 the next afternoon," said the Streator youth accused of shooting his elderly mother and burying her body in the basement of her home.

"They swore at me; called me vile names, kicked me, struck me, and pushed me up and down until I was worn out."

Urged by attorneys Hill repeated the profanity he remembered being directed at him.

"One man gave me a cigaret and another man knocked it out of my mouth and burned me. I had nothing to confess, and so I said nothing. It was cold and they took my coat away because they said it had a bloodstain on it. They kept asking me about what I had been doing in August and all the time were pointing to a September calendar. I got so confused I couldn't answer correctly."

He said he admitted his identity because he knew the detectives had found Illinois license plates in his hotel room at Seattle.

Judge Davis reserved decision until tomorrow as to whether he would permit Kent to tell his story of Hill's arrest to the jury.

A DEVICE TO BROADCAST AND RECEIVE PICTURES

NEW YORK, Jan. 26—(AP)—A broadcasting station, using its regular wave length, publicly demonstrated today for the first time the broadcasting of photographs by radio and the reception of the pictures on a small device attached to an ordinary radio receiver in the home.

The demonstration was conducted over Station WEAF and the photographs were broadcast from the National Broadcasting company's Fifth avenue laboratory over its high power station at Bellmore, N. Y.

The pictures were received at the upper West Side home of Dr. Alfred N. Goldsmith, chairman of the board of consulting engineers of the company, 25 miles from the transmitting antenna.

Broadcasting company officials said the process might be employed to send a picture of detailed printed programs early each morning to radio listeners.

BOY AND HIS TWO SISTERS WERE FROZEN TO DEATH

MALONE, N. Y., Jan. 26.—(AP)—Ted Dunn, 14, and Lena Dunn, 11, sisters, were frozen to death, and their mother, Mrs. Gilbert Dunn, of Chateaugay Bay, suffered frozen feet, as a result of remaining in an open sleigh from 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon until neighbors found them at 9 o'clock this morning in a field less than a mile from their home.

Mrs. Dunn drove a team to the district school a mile distant to bring her children home yesterday afternoon. As Mrs. Dunn started back with her little flock the storm increased in intensity and a family living near the school tried to have them remain there until the weather moderated. They continued, however, and in the blinding storm the team wandered off the road and into a field. Mrs. Dunn was so overcome by the cold that she was unable to guide the team.

MATHWINK TELLS PATHETIC STORY OF TREATMENT BY BERKOWITZ

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Jan. 26—The defense opened its case today, the third in the trial of Sava Mathwink for the shooting of Mrs. Annie Berkowitz, and through lengthy questioning, succeeded through Mathwink's difficult English, to unfold before the jury a word picture of the Russian's hard struggle for money and how he was suddenly deprived of all his life's savings through an alleged "swindle" for which Mathwink laid the blame to Jacob Berkowitz.

Mathwink took the stand when Judge Yeomans ordered court convened at 10 o'clock and after State's Attorney Bradford had announced that the state rested. The witness was interrogated by County Protector Charles L. Torrey, who during the forenoon, clashed with Attorney Irving Miron of Putnam, assistant to State's Attorney Bradford. Attorney Miron raised a series of objections to the introduction of evidence which he deemed as having no bearing on the case, but found Judge Yeomans reticent about sustaining his objections. Because of Mathwink's inability to express himself clearly in English, the state requested the court to call for the use of Matthew R. Malinowsky of New Britain, state official court interpreter, who was on hand. Attorney Torrey explained to the court that he wanted the jury to receive the full effect of the limited knowledge of the accused and Judge Yeomans denied the state's motion.

Sava Mathwink occupied the stand from 10 o'clock until the noon recess at one o'clock. Under direct examination by Attorney Torrey he told how he had come to this country with only $37 in his pockets in 1912. He worked hard at manual labors in Peabody, Mass., and other places until he could send transportation tickets to his wife and children. He said that he was an Ukranian. He has five children, the oldest, a girl of 22, is working in New York city, his 21 year old son Joseph is in the navy and the three younger children reside at home.

Had Accumulated $3,500

Some eight years ago he had accumulated $3,000 and $500 in liberty bonds. He purchased the old Perkins' farm in Pleasant Valley, paying $3,000 cash and securing a $6,000 mortgage. Adam Postemski was agent in the sale of the farm. Five years and a half ago he sold the farm to Jacob Slater with Jacob Berkowitz as the agent. The farm was sold for $11,500 on which $5,500 was paid. At that time a Mr. Squires who held the mortgage on the place was paid off by Mathwink out of the cash he had received from Slater. Berkowitz got $800 commission for effecting the transaction. Slater gave his note of $6,000 to Mathwink, the note being due September 15, 1927. Subsequently Mathwink borrowed $3,000 from Henry A. Bugbee, local financier and business man. He gave the $6,000 note as security. On October 14, 1926, Mathwink paid the $3,000 back to Mr. Bugbee and the two men went to the office of Town Clerk Frank J. Fenton where papers were made out releasing Mathwink from the debt and presumably giving a transfer of the $6,000 mortgage papers which had been held as security.

Becomes Suspicious

Mathwink said that he got suspicious that there was something wrong when payments on the interest or principal failed to be forthcoming when due on or about September 15, 1927. He investigated and found that since he had sold the place to Jacob Slater it had been sold to Mrs. Annie Berkowitz, then to Jacob Berkowitz and again to Arthur King, present owner. He went to the office of Judge Lewellyn J. Storrs, town clerk of Mansfield, the town in which the farm is located, and a search there failed to show that Mathwink still retained a $6,000 mortgage on the place. He found that Slater had a second mortgage and Berkowitz a first mortgage for $12,000. Mathwink said that Judge Storrs said something about "crooked business" and advised him to see a lawyer. The state attempted without success to have this evidence struck from the records. Mathwink went to Henry A. Bugbee and the latter agreed to assist him in clearing up the situation. Nothing could be found, however, to show that Mathwink still held a mortgage and both men went to see Attorney William A. King through whom civil action was subsequently brought making Jacob Berkowitz, Annie Berkowitz, Arthur King, Fannie Slater, Jacob Slater and H. A. Bugbee as defendants. The suit is pending in the Rockville superior court.

Convinced of Being Cheated

Mathwink further testified that on November 3, the day before the tragedy, he went with Mr. Bugbee to the insurance offices of Clarence M. Bowen and Frank M. Lincoln to see about the insurance on the farm property. He found that his name did not appear on the policy. He was then convinced that he had been done out of his money and he lost faith in everybody. On the 4th day of November he drove his car to Hartford and secured an interview with "a state lawyer" who later proved to be Attorney General Benjamin W. Alling. The "big lawyer" looked over his papers and told him to keep confident that Attorney King would make things come out alright. The accused said that he began to feel that "the whole gang were against him." He thought he had better jump in the river and he stopped his car on the East Hartford end of the Connecticut bridge and looked at the water a long time contemplating suicide. He later drove away, however. Mathwink's big body began to tremble as he refreshed his memory of the bitter thoughts of that fatal day. He appeared for a time that he would break down as tears streamed down both cheeks and his voice failed him for several minutes. He went on with a pathetic revelation of the mental anguish which he had suffered and which the defense will use as the basis for an emotional insanity plea. "No eat, no sleep. Think all time of money gone," said the slayer. He told how he had only $20 and his daughter Helen, 12, was sick all the time and needed an operation, but the operation would cost $300. After arriving home he went for medicine for the little girl. The child needed a doctor, he said, but within two weeks the construction job he was working on would end and there would be no more money. He lay on his bed and began thinking of newspaper accounts he had read in foreign papers, of how men held people up with guns and got money. He cried and could not eat the supper his wife had prepared for him.

Mathwink Becomes Irate

"Then I get mad," continued the emotional witness. He said that he got the shotgun, the revolver and cartridges and a hatchet and went to Berkowitz's home. It was dark then—about six o'clock on the night of November 4. He looked through the window and saw Jacob Berkowitz and his family sitting at the table. "Everything went black like night," he continued, "I see my children and Jake," and I went into the house. "Jake, give me my money", I cried, and I held gun pointed so——. Here, Mathwink was handed the shotgun and he showed the jury how he had it pointed with the stock under his right arm. Mathwink said that Berkowitz jumped at him and grabbed him by the throat. He did not remember just when the shot that killed Mrs. Berkowitz was fired and did not know that anyone had been hit. Berkowitz ran from the house and down the street. Mathwink said that he followed hollering, "Hold on, Jew-crook. Give me my money!" He said that when he caught Berkowitz he struck him. Someone then stopped him and without protest he walked to the police station.

Attorney General Testifies for Defense

Attorney General Benjamin W. Alling whom Mathwink had consulted on his trip to Hartford the day of the shooting, said he had connected the man who visited him with the one who did the shooting of which he read in newspapers the following day and had later offered his services as a witness. The attorney general said that Mathwink appeared "nervous and melancholy" during the interview. He could tell the man was very much depressed. He gave him what beneficial counsel he could and in looking over the papers handed him by Mathwink had underlined the words "release of said mortgage" which appeared on the paper Mathwink said was given him after he had paid back the $3,000 loan to Mr. Bugbee.

Witnesses called to show that Mathwink had appeared nervous and very depressed over his loss of money prior to the shooting were: Larator McIntyre and his son Arthur J. McIntyre who had become acquainted with the man when he resided in Pleasant Valley; Ralph Andrews of Woodstock, state highway section foreman under whom Mathwink had worked a few years ago; and Isadore J. Heller, local general store owner, who had done business with the man. Heller said hat he saw Mathwink standing on the sidewalk near his (Heller's) store about five o'clock on the night of the shooting and that the man looked downcast and "different."

W. A. King On Stand

The defense then called in one of its star witnesses, especially as regards to non-expert metaphysical testimony in opening an avenue for evidence of temporary insanity expected to be given by Dr. A. R. Diefendorf, psychiatrist. This important witness was Attorney William A. King, who occupied the stand for 40 minutes. Attorney King told of visits to his office by Mathwink and of bringing suit on behalf of the man in September. He said that he had considerable other business at that time and was prompted to take the case only because of Mathwink's very apparent mental depression. He said that Mathwink was despondent and said little other than to mutter something about his life's savings being gone. He termed the man's mental attitude as one of extreme obsession. The veteran lawyer was subjected to a severe cross-examination by his more youthful contemporary, Attorney Miron. Taking up testimony on the part of Attorney King that Mathwink appeared "considerably" improved and seemingly rid of his haggard thoughts over the money loss, Assistant Prosecutor Miron attacked from several angles in an effort to cause the witness to admit that the actual cause, namely the money loss, which had wrought such havoc with the accused before had not as yet been removed. The purpose of such an admission was to disprove the theory that Mathwink was driven to some form of insanity on November 4, inasmuch as he had as much and more to contend with at present. While verifying the fact that the man was still without his money, Attorney King said that he felt that in all such emotions there is a climax or explosion and that when that point has been passed the mind settles down to more sane and less ravaging thought. He said that in Mathwink's demeanor on the occasions that he had come to him gave a suggestion of suicide.

Others Called by Defense

Henry A. Bugbee, business man, testified to giving Mathwink the loan of $3,000 in two sums of $1,000 each. He accepted the $6,000 note from Jacob Slater as security and when the loan was repaid him as agreed he and Mathwink went to the Windham town clerk's office to transfer the security and give receipt to Mathwink. The paper was signed, Mathwink making a mark, and he did not give the matter a second thought. He testified in cross-examination that he was not sure of the contents of the paper. He had never figured in a similar transaction and as far as he personally knew everything was all right. He then related the time that he subsequently spent with Mathwink in assisting the latter to determine whether he still retained a mortgage on the Pleasant Valley farm.

Mrs. Mary Lucas, wife of a store-owner near the Mathwink home on Chapman street, said that about 5 o'clock on November 4, Mathwink had come to the store and purchased a box of coughdrops. He told her that he was sick and his child was sick. The man's eyes were red, as if from crying, she said.

Mrs. Annie Mathwink, through Mrs. Mary Barnutsky as interpreter, testified that when she came home from work late in the afternoon her husband was lying on the bed. He refused to eat supper she said, saying that he did not feel good. He told her he would lie down for a while and then go to the moving pictures. When he went out she thought he had gone to the movies.

Court adjourned at five o'clock until Friday morning when the defense will resume its evidence. The little courtroom continues to be overcrowded and to date hundreds have been turned away because of the limited accommodations.

DANIELSON

ARE DANIELSON PEOPLE ON THE "SUCKER" LIST

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, Jan. 26.—One wonders just why such a flood of material is coming into Danielson from little known financial houses. People hereabouts have been fairly bombarded with circulars, pamphlets, special letters, and special offers pertaining to investment transactions within the past few weeks. There is the possibility that this may be due to the fact that Danielson has come known as the center of what is known as a rather "well fixed" section. People of very limited means, however, are being snared for by the investment by mail system.

As against the allurement of the circulars, one again points the finger of warning against buying or selling transactions with strange concerns and without advice from some local banker or some local investment representative. Many thousands of dollars have been taken out of this territory, never to return, by the glittering promises of mailed circulars or appeals made personally over the telephone. It is something for the tempted to think about unless they are prepared to kiss their money goodbye.

TRUCK THAT FIGURED IN ACCIDENT BOSTON BOUND

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Jan. 26.—Three enlisted men from the Army Base at Boston arrived here this afternoon to make ready to tow back to Boston the army truck that was wrecked Tuesday afternoon on Hall's hill at South Killingly. The damaged truck can be put into such condition as to allow of its being started back over the highway on Friday. The load of office furniture that was to have been delivered in Hartford will go back to Boston on the truck. Driver Burgess on the truck when it was wrecked, will go back to Boston with the men who arrived here today.

YOUNG WOMAN IS ATTACKED BY RUFFIANS

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Jan. 26.—Today's investigation yielded nothing beyond a very definite impression that three young men who are acquainted with the young woman are responsible for an affair that happened on Lewis boulevard at 9 o'clock Tuesday night, and about which nothing has been given out until today in the hope of apprehending the responsible parties. This all has to do with an attack on a young girl as she was walking from the Connecticut mills along the boulevard to get a bus for her home in Elmville. She was set upon by three young men who tried to pull a bag down over her head and then to tie her hands and feet, all purposes to these ends being defeated by her struggling, kicking and screaming. The young woman had been working over time at the Connecticut mills, leaving the plant, where there is a night crew, at 9 o'clock. It was raining at the time. She was set upon in a dark section of the boulevard.

All the circumstances tend to show that the attack was the act of young ruffians bent on no good purpose. There is the possibility of their being identified and of being called to account for their reprehensible act.

Extension of the use of electric energy in driving mill machinery in manufacturing towns along Quinebaug river has now included the plant operated by the Fisk Rubber company at Jewett City, Manager William Sangster of the Eastern Connecticut Power company said this afternoon. The body of Celida Bassett, 67, who died at Burlington, Vt., early today, was expected to arrive in Danielson on a late train tonight or tomorrow morning. It was to be taken in charge by Undertaker L. E. Kennedy and conveyed to the home of relatives of the deceased in Wauregan, where Mr. Bassett was a resident for many years. While in Wauregan he was employed as a store clerk for a time and, later for years conducted a livery stable and maintained a stage route between the village and the railroad station, a mile to the east.

Mr. Bassett leaves one daughter Mrs. William Beauvin, at whose home he died, a son, Severain, resident in New Bedford, and the following brothers and sisters: Louis and John, of Norwich, Albert and Joseph of Wauregan, Mrs. Lucien Kerouack, Wauregan; Mrs. E. E. Dupuis, of Moosup, Mrs. Clara Cote of Norwich and Mrs. Alphonse Kerouack, of New Bedford.

The popularity of basketball in Danielson, as indicated by the attendance at tonight's game in the town hall, and has been the case for weeks past, recalls that this interest is traditionally true of Danielson. Old-time basketball fans were recalling today the hectic excitement the game produced here about 25 years ago when Danielson had a team of professional players in a league that included Putnam, Willimantic, Webster, Norwich and Mystic. There was one season when money costs were of little consideration if a winning combination could be put on the floor. The management made no money that year, but they gave the fans about the most exciting winter season that has elapsed since that time. The best players in New England were in that league—and Danielson had about the best of the clock, the entire Lawrence team of the New England league, which obligingly blew up at that time, leaving their star outfit with no place to go. That team played some wonderful games under the colors of the Danielson, and the old boys will talk to you for hours even today about what that team did and how good the individual players were.

Among them are suggestions for the appointment of a fire marshal and of a building inspector. Others pertaining for definite regulations pertaining to construction of buildings, care of sidewalks, health regulations, etc.

Shea Bros. find that after the heavy southerly storm of Tuesday night with temperature at 40, that the fourth promise of the necessary 2,000 ton harvest, has practically vanished again. There is on the main fields only only two to four inches, with 7 and 8 in the sheltered coves, where cutting could be accomplished with difficulty. In past years both I. F. Lewis and Shea Bros. have found it necessary to ship carload lots here from Worcester. Consumers here had to stand the advance in first cost price and the shrinkage of carload shipments with the mercury at 90 in the shade is an item of cost that raises the price to consumers 25 per cent.

AID FOR THE PARKERS

The trials and tribulations of the person who wants to leave his automobile to make a purchase, to leave it perhaps for half an hour or to park it for a longer period are many, and they come daily. To the person who is familiar with the streets and the regulations they are far less bothersome than to the stranger or the person who seldom tries to pull in to the curb.

A few days ago a man drove his Ford up to the curb beside a "no parking" sign. Got out and started up the street.

"You can't park there, buddy," hailed the policeman who noted the stop and was alert to uphold regulations.

"Not while I go into a store?" came back the query, as he indicated he was willing to do whatever was demanded.

"You can't park there at all!" was the decisive answer of the officer as he lingered about the spot.

"Well, where can I leave it?" was asked by the fellow who was bent upon making a purchase but evidently did not know the restrictions.

"Anywhere it says 40 minutes," came back the half-information which the man sought, when he had a right to expect he would be told where the 40 minute parking places in the immediate vicinity were, and particularly so when part of the 40 minute signs are invariably behind some parked cars.

As it happened a citizen standing on the sidewalk at that point motioned him just around the corner, not 50 feet. He jumped into the car and moved as required. The whole affair was only what was to be expected in connection with the enforcement of parking regulations but there was an opportunity for the policeman to have indicated where a temporary parking place might have been found instead of coldly declaring "Anywhere it says 40 minutes" and leaving the stranger to discover where such places were to be found. The whole affair was in a friendly spirit, but there was a chance for a little more courteous and obliging treatment which was missed. To have been told where he might have found a place to stop would have left a better feeling. The parkers are many and they are not all fair-minded, but they are entitled to some consideration in connection with enforcement work.

ACOSTA'S PENALTY

Stunt flying is all well enough if the flyer is willing to take the risk and if he does his stunts at a point where the lives of others will not be endangered in case of accident. But when it comes to low flying, and defiance of law in so doing, the action of the judge in Naugatuck in sending Bert Acosta to jail for five days for violation of the Connecticut aviation law must be looked upon as the proper thing under the circumstances.

The fact that Acosta is one who has come into international prominence because of his flight across the Atlantic has no bearing upon the matter, except that such being the case it might have been expected that he would have used better judgment and refrained from doing what he did. He didn't kill anyone and he wasn't involved in any accident, but there was no reason to think that he should be permitted to play fast and loose with the law because of his prominence as an aviator.

The aviation law resulted among other things from the manner in which aviators insisted in flying low over the Thames river course during Yale-Harvard races, endangering large numbers of people. That and the recklessness displayed by aviators over cities called for the placing of a check upon fliers, and under the provisions of the existing law it is only fair that all aviators should be treated alike regardless of their prominence. Mr. Acosta's experience will be such as to give no encouragement to him or anyone else to indulge in exuberant inclinations to do stunts in defiance of the aviation law. It was a case where the judge apparently didn't consider it wise to extend probation or give a suspended sentence.

NEEDLESS, TROUBLESOME TALK

There are those in every line of activity who seem to believe that they are vested with the authority and the right to make rash and troublesome statements, and they make them without regard for the effect upon others.

This has been brought to attention within the past few days by the manner in which President Coolidge has deplored the statements which were made by Admiral Plunkett at a banquet. These statements were all the worse because they came from a prominent figure in the navy department and because they gave the impression that he considered the prospects for war with another country were not only good but quite certain. Just how seriously the remarks may have been taken by the people of this country is not known. They probably were regarded as just talk by many. By others they were doubtless looked upon as disturbing while those who are striving for the elimination of war were probably much upset.

But while it was possible to greatly discount the talk after a careful consideration of all the facts in this country, it can be appreciated the reception that it received across the water, especially since Great Britain was the nation referred to. How much there was back of it was to be gleaned from the claim that the admiral claimed he didn't know what he has said and asked that reference be made to stenographic notes.

It is clear under such circumstances that such a speaker does not represent the country, the government or the navy department, and that such inflammatory remarks can cause no end of trouble and suspicion. In deploring such statements the president indicates his helplessness in stopping them when he points out that efforts at suppression would be pointed to as the blocking of free speech. It is most unfortunate that there are those who feel called upon to make such mischievous statements. Bad expressions of such character come in response to questions during a departmental or congressional inquiry the situation would have been entirely different. Indulging in it for after-dinner purposes called for just the rebuke that it received from the president. The needs of our navy can be fully presented without resort to any such method.

LET WELL ENOUGH ALONE

It was probably inevitable that the opponents of capital punishment should endeavor to make use of the Snyder-Gray case and execution in their endeavor to have the law of New York state so changed that there would be no more death penalties. Thus there was probably no surprise when the attempt was made to get a bill through the legislature of that state which would abolish capital punishment. On the other hand there can be no surprise over the fact that the legislative committee has unanimously voted to kill the bill which would have authorized a referendum on the question.

This is not the first indication of efforts against capital punishment and it will probably not be the last, but whenever such a move is made it ought to be free from the effects of a recent execution.

There are those, of course, who are all unnerved because of the double execution. There are those who would have give them their liberty, others would have had them imprisoned for a short time and then freed to repeat their conduct if they so desired. Even the warden of Sing Sing is reported to have been so upset by the executions that he had to take an immediate vacation, but it doesn't appear that he was greatly moved by the cold blooded manner in which Snyder was sent to eternity.

Just at the present time New York is getting good results from the Baumes law which has been in effect. Baumes law which has been in effect mitting a fourth felony are sent to prison for life. New York doesn't indicate that it is disposed to extend greater leniency to felons. It doesn't believe that murderers should have four chances before they are so treated that the public will get the protection it is entitled to. Even in Michigan the time comes, as it did recently when a judge expresses regret that capital punishment isn't permitted in order to adequately deal with cold blooded murderers.

The recent case in New York plainly shows the need for the law that exists rather than any weakening of it.

FLOOD CONTROL PLANS

In the support of the Jadwin plan for dealing with flood conditions in the Mississippi river Secretary Davis of the war department regards it as "simple, flexible and feasible." It is a plan that is based upon a study of the situation and the conditions by engineers.

This is not the only plan that has been advocated in connection with the problem of control for the Mississippi river commission has indicated what it believes should be done. If it is found that there are features of this plan which are worthy of being adopted it is to be expected that they will be favored. If it is however unwise from an engineering standpoint to adopt them and it is possible, as claimed, to accomplish far more at a less expenditure of funds under the engineers' plans than under any other, that is by all means the one that should be approved.

Objection has been raised to the proposal that 20 per cent. of the cost of the control work should be met by the states benefited. Secretary Davis favors the idea but he also takes the view that if the condition exists whereby the valley states could not meet their proportion the necessary funds should be advanced by the government, it is entirely possible, in his opinion, that the river commission might be of help to the army engineers in carrying out the work but he believes the engineers should be put in charge and that there could be valuable cooperation on the part of the commission. It is quite evident, however, that there ought not to be such a thing as double headed authority in undertaking any such a problem, and it will be surprising if congress doesn't take such a view.

"Yes, as I was about to recapitulate yesterday's events. Are you acquainted, personal or otherwise, with the Brownell family? Those was Brownell cigarette remains Mildred just now removed from sight and odor. Not Mrs. Brownell. Far be it! Mrs. Brownell has the noblesse oblige until it would be impossible to her spirit of refinement to ever stoop to one of the new customs. But Eunice—

"Eunice Brownell is a sweet girl but modern. As I say to Bertha, Eunice Brownell is modern until it is a wonder her poor mother can ever smile again. And, of course, Eunice is a stab in the heart of her doting father also.

But Eunice will go her own way, and frequently it is out all night when her parents are not aware that the nest is smooth from the light from having not reposed thereon, as I say to Bertha.

"So yesterday, while Mildred was neatening up for the night and Bertha was sterilizing the last combs and I was taking a hasty but pleasing glance at the contents of the cash register, why—like a dart from the void, in dashes Eunice and demands we give her a curl and a manicure despite the hour and possible engagements. She will take no denial.

"Then she gives us a hectic recital of a dinner-dance that emerged into a midnight joy ride of four; and 100 rapid miles blending insensible into another, and son on, until 500 miles from home, when a truck unexpected at intersecting terminals of the Lincoln highway crashes their rear end and eventuates five hours of repair work.

"As I say to Bertha, while there may not be a solidity of woman standing by each other, still it does seem like Mrs. Brownell and Eunice being regulars of ours it stands to reason we must constrain our own child up fit to go home with a tale concocted that will, as I say to Bertha, not spill water.

"Eunice is smoking one cigarette after another, and seems to not be able to subdue her nerves. We work fast, the both of us, with Mildred at hand in a handy capacity, and are making good time when we hear a manly tone demanding is this Nangle Sisters, and a wave of agony o'erspreads the Eunice's features tells all. It is her father!

"Swifter than the young Viking Lindbergh, I say in a casual note to Mildred, 'Mildred, wil you just take hold of the curling iron a minute while I get Mrs. Smith's purse where she left it on the table,' and I step out of the booth and give the curtain a flick as will close it effectual on that poor frightened child.

"There stands a tall, fine man. I do not know more in anger or in worry, as I say to Bertha, and he demands is this where his daughter Eunice Brownell gets her hair burned and her face painted. Imagine! Then he beetors along is she in the shoppe now or has been today, which I answer equivocal we did not see his daughter during our working hours of the day.

"When he finds nothing doing, he leans against the wall discouraged and takes the telephone and calls his wife.

"The conversation then ensues between that poor sorrowing pair of parents, until, as I said afterward to Bertha, a heart of steel or even cast iron would have had to have melted from the effects, for I could, and doubtless those in the booth fully understand the nature of what was said by the maternal from the nature of what was said in our hearing by the paternal.

"The conversation then ensues between that poor sorrowing pair of parents, until, as I said afterward to Bertha, a heart of steel or even cast iron would have had to have melted from the effects, for I could, and doubtless those in the booth fully understand the nature of what was said by the maternal from the nature of what was said in our hearing by the paternal.

"I could not help being glad to finally hear they decided to not yet resort to the police, and he at least goes off to a girl friend of Eunice's to inquire. So that gives Eunice a leeway to dart home and be there first and to again avert from her young reckless head what the younger generation, as I say to Bertha, so richly deserve and so poorly receive.

"There, now you look slick and not a day over 40, not one single day. Thank you. See you some more."—Exchange.

YOUR HEALTH

FOCAL INFECTION.

By H. A. Ingalls, M. D., Roswell, N. M., Member Gorgas Memorial

The diseased condition that causes the greatest loss to the world at large is that known as "Focal Infection." By this is meant a small collection of disease-producing micro-organisms in some portion of the body, from which point certain poisonous substances are absorbed and distributed by the blood stream to all portions of the body, rendering the individual markedly sub-standard.

While any portion of the body may be the site of a focus, the more common are the tonsils, teeth, respiratory system, and the gastro-intestinal tract. There may be no symptoms referable to the site of the focus, yet grave conditions may be produced in a remote portion of the body, as appendicitis from a focus in the tonsils, articular rheumatism from a singular condition at the root of a tooth, or an abcess of the liver from an intestinal infection.

The acute conditions are infinitesimal as compared to the chronic states of ill health caused by this condition, as a study of the patients in our large hospitals brings to light the lamentable fact that, with proper care and attention, these individuals, for the most part objects of charity, would be useful citizens in their respective communities had they taken proper care of their bodies and heeded the early signs of a departure from the normal.

By correct living, which means cleanliness of mind and body, wholesome food, regular hours of work, recreation, and rest, health, happiness and wealth will come to abide with us for a lifetime.

To arrive at the ideal condition, universal co-operation must be attained and teaching and education must begin in the home and continue from the cradle to the grave. Man was born to die but there is no reason why all with a few needless exceptions, should not pass, in good condition, the allotted three score and ten.

IN THE DAYS NEWS

SICILY.

"Rural Sicily, where a determined effort is being made by the Italian government to stamp out organized lawlessness, is one of the garden spots of the Mediterranean," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

"In Roman times the Island of Sicily was called the granary of Italy, and while no longer specializing in wheat it is one of Europe's mainstays in the production of citrus fruits. Only California rivals Sicily as a grower of lemons, and the island is also a large exporter of oranges, wheat, and wine. A part of the lemon crop is marketed in the form of citrate of lime and lemon extract.

"For thousands of years this football at the toe of Italy has been the melting pot of many races. Its early inhabitants, the Sikels, who gave the island its name, were conquered by Greeks, whose great cities such as Syracuse dominated the land for five hundred years. Next came the rising power of Rome, during whose heyday Sicily was given over to the plunder of successive governors. Roman oppression grew so cruel that gangs of plantation slaves twice rose in revolution. Succeeding centuries saw Saracen conquests, Norman kingdoms, and Bourbon misrule. Finally, freed by Garibaldi, Sicily became a part of the kingdom of Italy.

"During the last half century industrial conditions and political relations have not always been to the liking of the Sicilians, so that the island has been called the 'Ireland of the South.' Many thousand sons of the racial melting pot emigrated to America, some districts being stripped bare of men of working age. One town whose present population is 25,000 has sent 15,000 emigrants to the new country.

"Land of wild mountain scenery, sunny climate, ancient history and picturesque inhabitants, Sicily has become a Mecca of European winter tourists. Travel in the interior was formerly considered unsafe because of brigandage. Such conditions, however, have long since been eliminated. Now the visitor is safe, and in addition to native inns comfortable pensions are conducted by French, German and English landlords of many years' residence in the country.

"Mountains rise from the coast to a great central tableland, crowned on the east with the volcanic cone of Mount Etna. In these ranges are great sulphur mines, where methods of extraction from the ore are often so primitive that sulphur itself is burned as fuel in the process. Yet Sicily's only rival as a sulphur producing country is the United States. Fumes from the burning mineral blight the surrounding landscape, the only ugly spots in this Mediterranean Eden.

"Disintegrated lava thrown out by Mount Etna forms a rich black soil. Far up the sides of the volcano extend groves of oranges and lemons and vineyards of choice Sicilian grapes. Flows of new lava sometimes stream over this rich agricultural countryside, covering villages and farms with molten rock. Undaunted Sicilians always return to dig out their homes among the ruins. Such a fight between man and mountain has gone on since earliest times.

"Provincial towns of Sicily are famous for their situation, high up on picturesque hillsides or on rocky promontories jutting into the blue waters of the Mediterranean. Many of these towns are built on Greek foundations and contain ruins of Roman, Saracen, and Norman origin. A few Greek temples and theatres are practically intact.

"The temple of Concord at Girgenti is said to be the most harmonious example of Dopic architecture in existence. At Syracuse are extensive stone quarries formerly worked by the Greeks. The hot springs at Termini still supply bathing establishments as in Roman times, though not in the same buildings. There are Norman cathedrals on the island founded by the northern conquerers themselves, their attention having been called to Sicily as they passed en route to the crusades.

"Racial types among the peasantry vary from classic Greek and swarthy Arab to blond Norman and haughty Spanish. In spite of his mixed ancestry, however, the Sicilian of today is distinctly a Latin product in matters of disposition, culture and religion. Travelers unite in testifying to his cheerfulness, quickness of perception and hospitality. Stable government and education are said to be doing much to stamp out superstition and secret vengeance and terrorism. This movement for better conditions is exemplified by wholesale prosecutions against outlaw gangs now taking place at the old Roman bathing resort of Termini Imerese."

Nature made man the strongest but it gave women the longest tongue.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

When the famous old Duke of Richmond and Gordon died a few days ago at the age of 83 one of the proudest and longest titles in the peerage of the United Kingdom passed on to an eldest son who has waited a quarter of a century for his final honors. By the death of his father, the Earl of March, as the new duke hitherto has been known, becomes not only the eighth Duke of Richmond, but acquires the other historic styles of Baron of Settrington, Duke of Lenox, Baron Methuen, Duke of Gordon, Earl of Kinrara, Duke d'Aubigny and hereditary constable of Inverness castle. Although the possessor of a handsome London residence and a castle in Scotland, the duke's principal seat is Goodwood, in Sussex, the scene of the famous annual race meeting of that name. Goodwood is an enormous old pile standing on the site of the shooting box of King Charles II, from whom the duke of Richmond is directly descended.

Big Eaters Get Acid Stomach

Bisurated Magnesia Neutralizes Acidity, Keeps Stomach Clean and Digestion Perfect.

If you're a hearty eater; if you must have three big meals a day, eat them. But after each meal be sure to neutralize the dangerous acids that your food forms in the stomach, says a noted authority.

When your stomach is overloaded, the food contents soon sour and develop acid that practically paralyzes the stomach's activity long before the work of digestion can be completed. Then the stomach becomes weak and "cranky" and you are a daily sufferer from Indigestion, Gas, Sourness, Bloating and after-eating pains. Your appetite goes—you're sick and whirly—and what used to be the joys of a hearty meal become a menacing nightmare.

To quickly neutralize this dangerous acid; to cleanse and sweeten the stomach; to help the stomach take care of a hearty meal without pain or distress, go to your nearest drug store and get a little pure Bisurated Magnesia (powder or tablets) and take in a little hot water just after meals. You'll be amazed how quickly this simple treatment works.

Bisurated Magnesia is a powerful but harmless anti-acid and stomach corrective used by thousands of folks every day with the happiest of results.

Former Norwich Leaders

Mrs. Lucy Cook.

(From Norwich Bulletin, Aug. 2, 1897.)

Mrs. Lucy Cook, wife of the late Nathan Cook, died at her home on upper Franklin street early Monday morning, after a short sickness.

Mrs. Cook was the daughter of Ebenezer Avery, Esq., of Preston, where she was born April 4, 1802. Her long life has been one of uncommon loveliness of character, sweetness and purity. She was married in 1825, and began housekeeping on the well known Nathan Cook farmstead in the Kimball school district just south of Preston City.

Mr. Cook's father, James Cook, was one of the original Cook settlers in southeastern Connecticut, and his brother James, Jr., wrote a genealogy of the Cook family. They bore an honorable part in the colonial and state history.

Soon after their marriage Mr. and Mrs. Cook removed to Greeneville, whose site was marked at that time by a cluster of only three houses. During ten years Mr. Cook passed in that vicinity he established on the Shetucket riverside the first woolen mill in this city. He helped lay out the village, and the avenue of elms on upper North Main street were planted by him at that time.

Before the large factories had begun to spring up with such celerity Mr. and Mrs. Cook returned to their farm in Preston, whence they came to this city to take up a permanent residence ten years ago. Mr. Cook died three years after, and his wife since has been an invalid.

Stories That Recall Others

Taking it Easy.

A city motorist, passing along a country road, stopped to talk to a farm lad who was hoeing corn. A quarter of a mile away on a hillside he sighted what he thought was a scarecrow, leaning slightly forward, apparently on an implement handle, but it was so startingly lifelike that he remarked to the lad about its efficacy in keeping away the birds. The boy laughed and said:

"That's not a scarecrow; it's a man working by the day."

Far Fetched Reminder.

Brother and sister were sitting on the creek bank, fishing. Sister threw out her line with new bait, and it became entangled in some brush. She at once appealed for aid in recovering it. Brother drew it up dragging some debris with it.

"Where's the jigger?" she asked.

"The what?" from him, who had not noticed that the float was gone.

"The-er what-you-may-call-it, the—oh, you know, the Irish country."

"Oh, the cork!"

"Yes, yes," she replied, "that's it."

It is said there are 3,000,000 human being still held in slavery.

John H. Kanahan of 52 Broadway, who was a veteran of the Civil war and passed his 78th birthday last week Thursday, died here Thursday afternoon after a lingering illness with arterio-sclerosis followed by general exhaustion. He had been in the hospital five weeks.

He was born in New York city, but left there as a boy, going to Indianapolis, and enlisted as a drummer boy in Co. B, 116th Indiana Infantry, at Thornetown on July 1, 1863. He saw active service with the army of Tennessee, particularly at the battle of Knoxville, and when his enlistment term of six months was over he re-enlisted on the field and had three more months of service before he was discharged at the end of the war.

Returning to Indianapolis and then to New York, he was for 13 years employed as supervisor at the Brooklyn navy yard. He joined George E. Meade post, G. A. R., in New York and was adjutant of the post at the time of his death.

After leaving New York, Mr. Kanahan and his wife, whom he married in New York, resided at Central Village and there celebrated their golden wedding anniversary on Nov. 26, 1924. For the last year and a half they have resided in this city. Besides his wife he is survived by two half-brothers in New York city.

RENO JUDGE DECLARES LOVE ISN'T PROPERTY

Defying the established precedents of courts, Judge George A. Bartlett declared that human affection is not "property" and cannot be measured as such, according to a news dispatch from Reno, Nevada. The right of man to reserve his love and companionship to use as he sees fit was upheld by Judge Bartlett when he denied the plea of Mrs. Emma Carroll for $50,000 damages for alleged alienation of her 68-year-old husband's affections. She was suing Mrs. Margaret S. Gaines.

Carroll, a wealthy broker, formerly of Norwich, Conn., was recently denied a divorce and his wife was awarded $200 a month separate maintenance. The domestic tangle resulted in six suits in Nevada courts. Judge Bartlett admitted the courts of most states considered a husband's affections as valuable "property."

"I cannot lend myself to the adoption of the conclusion reached by grave and revered gentlemen occupying supreme court benches who hold affections to be property like a bale of hay worth $1.75, which one is entitled to have returned to him if he loses it," Judge Bartlett declared in his decision.

"Affection is one thing a human owns. He has it to give and no court or power on earth can enter a judgment or issue a writ that can control its disposition."

LIQUOR SEIZURES MADE IN RAIDS ON FEDERAL WARRANTS IN TAFTVILLE

Seventy-four cases of beer, a number of gallons of alcohol and a quantity of alcohol were seized Thursday afternoon at Taftville in raids conducted by federal prohibition officers headed by Chief Stanton L. Briggs, who was armed with search warrants issued through U. S. Commissioner Earl Mathewson of this city.

Two men, Ovila Bouchard of 36 Merchants avenue and Henry La Plante of 28 Merchants avenue, were summoned to appear before Commissioner Mathewson on Friday morning.

Bouchard's place was the first visited. Outside indications promised little as signs of the place said "Novelties and Furnishings, Pressing and Cleaning," but inside the raiding officers reported finding a regularly equipped barroom and they seized 50 cases of beer and two gallons of alleged whiskey.

The second raid was at the La Plante place, where it was reported the officers had to force their way in to effect entrance, but they found a quantity of alcohol, several bottles of whiskey and 24 cases of beer.

The lunch room of Edward Frechette at 31 Merchants avenue was next visited, but the officers claimed to see signs that the evidence they were after had been dumped before they arrived.

A place in Baltic was also raided but without success in finding anything of an incriminating nature.

The liquor seized was taken to Willimantic for storage in the federal building there.

PHIDELAH RICE PLAYERS SCORE HIT IN COMEDY

Meet The Wife, a farce comedy in three acts, was admirably presented Thursday night at The Palace theater under the auspices of the Duwell Athletic club. The play was staged by the Phidelah Rice Players, Inc., of Martha's Vineyard. The players are here for a two day's engagement and Thursday night was their opening performance in this city. It is the first time the Phidelah Rice Players have visited Norwich and they made a most favorable impression on the audience. The comedy, Meet The Wife, was splendidly staged by the cast of six. It was a unique presentation, something new in the way of comedies to Norwich and the players were heartily applauded.

The play was rife with comedy situations that provoked many a hearty laugh from the delightful audience. Although the show was a farce comedy there was a pretty love theme. It was a story of a proud and ambitious mother trying to marry her attractive young daughter to a society sap. The daughter had ideas of her own on the matter and finally succeeded in marrying the man of her choice, a New York newspaper reporter. Although she married against her mother's wishes and without her knowledge the mother was most agreeably surprised to learn that the young man's father had been one of her most ardent suitors in her girlhood.

An unusual situation arose when her former husband, believed dead for 10 years, appeared in her house as a distinguished guest under an assumed name. The meeting between the two, in the presence of her second husband, was on of the several dramatic moments of the play.

Geraldyn True, made a decided hit as the ambitious and talkative Mrs. Gertude Lennox. John E. Hines as Harvey Lennox portrayed in faultless manner the modern business man while George William Smith carried, in a most satisfactory manner, the role of Philip Lord, Mrs. Lennox's husband who was supposed to have been killed in the San Francisco earthquake. Wallace Acton carried the role of Victor Staunton, the unwelcome suitor and the "sap," Clinton Sundberg appeared in the role of Gregory Brown, the reporter.

The scene of all three acts was in the living rooms of Mrs. Lennox's residence, which she styled Liberty Hall.

This (Friday) night the players will conclude their engagement in Norwich with the presentation of Hell Bent For Heaven which ran in New York for some months. The committee in charge of the arrangements for the benefit performances comprises George Gross, chairman, William Shanley, James Pedace and Frank Greene.

MID-YEAR SESSION BY STONINGTON BAPTIST ASSOC.

Nearly 100 delegates from churches in the Stonington Union Baptist association were at the Groton Heights Baptist church Thursday, attending sessions of the first mid-year meeting ever to be have been held by the association. The association's fiscal year starts in June, and it was formerly the custom to hold sessions on two days in that month.

The morning session was presided over by Mrs. G. H. Prior, of Jewett City. Rev. Francis M. Mitchell, of Old Mystic, was in charge of the devotions. The principal speaker was Miss May Huston, of New York, who spoke on How to Teach a Mission Class. Discussion followed Miss Huston's address. Other speakers were Mrs. J. Nelson Thomson, of North Stonington, who told of White Cross work, and Mrs. Benjamin Gardner, of Jewett City, who spoke on Missionary Education. Mrs. J. Albert Thompson, of Groton, rendered vocal solos as part of the morning program.

The delegates were welcomed by the Rev. George R. Atha, pastor of the entertaining church. They were from churches at Stonington, North Stonington, Pendleton Hill, Mystic, Old Mystic, Noank, Packerville, Voluntown, Poquonoc Bridge, Jewett City, and Moosup.

Following the morning session, women of the Baptist league of the Groton Heights Baptist church served luncheon at the church.

The afternoon session started at 2 o'clock, and was presided over by Rev. E. F. Weise, of Noank.

Appointment of a findings committee was the principal business conducted at the afternoon session. The principal speaker was Dr. P. H. J. Lerrigo, of New York city. Supper was served at 5:30 o'clock, and the concluding session was held at 7:30 o'clock in the evening.

The meeting was more of an instructive one on missionary activities than one of business. The decision to hold the mid-year meeting was made by the association, when it was ascertained that delegates often attended the first of the two meetings which had been held on consecutive days in former years, and then did not attend the second.

DR. WILLIAMS' FUNERAL HELD IN NEW YORK THURSDAY

A former rector at Christ Episcopal church, Norwich, Rev. William F. Williams, of Cavalry church, Stonington was in New York Thursday, when at 1:30 the funeral of his brother, Dr. Talcott Williams was held at St. Paul's chapel, Columbia university.

Dr. Williams, 78, director of the Columbia University School of Journalism from its founding in 1912 to the time he retired as director emeritus in 1919, died early Tuesday morning at his home, 423 West 117 street, New York, from bronchial pneumonia. His widow, Sophia Wells Royce Williams, was at his bedside when he died.

The man who was chosen to transform Joseph Pulitzer's idea for a school of journalism into a reality had been in ill health for more than a year. Ten days ago he slipped and fell, injuring his collarbone. His low vitality prevented him from recovering from the shock, and pneumonia developed.

Dr. Williams was born at Abeth, Turkey, the son of a Congregational missionary, Rev. Dr. William Frederic Williams, July 20,1849. He received his early education both in the Near East and in America. At Amherst he took a Bachelor of Arts degree.

SETTLEMENT BEFORE TRIAL IN SUITS FOR $19,000

Five suits bearing on the same automobile accident, aggregating $19,000, were settled out of court just before they were to be tried before Judge Christopher L. Avery in the superior court here Wednesday after three hours of strenuous conference on the part of the attorneys and persons interested.

Vernon, N. Y., when it is claimed that his car failed to give half the traveled way and forced the automobile of Elizabeth Whalen of Minneapolis off the road between Westerly and Stonington at a point between Anguillar brook and White House inn.

Elizabeth Whalen, who owned the machine, sued for $3,000 for damage to the machine; George Whalen, who was driving it, sued for $5,000 for his injuries, and three other persons who were passengers in the car sued for the injuries they received. HENS GOING STRONG IN ELEVENTH WEEK AT STORRS

"Over the top" to shell out the eggs at a 53.2 per cent rate was the splendid performance of the 1,400 competing pullets in the eleventh week of the Storrs laying contest. The comparatively mild weather of the past few days, coupled with the normal increase to be expected at this time of year in almost any flock of chickens, are probably responsible to a large extent for the more than five-point boost in production obtained during the week. In last year's contest, the 50 per cent production mark was not passed until the seventeenth week, or relatively six weeks later than during the present trial.

In laying 5,116 eggs during the eleventh week, the contest flock increased their production by 457 eggs over the score for the preceding seven-day period, and 842 eggs over the output for the corresponding week a year ago. Total production for eleven weeks is 48,373 eggs, which gives an average of 345 eggs for each of the 140 competing pens or 34 eggs per bird. In eleven weeks, the present contest has gained 5,603 eggs over the score made in last year's competition for the same length of time.

The Broadview Farm white leghorns from Winsted, Conn., encountered stiff competition during the past week and were compelled to share their usual leading position on the honor roll with two other leghorn entries. They were owned by George Lowry, of West Willington, Conn., and George H. Ferris, of Grand Rapids, Mich. The score in each pen was 60 eggs. The Amakassin Farm pen of white leghorns from Yonkers, N. Y., placed second for the week with a score of 58 eggs and another leghorn entry owned by George Lowry was third with a 55 eggs score. All that prevented the leghorns from making a clean sweep for the week was the White Wyandotte pen owned by the Fisher Poultry Farm, of Avon, Ontario, that placed fourth with a score of 54 eggs.

Two changes took place among the leaders in the Red class during the week. The Charlescote Farm entry from Sherborn, Mass., gained a 3-egg advantage over the Homestead Farm pen from Newtown, Conn., and went into first place. The Globus Poultry Farm entry from Attleboro, Mass., passed the Massachusetts Agricultural College pen from Amherst to take fourth position.

WRECKED TOURING CAR In Which Whitaker Family Lost Their Lives

CORONER IS CONTINUING FATAL ACCIDENT INVESTIGATION

Coroner J. J. Desmond is still engaged in his investigation of the fatal accident in which the seven members of the family of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Whitaker lost their lives Monday night when the automobile which Mr. Whitaker was driving went off Preston bridge into the Shetucket river. While he has assembled some further particulars in addition to what he learned in his earlier interviews with persons who might shed some light on the accident, the coroner said Thursday night that there was nothing which he wanted to make public yet.

High water and the swift current in the river since the heavy rain of Tuesday night have precluded the immediate possibility of continuing to drag the river and recover the bodies of the two children which are still missing. Whether it will be continued worth while to resume this effort when the river subsides is not known yet.

Do your eyes smart or burn when you awake in the morning?

Perhaps you need glasses. After a hard day's work, when you have used your eyes a great deal, or after an evening reading, do you find the next morning that you are painfully conscious of your eyes?

Glasses usually remedy this. At our office you can be confident of securing a thorough eye examination and correctly fitted glasses.

JOIE RAY ANSWERS CALL OF THE CINDER PATHS

CHICAGO, Jan. 26.—(AP)—The call of the 1928 Olympic games has beckoned Joie Ray, one of America's greatest mile runners, back to the track to seek the laurels held by Lloyd Hahn, Boston runner, and Paavo Nurmi, the Olympic champion.

Every evening, as soon as he has finished his daily labors in the steel mills of Gary, Ind., Joie reports to his coach, Johnny Behr of the Illinois Athletic club, for practice. For nearly ten years, from 1915 to 1923, Ray was supreme at the mile race among American runners. Then came the Nurmi invasion and the Flying Finn raced Joie into defeat which led to Ray's temporary retirement.

Still under 30 years old, Ray believes, and so does Behr, that there is a chance to catch the antelope of Abo, if they meet in the 1,500 and 5,000 metre races at the Amsterdam Olympic games this summer.

"By the end of February," Behr said today, "Ray will be ready for indoor competition, and until that time, it would be difficult to say if he can regain his old-time form. Certainly he is working hard enough."

It is more than eight years since Ray, at about the peak of his form, set up A. A. U. records for the 1,000 yards and one mile which still stand. But only three years ago, he equalled the American performance of Nurmi in running a mile in four minutes, twelve seconds. Nurmi, however, is credited with the world record of 4:10.4, established in 1923 in Sweden.

When Nurmi went back to Finland with about all the American marks shattered, Ray dropped out of competition and became a taxi driver, as he needed a fresh-air job. He tired of this, so he went to the Gary steel mills, seeking a job which would add weight and muscle to his slight frame. He has been there ever since.

TAFTVILLE CRESCENTS LOSE CLOSE ONE TO SOUTHBRIDGE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

SOUTHBRIDGE, Jan. 26.—The Taftville Crescents were nosed out here tonight by Gibraltar A. C., of this town by a 34 to 33 score in a fast game.

The Crescents ran up a big lead in the early moments of the game, leading 17 to 7 at one time in the first half. However, the home club spurted and had a one point margin at the half.

In the second half the Southbridge club sightly outplayed the Crescents to win by two points. Holden and Brown were big scorers.

This team will play a return game at Taftville Feb. 7.

FOUR NORWICH BOYS IN PUTNAM AMATEURS TONIGHT

Norwich will send a strong delegation tonight to the amateur boxing show at the Putnam Sporting club tonight. Jimmy Quinn, Eddie Busch, Johnny Kopp and Frankie Adams make up the local team to invade the up-state community for the second time.

In the main bout of the evening it appears that Quinn will meet Harry Devine, of Worcester, generally recognized throughout the country as featherweight champ among the simon-pures. Al Koziol also was slated to go from here but it was reported Thursday that an attack of boils will probably render him inactive for this week, at least. Koziol fought Devine to a close decision in the Norwich team's last appearance in Putnam.

Devine seems to be in for a stormy evening tonight for Quinn has been traveling at a fast clip and has been training especially for this big chance.

Ten bouts will make up the card which is expected to draw a large crowd.

VERY PROBABLE NEBRASKA AND ARMY WILL MEET ON GRID

CHICAGO, Jan. 26.—(AP)—The Herald and Examiner in its Friday morning edition says it has reliable information that the University of Nebraska and the Army will meet at Soldier Field here next fall unless the Army and Navy teams resume their football relations.

All preliminary arrangements have been made for the game, the newspaper says.

Nebraska is understood to have offered $75,000 to the Army to meet the Cornhuskers on the latter's field.

Soldier Field can accomodate 117,000 spectators and would enable a much larger guarantee for both elevens.

SPORT SLANTS

By Alan J. Gould

(Associated Press Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—(AP)—There seems little doubt that Washington authorities are bringing considerable influence to bear to have the Army and Navy patch up their football differences and restore the service game to the 1928 gridiron schedule.

It is apparent, at the same time, that this supposed pressure for a truce is arousing little or no enthusiasm at West Point or Annapolis.

That it exists, however, is evident alone from the fact that neither academy has yet booked a substitute opponent for Nov. 24, both institutions have been told officially to hold up any definite arrangements with other colleges, ostensibly pending the outcome of peace overtures.

Left to themselves, there is little question but that the two academies, as a result of their recent unpleasantness, are content to get along without each other, this year at least. Sentiment reflected in views aired at either academy is opposed to a compromise.

The Navy, for instance, cannot yield now without tossing overboard its firmly proclaimed policy of playing only against opponents maintaining the three-year varsity eligibility standard. The Army, having rejected this code in no uncertain terms, cannot retreat without also surrending its traditional standards

Some unexpected or middle ground may be found on which the two long-standing rivals can get together but representatives of West Point, at least, profess to see nothing of this sort on the horizon now.

If the new freedom for the use of the lateral pass isn't kept in the 1928 football rules by the law-makers of the game, when they meet here next month, it will be somewhat of a shock to those colleges already making preparations to employ the backward heaves in their attacking strategy next fall.

Harvard, which gave the lateral more of a trial than any other eastern college last season, is prepared to capitalize this experience.

Columbia now is planning to join the Crimson in a thorough test of the lateral's possibilities. The Blue and White has invited Joe (Timberwolf) Pipal, veteran track coach of Occidental college, Los Angeles, to conduct a course in the lateral pass here during the summer months.

Presumably such a course would be open to eastern coaches generally who manifested interest in it. Pipal is regarded as an authority on lateral passing, so much so that he has written a book on it.

In spite of the recommendation of the college coaches that the 1928 lateral pass rule be restored there is every indication that the rules committee will make no change.

Andy Cohen, the young Giant infielder who may be groomed to fill Hornsby's shoes this year, tells a story connected with a game at Buffalo that bears repeating. This is how the New York Sun relays it:

"Umpire announces—'Cohen batting for Murphy.'

"Voice from the bleachers shouts, just as loud—'Flanagan leaving the park.'"

SCHWARTZ HAS BIG EDGE OVER GOLDSTEIN

BOSTON, Jan. 26—(AP)—Izzy Schwartz, the New York boxing commission's world's flyweight champion, easily outpointed Harry Goldstein, New England flyweight champion, in every round of their 10-round bout here tonight. The championship was not at stake, Goldstein weighing one pound over the 112 pound limit, while Schwartz was one pound under.

Schwartz, from the beginning, proved his mastery of the situation, jabbing and hooking Goldstein repeatedly with lefts and rights to the head and body. In only one round, the eighth, did Goldstein make a rally, but it was short-lived. Schwartz coming back strong in the closing minute to regain the lead.

It was an all-flyweight program. In a fast semi-final of 10 rounds, Ruby "Dark Cloud" Bradley, of Holyoke, gained a decision over Harry Soo, of Seattle, Wash. It was a bout crammed with action the entire distance.

The Taftville Crescents are finding things busy right at the present time for within the next eight days they have three more games to play.

Saturday night they are at Westerly, meeting Battery E, next Tuesday evening at Parish hall they play the Hilltop A. C. of Winsted and a week from tomorrow they play the Manchester Recs a return game at Manchester. If the locals can continue with their regular lineup in these games they stand a good chance furthering bolstering their win record. The Recs, whom they beat decisively Tuesday night at Parish hall can be expected to furnish more opposition on this next game in their own domain and with amateur rules in vogue.

C. F. C. TO PLAY DANIELSON SECONDS MONDAY

The C. F. C. have scheduled the Danielson Town Team Seconds for opponent next Monday night at the Y gym. This team comes here with a capable cast and should provide the locals with plenty to do.

BANNER CROWD EXPECTED AT PLAINFIELD WEDNESDAY

Present indications point to a packed audience next Wednesday night at the Plainfield Community house when the Pros line up against the Philadelphia Royal Colored Giants. The announcement of this game struck a popular tone among the fans Thursday and no doubt many will be the number to trek to Plainfield next week.

The Giants come to Plainfield after drawing packed galleries all over the East. This team is a real attraction everywhere it appears, not only for the novelties offered but also because of the capabilities of its players.

The preliminary to this game has already been announced and it will bring together the Plainfield Buddies and the Y Seniors of this city. The Buddies split even with the Y Outlaws earlier in the season, both games being exceptionally close.

Interscholastic Sports

The Windham-Torrington and Academy-Bulkeley games top the week end high school program as far as fans of this section are concerned.

The next week Saturday, Windham vs. the Academy at the Y.

Wilby's strong showing here against the Academy was in all probability no flash in the pan. The Waterbury school has wins to date over Torrington, Warren Harding, St. Thomas Seminary, Fairfield, and Lyman Hall of Wallingford.

Wilby, Naugatuck and Weaver look like the ones to battle it out for the state title this year with Windham, New Haven Hillhouse and Bristol as others have better than outside chances.

Roxbury Prep looks like the class in her division this season. She already has two wins over Yale freshmen and Wednesday turned in a convincing victory over Tafts school, but she ran into trouble in the Brown frosh yesterday and lost 27 to 19. However, that's a team from out of the state.

Chapman Tech is having a tough week. Tuesday night the Saybrook game was called off because of the small-pox epidemic and now Tech's game Friday at Derby high has been cancelled. Meanwhile, the Whalers have scored wins in their last five starts.

The five man defense is to be the Academy's plan for Saturday night. For some reason or other, the man for man style didn't seem to click this year for the Red and White and much better things are looked for with this new shift.

The Academy and Bulkeley may meet at New London in a return game according to reports.

Windham sure boosted her stock considerably with that 54 to 11 win over Killingly Tuesday night at Danielson. Saba scored sixteen points for the winners. Windham had a big advantage all the way.

Twenty-three men were used in this game. Callaghan using 10 for Windham and Billy Schofield 13 for the losers.

New London is holding a weekly drill in preparation for the outdoor track season, where she again expects to be very successful. The Whalers have in mind meets with the pick of the state.

Stonington goes into New York for its opponent Saturday night, having the Fort Washington quintet at the Stonington Community House.

Little Plainfield High is sure having success on the basketball floor. After a game stand during the football campaign, Plainfield is now giving a good account of itself in basketball. She can give teams in her class all kinds of trouble

MILLVILE BEATS OUT DANIELSON TOWNERS IN CLOSING MINUTES OF GAME

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Jan. 26.—The Millville team once more defeated the Danielson Town Team on the local floor tonight in one of the fastest and cleanest games of basketball exhibited here in several weeks by the score of 40 to 30. Schofield was again the sensation of the game coming through with 18 of Danielson's 30 points, and made some of the most difficult and sensational shots ever seen on the local floor.

Schofield Is Brilliant

It was certainly a Schofield night as he baffled the Millville boys time after time with his dazzling passwork and excellent shooting. Danielson held the lead throughout the first half and after a strenuous twenty minutes of play the score stood 14 to 9 in their favor.

Their passwork seemed perfect and continued until the last ten minutes of play when with the score standing 26 to 22 in their favor they called time. At this time the Millville team came back and caged several baskets in succession, while Danielson seemed lost for a few minutes. Millville finally defeating Danielson 40 to 30.

Tisdell, a Purple Collegian star, and Kittredge were the shining lights for Millville and their shots from mid-floor were also of the sensational kind. Both teams played a very hard, clean and clever game of ball and although Danielson was beaten it was certainly no disgrace to lose such a fine game of basketball as was demonstrated.

Holliston Next Week

Next week the Holliston Town team of Holliston, Mass., will play here. Daly, ex-Storrs athlete and Walsh of Holy Cross come to Danielson with this team which has an enviable record.

LANSING, Mich., Jan. 26.—(AP)—Chuck Wiggins, Indianapolis lightheavyweight, outpointed Bob Lawson, Negro boxer, in a 10-round bout here tonight.

ACADEMY AND BULKELEY HAVE FINAL WORKOUTS TODAY

One of those old-fashioned Norwich vs. New London times now looks probable for Saturday night at the Y gym with two basketball games.

The Academy meets Bulkeley in the main go and that ought to be enough to excite even the mildest of the fans but to make it even more of a gala night they have gone and scheduled the N. L. Marines to play the Y Seniors. These two clubs are also ancient rivals and should provide a stirring preliminary.

The Academy had a long drill on its five-man defense Thursday afternoon at the Y gym. Coach Courtland Whitney is putting in much time with the squad to have it at top condition for the Orange and Black and although it will be the Academy's first game under the new system, still they are expected to show their best of the season.

Bulkeley is having busy days getting ready for this game. They know that the Academy is taking them none too lightly for that is what the Red and White did in football and yet, what happened? Bulkeley had two practice sessions Thursday in the Y gym in New London working in the late afternoon and then again in the evening. Tonight they will have their final workout, probably playing the Yergan A. C. as a finishing touch on their preparations for Saturday's struggle.

Bulkeley Has 12 Men

Bulkeley has a squad of a dozen men working out now in preparation for this game.

The Academy will work lightly this afternoon with foul-shooting probably getting the most attention. The starting lineup will probably not be announced until after today's workouts at the two camps. Prospects of a packed house are bright and the local management is making extensive preparations toward handling the crowd.

TUNNEY ASKS GIBSON TO COME TO CONFERENCE

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—(AP)—Gene Tunney telephoned his manager, Billy Gibson, here today, urging that the pilot leave as soon as possible for Miami, Fla., where the heavyweight champion is discussing the title situation with Promoter Tex Rickard.

Gibson made arrangements to leave New York Monday. He said there appeared to be "something in the wind" pertaining to Tunney's title defense next summer. The champion would not discuss the "urgent business" with Gibson over the long distance connection.

BOXING JABS

Bobby Mays has been matched with Luis Vincenti, Chilean lightweight, to appear in the main bout at the Arena in New Haven Feb. 16.

The amateurs hold eastern Connecticut in their grasp this evening with the Putnam Sporting club of Putnam as the center of activities. Several Norwich boys will appear with the Jimmy Quinn-Harry Devine bout the feature.

Devine outpointed Lucian Gregory of Waterbury in Bridgeport Wednesday night.

Al Koziol is laid up with an attack of boils and will probably not see action this evening.

The Pastime A. C. will run another amateur show next Friday at Olympic hall. A team from New York will provide the feature.

Eddie Reed, the clever little amateur in Hartford, who is only 16 years old, is already looking forward to the pro end of the game. He intends to go under the wing of Eddie DeForrest.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

A Terrible Escape

Disaster sometimes we can see
A blessing in disguise may be.
—Old Mother Nature.

Chatterer the Red Squirrel was filled with despair. Already he was getting tired. Behind him came that terrible pursuer, Spite the Marten. Chatterer had escaped from more than one enemy by racing through the tree tops, but there was no escaping this way from Spite the Marten. You know, Spite is just as good a traveler along the tree highways as is Chatterer. Chatterer's one hope was to reach a certain hole in a certain tree. It was looking more and more as if he wouldn't reach that certain hole in that certain tree.

A great gray bird had alighted on the ground and facing it was Spite the Marten

Chatterer ran out on a branch near the top of a tree and made a flying jump for a branch near the top of another tree. He had already missed one such jump, but he couldn't stop to think of it. He had to make this jump or be caught right where he was. So he jumped. Then something hit him. Yes, sir, something hit him and for a moment or two Chatterer didn't know anything more. When at last he did get his wits he discovered that he was on the ground under some brush at the foot of a tree. How he happened to be there he had no idea. That is, he had no idea at first. Then, as he got his breath and peeked out, he began to understand. A great gray bird had alighted on the ground and facing it was Spite the Marten. Spite was angry. He was angry as only an angry Marten can be. Still he hesitated to attack Terror the Goshawk, for the great gray bird was none other than Terror.

Then Chatterer knew what had happened to him. Without knowing that he was doing it, Terror had saved the life of Chatterer. He had seen Chatterer jump and had been ready to strike. Coming with the speed of the wind, he had struck Chatterer in midair as the latter jumped. But he hadn't struck with open claws. He had struck with his claws closed like a fist, a way he has of doing. The blow had sent Chatterer down into that little pile of brush. By sheer luck Chatterer had escaped the full force of that blow. Also by luck he had fallen in between the branches of the brush, so that he slipped through to the bottom and so disappeared. Terror had followed to the ground, looking for him, and just then Spite had appeared. You must admit it was a terrible escape. But it was an escape and that was all that counted.

"I haven't any bones broken," thought Chatterer, "but I'm terribly tired and I haven't much wind left. If those two fellows will keep on quarreling out there perhaps I can get away. I guess if Terror hadn't knocked me in here Spite would have caught me. Yes, sir, I almost know Spite woud have caught me. I never expected to be thankful for anything from Terror the Goshawk, but he did me a good turn this time. Yes, sir, he did me a good turn. My, how I wish they'd get to fighting!"

Now, neither Spite the Marten nor Terror the Goshawk had seen just where Chatterer fell. Spite the Marten hadn't seen at all. He was just ready to spring from the top of a tree after Chatterer when there was the whirr of great wings and Terror the Goshawk shot in front of him. It was right then that Chatterer disappeared. Now Spite was accusing Terror of having robbed him of Chatterer, and Terror, whose temper is never of the best, was in a terrible rage because he had lost Chatterer. But neither of the two cared to attack the other. So they took it out in quarreling, and all this was giving Chatterer the wee bit of time he needed.

A Song for Winter

Speak not of snow and cold and rime
  Now they prevail.
Would you have joy in winter-time,
  Think of the pale
New green that comes, of blossoming lilacs think,
Larkspur, and borders of the fringed pink.
And sing, if winter grants you heart to sing,
  Of summer and of spring.

Would you secure some happiness
  In frosty hours,
Trust to the eye external less
  Than to the powers
Of inward sight that even now may show
Opaline seas, blue hilltops, and the glow
Of daybreak on the glades where thrushes sing
  In summer and in spring.

Gaze not on fettered lake and brook
  And sullen skies,
But in your happy memory look
  Where beauty lies
As once it was, as it shall be again
When sunshine floods the fields of blowing grain,
And sing, as must who would in winter sing,
  Of summer and of spring.

WESTERLY

GOVERNMENT DEEDS NAPATREE TO CORPORATION

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WESTERLY, R. I., Jan. 26.—A quit claim deed from the United States of America through Dwight F. Davis, secretary of war, under the provisions of Act of Congress, approved March 4, 1924, to Napatree Corporation, by Nathaniel W. Smith, former Rhode Island lieutenant governor, was filed for record today at the office of Westerly town clerk. For the five tracts of land conveyed at Watch Hill extending out along the beach to Block Island sound to Napatree Point and along Fishers Island sound to Sandy Point, the price paid was $270,500.

Of the seven tracts of land originally offered at public auction by the War department, a deed was recorded Sept. 26, 1926, for two tracts, parcels No. 2 and No. 7, the former being a strip of beach about 60 feet wide, extending from the Atlantic ocean to Little Narragansett Bay and located just east of the property of John W. Sweeney, on which there is a right of way; the latter was that part of the peninsula extending from just beyond Napatree Point to Sandy Point. The price paid by the Napatree corporation for this property was $94,700, so that the total price paid the United States government amounted to $365,200.

The deed filed Thursday includes Tract No. 1, of 2.25 acres, adjoining the property of the Watch Hill Bathing Beach corporation. Tract No. 3, located to the west of the privately owned strip of the beach peninsula, contains 3.64 acres. Tracts No. 4 and 5, just to the west of Tract 3, are of 2.62 and 1.85 acres respectively. Tract No. 6 contains that section on which were located the fort batteries and includes Napatree Point.

It is understood that the reason for the present transfer of the Fort Mansfield property from government to the Napatree corporation is due to the fact that no development and no sale of any sort could be made until the final deed was passed. If they made the final payment in 1931, as was originally planned, the development would have to be deferred until that time.

It is said that plans as provided by city planning experts will be carried out immediately. This calls for a wall or breakwater in front of the property washed by the ocean, and a 50-foot road where now is located the Fort road.

The Napatree Point property, formerly the site of Fort Mansfield, was purchased from the government by the Napatree Syndicate at a public auction, July 28, 1926.

The government's appraised valuation for the 112-acre tract was only $81,722.65, whereas the Napatree Syndicate was compelled to pay $365,200 in order to keep the land out of so-called "undesirable hands." Interest on the deferred payments has also been a big item of expense.

The seven tracts at the Watch Hill peninsula on which Fort Mansfield was built later were deeded to the United States, June 27, 1898, by Henry B. Gorham.

ST. MICHAEL'S PLAYERS SCORE BIG WITH MINSTRELS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Jan. 26.—The "Searchlight Minstrels," by St. Michael's Players was greeted with a crowded house, Wednesday and Thursday evenings, in St. Michael's hall, Pawcatuck. The all-girl cast sang up to date songs and cracked jokes which bristled with local hits. A bellhop chorus of eight fair steppers scored heavily as did the special song and ballad numbers. A big chorus and eight end "men" with an interlocutor who kept things moving, completed what was declared one of the best minstrel shows ever seen in Pawcatuck or Westerly. Special scenery, properties and electrical effects added much to the success. The show opened with a one-act farce, "Cornelia Pickle, Plaintiff," in which 20 young women settled the heart troubles of two of their sex. Miss Mary Mullaney, interlocutor in the minstrel show, played the part of the judge. Other principals were Misses Blanche Hughes, Cecelia Smith, Ruth Kinney, Josephine Lombardo and Josephine Levanti. Soloists of the show included Misses Mary Dippolina, Grace Smith, Virginia Pacatello and Corrine Bell. Miss Mary Ninia played several violin numbers. The end "men" were Misses Eleanor Mulcahy, Frances Kelliher, Mary Whalen, Blanche Hughes, Josephine Lombardo and Cecelia Smith. The bellhops were Misses Helen Crumb, Helen Brucker, Mathelda Long, Catherine Fitzgerald, Frances Lord, Madeline Keefe, Ruth Kinney and Anna Ward. Miss A. Jessie Hughes had charge of the production.

The funeral of John Albert Ulles was held Thursday morning at 8:30 from the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Ulles, 4 School street. High mass of requiem was celebrated at 9 o'clock at the Church of the Immaculate Conception by Rev. J. P. Cassagne, S. M. The boy was a member of Grade VIII-3 at Elm Street school and a large number of his classmates were present at the service. There were beautiful floral pieces. Burial was at River Bend cemetery, where the committal service was conducted by Fr. Cassagne. Four classmates were bearers: Russell Osborne, Wallace Lamb, Ernest Eldredge and Ralph Bliven.

Sharah Zedik synagogue, young men at the Union street congregation, Wednesday night conducted a dance with an attendance of over 200 in the ballroom of the Rhode Island hotel. Guests were present from New London, Norwich and other towns. The committee in charge was Charles Goldberg, Morris Wein, Dudley Tarnapol, Philip and Edward Leibovitz and Dr. A. I. Fain.

(12) "Radio and the Music of the Future;" (13) "Colonel Lindbergh, America's Unofficial Ambassador." The essays are to be written under faculty supervision on April 17, 19 and 20.

The funeral of William G. Burdick, 77, was held Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock at his home in Bradford. Rev. C. A. Burdick, D. D., pastor of Pawcatuck Seventh Day Baptist church, conducted the services. Burial was at Oak Grove cemetery, Ashaway, where the committal service was conducted by Dr. Burdick. Relatives acted as bearers.

WHY POOR GASOLINE AND MOTOR OIL RUIN YOUR ENGINE IN COLD WEATHER

THE 3,000,000 motorists in New York and New England can save themselves several million dollars by standardizing on Socony Gasoline and Motor Oil in cold weather.

The facts are very simple:

To start in cold weather, you pull out the choke and flood your engine.

If your oil is poor, every moving part of the engine is gummed up and turns over slowly. Socony Motor Oil is put through a final process in the refinery which presses out the extra paraffin and gives the oil a "low cold test."

If your gasoline is poor, it ignites slowly. The extra gasoline leaks down into your crank case and dilutes the oil. Hence, poor lubrication, wear, destruction and repair bills.

So neither good gasoline alone, nor good oil alone, is sufficient in cold weather. You must have both.

We have been refining for fifty-four years. We test our product 13 times before it reaches your engine. This insures uniformity of quality at all times and wherever you may buy it. Standardize on Socony Gasoline and Motor Oil this winter and save yourself a lot of money in repair bills next spring.

You are cordially invited to use our Socony Touring Service

WHEN you are planning motor trips, Socony Road Maps will be useful. You can get them at almost every Socony pump. In addition, the Socony Touring Service is constantly collecting reliable data on roads.

This information is gladly placed at the disposal of motorists in New York State and New England. Don't fail to call on the Socony Touring Service, located at 26 Broadway, New York City. It can help you.

RALLY IN THE STOCK MARKET CARRIED SCORE OF ISSUES TO NEW HIGH RECORDS

NEW YORK, Jan. 26—(AP)—The stock market, which was unsettled yesterday by the unexpected raising of the Chicago federal reserve bank rediscount rate, staged an impressive rally today which carried nearly a score issues to new high records. Not all of the losses were recovered, but a resumption of pool operations in the specialties resulted in a number of 3 to 10 point gains. Tradi g was in slightly smaller volume than yesterday, but the day's sales were well over 2 1-2 million shares.

Unofficial assurance of treasury department officials that there was no likelihood of an immediate increase in the New York federal reserve rediscount rate, which was announced as unchanged at 3 1-2 per cent after the close of the market, was an important factor in the buying movement. Call money renewed at 4 per cent, as against 3 1-2 yesterday, and held steady at that figure all day. There was no quotable change in time money and commercial paper rates, but a firm undertone was reported. Directors of the Kansas City federal reserve bank also continued the 3 1-2 per cent rediscount rate, setting at rest fears that other western institutions would follow the lead of Chicago in raising the charge to 4 per cent.

The weekly statement of federal reserve brokers' loans, which had been awaited with considerable interest, showed an increase of $761,000, bringing the total to $3,788,685,000. This compared with a total of $2,731,940,000 in the corresponding week last year.

The day's trade news was largely favorable in character, one of the most interesting announcements being an advance of $2 a ton in wire prices. The quarterly report of the Bethlehem Steel corporation showed total income of $8,481,825 as against $8,920,716 in the third quarter of 1927, with the full year's total of $40,378,899 comparing with $45,405,253 in 1926.

Youngstown Sheet & Tube mounted to a new high level at 107 7-8 on the announcement that terms for a merger with Inland practically had been agreed upon, and then broke to 100, off 4 points net, on realizing U. S. Steel common closed fractionally higher at 146 5-8, after having sold a point above that figure. Bethlehem showed a fractional loss at 57 1-2.

Pools were again active in a number of public utilities and specialties. Montana Power soared more than 10 points to a new high record at 135 1-4 and then yielded slightly on realizing. New peak prices since 1928 or longer, also were registered by Savage Arms International Nickel, Bon Ami, Brooklyn Edison, Cushman, and Gold Dust.

Adams Express, which has registered an extreme gain of 100 points this year, broke 21 1-2 points to 273 and renewed back to 285. Commercial Solvents, Great Western Sugar, Pittsburgh Coal and Warren Bros also were conspicuously heavy.

A sudden jump of 9 points in Illinois Central which carried that stock to 144, the highest price since 1911, featured the railroad group. Atchison, Canadian Pacific, New Haven and several others gained a point or so.

Foreign exchanges held steady in quiet trading, sterling cables ruling just below $4.87 1-2.

Commodity markets also pointed upward with a smart rally in cotton as the only feature.

ATTAINING SUCCESS

(Written Specially for The Bulletin)

We farmers aren't the only "hused babies" in the world. We aren't the only ones who find or think we find fate unfair to us.

I don't think you'd have to look through more than a dozen or 15 New England factory villages to discover weavers and spinners who felt that they weren't getting a perfectly square deal. I suspect you might here and there, run against a carpenter or a store clerk who thought he ought to have more pay. It has been rumored that even some bankers weren't satisfied with the returns on their investments and some lawyers and doctors didn't regard their permissible fees as quite big enough. As to clergymen and school-teachers, why, it was only the other day that I read a woful wail from a committee of the latter, complaining because their average pay wasn't equal to that of the average hod-carrier, passing brick and mortar to skyscraper builders.

In fact, it is doubtful if anyone is entirely and perfectly satisfied with his lot. He is apt to wish that he was in some other business or calling, to think that he isn't appreciated and paid at his real worth; to blame fate because he doesn't make as much or have as much as Henry Ford or John D. Rockefeller.

Farm grumbling seems to make rather more noise than any other form, because there are so many of us farmers. A thousand tree-toads, all piping up at the same time, will drown out the booming of two or three bull-frogs by sheer power of numbers.

And I'm sure no one who has done me the honor to read these random Talks will charge me with being unsympathetic to the complaints of farmers, or given to denying that those complaints too often have serious reason behind them. Indeed, one critic has poked a few sticks at me on account of what he considers my over-frequent dilations on market and other discriminations against agriculture. So I hope you'll pardon me if, for once, I ramble 'round to the other side of the blackberry bush and look at the tangle from another point of view.

What is "success?" In this highly materialistic age and land nine people out of ten will answer: "Getting a good living and making money."

Well, personally, I don't think that either or both of those achievements is the greatest possible "success." But what is one man among ten? How many elections will he carry all by his owntty-don'ty self? When we're in Rome we must do as the Romans do,—if we haven't any ambition to be crucified, head downwards. And so, for the time being and solely for the purpose of this Talk, we'll agree to the above-stated definition as a text.

Thus accepting it, we shall all have to admit, if we study the history of the world and our own limited experiences of men and things, that "success" of this sort is much more apt to be dependent on the man than on his surroundings.

Henry Ford, who says he doesn't know whether he's a billionaire or not, but who has turned down offers of that sum for his business, began life as a poor mechanic, working at the bench. Edison, who has probably contributed more to the characteristic comforts of the world than any other one man ever did, started his career as a train-boy and cub telegrapher. Lincoln was born in a log cabin which would hardly pass muster, these days, as a tolerable piggery. Mussolini started out as a day laborer. The present shah of Persia rose to the throne from a trooper's stable. David Rankin, the only farmer I ever heard of who died worth $3,000,000 and owning his own bank, wasn't able to afford a pair of shoes till after he was married, but went barefoot all summer till past twenty-one.

Per contra, I read the other day the newspaper story of a western man who drew down a million when they "struck oil" on his land, and, in less than a year, was back asking for a hired man's job at the derricks. There is a man living within less than twenty miles of me who has inherited three separate fortunes from three uncles and aunts, has wasted them all, and today is mortgaging his place to get money to buy dinners with. And he isn't fifty, yet.

It is my fixed belief that there are farmers who would win "success," — by the agreed upon meaning,—farming the desert of Sahara. Yet Adam, who Tennyson calls "the grand old gardener," made a mess of it in the garden of Eden.—Truth to tell, a whole lot of us seem to have inherited Adam's incapacity. Place some of us in a newly prepared Garden of Eden and we'd be evicted sooner or later for failure to keep up the interest on the mortgage. Probably, as we went dolefully "over the hill to the poorhouse" for some body else to take care of, we'd blame our luck or our misfortunes for our plight. And we'd wonder how that other chap, farming the Desert of Sahara, managed to get money enough to buy his place, pay the taxes and help support us. We'd be likely to ascribe both conditions to "luck," though, as a matter of fact, both were due to ourselves and not to our surroundings.

I have known farmers,—and doubtless so have you,—who have taken hard-scrabble farms which the previous owners couldn't make a living from, and turned them into oases of productive and profitable fertility.

An outstanding example was the late T. B. Terry of Ohio. He was bamboozled by a tricky real estate dealer into buying a farm which the preceding owner had not only abandoned, but which he had been unable to give away to any of his sons if they would take it and pay taxes on it. Yet, in twenty years, that farm won the first premium for the whole broad state of Ohio as the best managed, most productive and ratably most profitable farm in the state.

It was the same farm, you'll observe, but two vastly different men. Under the former owner it deteriorated into desert; under Terry it blossomed into an eight acre garden. Neither result was due to "luck" or to anything else in the world than the widely differing amounts of grumption under the two men's hats.

According to statistics recently published in The Bulletin, the farmers of Connecticut are already out of the worst of the mud-hole. They are said to be better off, comparatively, than the farmers of many states which are preeminently agricultural —which Connecticut certainly is not. Barring a narrow strip through the center of the state along the river and a few intervals near smaller streams, the state is inherently, about as poorly calculated for agricultural development as any in the union. Yet, if the published reports are accurate, the farmers of the rocky little state, instead of backing away from the bull and howling for help, have taken him by the horns and thrown him.

I hope this is true so that I can toss up my old hat and yell "Bully boys!"

For, if it is true, it means that the Nutmeg farmers have won against odds: that they've pitted skill against poor cards and taken the trick: that they've thumbed their noses at Fate and slapped the face of bad luck, that they've proved themselves the masters and not the slaves of their conditions.

I don't know, of course, what that farmer whom I've assumed set down in the Desert of Sahara would do to make a success out of it. But, if he was the sort of man who had the right stuff in him in adequate supply, he'd win out, even if he couldn't make anything grow but date palms and wire grass. He'd figure out some way of growing a l-e-e-t-l-e better dates than any other fellow, and of putting them up in his wire grass in such fetching packages that all the date-lovers of five continents would want 'em and be eager to pay an extra cent or two to get 'em.

Nor do I know, equally of course, just what the other farmer who was set down in a new Garden of Eden would do to make a failure of it. But he would fail, just the same, even though his garden was planted for him with every growing thing that is pleasant to the sight or good for food, and even though he was given dominion over every fish of the sea and every fowl of the air and every living thing that moves on the face of the earth. He'd fail because of his own deficiencies and faults, just as the Sahara farmer would succeed, because of his capacity to compel success.

Neither the desert nor the garden would be responsible for either result, but the men themselves.

There are blacksmiths and grocers and jewelers and bankers and lawyers who fail, while other blacksmiths and grocers and jewelers and bankers and lawyers get rich.

There are farmers who fail, while other farmers make successes. Nine times out of ten, in every case, failure and success both depend upon what is under the man's hat; not on what surrounds him, on the outside. "The fault, dear Brutus, is not in our stars," said Cassius. It may have been true that "the stars in their courses fought against Sisera," but it took Jael the Kenite with a tent-peg and a hammer to finish up the job to the queen's taste.

That existing methods of distribution work unfairly against farmers and their products admits of no denial. "Big business," in looking sharply after its own trading interests has developed a system under which both the producer and the consumer of farm stuffs are unmercifully gouged.

This is a handicap, without doubt. In justice it should be abolished. But the stubborn fact remains that there are horses and men who can and do win against handicaps, as well as horses and men who fail despite allowances. It works both ways.

Government should, somehow, see that all are given a fair start and an even chance, in the interests of the great majority.

But, even when that is accomplished, there will be winners and losers in every race.

And winning or losing depend in the end, on the combined action of brain and drawn and gumption.

Don't forget that last item!

THE FARMER.

SICK WOMAN SOON RECOVERS

By Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

"A neighbor advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which she said helped her so much. So I bought a few bottles and tried it out. It sure helped me wonderfully. I felt much better. My work is no longer a dread to me. If I hear of any one who is troubled the way I was, I will gladly recommend the Vegetable Compound to them and I will answer any letters in regard to the same."—Mrs. Bertha Meachan, 1134 N. Penn. Ave., Lansing, Mich.

"I had been sickly every since I was fifteen years old. After taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I got so I could do all my housework and I am in good health."—Mrs. Marie K. Williams, Ketchikan, Alaska.

From Michigan to Alaska, from Maine to Oregon and from Connecticut to California letters are continually being written by grateful women recommending Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

The Compound is made from roots and herbs and has been in use for over fifty years.

MAN BLOWN DOWN BANK IN THE 77-MILE GALE

The village Wednesday had its severest blow in 20 years. It was a 77-mile gale. Branches were blown across the road on Riverside avenue where an auto was held up until a big limb was moved. The fierce rain even cracked the windows and many were broken at different places. Billie Scott was on his way to the store and went to go across the bridge. The wind blew him down a bank, a 10 foot drop and sprained his ankle, also he received a cut on his right knee. Shingles were going off a roof on High St., the wind bending them double. Salt water was sweeping across the road at Elm street and the fishing fleet boats were in danger so the owners had to spend several hours to make them fast. Groton Long Point saw its worst storm in several years. The carpenters had to take the day off as the wind was 77 miles while the waves were rolling as high as 20 feet at Bluff Point, for it was full sea. The wind would take the water over western cottage and landed it on the garage. One garage was ready to float away, half full of water; all it needed was the cars. Several pictures were taken of the storm at the board walk. Carpenter Charles Hadley claimed the wind blew a bundle of shingles several feet.

Elliott Bennett has gone to Boston for a few days.

Philip Steele is in New York on a short business trip.

Kid Sherman, featherweight boxer of the village does his training under cover away from his friends at the Sea Sled Co. where a large room has everything a boxer wants in the training line. On the door is the name "Knock-'em-Cold" camp. Manager Howard Brown is the boy who keeps Kid Sherman on the go. He can step himself with the gloves and he has put the featherweight boxer through some hard work this week. Getting up at 5.30 o'clock, putting on a heavy sweater for a 3 mile run etc. A new trick in training for wind was given by Tex Brown tying a rope around the Kid, then to an automobile starting off easy and then giving it the gas to put all pep in the lungs. Then jumping in the rowboat, a fast row for a mile. Next comes the rub-down by his manager for 30 minutes so to take the kinks out. Finally breakfast, a wagon-load of Johnny cake with West View oatmeal, two pieces of bread and a glass of buttermilk. This is the only meal until supper time. Back to the room then where fourteen rounds of boxing are on the list. Kid Sherman has a new suit of fighting togs, the color is red. Wild Swing Eddie Ellis, a boy from the West Side, with a bad left jab and a kick like a mule went on for six rounds with the featherweight hitter. It was some battle, Wild Swing missed a left upper cut and fell but got up quickly. Sherman's right was going into Eddie's bread basket and the latter was showing signs of weakening. But the crowd of 50 fans kept saying "give him that West Side cross fire on the chin". Down went the pride of Noank and his manager cried out "You can't keep a good man down!" as up got Sherman at the count of 9 and the fight was over, a draw was the decision.

The last match for the evening was Lightning J. Bracci, a small man with plenty of pep; it was for 8 rounds. Noank's featherweight came from his corner like a tiger, giving two blows without a return, but Lightning Bracci sank two six-inch rights into the chin of Kid Sherman and danced away without getting hit. In the fifth round Sherman put over a store bill left jab behind the ear of Bracci that sent him down with his eyes closed for the count of 10. His second, Arthur DeBiasi gave him the salts to bring him to. Kid Sherman says he will fight Buck Shea of Bridgeport for nothing to show the fight fans around this section that featherweight fighters from the village by the sea have not gone by yet. For a side bet of $100 he will knock him out within six rounds. If he fails he says I will put away my boxing gloves in mothballs for good! Sherman is going to ask the matchmaker in New London for one more chance to prove he knows his onions about fighting.

John MacQuarrie was a caller in Niantic on Wednesday.

Raymond Jones has returned from a visit of a week with his uncle, Harry Moreheart in Portland, Me.

Noank Fire Company held its first pinochle game this winter in the rooms on Cedar street, Wednesday evening where three tables were in play. D. Lamey took the prize and low score was made by Herbert Ellis, another prize added to his hope chest. Miss Josephine Shandor won the women's prize and Mrs. Lewis Main had too many 9 spots so had low score. Doughnuts and cake with coffee were served and dancing was enjoyed.

Miss Dorothy Hahn of Holyoke, Mass., is visiting friends in the village.

Mike Hoxie of Rhode Island is taking the place of Agent Charles Fitch at the railroad stations for three months.

Samuel Fish has spent a day in Spring Hill with relatives.

Alden Brocky has returned after a visit in Packer

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Bread Theater.

Again Tom Mix scores a triumph with a thrilling romantic drama of the west, "Daredevil's Reward," which had its first showing at the Bread theater, yesterday afternoon.

Some new stunts in daring riding as well as an unusually fine story shot with many laughter provoking episodes make this latest Fox feature an outstanding entertainment.

Mix is cast in the role of a Texas Ranger detective and as such assures various disguises but all of western types. One of these is that of a doctor of a medicine show, who is forced against his better judgment to pull a tooth for one of the men he is trailing. Tom pulls the wrong tooth and then the fun commences.

The story and scenario are by John Stone who wrote the tale especially for Mix and Tony. Gene Forde is the director of this, probably the best picture in which the Western Ace has yet appeared.

Next week's feature at the Bread theater is "The Gorilla," First National's super-mystery farce.

"The Gorilla" is reported to top all the screen plays of that type that have been so popular in recent years and features Charles Murray with Fred Kelsey as the two dumb sleuths, Mulligan and Garrity.

Taken from the stage play of that name by Ralph Spense, "The Gorilla" has thrills, chills, mystery, romance and laughs. It is an ideal screen vehicle for Charlie Murray.

Strand Theater.

No public safety organization teaches a greater lesson of unselfish heroism than the Coast Guard Patrol. Protecting life and property, battling against sea and storm, fighting smuggler and rum-runner, this magnificently brave body of men run countless and untold risks. Tom Norris was the youthful captain of the U. S. Coast Guard Patrol in California. A few of the sighting episodes of his life have been woven into a pulsing, throbbing melodrama of love and adventure that you will enjoy from first to last. Cullen Landis is featured with Dorothy Dwan and Jimmy Aubrey.

"The new life-guard has eloped with the mayor's daughter." That was the startling information imparted by the constable of the village of Seaside in "Ten Days," starring Richard Holt, which is now showing at the Strand. But the judge was not worried a bit, he had before him a new prisoner who was about to serve a ten-day jail sentence, and the prisoner was Richard Holt. So, the young man was immediately elected to become a life-guard for ten days and that was the start of one of the most thrilling and exciting romances ever depicted in real life or on the screen.

Palace Theater.

There is a certain glamor about old San Francisco that has remained ever since the days of '49, that is only comparable to the famous Montmartre district of Paris. Frisco's famous "Barbary Coast" forms the background of the feature picture at the Palace theater this afternoon and tomorrow. Tonight's performance is omitted on account of the Phildelah Rice Players in "Hell Bent For Heaven."

Percy Marmont heads an all star combination of film favorites with Mae Busch and Tom O'Brien in the foreground. While the principal characters are denizens of the underworld, this does not necessarily imply that the picture reeks with gun-play or that every one in the picture is a crook. On the contrary there are no killings and the basis of the plot is around a prominent lawyer who gives his wife a divorce although he loves her dearly. How the domestic tangle is unwound by a dance hall girl and a tough "bouncer" is only one of the many original points in the plot.

One of the most colorful Texas stories of the last decade is Tim McCoy's starring picture, "The Law of the Range." This Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture shows McCoy in the role of the Texas Ranger who so often played a lone hand successfully against the desperadoes who thronged the plains of the Lone Star State in the bold, bad days of the 80s.

The New Hudson Super-Six

The New Year brings the most beautiful offerings to automobile buyers that the industry as a whole has ever presented.

And against this competition, the new Super-Sixes have focused an instant and sustained public attention such as no cars in all Hudson history.

Adding a new supremacy to its long leadership, these fine cars have been accorded their greatest reception.

The Super-Sixes have achieved and led the mechanical possibilities of the day. It is fitting, therefore, that three new models lead new mode of beauty and fine car appointment.

In every way, the new Hudson Super-Six reflects to-morrow's vogue.

Broadway Theatre

The vaudeville program for the last three days of the week at the Broadway theatre will be the equal of the show presented the first three days, which received so much favorable comment. Headlining is "Moonlight Fantasies" a gorgeous seven people production, staged by Myer Golden, the leading vaudeville producer of the country. Mr. Golden acts are very seldom seen in the smaller cities and the act should prove to be successful during its local showing. Ralph Fielder and Company present a comedy sketch, "We're in the Navy Now," in which the three principals involved are out on shore leave and get themselves into some funny mix-ups. Friend and Watkins have just finished a tour over the Keith circuit, showing their act, "The Smuggler" in almost every city in the country during their engagement with the Keith interests. The Paul Ronda Trio offer a distinct novelty in their presentation of playing musical instruments while performing tricks on the bicycles. Billie Harding has a very clever routine of songs interspersed with sparkling comedy.

Four characters—a dozen complications, and a veritable hurricane of fun—these are what make up the details of "Baby Mine," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's second hilarious vehicle for the comedy team of Karl Dane and George K. Arthur, wafted to fame on a gale of merriment in "Rookies" and now the center of a new storm of laughs at the Broadway theater.

"Baby Mine" is just one laugh after another. Adapted from one of the most famous stage comedies, the screen version preserves all the original fun—to which is added not only the Dane-Arthur combination of laugh-makers, but Charlotte Greenwood, lanky comedienne of "So Long Letty" and other famous stage shows. It's Charlotte's debut on the screen incidentally—but judging by the laughs she gets it's not going to be her last appearance by a good deal.

NEW LONDON MAN SHARES LUNCH WITH NEWARK "BABY" WHO ROBS HIM

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Jan. 26—Corrine Davis, colored, of 45 West street, Newark, N. J., and 193 Prince street, the same city, was in the police court today charged with the theft of $35 from the person of George Young, proprietor of the New London Parking garage, 50 Water street. The case was continued to Saturday and in default of a surety on her bond of $2000, the woman was taken to jail. The Davis woman, who is married, has been in New London but a few days, but she evidently devised a scheme whereby she could obtain money without toiling. She was passing through Water street about last midnight and at a time when Young was eating a sandwich in the office of the garage. The woman remained at the window until she attracted the attention of Young, who, upon observing her, offered her a piece of the sandwich. The woman entered the garage office and there engaged in conversation with Young. Besides talking fluently, she used her hands to advantage, for she extricated the money from Young's trousers pocket and then departed. Young did not discover that he had been robbed until a few minutes after the Davis woman had left and he reported the theft to the police, providing them with an accurate description of the woman. A short time afterwards Patrolmen George Cockell and Frank Philopena found the Davis woman in the negro tenderloin district and arrested her. At police headquarters she stoutly denied having robbed Young, although the latter positively identified the woman as having visited his office a short time before. When the Davis woman refused to admit taking the money, Acting Lieutenant James D. Gaffney summoned Policewomen Jane H Cassidy, who searched the negress and the money was found on her person.

Thomas, of this city, and Mrs. William T. Cutter, East Lyme, the latter a sister of the testator, as beneficiaries. A previous will which was admitted to probate several weeks ago, was held by the court to be invalid, the instrument having been filed before the last will was discovered. Mr. Beebe was possessed of considerable wealth, but no inventory has been filed yet with the court.

Peter Pijeaux, former United States Coast Guard sailor, when in the police court today charged wit burglary, through counsel entered a demurrer. This was overruled and probable cause was found. The accused was held in bail of $1,000 for trial before the next criminal term of the superior court. Pijeaux was arrested in New York several weeks ago at the request of the New London police and where a quantity of the loot he stole from the residence of Joseph L. Jackson, 12 Richards street, and valued at $475, was recovered.

Mr. Taylor is employed as chauffeur by the Connecticut Transportation company, between New London, Norwich and Hartford. Mrs. Taylor was formerly a telephone operator at the Hotel Mohican.

EIGHT MEN SEEK SHELTER AT POLICE HEADQUARTERS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Jan. 26—The sudden drop in temperature tonight when the mercury went down about 15 degrees within two hours from 6:30 to 8:30 caused the police station to be sought by unfortunates who desired a place to sleep in warmth and comfort—something that has not occurred before this winter. During the weeks of November and December there have been but one or two lodgers in the tramp room, but tonight there were eight, so all the bunks were occupied. Some of the lodgers were decently dressed and of good apparance, but declared that they were unable to obtain work, and were forced of necessity to seek sleeping accommodations at the station.

A still alarm was received at fire headquarters yesterday for a chimney fire in the residence of Joseph Olszacki, 24 Grove street. Chief Thomas Shipman and Thomas Hose company responded. The fire was not of a serious nature and was extinguished with chemicals.

The residence of J. Szceyglewski, Warner street and Benham road, Groton, was damaged by fire yesterday afternoon and before the firemen extinguished the blaze the damage had reached an amount estimated at $300. The firemen encountered considerable difficulty in subduing the blaze. When the fire was discovered there was every indication that an extensive blaze would result. A still alarm was sent to the quarters of Pioneer Hose company and that apparatus responded. When the firemen arrived at the burning house the fire had made its way into the partitions of the kitchen and two bed-chambers. The partitions were cut through in order to permit chemicals to be poured upon the burning timbers. Because of wall boards containing asbestos the progress of the fire was retarded. The fire originated from a defective chimney and broke out while the members of the family were absent.

Greater Beauty . . . with matchless super six performance

Tomorrow's Vogue

Hudson crowns a long succession of triumphs in the new Super-Sixes which dealers are now showing.

The resources which achieved and led the mechanical possibilities of the day, have been brilliantly employed to create and lead a new mode of beauty, comfort and luxurious appointment.

For Hudson now introduces Tomorrow's Vogue.

As dramatic as the first introduction of the Hudson Super-Six principle which set today's standard for motor smoothness and efficiency

As boldly original as the Coach, which turned the trend to closed car dominance.

As revolutionary as the companion invention to the Super-Six principle, the high-compression motor toward which all builders aim.

With higher, narrower radiator, with vertical shutters, saddle lamps, full crown fenders and low sweeping lines, here is Hudson beauty in gloriously new guise.

And in all models, every value of body and chassis heretofore known, is surpassed. You will agree without hesitation the moment you see them.

A new and glorious thrill is in store for you when you take your first ride.

LAFAYETTE MAIN ARGUES FOR 105 MINUTES IN DEFENDING SUIT

A defense argument by Lafayette F. Main, the well known North Stonington farmer, which went on for an hour and three quarters before Judge C. B. Waller in the common pleas court at New London Thursday afternoon, was a feature of the trial of the suit of Attorney Tolley E. Babcock of this city against Main for fees for legal services.

Judge H. H. Pettis of this city, counsel for Mr. Babcock, had preceded Mr. Main by occupying about 15 minutes with the opening argument for the plaintiff and the farmer-lawyer followed this with his long argument before the jury. Judge Pettis used 30 minutes more with his closing argument, and Judge Waller charged the jury. It was nearly 5 o'clock when Judge Waller concluded and when one of the jurors raised objection to staying overtime, Judge Waller said that as this was a long case with many questions to be considered, he would not ask them to take it up then, but would dismiss them to come back this (Friday) morning at 10 o'clock, and he adjourned court for the day.

In his argument, Judge Pettis said that there was no evidence to dispute the charges made by Attorney Babcock, and he outlined each one.

Judge Pettis, in displaying a receipt to the jury told them that no matter "what you think of Mr. Main—of his high character, his low character or his average character—you must admit that Mr. Main is nobody's fool." He explained that Main knew just what he was doing when he accepted the receipt for $35 in connection with the patent work, which read "in part payment."

Main followed Judge Pettis. He told the jury that he had tried to present his case "fair and square." He said that he had not told any witness what to say on the stand—"and I don't believe that Judge Pettis could tell you that." He took up the various matters on the bill of particulars. He said there was feeling betwen Attorney Babcock and Main before the suit was brought.

Main and a distant relative to whom he had not spoken for 15 years were brought face to face when Daniel H. Main of North Stonington was brought to the stand as a witness by counsel for Mr. Babcock.

As Daniel Main took the stand, Lafayette jumped to his feet and said: "I want this court and jury to understand that me and this man haven't spoken to each other for 15 years."

Judge Waller told Main to keep any further information of that kind until later. Judge Pettis questioned the witness regarding his knowledge of the conditions in the cedar swamp when he worked for Attorney Babcock on the saw-mills.

Just as Lafayette was about to cross-examine Daniel, the latter said to Judge Waller: "I'd rather not talk with this man." He was told that he must answer the questions put to him, and throughout the cross-examination Daniel kept his eyes upon the floor, not once looking at Lafayette.

Main then called to the stand Attorney Babcock, to whom he put several more questions.

Main called Joseph A. Clark, farmer and selectman of the town of Ledyard, to show that if Attorney Babcock had presented a claim to the town for appraising sheep damages the town would have paid him. He asked a question as to the custom in such cases and Judge Waller excluded it.

Main then took the stand himself and denied much of the testimony of plaintiff witnesses. Judge Pettis cross-examined him.

POSTAL TELEGRAPH NOW HAS SAYVILLE STATION

Control of the high powered transoceanic radio station at Sayville, Long Island, has been acquired by the Postal Telegraph commercial cables system through Commercial Wireless, Inc., which holds the lease of this well known property.

The station is now equipped for long wave transmission, but this equipment will be modernized and augmented and at the same time, short wave equipment will be added. Its immediate use will be for the Atlantic ship-to-shore service.

In a statement Thursday, President Mackay said: "Acquisition of the Sayville station permits of our participation in the ship-to-shore service on both coasts of the United States, for we are already in this service in the Pacific by means of our radio stations at San Francisco, Los Angeles, and Portland, Oregon. As to transoceanic communication we are first concentrating the equipment for our trans-Pacific radio, which we expect will be in operation to Honolulu by this summer and to the Far East soon thereafter."

MRS. PALMER, MIDDLETOWN, LEFT NORWICH BANK DEPOSITS

The Middletown Press says: Judge of Probate Curtiss S. Bacon has received the inventory of the estate of Matilda Palmer, widow of I. E. Palmer, which was compiled by the administrators, Townsend Palmer, a son, and Nathalie P. Fabrizio, a daughter of the decedent. The list will be appraised by Revilo C. Markham and William M. Langer of this city.

Listed in the inventory are the following items of real estate: The homestead on Washington street, including all surrounding land extending to the Air Line railroad tracks; the house and lot at 58 Berlin street and a barn opposite the homestead grounds; a tract of land in the Candlewood Hill section of Higganum.

Under personal property are shown bond holdings of 20 corporations, also bonds of the Argentine and City of Victoria, Canada, besides United States bonds in the outstanding liberty loans.

There are shares of stock in 11 corporations, the largest being a holding of 1500 shares in the I. E. Palmer company of this city. Following the stock listing are deposits in two savings banks in Norwich besides those in local institutions. Vehicles, livestock, house furnishings and personal ornaments make up the list.

STARR STREET RESIDENCE DESTROYED BY FIRE

The one story frame residence of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Bahara on Starr street, outside the city limits, was destroyed by fire shortly before noon Thursday. Nearly all the contents of the house were reduced to ashes. Three small children left alone in the house while Mr. and Mrs. Bahara were at work in local mills are thought to have set the house on fire while playing with matches. The loss is estimated at $3,000, and is said to have been covered by insurance.

At 11:30 o'clock Thursday morning the fire department received a telephone call asking for help at the fire. Engines No. 3 and 5 and Squad A responded. On the way to the fire the crew of Engine No. 3 saw the house some distance from the road a mass of flames. One of the firemen immediately pulled box 321 calling out additional apparatus. Some of the contents of the house were saved by the firemen as were insurance papers, and a gold watch. Fifty dollars in money was destroyed by the flames. The recall was sounded at 11:53 o'clock. Squad A remained at the scene for about an hour. There was no available water supply so nothing could be done to save the house. However, the firemen directed their efforts on a barn and small outbuilding nearby and succeeded in preventing them from catching fire with the aid of chemical lines.

Assessments in Rockville

Mills, manufacturing, water power and machinery in Rockville are assessed for $1,977,550 which is but $4,092 less than last year. There is however a decrease in the grand list of $134,674 which is attributed to the fact that two mills ceased operations in Rockville within the past year.

SPOKE TO LIONS ON MERCHANTS' BUREAU WORK

With President William R. Frisbie in the chair, the weekly luncheon meeting of the Norwich Lions club was held Thursday noon at th Wauregan hotel. The song leader was Abner Schwarts and the five minute speaker was J. B. Caron, who spoke on the Merchants' Bureau and Its Work. He said in part:

I was wondering what I could tell you about this previous campaign. We are nearly all members of the association and no doubt are familiar with what took place, perhaps better than I can explain. I certainly appreciated the work that has been done and am proud to say that the heavy load carried years back by just a few merchants is lightened by the many helping this year. As a preacher I know used to say when he wanted to raise funds, "Many hands make light work." And this is just what happened in this drive. Many hands took hold and made it easy for all. I recall 1911, my first year in business. When a merchant would call on me for $2 to put something across I used to make him spend a half hour or so explaining what it was all about and then I thought I was doing him a favor. The reason is I was not active in the bureau and did not appreciate their efforts in this work, but got into it later and found that there was more than giving a few dollars. There was work connected with it and it is worth while. The so-called Merchants' bureau in 1911 had about 35 members; in 1915 about 68 members, and from 1920 to 1927 we rose to 98 members. After this campaign I am proud to say we are now 180 members. This shows what cooperation will do. I hope that in years to come every merchant doing business in Norwich will see fit to join and make it 100 per cent.

Mr. Schwartz reported on the meeting of the Boy Scouts he attended last week. Jean Kieffer made a report on the annual meeting of the United Workers, and Dr. K. K. Markoff and Tom Savard spoke on the welfare of the club. The speakers committee for February comprises J. T. Barry, chairman, C. W. Solomon and Dr. K. K. Markoff.

During the recent windstorm, a cat climbed an electric light pole near the Taftville pharmacy and remained there throughout the day. As the fire department ladders were not long enough to reach the top of the pole, all attempts to rescue the animal failed. The cat was still sitting on her perch when evening fell, but in the morning she had disappeared. It is believed that she might have been blown from the pole by the high gale.

The Basketry club met Thursday evening in the Red Cross rooms in the Ponemah building with Mrs. Albert J. Aberg in charge.

St. Jean Baptiste members take notice! You are requested to meet in Parish hall tonight, Jan. 27, 1928, at 7.30 o'clock to take action on the death of our deceased brother, Mathias Paradis, Sr. Per order chairman, Denis J. Dufresne.—adv.

COOLIDGE NOT SWAYED BY ACTION OF THE SENATE

The President Holds That an Executive Commission Should Conduct an Investigation of the S-4 Disaster—Senate Has Voted For a Congressional Inquiry—Decision Rests With the House, Which Must Accept the Senate Amendment or Ask For a Conference.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27—The senate, going counter to the recommendations of President Coolidge and previous house action, insisted today that a congressional committee should investigate the sinking of the submarine S-4.

It did so by modifying the house resolution of inquiry to provide for appointment of a group of senators and representatives to go into the disaster itself, but left in the proposal the provision for a commission, to be named by the president, with the scope of its inquiry limited, however, to a study of safety appliances and salvage methods.

The senate's action brought a quick reaction from the white house. They it was stated on Mr. Coolidge's behalf that, despite the stand taken by a majority of the senators, he believed that an executive committee, such as he had proposed to congress, should go into the question. This was also the attitude of the house, which recently passed the resolution modified today by the senate.

White house comment on the senate's action was limited to the reiteration of the president's view that he favored an executive commission, and no indication was given as to the course Mr. Coolidge would pursue if authorized to name a group whose investigating powers were to be curtailed.

Amendment of the house resolution, which automatically sends the proposal back to the house was voted 51 to 32 on motion of Senator Swanson, of Virginia, ranking democrat on the naval committee. It provides for the appointment of three members of the senate, to be named by the vice president, and three members of the house, to be named by the speaker.

Administration leaders who had urged acceptance of the house resolution calling for the presidential commission of three civilians and two retired naval officers went down to defeat after more than a week of intermittent debate. Democrats, led by Swanson, had insisted that congress should make its own inquiry and had objected to a presidential commission on the ground that Secretary Wilbur had already asked three civilians to serve. This, they contended, would permit him to name a commission to try his own department.

What agency is to make the inquiry into the sinking of the S-4 which carried 40 men to death after a collision with the coast guard destroyer Paulding off the Massachusetts coast in December is now up to the house which must accept the senate amendment or ask for a conference.

Chairman Hale of the senate naval committee in charge of the resolution withdrew his proposal to have the commission include a federal judge after the senate had ordered the congressional inquiry.

Democrats lined up solidly behind the Swanson amendment and gained the support of some republicans in the western independent group. Senator Swanson denied charges of the republicans that the congressional inquiry would involve politics and replied that if politics were injected it would be republican in nature because the vice president and speaker of the house who would name the proposed committee are both members of the majority party.

Debate in the senate today was brief, both sides agreeing that a decision should be reached as soon as possible as the disaster occurred more than a month ago and a report is demanded by the resolution by March 15.

PROVISIONS OF THE NEW KETCHAM FARM RELIEF BILL

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27.—(AP)—With a week-end house recess preventing introduction of the new Ketcham farm relief bill which is backed by the National grange, the agricultural committee plugged along at its most aggravating problem today and heard the farm bloc favorite of last session—The McNary-Haugen bill—assailed as unsound and unsafe by former Representative Sydney Anderson, of Lanesboro, Minn., who appeared as president of the Millers' National federation.

Representative Ketcham, of Michigan, a republican member of the agricultural committee, said tonight that his export debenture bill would include two principal features:

First, a provision for flexible debentures to be applied according to each commodity situation and second, a surplus control clause to provide automatic reduction in the debenture rate based on the increase in production of any commodity.

Under the former, the minimum debenture would be equivalent to no allowance at all the maximum would be the tariff duty on the commodity concerned. Under the latter provision, production increases would be judged by the average acreage over five years.

"It is the simplest but most effective plan yet evolved," said Ketcham, "and requires a comparatively insignificant appropriation to finance the little administrative work involved."

SLOW WORK IN SELECTING JURY FOR TRIAL OF HICKMAN

HALL OF JUSTICE, LOS ANGELES, Jan. 27.—(AP)—Work of selecting a jury continued a slow process late today at the sanity trial of William E. Hickman, kidnaped-slayer of Marian Parker, with defense counsel still exercising the sharpest precaution in approving the 12 men and women who will try the case.

The tentative jury, in spite of countless shifts and changes, remained the same as yesterday, composed of four women and eight men. Late in the afternoon session Jerome Walsh, chief defense attorney, had exercised 14 peremptory challenges. The prosecution, dinicating a willingness to be easily satisfied, had used only three.

Hickman called upon the stand, responded to the order with alarcrity, posing erect that a talesman might deny knowing the defendant.

Pauline Stark, film actress, was an attentive listener in a favored seat inside the court railing. Women and girls, filled half the spectators' seats.

The 12th defense challenge excused a man who had held his seat since yesterday noon.

Another defense charge was used to excuse a woman juror tentatively accepted only an hour earlier and five minutes later the 14th was employed, narrowing down the defense's opportunities of 20 dismissals.

Announcement that no Saturday session would be held was made by the court, Judge Trabucco, presiding, said, however, he desired a full jury ready for the taking of testimony Monday.

FIRMS IN CANADA FOR SMUGGLING LIQUOR TO U. S.

OTTAWA, Jan. 27—(AP)—Liquor export firms in Canada, exist almost without exception for the purpose of smuggling to the United States, according to a report of the royal commission on customs and excise which recommended in a report today the cancellation of customs bonds held by the firms.

HARTFORD, Jan. 27—(AP)—"Due to the unavoidable absence of the state's attorney," the Hartford police court, today, continued until 11 a. m. next Tuesday the case of Mrs. Matilda Guilfoyle, who is held in the county jail on a charge of breach of the peace in default of $10,000 bail, following the mysterious shooting of Mrs. Clare Gaudet, of New Haven outside the Guilfoyle apartment on Maple avenue, January 18.

The woman's husband, Dr. Harold N. Guilfoyle, a federal veterinary, is charged with the murder. He is in the Hartford hospital with a bullet wound in the right eye. He denies that he shot Mrs. Gaudet or that he shot himself.

The continuance was granted by the court after a brief statement by Prosecuting Attorney Joseph B. Griffin that State's Attorney Hugh M. Alcorn was unable to be present. The woman's lawyer, Judge Samuel Rosenthal, offered no objection to the continuance.

Mrs. Guilfoyle was looking extremely well despite her nine days in jail. She was dressed in a black hat and a fur trimmed black coat. She faced a crowded court room and the stares of the spectators with composure during her brief appearance in the court room.

SALVAGE OPERATIONS ON SUNKEN SUB S-4 RESUMED

BOSTON, Jan. 27—(AP)—Salvage operations on the sunken submarine S-4, which had been held up for some days by cold weather and rough seas, were resumed today. New apparatus recently installed on the salvage ship Falcon for drying and warming the air supplied to the divers was tested in actual diving work and proved to be a success, officers said.

Six divers descended to the hull of the S-4 during the day, the veteran Tom Eadie, who was the first to go down to the vessel after it was sunk December 17, again leading the way. Divers Carr, Eiben, Wilson, Kelly and Crilley were the others.

Eadie made fast a new descending line abreast of the torpedo hatch. Carr cleared out the deck locker, Eiben and Wilson cleaned the bitumastic covering off the plating above the torpedo room, and Kelly attempted to burn a hole through hull. The attempt failed because the ignitor would not work. Crilley then went down to clear up stray lines, hose and other gear which had accumulated in the way of the divers. Today's work was preliminary to preparing the torpedo room for unwatering.

Lindbergh Flies As Per Schedule

Promised Bogota That He Would Arrive at 3 P. M. and Made Good.

BOGOTA, Colombia, Jan. 27.—(AP)—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh promised [illegible] last night that he would [illegible] 3 o'clock today—and made [illegible] came from Cartagena, some 400 [illegible] away, over high mountains enshrouded in clouds, past dangerous ravines and through unknown country—one of the most daring flights he has yet made on his present tour. No other plane had ever crossed the ranges to the valley in which the Colombian capital lies—and Lindbergh was on time.

Just as the hands of the clock pointed to the hour of three, the airman swept down on the aviation field of the military school with his cherished companion, "The Spirit of St. Louis." The journey from Cartagena had been completed in six hours, one minute.

There was tremendous enthusiasm among the spectators as he descended from heights far above the mountains and made a perfect landing in the big basin, of which Bogota is a part.

About fifteen thousand persons had gathered, including high government officials, and members of the diplomatic corps, to greet the flyer at Madrid field, which is about 20 miles from the capital. The moment the plane came to a standstill it was encircled by a detachment from the aviation school, which protected it from the crowds. As Lindbergh stepped from his plane, everyone seemed to want to shake his hand, and he was cheered repeatedly during the formal official welcome which was extended by the minister of war.

The Spirit of St. Louis was first discerned as a gray speck coming through a bank of white fleecy clouds at a great height. Lindbergh flew low, as though to examine the field, then ascended and disappeared in the distance. A few minutes later he appeared over Bogota, which he circled a number of times. It was thought that he was awaiting the announced landing hour—a graceful gesture—so that the three o'clock arrivals at the field might not be disappointed. In his circuit beyond the city he went over Mount Monserrat, nearby, and passed over several villages.

From the landing field, he proceeded to the capital, and his entry was wonderful, the Colombians according him an ovation which few other men have enjoyed. The people seemed to be impressed with his youthfulness and the easy manner in which he accepted the plaudits of the thousands who had watched and waited long for his coming.

Driving in an open car, Colonel Lindbergh went by way of the Avenida Colon to the American legation. Countless streamers floated in the air in his honor. Bogota's principal streets were crowded by 100,000 persons, and an escort of cavalry and at least a thousand automobiles helped to make the parade a notable one.

Los Angeles Lands on Airplane Carrier

The Landing Was Made on the Saratoga at Sea Off Newport, R. I.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27—(AP)—The dirigible Los Angeles succeeded today in making a landing on the new airplane carrier Saratoga at sea off Newport, R. I.

A brief radio message from the airship to the navy department said a successful landing had been made at 4 p. m., but gave no details, except to say that the dirigible was returning to its Lakehurst hangar.

The Saratoga left Newport during the day on the first leg of a cruise that will take the new ship into Pacific waters. As the vessel weighed anchor, the dirigible soared over the city. Then followed the Saratoga out to sea.

The airplane carrier is not equipped with a mooring mast like the tender Patoka which the Los Angeles often uses on training flights, but officers, in arranging for the landing today, went on the theory that the ship's deck was sufficient for a landing.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 27.—(AP)—Police protection was ordered for Attorney General Percy Sain late today to preclude possibility of violence as a means of reprisals against the hanging of Byron Dunn at Lake Charles.

Information reaching police authorities said B. O. Dunn, a brother of the condemned man, had made threats against the attorney general if Byron was allowed to hang. Dunn was reported to have visited the attorney general's office several times during the day, but created no disturbance.

D. O. Dunn was indicted with his brothers in connection with the case and is at liberty under $1,500 bonds. Robert Dunn, the third brother, is under life sentence.

FAILED TO SAVE MAN BY LAST MINUTE APPEALS

LAKE CHARLES, La., Jan. 27.—(AP)—Only one of three men who were to hang in Louisina today went to his death as scheduled, the other two being granted an indefinite stay of execution through a decision of Attorney General Percy Saint that an appeal filed in their behalf in the United States circuit court of appeals superceded any action the state might have ordered taken.

The decision was announced 40 minutes before Molten Brasseaux and Joe Genna, the condemned men, were to mount the gallows to hang for the murder in 1926 of J. J. Breveile, a Deridder taxi driver.

Attorneys fighting for the life of Byron Dunn, convicted slayer of Deputy Sheriff Sam Duhon, near the Dunn home at Vinton, in Calcasieu parish, were not successful in last minute appeals and Dunn was hanged at 2:52 p. m.

IRISH FREE STATE PRESIDENT VISITS INDEPENDENCE HALL

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 27—(AP)—William T. Cosgrave, president of the executive council of the Irish Free State, came to Philadelphia today to repay a visit made by Benjamin Franklin to Ireland 150 years ago.

He sat for a moment in the chair once occupied by George Washington and John Hancock, president of the Continental congress, and stood with bowed head beside the Liberty Bell in Independence Hall and paid tribute to the spot where American freedom had its birth. He said he wished he could hear the tone of the bell and then asked and was given permission to tap the treasured relic.

"It is an honor," said President Cosgrave, "to stand in these halls, hallowed with the memories of the sterling and practical patriots who not only proclaimed liberty, but helped to perpetuate its spirit for the world.

"We have come to this historic city bringing a mesage of peace and good will, love and affection. It is not possible to make tighter the bonds of affection between this country and mine. We are one family."

Pointing to a portrait of Benjamin Franklin, Mayor Harry A. Mackey, who accompanied the distinguished visitor and his party to Independence Hall, reminded Mr. Cosgrave that Franklin had submitted to the continental congress a plan of confederation and suggested that an invitation be sent to Ireland to join the movement.

Arriving here shortly before noon from Washington, the Irish president was met at the West Philadelphia station of the Pennsylvania railroad by a committee representing the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick. Escorted by the first city troop, Philadelphia's historic First City Tropo, Philadelphia's historic cavalry organization, he and his party were driven through streets lined with cheering crowds to City hall, where Mackey. From there Mr. Cosgrave went they were formally greeted by Mayor to Independence Hall, the graveyard of old St. Mary's Catholic church, Fourth and Spruce streets, where Irish heroes of the revolution lie buried, and to the grave of Franklin at Fifth and Arch streets. Later in the afternoon he was the guest of honor at a luncheon given by Mayor Mackey.

With President Cosgrave on his visit are Dr. T. A. Smiddy, minister to the United States from the Irish Free State; Desmond Fitzgerald, minister for defense; Dairmuid O'Hegarty, secretary of the executive council; Joseph P. Walshe, secretary of the department of foreign affairs, and Col. Joseph O'Reilly, the aide of the Irish executive. They plan to remain here until Sunday morning, when they will leave for Atlantic City on a brief visit.

Mr. Cosgrave and Dr. Smiddy were listed for addresses tonight before the Philadelphia forum at the Metropolitan Opera House.

COMMITTEE APPROVES MEXICAN PROPOSAL

HAVANA, Jan. 27.—(AP)—One of the Mexican proposals for reorganization of the Pan-American union's governing board in Washington attacked last week as revolutionary and aggressive received today the unanimous approval of the conference committee on Pan-American union.

The Mexican proposals approved is that which suggests governments be allowed to designate any citizen as a representative on the governing board instead of confining representation to diplomats at Washington as now.

Members of the union committee today voted for optional double representatin in Washington on the part of their governments—the regular diplomatic representation at the department of state and the new and special representation at the Pan-American union headquarters.

Under the new arrangement, if his government so wills, the diplomats may assume the extra duties of the Pan-American union governing board. It is not mandatory, however, that they do so if his government should desire to name some other to the governing board's post, restricting the diplomat to his usual duties.

Charles Evans Hughes, leader of the American delegation, allighed himself in favor of granting the Mexican proposal. He asserted the American republics could have entire freedom in selecting representatives for the Pan-American union governing board and that the Washington government would appreciate nothing more than to have positive action taken on this matter. He added that America naturally reserved the right to appoint to the board whom it thinks most fit.

DECISIONS AGAINST FORMER GRAND DRAGON

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind., Jan. 27—(AP)—D. C. Stephenson, former grand dragon of the KuKlux Klan and now a life prisoner in statep rison here, met double defeat in Laporte superior court today in his efforts to obtain an injunction against officials inflicting what he termed a purposeful attack on his health through mistreatment and to win the right of having private interviews with Robert H. Moore, one of his attorneys.

Judge Harry L. Crumpacker upheld the state's contention that the motion for a court order for private interviews was improperly drawn and dismissed it. A few minutes later he dismissed the other petition on the ground that Stephenson, who had prepared the appeal himself, was without representation in the court. Moore, following what he said were instruction from the former Klan leader, declined to appear in that suit.

PROOF OF TREND OF COTTON MANUFACTURING SOUTHWARD

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Jan. 27.—(AP)—A trend of cotton manufacturing southward was shown by statistics made public today in the Southern Textile Bulletin which disclosed that there were approximately 18,140,000 spindles in southern mills in 1927 and 17,754,000 in mills north of the Mason and Dixon line.

The gain in spindles in the south last year was given as 565,590 while the total for the nation fell from 37,404,000 to 36,500,000. North and South Carolina so improved their positions that their combined total of spindles in place was increased to 11,816,000 or approximately one third of the nation's total.

Massachusetts continued to lead the states in total of spindles in place with 10,200,000, with North Carolina second and South Carolina third. Totals for other states included: Georgie, 2,000,000; Rhode Island, 2,400,000; Alabama, 1,600,000, and New Hampshire 1,400,000.

Additional charges of larceny and simple larceny in connection with the seizure were dismissed.

Neale, who for some time has made his home on Cat Key, an outlying island, declared he was aboard the Coast guard craft at the request of Boatswain Christensen to act as pilot, but set up the plea that the liquor found later at his home was taken from another vessel and not the one figuring in the colonial government's charges.

MATHWINK GETS 8 TO 15 YEARS FOR MANSLAUGHTER

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Jan. 27. — An amending of the charge of first degree murder against Sava Mathwink, 41, to one of manslaughter to which the accused pleaded guilty, brought the trial of slayer of Mrs. Anna Berkowitz to an abrupt ending in the Windham county superior court here today Judge Yeomans imposed a state prison sentence of not less than eight or more than 15 years. The recommendation of amending the charge was made by State's Attorney Howard C. Bradford, following statements made by two noted psychiatrists, Doctors A. R. Diefendorf, of New Haven, and R. L. Leak, of Middletown, that Mathwin "was mentally unable to have deliberately planned a murder," on the night of the shooting of Mrs. Berkowitz at her home. The alienists, whose statements marked the decisive turning point in the case, did not testify in court but reported their study of the accused at conferences of the state and defense attorneys and Judge Yeomans, held behind closed doors prior to the opening of court. Both alienists, Dr. Diefendorf representing the defense, and Dr. Leak the state, agreed that due to Mathwink's mental condition, especially at the time of his melancholy over the loss of his money, and his limited intellect, could not be regarded as construing deliberate and wilful murder.

In accepting the motion to amend the charge, Judge Yeomans stated that he felt State's Attorney Bradford was taking the proper course in accepting the report of the alienists.

Following the conferences, court convened at 10:56 o'clock. County Protector Charles L. Torrey announced that his client was prepared to change his plea. The state's attorney then briefly explained his reasons for amending the charge to manslaughter. Judge Yeomans accepted the application and Assistant Clerk Miss Marjorie Bradford read the new charge and asked for a plea. Coached by his attorney, Mathwink replied, "I plead guilty to manslaughter." Attorney Bradford then stated that the alienists believed that while the accused would not be harmful to society, he might retain vengeful intentions towards those whom he believed had swindled him of his life's savings for some time. He then recommended the sentence of eight to 15 years. At 11:59 Judge Yeomans thanked the jury for their attendance during the three days of the trial and ordered Sheriff Charles A. Gates to adjourn court without definite date.

Mathwink's hands did not twitch so nervously today as they had during the trying hours of the past three days of testimony in the case. He took the sentence calmly and as he was escorted back to the prisoners pen he looked like a man whose spirit had been broken but retained a quiet determination to pay without complaint the penalty of his crime. The big six-foot Ukranian held a reputation for being mild, home loving and hard working. The confusing trial and the long term behind prison walls serve him at once as a punishment and an education and one could foresee a new and more peaceful life for him upon his release. Mrs. Mathwink, who was reported as ill, earlier in the forenoon, and their three minor children, were taken to the court room for the passing of the sentence. The children were crying. After court adjourned, friends gathered about Mathwink and his family and offered consolation. State Interpreter Matthiew R. Malinowski, of New Britain, spoke for Attorneys Torrey and Samuel B. Harvey in reassuring Mathwink and his wife that everything possible would be done to secure a return of the $6,000 which Mathwink lost through a mortgage deal. Luncheon was served them and the children in an anti-chamber. Mathwink, who had declined food the day before, ate well. Then came the sad farewell with his family and at one o'clock he was returned to the jail at Brooklyn by Sheriff Charles A. Gates and Jailer Walter Tripp. Later he will be taken to Wethersfield prison.

During the three days of the trial, 25 witnesses were heard. Mathwink occupying the stand all forenoon Thursday. With the murder trial completed, eyes are now turned to the pending civil suit in the Tolland county superior court when an effort will be made to recover the $6,000 mortgage Mathwink alleges to have been done out of and it is possible that the parties involved in the illegal transaction may become known.

Bernard Semsl, 16, of Leonard Bridge, was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Hubert P. Collins of the Columbia town court Thursday night, charged with driving an automobile while failing to show financial responsibility. He pleaded guilty and was fined five dollars, but the fine was remitted and he paid the costs of $13.53. The arrest was made some time ago by State Policeman Terrence A. Griffin of Stafford Springs barracks, but had been continued several times. There were four original charges, reckless driving, operating a public service car without a proper registration, not having a public service driver's license and driving without financial responsibility while under 18 years of age. The reckless driving charge was not pressed on recommendation of Grand Juror Joseph N. Clarke and the two other charges were nolled. The case is the outcome of an accident in which a woman sustained a bad fracture of the leg and was only recently discharged from St. Joseph's hospital.

A small delivery truck driven by Ralph Sypher, of 27 Johnston avenue, and a public service sedan operated by Stokes Watson, figured in a collision at the intersection of High and Valley streets at nine o'clock this morning. Sypher was driving easterly on Valley street and Watson was coming down the High street incline and was crossing the intersection, traveling southerly. The report of the accident was to the effect that Watson's car was struck by the truck, the collision being with the right rear fender. The sedan was forced to the curbing by the impact. Both machines were traveling at a moderate rate of speed and the icy condition of the roads was given as the reason for the accident. Both machines were damaged. With Sypher was his grandfather, Ralph Show, owner of the truck. Watson was alone in his car. A mutual agreement was reached.

Henry Deschene, of 107 Francis avenue, died in a Hartford hospital Thursday following a brief illness. He was born in Canada, a son of the late Desaliris Deschene and Teresa Guly Deschene. Surviving him is one son, Wilfred Deschene, of Hartford; three brothers, Nazaire Deschene, of this city, Joseph Deschene, of Woonsocket, R. Two section laborers on the Central Vermont railway were injured shortly after three o'clock Thursday afternoon when they were forced to leap to safety from a handcar which they had been propelling about 1 1-2 miles south of Lebanon station, upon the approach of a special train. Oney Chappell, of North Franklin, is a patient at St. Joseph's hospital suffering from concussion of the brain and a hip injury and Patsy Gulla is receiving treatment at his home in North Franklin for a sprained ankle. Joseph Carboni, also of North Franklin, and a section foreman, who was riding on the handcar, escaped injury. Details of the accident were meagre and it could not be determined whether the men succeeded in removing the handcar from the tracks or whether it was wrecked by the train.

Gordon, seven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold James, of Card street, is in St. Joseph's hospital suffering from bruises about the body and scratches on the face, sustained shortly after one o'clock this afternoon when he was struck down by a touring car driven by Ferdinand W. King, of 1174 Main street, and owned by Hollis H. Lyman, on Bridge street. The boy was walking along the vehicular section of the bridge over the Willimantic river, on his way to the Model school, when the machine approached and according to a witness, the lad stepped in front of the car. Mr. King brought the machine to a quick stop and took the boy to the hospital and then reported at police headquarters. Officer Arthur M. Hurley investigated the accident.

Willimantic brushed itself lightly to-day to shake off the last vestiges of a snow storm Thursday evening. The storm lasted about 25 minutes and left about one-half inch of snow on the ground. As suddenly as the storm came, it left and was followed by a northwest wind that brought the mercury down to 10 above at sunrise. Today was clear and comfortably warm.

Sylvester M. Pelechatz, of the Back road, Windham, thought for a time that he had a trick flivver when he discovered that the machine had left jacks on which it had been placed near the barn for the winter and disappeared. The machine was found in a clump of bushes about two hundred feet down an incline. It was later determined that the high wind early this morning had blown the machine down the lot.

At a whist given by the Catholic Daughters Thursday evening, eight tables were in play. The arrangements committee comprised Mrs. John F. Pickett and the Misses Nora Powers and Mildred Pickett. Prizes went to Miss Alice Healey, Mrs. Walter J. Costello and Mrs. Thomas Moran.

Mr. and Mrs. William Shortell, of Wallingford, renewed acquaintances here today.

Mrs. Fred P. Davoll entertained the Entre Nous Circle of the Sorority of the Methodist church, Thursday. Mrs. Ina Cross was guest.

Some damage was caused at the home of Joseph St. Onge at 61 Oak street this forenoon by the overheating of an oil heater. Engine company No. 1 was called to the scene.

Dr. Herman C. Little, of New York, formerly of this city, is a week-end guest of Lyndon E. Little.

Miss Ethel Hanna, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hanna, has returned from a Hartford hospital following an operation for appendicitis.

Mrs. Ida Davis, of Hampton, was taken to St. Joseph's hospital Thursday night in the ambulance to be treated by coal gas poisoning. Her condition was improved today.

Miss Florence Lutton, employed at the state motor vehicle department in Hartford is confined to her home by illness.

Mrs. Charles Clark and infant daughter left St. Joseph's hospital this afternoon for their home in Eastford.

Miss Myrtle Jordan entertained at bridge Thursday evening. Miss Myrtice Tryon won the prize. Miss Helen Reise was guest.

E. W Stile, of Lebanon, has been admitted to St. Joseph's hospital for treatment.

A delegation of 20 members of Willimantic Lodge, No 1082, I. O. B., will attend the installation and initiation of Fraternity Lodge, No. 961, in New London next Monday.

Mrs. Ella Tucker, 70, widow of James Tucker, died at her home, 90 1-2 Spring street, tonight. She was born Aug. 25, 1857, in Bozrah, the daughter of Benjamin and Elmira Brown Ingraham. JEWETT CITY

FREAK STUNT OF GALE AT MORGAN HEN-HOUSE

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Jan. 27.—Willis H. Morgan, of Pine Grove farm, near Pachaug in Griswold, had a number of visitors at his home today to see the unusual performance of the Tuesday night gale, that swept over this section at a 50-mile clip. About three a. m., Mr. Morgan was awakened by what he thought to be a clap of thunder. Nothing followed unusual except the howling of the gale, so he said today, "I didn't get up." In the morning he went out to see all the near-by trees filled with white leghorn chicken, with a long line sitting the whole length of the garden fence, and 50 or more, evidently more frightened than the rest, sitting along the ridge pole of the barn. When Mr. Morgan went to bed, his great henhouse, 64 feet long, had its occupants, 280 white leghorn hens, all gone to roost in their usual order. What the wind did:—It lifted the house off its under-pinning, turned it partly around, upside down, and after shaking the sleeping pullets from their perches, landed it fairly intact, right side up, but wrong end to, and well-removed from its original site. Some stunt, with a house 64 feet long! Out of the 280 chickens, only four were killed outright, with a couple of dozen more or less maimed.

THE OLD FANNING MILL RECALLED BY INQUIRIES

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Jan. 27. — From times dating back more than one hundred years, there is no history or record of Griswold and Jewett City that fails to tell of the many specific benefits which have come to this town, as the result of the interests of different branches of the Fanning family. A letter was received today by this writer from George A. Ross, asking for information regarding a mill once owned here and sponsored mainly by the local Fanning interests. This family at that time, in more ways than one, were pioneers in local industry.

The following notice, touching the Fanning manufacturing interests of 113 years ago, was clipped from the Norwich Courier of Jan. 15, 1815:

NOTICE

The subscribers inform the Public that they have entered into Co-partnership for the purpose of manufacturing Cotton Yarn and Cloth under the name and firm of the Fanning Cotton Manufacturing Company at their factory situated in Preston (Jewett City) near Mr. John Schoefield's Woolen factory where they will offer for sale Cotton, Yarn of almost all numbers, which they believe will be of as good quality as is made at other factories.

Weavers can be supplied with yarn to weave at all times.

CHARLES FANNING,
CHRISTOPHER AVERY,
JOSEPH STANTON,
JOSEPH TYLER,
THOMAS FANNING.

Dated Preston, Dec. 5, 1814.

N. B. The business will be transacted by Christopher Avery as Agent for the company.

Daniel L. Phillips, who is more conversant with the town's history than any person who ever lived in it, has records which locate the site of the mill in question. Opposite the present Ashland Cotton company's office on the Pachaug river, was to be seen the small Schoefield Woolen mill, where wool carding, with a new English process was being carried on. Nearly on the site of the present office was where the Fanning cotton mill was put into operation.

Reckoning in advance from the Fanning industries of that century, a little in excess of 100 years, and the present generation is brought into direct touch with the Fanning beneficence, through the late David Hale Fanning.

BIG NEW FREIGHT ENGINE HAULS TOTAL OF 103 CARS

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Jan. 27—A good sized gallery of the borough natives, possessed of the necessary advance notice, were at the railroad crossing this afternoon, when one of the big New Haven freighters sailed up through the town, with 103 loaded cars just as smooth as oil. No. 3665, she was, with Earl Frink at the throttle. Maybe he didn't smile, justly proud and grand, as he waved his cap to the shouting crowd! The big machine was "hitting on everything" and was a sight for all to see and admire.

Possibly the great freighter was doing her finest just along here, because the driver married Miss Bessie Mott, a Jewett City girl, and herself ever the big steel giant was to show at its prettiest.

FIREMEN'S ANNUAL BALL MOST PLEASURABLE EVENT

(Special to The Bulletin.)

JEWETT CITY, Jan. 27—The thirtieth annual concert and ball of the A. A. Young Jr. Hose and Ladder Co. No. 1, was held this evening at the Community house in Plainfield.

It seemed to be the opinion of those on the floor, some few of whom have attended without a miss for the entire 30 years, that like old wine, this leading social function of the county improves with age. Notwithstanding that a change from the old custom of holding the ball in the Finn opera house has become necessary, it seems to work out most favorably. The attendance was appreciably larger than in most of the preceding years.

The grand march of close to 100 couples moved at a few minutes after nine, with Chief Lionel E. Boucher and Miss Marjorie K. Leyden in the lead, and from the couple in advance to the final couple of the form, its many features of attractiveness, showed as unsurpassed by any of the long list of firemen's entertainments. Miss Leyden wore a handsome gown of black taffeta, and along the line the smart frocks worn by the young women were greatly admired.

Music of the Class A order was furnished by Shepard and Swanson and their Whaling City boys of New London, with 23 different instruments. The committees who received so many compliments for the perfection of all details for the ball included: Master of ceremonies, Lionel E. Boucher; committee of arrangements, Chief Boucher and Walter A. Field and Austin Harris, both former chiefs; floor director, Walter A Field; visitors were present from Norwich, New London, Willimantic, Wauregan, Moosup Danielson, Baltic, Taftville, Providence and Bridgeport.

THREE YOUTHS CONFESS TO ASSAULT ON GIRL

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Jan. 27—Confessions made tonight at the state police barracks by Theodore LaPrade, 19, Theodore Dupuis, 17, and Walter Lis, 18, all Danielson youths, resulted in their being held in $1,000 bonds each for appearance Saturday morning in the town court to answer to charges of assault with intent to rape.

The trio admit that they were responsible last Tuesday night at 9 o'clock for attacking Mis Gwendolyn Conrad of Elmville on Lewis boulevard, while she was going from the Connecticut mills to Main street in the rain to get a bus for her home in Elmville. The confessions agree that burlap was thrown over the young woman's head, that she was knocked down and her feet tied with a piece of rope. Their intent, they admit, being to carry her off to a nearby wooded territory and criminally assault her. They abandoned the entire enterprise, however, because Miss Conrad fought so desperately and screamed so lustily. When she made her appearance at the state police barracks, which is close by, she described in a general way what had happened to her but was unable to give a description of her assailants. For the last three days state officers have been steadily working on the case and this afternoon rounded up the youths, who, after a long grilling, admitted their guilt. The burlap that they used was stolen from the Connecticut mills. None of the youths are employed at that plant. As a part of their preparation for their adventure one of them brought along a revolver.

LOCAL CONCERN TO BE DISTRIBUTOR FOR LOOM PICKER

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Jan. 27—Announcement was made today that the E. H. Jacobs Manufacturing company, with its main plant here and a smaller one at Charlotte, N. C., has been appointed sole distributors for the General Electric company of the new textolite loom picker. W. I. Bullard, treasurer of the Jacobs company is to sail for Europe next Wednesday to close contracts. The British Thomson-Houston company of England and the Compagnie Francaise Thomson-Houston company of France, associated with the General Electric company in world-wide trade, have also appointed the E. H. Jacobs Mfg. company as exclusive distributors of the textolite products in the textile industry, for sixteen years, the life of their patents.

The arrangement into which the local concern has entered will bring the name Danielson to world-wide attention in the textile field. All the advertising done to introduce the tetxolite picker to the textile trade, here and abroad, will carry the name of the E. H. Jacobs Manufacturing Co., Danielson, Conn.

This story about the important alliance of the Jacobs company with General Electric and its European associates is the first publicity relative to the arrangement and is made in The Bulletin simultaneously with a similar statement in a well known textile magazine that will be issued as this account is being read.

The basis of the textolite picker is a high quality 15 1-2 oz. army duck. The fabric is coated, but not impregnated, with a synthetic resin as a binder. Up to and including the coasting process the material for the pickers is not separated. The material is subjected to molds to a high temperature and a high pressure, this resulting in forming a solid homogeneous material in the picker form desired. Narrow strips of cloth that enter into the making of these pickers are entwined and interlocked, thus avoiding any possibility of the pickers splitting. The resin used acts in the same capacity as would numerous tiny rivets passing through the interstices of the cloth and holding the fabric under compression.

Tests made by the General Electric company have shown that the strength of textolite depends more upon the quality of the cotton fabric then upon the strength of the resin. Textolite pickers installed in mills for test purposes under operating conditions are still in use after a period of nine months. This is regarded as giving a promising indication of unusual lasting properties.

One of the most important characteristics of the new picker is its tendency to retain its shape in storage under all conditions of temperature and humidity. It is unnecessary to plug the spindle-hole or a box-loom picker with wood, to season the picker, to immerse it in oil, or to protect it from the atmospliere or attacks of vermin. It is claimed that there is never any necessity for reaming out the spindle-hole before applying a textolite picker to a loom. On the loom, there is no danger of the picker losing its shape during week ends and through periodic shutdowns. The hole will remain round and will not bind on the spindle by swelling or contracting. These are among the major advantages of the textolite picker over the rawhide type.

The new pickers are to be manufactured at the Lynn plant of the General Electric company for the American trade, and also in England and France for the foreign trade. Mr. Bullard's mission abroad will include organizing selling companies for the foreign markets.

The E. H. Jacobs company has for 60 years been the largest manufacturers of canvass lug straps in the world. Practically every improvement in lug straps has come from their laboratories and has been the result of their scientific and practical understanding of the requirements of loom builders. This company invented the famous Verybest lug strap, which is used exclusively by the Crompton and Knowles loom works on their latest model of worsted loom, which they have named the Verybest Worsted loom. The E. H. Jacobs company has many fine achievements to its credit in developing and devising product sit handles for every field of textile loom supplies. Its new and close relations with the mighty General Electric company is a matter of pride to Danielson as a whole.

KACEYS AGAIN TAKE MEASURE OF ODD FELLOWS

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Jan. 27—In the 8th weekly encounter the I. O. O. F., bowed again to the K. of C. The tournament on Thursday evening was well attended by the members of both lodges. At the end of the play the Knights were again on the long end of the straw with a score of 10 to 3. The total score now stands 74 to 37 in favor of the K. of C. On Thursday evening the Knights of Columbus were host to their friendly enemies the Odd Fellows, as the opponents had their hall rented for another purpose. The next play will be held on next Thursday evening in Odd Fellows hall.

Putnam people who have ordered one of Henry Ford's new products will be able to ride in their new cars sometime during February, as the factories assembling the new Ford cars will be able to make deliveries about the middle of next month on some of the numerous orders that they have received. Delay in delivery on the car has been caused by the great change that the pioneer in the automobile industry has made in his factories.

The funeral of Edward Counoyer, who died on Tuesday evening was held from St. Mary's church, Friday morning at 9 o'clock, with a requiem high mass sung by Rev. W. A. Routhier. He came to Putnam in 1925 and resided here up until the time of his death.

Each year it is the custom of the Putnam Savings bank to present the pupils of the schools in Putnam with some useful articles that can be used in connection with their school work. This year at Christmas time, the officers of the bank gave each boy and girl in the schools a large eraser. The appreciation of the gift has been shown the officers of the institution by the many letters that they have received from the school children.

The current Catholic Transcript says: The Sisters of St. Joseph mourn the loss of Sister Mary Dionysius, in the world, Miss Albina Dallago, whose death occurred at St. Francis' hospital, Hartford, January 22. Her parents, residents of New Jersey, were exemplary Christians, and three of their daughters consecrated themselves to God in religion. Sister Dionysius spent some time at the Academy for young ladies conducted by the Sisters of Mercy at Putnam. She entered the Novitiate at Parkville in the fall of 1912, received the habit in 1913, and was professed four years later. The Provincial House in Hartford, St. Francis' hospital, St. Thomas' seminary and St. Mary's hospital, Waterbury, were the centers where Sister Dionysius served.

Appointed Superior at St. Thomas seminary, Hartford, in 1924, she passed there the three remaining years of her life. A short, but very painful illness terminated her useful career. The funeral took place from the Convent of Mary Immaculate, Hartford, Tuesday.

BEAUTIFYING RAILROAD APPROACHES

"The [illegible] by railroad to the [illegible] cities," declares the [illegible] "is like a soiled tablecloth [illegible] a sumptuous banquet. Once in the [illegible] it is only the [illegible] A little care and [illegible] expense could remedy [illegible] And in community values it would be worth all it costs."

There can be no question but what there is a [illegible] opportunity for beautification along the railroad approaches to cities. Conditions have grown worse as cities have grown larger. There's a variety of reasons for it, but it is a question today whether this unsightly condition, this lack of beauty, this collection of eyesores get as much notice as they did a decade or two ago.

The railroads are not what they were a score of years ago. They are not bringing as many people into touch with the unpleasant railroad approaches to cities as they did. There has been a weeding out of trains. Service has been curtailed. Some lines have had their passenger trains taken off entirely and others get only a ghost of the service that they formerly did. This means that railroad stations which were once busy places are almost deserted. More and more are being closed unless they can be used for other purposes and the result is that the unsightly approaches are not being seen. Beautification for such a purpose could therefore serve only the crews of the freight trains.

Opportunity exists however for plenty of attention to this matter along the main lines of the railroads for the express trains are doing business and will continue to do it on the trunk lines over long distances. Cities along such lines have good reason for insisting on attractive conditions. No city for that matter can afford to neglect unsightly places but for many the need of beautification to catch the eye of the railroad passengers is not as great as " used to be. Today the highways and their appearances are coming in for the attention which railroad approaches used to get. The contrast between the highway approach and the railroad approach might be more carefully noted if there was the large amount of passenger traffic that there used to be.

WILL REWARDS HELP?

Just how much benefit will be gained in Massachusetts as the result of the plan to offer rewards for information leading to the arrest and conviction of hit and run drivers is a question, but most anything that will turn increased attention to this highway menace in a way that will result in greater safety in the highways will be welcomed.

The offering of rewards usually has the effect of centering greater attention upon certain problems. If those who witness accidents understand that there is a chance of enriching themselves by being mindful of what takes place and getting the auto number of the driver who runs away it may cause some to be much more alert than otherwise would be the case. It might also be the necessary bait to get many to tell what they know about such affairs, when under other circumstances they would simply decline to connect themselves with the case.

Reward or no reward, the menace of the hit and run driver is such that each and every one should want to do everything possible to see that he is brought to justice and kept off the highway. The treatment of the victims clearly indicates what he thinks of others. Certainly there is nothing in his conduct that ought to make others want to shield him.

It is to be realized, however, that there are many instances where there are no eye witnesses. In such instances the reward might seem to have no place, but there are always certain facts and conditions which can be made use of in establishing guilt and the knowledge that a reward exists in such cases may mean that many more will be alert to note and tell about car conditions, especially if they show that they have been in an accident, than would otherwise be the case. Massachusetts will be in a position if rewards are offered to determine their advantage.

SHIP LEGISLATION

From the progress being made at Washington it does not appear that the solution of the merchant marine problem is just around the corner.

Senator Jones, who has been so prominently identified with shipping legislation, has declared that he is in favor of a ship subsidy but he knows it is impossible to get it, so he backs legislation which will put government ownership of the merchant marine as a permanent thing in its place.

But while that appeals to the western senator as the method to adopt to meet the situation it does not make the same impression upon others. Already the bill which bears his name and which would not permit of the sale of merchant ships unless the shipping board was unanimous has been subject to amendments which change it considerably. The requirement about the sale of ships has been modified and that clause which declares it the purpose to maintain a merchant marine permanently under government support has been eliminated.

These amendments do not necessarily show what congress is going to do with the bill. The president has declared for the sale of the ships and the putting of the merchant marine in the hands of private capital. So far the Jones bill as amended would do little in the way of changing existing conditions. Inasmuch as it has failed to get what might be regarded as a hearty welcome there is nothing to indicate that it is going to meet with any smoother progress in the days that are to come. Senator Jones understands that a subsidy isn't a popular subject and he may find out that government ownership isn't any more so.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Speaking of crops, what can be done to help out the iceman?

Only a few more days and the first sheet of the 1928 calendar can be eliminated.

The man on the corner says: Have you got your list all made out for garden and flower seeds?

Of course Mr. Heflin is like a lot of other people, it is hard for quite a few to understand his "jokes."

The strangest thing about that threat to leave the democratic party by Heflin is that the democrats didn't encourage it.

Admiral Plunkett's talk about war is probably about as full of generalities and exciting phrases as the writings of Admiral Magruder.

The case of saying some things that are bound to be misinterpreted is such as to cause those who say them to give expression to their second thoughts first.

THE MAN WHO TALKS

The facts of modern life justify us in making quests for surprises. When a new thing of importance appeals to our emotions we are apt to say "What next?" The latest form of the expression is this: "After the radio, what?" This form of expression will very likely be kept up as long as the human mind has its inquiring tendency. We are perfectly justified in not being satisfied with any present attainment as long as there are heights beyond that are not wholly inaccessible. History informs us that after the Atlantic had been successfully crossed by steam power, a distinguished minister announced from his pulpit that, beyond all question, the last word had been spoken in the development of locomotion. Now ministers are great men, but even they sometimes fail to grasp the trend of progress. Probably automobiles, airships and radios are not the final word in scientific invention and discovery.

From the time when modern science began to revolutionize the world's thinking, the natural tendency was for the people of the age to think how smart they were compared with the ancients. Of course along many lines this is true; it could not well be otherwise considering our opportunities to profit by the mistakes our ancestors naturally made. In the past much of the great things accomplished was along the line of pioneering. Today we are continuing much that pioneers and explorers have put into our hands. Columbus had a great vision of the vast Eldorado of the west, but it has belonged to his successors to complete what he discovered, and surely the end of this great work is not yet in sight. It would be a positive disgrace to subsequent generations if nothing had been learned and carried to perfection in these days. Certainly the world does move.

For practical purposes it may keep us from too much self conceit to consider some things the ancients did that we can't, or at least don't. Take, for instance, such monuments of engineering skill as the Pyramids. No attempt has been made to reproduce them, possibly for the reason that in modern times there has been no use for such structures. Still they are living evidence of what man could do in what we call the dark ages. Years ago the writer had the opportunity of hearing Wendell Phillips deliver his great lecture on "The Lost Arts." Among other things he said the ancients had the faculty of giving such a keen edge to brass that floating gauze of the lightest texture floating in the air falling on this edge would be cleanly cut in twain. Of course our own age gives us some wonderful exhibitions of brass, but nothing of this sort. We would be perfectly satisfied if we could get steel razor blades as sharp as that.

To keep ourselves from getting too heavy, it might be well to commit to memory Psalm 39: 4: "Lord, make me to know my end, and the measure of my days, what it is; that I may know how frail I am." This is the prayer of a man who is perfectly sane—a man who wants to have a comprehensive view of life in its completeness. He is fully conscious of his human limitations, and is desirous of meeting them with a courage that is honorable to himself and pleasing to his God. He knows that there is before him a destiny which will please God if he attains; that there is a measure to his days he realizes, and whether those days are to be few or many, as it may please God, it is his one great duty to fill those days with the richest quality of life. Now in order to do this he must have a clear view of his imperfections. Hence he says, "Don't spare my feelings, but tell me so that I shall understand just how frail I am."

In line with what was said above in relation to the marvels of modern scientific discovery I quote from a great sermon recently delivered by Dr. Marshall these words: "There cannot possibly be more than one more world war in the next thousand years," quoting from one of the outstanding chemists of the country, "because there will be nobody left to fight a second one.' Along the line of explosives, perfected artillery and, most of all, poison gases, we have reached to such heights of diabolical perfection that the nations of the world, however great in numbers may be their armies and navies, would all soon be blotted out by these latest inventions of the devil. "This is the nemesis that waits for the man who robs his brother man, and no less for the nation possessed by the blood money of a world betrayal of the Prince of Peace." A few of the stronger nations have the power to put war permanently out of commission.

Is our sense of justice keeping pace with our knowledge of science? Science has produced that modern wonder, the automobile, but what a menace to life when the man at the wheel is not in full possession of his faculties! Is there a very intelligent show of justice in which our courts are meeting this menace? The culprit if found guilty is fined and his license suspended for a stated period. If the offense is repeated the fine is stiffened—the license suspended for a longer time and a jail sentence is imposed, and sometimes this is suspended. Does such treatment at all correspond with the damage done? Possibly life has been taken; others perhaps have been maimed for life. Why can't we put a few sharp teeth into some of these puny penalties? Any man who will deliberately get drunk and then attempt to run a car has no right, civil or moral, to do it a second time!

In the month of January our churches with very few exceptions hold their annual meetings. There is rarely any boasting of great things done in the columns of the daily press reporting the proceedings of the annual sessions. And yet these records silently report the working of those forces that keep our modern civilization from collapse. Of course there may be some rare spirits who look to the doings of the United States senate as the sole preservative of humanity, but there is some reason for believing that this mighty body of workers who for the most part give their services out of a disinterested love is doing something to smite poverty, to feed the poor, to stay the tears of helpless little children, to lift up the fallen, correct the erring, to substitute cheer for misery, and to magnify the great name of Immanuel here upon the earth! Baring-Gould was dead right when he wrote his great hymn: "Like a mighty army moves the Church of God."

There is an old Negro melody in which these words appear: "Hang up the shovel and the hoe, and take down the fiddle and the bow," which will have to be reversed if this comparatively mild weather should keep up its present record until the sun crosses the equator. To the writer's limited observation, Negores are not the only representatives of our frail humanity who at any season of the year will exercise "the fiddle and the bow" in place of "the shovel and the hoe" just as far as they can get away with it. With little frost in the ground and a slightly rising temperature the swelling bud would respond and the ground be in a condition for both shovel and hoe. It is, however, to be hoped that some of us who contracted lumbago from overwork in our gardens last year will have a few more months in which to recover from last year's overstrain.

RESTORING NEW ENGLAND

(Writes Don C. Leits, in the Dearborn Independent)

The motor car is restoring New England! This rock-bound region was decimated by the rush to the prairies that followed the building of railroads and the throwing open of Government lands. Soil seekers rushed away from the hills and the chills, to the wide open spaces, leaving behind one of the most beautiful regions in the world, to become a land of abandoned farms and reassorting forests. The people concentrated in the factory towns were at first natives from the farms. Lower-priced foreign labor soon drove these out. The great ranges of the West sent cheap cattle to the market killing off such by-product enterprises as there were—notably the tanning of leather and the profits on raising kine.

Thus agriculture languished, and to own a farm was to assume an obligation. Artemus Ward once expressed it poignantly. A young man had made fun of his bald head. 'What happened?' he observed, in retaliation. 'In less than a month his aunt died and left him a farm in Oxford county, Me. The human mind can picture no greater misfortune than this.'

The statement became almost literally true. 'Getting a living' was a struggle; 'getting ahead' an exploit For years the farmers saved themselves with their hay crop. The motor ended this, but what it has taken away it is bringing back. It is pushing prosperity into the hills. The 'summer visitor' of yore has been replaced by the motor excursionist, who leaves a layer of money behind. More than this, the motor has brought the farm to life by connecting it up speedily with the town. Farmers are able to find employment for their spare time and spare sons in the villages. Work is done easier and faster. The loneliness has been done away with. New England has been rediscovered and is being restored. The motor has forced the building of good roads.

Once nearly all the highways were horrible. Farmers 'worked out' their taxes in the most wasteful way, plowing up roads where rain and frost had done their best to harden the right of way, and scraping topsoil from the roadside to create quagmires. Through this mess, spring and fall, they goaded their horses, wasted their time and wore out equipment. This silly system has been superseded by State supervision, under experienced engineers with contractors who know their business. Concrete trunk lines have taken the place of muddy sloughs. Easy and fast connection has awakened the people to a sense of their opportunities. Money is coming in where formerly it went mainly out, or did not come at all.

The pretty villages are no longer dead. In what were once remote roads, service stations establish new centers of activity and spread the money flow. After all, prosperity is not in hoarding, but in keeping the cash current moving. The motor car does it. The visitor has no monopoly of motion.

In my old town of Norway, Me., save on 'Grange Day,' the street was usually barren of vehicles. Now the village has to employ a traffic cop and the streets are never without life. On a Saturday afternoon, not less than one hundred cars are parked along the curb. Sometimes the number is nearly doubled. Merchants find that 'city folks' look at their window displays and come in to buy. They have learned to 'stock up' for a better trade and make money by it. Incidentally, the townspeople are better served. When a connecting cement road was built to Lewiston and Portland, the merchants thought all their trade would run away. It didn't. Instead, more comes.

The farmer has gained even more than the merchant. One chap who was starving on a sandy plain found himself alongside a trunk line of cement. He woke up, filled his yard with bechives and now sells something like one thousand dollars' worth of home-raised honey in the comb to passersby. The bees do the work. In the fall he fills cars up with rosy apples and golden pumpkins. People pine for real pumpkin pie. The pie makers give them canned squash—a crime against the palate. What this man does, others are learning they can also do.

In one remote part of Connecticut, along the upper reaches of the Housatonic, a State highway has created a new land of interest and industry. Old orchards are being trimmed, flower gardens established and hives set up. Moreover, in sunny nooks, where once nothing grew, green fields of tobacco stand sturdily, bringing in a great return since it was found that Connecticut tobacco, despised as a filler, has become the 'wrapper' for the more choice Havana staple. The change wrought is amazing since the engineers blasted their way through to the Berkshires three or four years ago.

Not only have farm and village awakened, but the States themselves have come to life. Maine maintains a busy publicity bureau. New Hampshire booms its delectable mountains, and Vermont's legislature has unbuttoned what was always considered a pretty lean pocketbook, to be surprised to find how much was creeping inside by the motor route. Now it is going to build a trunk line on each side of the Green Mountains from the Massachusetts to the Connecticut line, and a syndicate has been formed to market picturesque spots to summer home seekers, who first heard of the State because of Calvin Coolidge.

Maine thinks it picks up $100,000,000 a year from motor travelers. New Hampshire comes in a close second. Now Vermont is claiming her share. The change has been almost magical. The conservatives who drove their young people out are amazed to find other people can come in their places and flourish. I attended a Kiwanis luncheon of Norway business men not long since. Of the seventy-five present, only one, the cashier of the National bank, was a native! They were all prospering.

So New England has been rediscovered, and is being restored.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

To be elected president of the second largest bank in the United States when only thirty-six years old is a notable event even in this age of notable achievements by young men, but this is the distinction that has fallen to Robert L. Clarkson, the new executive head of the Chase National bank of New York city. Not so very many years ago, Mr. Clarkson was a messenger for a New York brokerage house at a wage of $4 a week. His first promotion was to a bookkeeper's position. Later entering the bond department of another financial house, his business career was interrupted temporarily by service in the navy during the war. Upon his return to Wall street, he became associated with the Chase National bank, became vice president in 1921 and a director of the institution two years ago.

Sunday Morning Talk

THE LEADER OF PRAYER

In a corner of the vestry, on a midweek meeting night,
Sat the church's latest seeker after everlasting light.
And the young man's heart seemed bursting with the strength of his desire
To say something for the Master who had touched his soul with fire.

Scarce he heard the pastor's discourse through this spirit caught the hymns,
"Love Divine All Love Excelling," gave his new devotion wings
And the deacon's prayer for guidance strengthened one uplifted heart,
That sincerely sought instruction how to chose the better part.

"Oh to grace how great a debtor," rose the sweet, familiar song,
"Here's my heart, Oh, take and seal it," sang the absent-minded throng.
But one youth among the singers, made the plea with real intent,
And one heart was truly given with a full and free consent.

And the wise and earnest pastor who could real emotion trace.
Caught the glow of new born purpose in his young friend's eager face.
When the talk and hymns were finished, and a hush fell on the air;
Came his question, "My young brother, may we follow you in prayer?"

And the room grew gravely silent while the young man's words delayed.
Could he really cause that any should pray because he played?
Or the common human longing so in spoken words declare
That those needing help and comfort would follow him in prayer?

Then he thought how Christ the Saviour spent all night to pray to God,
How in answer to that seeking was more wondrous power bestowed,
And how every cloud seemed lifted in a flash of vision rare,
As he saw the Lord of Glory to be also Lord of prayer.

"Father of all life and mercy," rose his reverent youthful voice,
"Thou hast made us all thy children, and in thee do we rejoice
Thou has given Christ, our Saviour to make known thy love and care,
And in every true petition we but follow Him in prayer.

"He it was who bore life's burdens with a courage undismayed,
We do bow our souls before Him, and pray because He prayed,
As He came to show the Father, we would see Thee everywhere,
And would come to know Thee truly, as for us He offered prayer.

"Do we need, O gracious Father, words to make our wishes known,
When our every thought and purpose we resign to Thee alone?
We would but the Christ-like spirit as a daily garment wear,
And would make our lives to follow Him who leadest us in prayer."

Then there came a reverent silence, when not even a sound was heard,
"Our Father," prayed the pastor—every voice took up the word,
And the people felt the blessing in the incense-laden air,
As their fervent aspirations sought to follow Christ in prayer.

Chatterer Wins

Despite its worries, fears and strife,
There's nothing quite so dear as life.
—Old Mother Nature.

Chatterer the Red Squirrel was in a position to appreciate this. Nothing mattered to Chatterer now if he could but save his life. He was on the ground, under a little pile of brush, at the foot of a tree. Just a little way from him Spite the Marten and Terror the Goshawk were quarreling over him. Chatterer wasted no time whatever. As soon as he had fairly recovered his breath he began to look around and consider what he should do next. It wouldn't do to remain there. Spite the Marten would be almost certain to come and sniff at that pile of brush.

He tried to tear the entrance larger with his great claws

Then he would tear it all apart. No, Chatterer must get away from there as quickly as he could and as far as he could while he had the chance.

His first thought was to run up a tree and continue on his way in the treetops to the certain tree wherein was a hole in which he would be absolutely safe. That tree couldn't be far. But to climb the tree would be to run the risk of showing himself to Spite and Terror. It was bad enough to have one of these enemies after him, but to have two of them after him—well, it was too much. So Chatterer decided to look about on the ground first.

Almost at once he found a little hole between two roots of a tree. That hole led down under the roots. He had no means of knowing how far it went, but anything was better than his present position. So without more ado Chatterer slipped down into that little hole. He found a little gallery running along under ground. It was a small gallery, for it was a gallery built by Whitefoot the Wood Mouse. But Chatterer managed to squeeze along through it and, by digging a little now and then, he got along nicely.

By and by Chatterer came to a branch tunnel. He turned into this. He followed this quite a way. Then he discovered that it was turning upward. Presently he found an opening. Very, very carefully he poked his head out. He looked this way and he looked that way. He could see nothing of Spite the Marten nor Terror the Goshawk. Then he saw something that made his heart beat with joy. It was the very tree he had hoped to reach. He tilted his head back and looked up. Yes, there was the hole that meant safety and rest and comfort. Chatterer looked this way and looked that way and looked the other way. Then he scrambled out of that hole in the ground and flashed up the tree.

At the entrance to that hole, which was just big enough for him to pass through easily, he paused. Then he did a foolish thing. Yes, sir, he did a foolish thing. He turned that tongue of his loose. He barked his scorn of and contempt for Terror the Goshawk and Spite the Marten. Then he whisked into the hole and down to a soft, comfortable bed at the bottom.

It was only a few minutes later that Chatterer heard claws rattling on the bark of the tree. He knew whose claws they were, but they didn't frighten him a bit. A moment later Spite the Marten was at the little round doorway. He could get a paw in, but that was all. He tried to tear the entrance larger with his great claws. He tried to gnaw at it. But the wood was tough, for it was an old knothole. Finally Spite gave up. And so it was that Chatterer won in the race for life, while Spite went off to hunt for mice.

SO ORIGINAL AND DIFFERENT that Comparisons are Impossible

Frankly, The Victory has left current practice so far behind that comparisons are impossible.

Conservative drivers will never really discover the car's astonishing resources.

They will delight in its pick-up and low gas needs—its comfort and streamline beauty.

But the magnificent, all-day speed of the car—its faultless smoothness over clods and cobbles—are thrills that await the adventurer!

Six powerful cylinders are six powerful reasons for this. A seventh vital reason is the basic Victory idea!

For the first time in motor car history, chassis and body are a unit. Floor and seats are built in the chassis. The wide Victory chassis frame replaces the customary body sill—and eliminates the customary body overhang. The body itself has only 8 major parts!

The result is 175 less pounds, 330 less parts; standard road and head clearance, yet a car that is extremely low, steady and safe—with a power plant stripped for instant and brilliant action!

And the smartest car at the price ever created!

Our Presidents

First on the list is Washington, Virginia's proudest name;
John Adams next, the Federalist, from Massachusetts came;
Three sons of old Virginia into the White House go—
'Twas Jefferson, and Madison, and then came James Monroe.

Massachusetts for one term sent Adams called John Q.,
And Tennessee a Democrat, brave Jackson, stanch and true.
Martin Van Buren of New York, and Harrison we see,
And Tyler of Virginia, and Polk of Tennessee.

Louisiana Taylor sent; New York Millard Fillmore;
New Hampshire gave us Franklin Pierce; when his term was o'er
The keystone state Buchanan sent. War thunders shook the realm,
A. Lincoln wore a martyr's crown, and Johnson took the helm.

Then U. S. Grant of Illinois who ruled with sword and pen;
And Hayes and Garfield who was shot, two noble Buckeye men.
Chester Arthur from New York, and Grover Cleveland came;
Ben Harrison served just four years, then Cleveland ruled again.

McKinley—shot at Buffalo—the nation plunged in grief,
And Teddy Roosevelt of New York served seven years as chief.
Taft of Ohio followed him. Then Woodrow Wilson came—
New Jersey's learned Democrat; war set the world aflame;

And when the tide of strife and hate so baneful course had run,
The country went Republican and Warren Harding won.
No duty would he shirk—he died while on a western trip;
Coolidge of Massachusetts then assumed the leadership.

Inheritance

We wondered why he always turned aside
When mirth and gladness filled the brimming days;
Who else so fit as he for pleasure's ways?
Men thought him frozen by a selfish pride;
But that his voice was music none denied.
Or that his smile was like the sun's warm rays.
One day upon the sands he spoke in praise
Of swimmers who were buffeting the tide:
"The swelling waves of life they dare to meet,
I may not plunge where others safely go,
Unbidden longings in my pulses beat."
O blind and thoughtless world! You little know
That ever round this hero's steadfast feet
Surges and tugs the dreaded undertow.

IT TAKES ALL-BRAN TO RELIEVE CONSTIPATION

More and more people are eating bran for "health's sake" these days. And it's a fine thing. But not everybody realizes what a difference there is in so-called "brans." Doctors say it takes 100% bran to supply enough roughage to relieve constipation. Part-bran products, at best, can only be partly effective.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is 100% bran. It furnishes roughage in effective quantities—and in the most effective form: cooked and krumbled. It does a work part-bran products cannot hope to equal. Two tablespoonfuls daily—chronic cases, with every meal—are guaranteed to relieve constipation.

Serve ALL-BRAN often. With milk or cream—fruits or honey added. Be sure you get genuine Kellogg's though—in the red-and-green package. Use it in cooking. Sprinkle into soups. ALL-BRAN is sold by all grocers. Served everywhere. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Rub Musterole on the congested parts and see how quickly it brings relief.

As effective as the messy old mustard plaster; does the work without blister.

Musterole, made from pure oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other simple ingredients, is a counter-irritant which stimulates circulation and helps break up the cold.

You will feel a warm tingle as it enters the pores, then a cooling sensation that brings welcome relief.

HAVANA POST SHOWS WELCOME TO COOLIDGE

Through the courtesy of Mrs. Lillian Lucas of 271 Washington street who is spending the winter in Havana, The Bulletin is in receipt of Havana Post of Jan. 16, a feature of which was the special cover page, in colors, bearing a picture of President Coolidge, full-page size, with the title, "The Havana Post and the American Colony in Cuba Most Heartily Welcome Our President."

A few paragraphs from the description of the arrival of President Coolidge give an idea of the welcome accorded him and of his response to it as follows:

Hard as he tried to maintain the myth of his imperturbability, Calvin Coolidge, president of the United States, yesterday was unable to withstand the emotional appeal of Cuba's welcome.

The atmosphere of Havana's reception was different to anything in Calvin Coolidge's experience. Here 50,000 temperamental Latins rained welcomes, bravos and blessing that came from their hearts on the man who to them is the incarnation of American idealism and valiant action. Calvin Coolidge to Cuba means the United States. Here no cognizance is taken of changes in administration politics. Coolidge, seen from the Cuban angle, is a composite picture of Roosevelt, of Wilson and of Lindbergh. And he was welcomed as such. And he responded nobly to the spirit of the Cuban people and expanded and blossomed into a human, lovable character who, given the opportunity, would duplicate the spectacular feats of his predecessors and yet not lose his own admirable personality. Correspondents who thought they knew the president of the United States through long association, scarcely recognized the affable and enthusiastic personage who, seated beside President Gerardo Machado of Cuba, waved and bowed to the multitudes that lined the streets between the landing stage and the presidential palace.

For weeks Havana has been preparing for President Coolidge's visit. Public improvements that had been left in abeyance for years, due to the depleted condition of the treasury, were rushed to completion in his honor. Three square blocks of demolished buildings between the palace and the waterfront were cleared and made into a magnificent vista of palm-bordered parks and boulevards. Every building along the routes he is to pass during his stay has been painted. Every unevenness in the pavement has been decorated. Along the ancient seawall that the Spaniards built four centuries ago grandstands were erected to hold spectators. The new seawall and the filled ground behind it was thronged with colorful crowds of rooters.

ACADEMY CLASHES WITH BULKELEY QUINTET AT Y GYM THIS EVENING

N. F. A.		Bulkeley
Jarvis, lf		lf, Brennan
Fagan, rf		rf, Locke
Pingree, c		(C.) c, Ellis
Kelly, lg (C.)		lg, Palmer
LaCroix, rg		rg, Gorton or Waterson

The oldest high school rivalry in Connecticut comes in for another airing tonight at the Y gym when the Academy and Bulkeley meet in basketball.

Each team reported fit and ready for the clash after final workouts Friday afternoon and one of the hardest fought tilts of the local season is expected, for, after all, there is nothing like an Academy-Bulkeley game.

Academy Is Favorite

The Academy has a slight pre-game edge but it is not anywhere near the edge she was supposed to have last season on the gridiron when the Orange and Black fought the locals to a 6-6 tie. The Academy has played four games and of these won two and lost two. Bulkeley has played two games and won one and lost one.

The Academy has beaten Plainfield and Tourtellotte highs and lost to Chapman Tech and Wilby high of Waterbury. Bulkeley has lost to the Coast Guard Cubs and won from the Trojans of New London.

Both teams will present their strongest lineups this afternoon. The Academy has Lloyd Jarvis and Red Fagan at the forwards. Jarvis will be engaging in his second contest of the season as he only joined the squad a few days before the Wilby game last Saturday. However, he showed enough in that game to give strong evidence that he will be of great help to the Red and White again this season. Fagan is a newcomer to the local school although he is making a strong bid for the forward berth, trying hard every minute. Joe Viau and Dave Tigar are others who will be ready to take up the local's work at himself against all kinds of opposition this year and he is expected to be of much help tonight. Capt. Jim Kelly and Buck LaCroix at the guards have not yet reached the form they showed in 1927, but there is every indication that they are now about ripe for this change. Both boys have been playing greatly in hard luck and they feel it is now about time to shake the jinx. Schwartzburg, the fighting little guard, Tommy Lynch, Stevens and Henschel are those most likely to fill in at center or guards if needed.

Bulkeley Threatens

For Bulkeley, Frank Locke, Capt. Ellis and Ray Palmer appear to be the greatest offensive threats. Each is doing fine work to date and they will no doubt give the locals a lot of trouble. The forwards tonight for the Orange and Black are well known here abouts, namely Locke, baseball and football star and Brennan, baseball catcher. At center will be Hubert Ellis, the boy who scored the touchdown against the Academy last fall and who now has been going great guns in basketball. Playing with amateur teams early in the season this boy has been tossing in a large number of points, recently scoring 21 of his team's 27 points against the strong C. F. C. team of this city. At the guards for Bulkeley will be Ray Palmer, football captain last fall and either Gorton or Watterson, other well known Orange and Black performers. As reserve material Bulkeley has Irby and Morrissey guards, Bernstein, center and Itzkowitz, forwards.

Fast Preliminary

The preliminary tonight brings together the Y Seniors and the Marines of the New London City league. These two teams are strong rivals and this game no doubt will be a real treat for those that arrive early.

The Y has played two games, winning from the U. S. S. Pequot and losing to the New London Emeralds so that in this third tilt they will without doubt strive hard to break the .500 mark toward their liking.

There will be a Senior church league game at 7 with the Y game at 8 and the main attraction at 9:05.

BRIDGEPORT IN DANGER OF LOSING LEAGUE BALL

BRIDGEPORT, Jan. 27—(AP)—Bridgeport manufacturers and business men will have to subscribe at least $35,000 to the $50,000 needed to operate the local franchise in the Eastern league within the next three weeks or the franchise will be sold, it was decided at a meeting of the directors here today.

President Voos, who with Vice President Rood spent two months visiting the business men, reported at the meeting that less than one-fourth of the needed amount has been subscribed.

Mr. Voos was re-elected president of the club and two new directors were named.

TY COBB REJECTS OFFER FROM ATLANTA, SAYS RUMOR

ATLANTA, Ga., Jan. 27—(AP)—The Atlanta Journal said today in a special story from Augusta, Ga., that Ty Cobb has rejected an offer of $25,000 to play in the outfield for the Atlanta club of the Southern association.

The story said Cobb would not play baseball this season.

Bell J. Spiller, owner of the Atlanta club, could not be reached for comment.

GIANTS NOT SEEKING TRIS SPEAKER'S SERVICES

NEW YORK, Jan. 27—(AP)—Tris Speaker, gray-haired veteran of many a bitter American league campaign, may switch his allegiance to the National league next summer, but it will not be with the New York Giants.

Commenting on the reports that the Giants were seeking Speaker's services, Secretary Jim Tierney said today the club was "not interested."

The Boston Red Sox, the Philadelphia Athletics, and the Montreal club in the International league also have been mentioned as being in the market for Speaker, whose unconditional release by the Washington Senators is effective February 1.

Virtually every club in the National league could use a good outfielder, but Speaker's salary demands have kept most of them out of the field.

In the American league Connie Mack has admitted he would like to get Speaker if they could agree on the amount he was to receive.

The possibility that Speaker might return to the Red Sox with whom he starred from 1909 to 1916 appeared dissipated as a result of a statement by Jim Price, Boston secretary denying that the Red Sox were after the former idol of "Hub fans." Price said the Red Sox were building a team of youngsters "and Speaker wouldn't fit in at all."

Manager George Stallings of Montreal is the only one who has admitted he had actually begun negotiations with the veteran outfielder. Stallings said today he had discussed with Speaker the possibility of his joining the Royals and had "found him agreeable."

COOLIDGE INTEREST IN ARMY-NAVY DISPUTE CASUAL

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27.—(AP) — It was stated flatly today at the white house that President Coolidge has taken no part in the dispute between West Point and Annapolis over football regulations.

It was said that the president's interest in the disagreement between the two service institutions was of the most casual nature and his knowledge of the dispute which threatens to prevent their annual football game next fall was confined to what he had seen in the newspapers.

The white house comment was occasioned by a statement in today's New York World that President Coolidge was ready to see that the game was played.

MEYERS TO RETIRE AFTER ONE MORE TITLE MATCH

CHICAGO, Jan. 27.—(AP)—Johnny Meyers, holder of the world's middleweight wrestling title for ten of the last 11 years, announced today he would sign for one more championship match and if he won he would retire. Meyers agreed to meet Charles "Midget" Fisher, Wisconsin lumberjack, if Fisher proved winner in some elimination matches here.

"Making the middleweight limit of 160 pounds is growing more difficult for me," said Meyers. "I am willing to do it just once more, and if I win then I will retire."

In his last title match, against Jimmy Demetral of Madison, Wis., a month ago, Meyers had to reduce about 12 pounds.

CONN. BOXERS GIVE PHIL. TEAM TRIMMING

NEW BRITAIN, Jan. 27—(AP)—Connecticut boxers won three out of four fights from a Philadelphia team in an amateur card here tonight in which Jack Kelly, of Waterbury, light heavyweight champion of this state won the judges' decision over Bishop Hart, of Philadelphia. Other results:

Johnnie Clinch, New Britain, beat Al McGurk, Philadelphia, 145.

Frank Columbo, Windsor Locks, beat Art Madeau, Philadelphia, 138.

Bob Hamilton, Philadelphia, beat Ray Taylor, Terryville, 135.

Frank Cugno, New Britain, beat Joe Sline, Hartford, 135.

Mike Tabelleone, New Britain, beat George Lupi, Springfield, 133.

Del Poulet, New Britain, knocked out Tony Peretta, New Britain, 2—120.

Don Lametti, Windsor Locks, beat Charles Viani, Hartford, 145.

Joe Zotter, New Britain, knocked out Felix Cormier, Springfield, 1—135.

Don Fusco, New Britain, won technical knockout over Pete Orsilino, Springfield, 3—118.

CHARLIE ROOT RETURNS HIS CONTRACT UNSIGNED

CHICAGO, Jan. 27—(AP)—Charlie Root, ace of the Chicago Cubs pitching staff, has returned his 1928 contract unsigned, officials of the club admitted tonight. President William L. Veeck of the Cubs would not discuss the case other than to say that Root did not approve a certain provision in the contract. He said he is confident the disagreement will be ironed out and that Root will be present at the club's training camp at Catalina Island next month.

Root won 26 and lost 15 games last season.

PLAN COLLEGE SUPPORT FOR OLYMPICS

NEW YORK, Jan 27—Plans to unite the colleges and universities of the country solidly in support of a campaign to help finance the 1928 American Olympic team were disclosed tonight by Gustav T. Kirby shortly before his departure on the liner Aquitania for Europe as official American delegate to the Olympic winter sports in Switzerland.

Plan for $100,000

Mr. Kirby announced that a preliminary organization already has been set up to enlist this support. No fixed goal has been set, he said, but it will be the aim of college men to raise $100,000 or one-fourth of the amount required to send the American athletes abroad for the international games, and already $20,000 has been pledged, Mr. Kirby said.

At the request of Major General Douglas MacArthur, president of the American Olympic committee, Mr. Kirby has accepted the chairmanship of the Intercollegiate Finance committee but during his absence of approximately two months abroad the work will be directed by the vice-chairman, Stanley Del. Osborne of Harvard.

Colleges Furnished Large Percentage

Since the colleges contributed 86 per cent. of the 1924 Olympic athletic talent, Mr. Kirby pointed out, it seems altogether appropriate for them to contribute as much financially as possible. Some 460 institutions in every section of the country will be canvassed.

Not only will contributions be solicited but benefit performances will be held, in some instances an additional sum, to go to the Olympic fund, will be added to the customary cost of tickets for important games.

Active work in raising the money will be in the hands of a group of college men who have volunteered their services, without compensation, Mr. Kirby revealed. They include G. Norman Scott of Cornell, Lee O. Combs, Jr., Harvard man now with the University of Southern California; Richard L. Kennedy, Jr., of Princeton; Willard J. Slagle, of Massachusetts Institute of Technology; H. Jamison Swarts of Pennsylvania and John J. Tucker, Princeton man, now at Columbia.

College leaders, in addition to Mr. Kirby and Mr. Osborne, who were responsible for setting the organization in motion at a recent meeting include Romeyn Berry and John T. McGovern of Cornell, A. C. Gilbert of Yale, Lloyd Georgeson of California, Rupert B. Thomas, Jr., of Princeton, and A. Jocelyn H. Magrath of New York university.

TENORIO AND BRUCE FLOWERS BATTLE TO DRAW

NEW YORK, Jan. 27—(AP)—Lope Tenorio sensational Filipino, battled ten gruelling rounds to a draw with Bruce Flowers, New Rochelle Negro, in the feature match at Madison Square Garden tonight. Both scaled 136.

Flowers gained a draw, and in the opinion of many spectators a slight edge, by a fierce rally in the closing rounds. The brown-skinned Filipino from the rice-paddies of Luzon had Flowers on the verge of a knockout in several of the early rounds from fierce right hand punches to the jaw. He tired toward the close, however, and suffered cuts about the eyes under the Negro's slashing two-fisted attack.

Sangor Wins

NEW YORK, Jan. 27—(AP)—Joey Sangor, Milwaukee, featherweight celebrated his eastern dbeut by whipping Sammy Dorfman, local pride, in a ten round match in Madison Square Garden tonight. Sangor scaled 127; Dorfman a pound heavier.

Sangor stopped Dorfman's long string of victories in impressive fashion, rapping the New Yorker badly about the head and body with a knifing right hand. Dorfman had difficulty in each of the final three rounds, but managed to keep off the canvas.

Archie Bell, New York bantamweight contender, bested Vic Burrone, hometown rival in a unique ten-rounder. The pace was so fast, the battling so clean, that the referee failed to catch them in a single clinch. Bell, scaling 119 1-2 had a wide margin. Burrone weighed 122 1-2.

Amando Schekels, of Belgian, won on a foul in six rounds from Mickey Chapin, Scranton, Pa., in the first ten-rounder. A low punch dropped Schekels after two minutes and 28 seconds of fighting in the round. Chapin weighed 134, Schekels 136 1-2.

AMERICA'S FISTIC HOPES NOT SO BLACK, SAYS LACEY

BOSTON, Jan. 27—(AP)—Al Lacey, of Chelsea, veteran campaigner of the amateur boxing ring and prominently mentioned possibility for the coach's berth of the American-Olympic boxing team, today declared that America's fistic hopes at Amsterdam were not half as black as he had been credited with painting them.

"After the amateur bouts here Monday I was quoted as saying we had a fine chance to take it on the chin, but that's twisting facts," he declared. "I did say the boxers from Boston, New York and Pittsburgh who showed here were weak, but they aren't picked for the Olympics. Nobody's going to know the Olympic prospects until after the amateur championships here in April."

WINANS REFUSES TO CONFER ON ARMY-NAVY GAME

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27—(AP)—Major General Winans, commandant at West Point, has rejected a proposal that he confer in New York Feb. 1 with Rear Admiral Nulton, superintendent of the Naval academy, in an effort to clear the way for an Army-Navy football game next fall.

The military head's refusal to participate in such a conference was announced tonight by Representative Fish of New York who with Representative Britten of Illinois, a member of the house naval committee, had suggested the conference in an effort to break the deadlock between the two service schools.

MARTINS AND FAVORITES MEET AT J. CITY SUNDAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Jan. 27—At Ashland Park Sunday will be played the second game of a series between the J. B. Martins of Taftville and the Jewett City Favorites, a soccer team that has been strengthened with Wm. McCluggage as goal tender. The J. B. Martins are credited with the first game and the local team is out for revenge, having been beaten in the last game by a slight margin.

LOTT AND SHIELDS TO MEET IN TENNIS FINALS

MONTREAL, Que., Jan. 27.—(AP)—George M. Lott, Jr., of Chicago, defending champion, and Frank Shields, of New York, will meet tomorrow in the singles final of the Canadian indoor tennis championships.

Lott advanced into the titular round by vanquishing Percy L. Kynaston of New York in a hard fought struggle by 3-6, 6-4, 8-6, 6-1 in the semi-finals play today. Shields qualified by a victory over Jack Wright of Montreal, 3-6, 6-3, 1-6, 6-7, 6-4.

BASKETBALL BRIEFS

The Academy and Bulkeley tonight.

The Taftville Crescents may add another game to their already busy list for a tilt is pending with Webster Kaceys for Sunday afternoon at Webster. Tonight the Crescents play Battery B at Westerly.

The Crescents lost a tough Thursday night in Southbridge. After leading by a rather safe margin in the first half they let the visitors trickle through to win by two points.

Millville is still master of the Danielson Town team, it seems. Although Billy Schofield again played a fine game still his mates could not give enough for a victory. Danielson seemed to be shooting in hard luck. Keach especially missing many of those in-and-out tosses.

The Plainfield Buddies, it appears, can beat all of them except the C. F. C. The Buddies had little trouble with the Danielson Seconds Wednesday night in a game replete with all kinds of basketball. It got rough at times and Joe Eaton and Godreau were ejected in the closing minutes by Referee Belzniak.

The Plainfield Pros, no doubt, will draw another capacity house next Wednesday for they appear to have booked a real first-line attraction in the Philadelphia Royal Colored Giants. The Pros have been attempting to line up this team for some time.

That the Pros are giving the fans the best in the court line is evidenced by the capacity audiences that greet them each week. It is doubtful if the Plainfield team could have done as good in this matter had they entered the state league, even though there are few who won't vouch that the Pros are capable of holding their own with the best in this loop.

The C. F. C. have booked another game, meeting the Mystic Shamrocks Monday, Feb. 13, at the "Y" gym.

Steffy Stavinitsky and Whitey Bernot will be joining the Meriden Endees for their state league games, that is, all of them except those on Wednesday night, or when Plainfield plays, and they ought to help Jack Curry's team a lot.

The Hartford Yankees, formerly the Dixies, apparently are in for another session around the foot of the State league. At least, they are, if they don't show more than they did the other night in losing to Meriden.

JIMMY QUINN LOSES A CLOSE DECISION TO DEVINE AT PUTNAM

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, Jan. 27.—Jimmy Quinn, popular Norwich featherweight, lost a four round decision here tonight to Harry Devine of Worcester, generally recognized as national title-holder. It was unpopular with the crowd and was roundly booed.

Quinn gave Devine a hard battle all the go, the Worcester lad being extended to the utmost and showing little like a champ. The going was even practically throughout, in the opinion of ringsiders with both boys being content to box. Neither was marked at the finish. Devine weighed 127 and Quinn 124.

The other Norwich boys also returned home on the wrong end of the score. Frankie Adams lost to Ted Grenier of Gresvenordale in three rounds, Eddie Busch was knocked out in the second round by Bushey Levine of Worcester and Johnny Kopp lost a decision to Lucian Brouillard of Danielson.

Adams and Kopp were not beaten by anything like wide margins for both lads put up a real argument before succumbing. Adams weighed 133 and Grenier 134. Kopp scaled in at 135 and Brouillard had a three pound advantage. Busch weighed 164 and Levine 163.

Peloquin Wins Twice.

Rene Peloquin of Danielson won two bouts on tonight's card. First he met Eugene Maxham of Baltoville in the sixth bout and knocked him out in the second round. In the final or eighth bout on the program, he won a decision over Eric Peterson of Worcester. Peloquin weighed 116 while Maxham was at 122 and Peterson at 120.

In the opening bout on the card Eugene Billings of Goodyear, 138, knocked out Jim Ryan, of Putnam, 146, in the second round. Alex Sousquet, 144, of Danielson won the decision in three rounds over Paul Koski of Worcester, 146. The third bout was between Grenier and Adams, the fourth the Levine-Busch setto and the fifth the Brouillard-Kopp battle.

The referees were A. Jarvis and F. Bennett while E. Renault and P. Whitman acted as judges and W. Jarvis was timekeeper.

A crowd of about 300 of whom a good-sized number was from Norwich witnessed the bouts.

KAPPAS GO OVER GAMMAS IN SENIOR CHURCH GAME

The Kappa club of the First Baptist church defeated the Gamma club of Greek Orthodox church Friday evening at the Y gym in a Senior Church league game by a 28 to 21 score. The winners had the edge in all but the third quarter when the Gammas staged a strong rally and came within two points. The Kappas led by 17 to 7 at half time.

Economous of the losers was high scorer with 15 points while Archibald and Nielsen of the winners were not far behind with 13 and 10 points, respectively.

TY COBB SAYS HE WILL NOT PLAY IN MINORS

AUGUSTA, Ga., Jan. 27.—(AP)—Ty Cobb on his return home today from a hunting trip, announced that he would decline a contract tendered by the Atlanta club of the Southern association offering $25,000 for his services this year.

The Georgia peach said he couldn't say whether or not he would play this season.

CHICAGO, Jan. 27.—(AP)—Jim Mullen, Chicago boxing promoter, tonight denied he had made any offers to Gene Tunney for a championship match i.. 1928. The present crop of heavyweights hardly merits such a match, he said.

BUILDING OPERATIONS IN NORWICH

During the past week five permits were issued by Fire Marshal Howard L. Stanton and one was ordered granted by the zoning commissioners on the petition of Isaac Fishkin. Included in the permits were two for alterations at the Wauregan hotel block owned by Harry M. Land. Contractor P. F. Sweeney was awarded the contract for the work. The alterations will include the remodeling of the Main street entrance to the hotel and also the remodeling of the store formerly occupied by the Maurice Sample Shop. The store is to be remodeled into what is termed as a lunch-bar room. Here modern restaurant equipment will be installed with booths around the room. The entrance is to be remodeled into a store with a passageway running directly through the store into the main lobby of the hotel.

Another permit of note is for a new bungalow on Page street. These permits bring the building total for January up to thirteen permits for the month a number that is well ahead of the normal average for the month of January.

Continued fair weather proved beneficial to contractors with buildings in the progress of construction and considerable progress was made during the week.

The permits issued by Fire Marshal Stanton are as follows:

To Frank Bronejko to erect a frame bungalow on Page street for Stanley Olsiewski. The bungalow will be 28x40 feet with stone and concrete. The exterior will be finished in clapboards and shingles. Owner's estimate of cost is $3,000.

To P. F. Sweeney, to alter the present entrance to the Wauregan hotel on Main street for Harry M. Land. The general idea is to change entrance into a store, there to be a passage by door from the lobby to Main street through the store. Owner's estimate of cost is $1,565.

To Franklin G. Waters to erect a 3-car garage on West Thames street for Henry Allard. The garage will be 20-30 feet with stone foundation. Owner's estimate of cost is $350.

To P. F. Sweeney to remodel the store in the Wauregan hotel for Harry M. Land. The store will be remodeled into a lunch-bar room. Booths also will be installed. Owner's estimate of cost is $8,245.

To Isaac Fishkin to erect a one-story building, 40x40, on what is known as the old battle grounds, owned by Casper K. Bailey. The building will be used as a blacksmith shop. Owner's estimate of cost is $700. (The above permit was refused by the fire marshal and then granted by order of Zoning commissioner).

To A. Longo to add frame sun porch to the present frame house on Bosw

LIQUORS TAKEN IN RAIDS ARE ORDERED DESTROYED

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Jan. 27—A short third district court session was held by Judge Oliver H. Williams this morning. On the criminal docket, State, Thomas E. State, Thomas E. Brown vs. James Salimeno. There was no appearance for liquors and vessels secured by Lieutenant George Champlin and Officer Michael Curtin in a search of the Providence Cafe, 73 Pleasant street, when two glasses with a liquid were taken from the bar.

NOANK

MAN FORGOT DOOR-KEY—THOUGHT SECOND STORY CROOK

Coming home from New York Thursday at 2 a. m., a local man had forgotten his key to the house. It was Sam Long. He reasoned that his wife would not wake up if a 6-inch gun was shot off, so Sam got a ladder to enter the second story where he lives. Night Cop Elmer Baker was walking his beat on that street and saw this man trying to get into the house—So Cop Baker went along by the fence, made a quick grab and caught the second story man, hissing "You are under arrest!" Sam started to explain who he was. By this time Mrs. Long heard the noise and wanted to know what was the matter. The cop answered that he had caught a burglar and brought his man to her. "Why, that is my husband!" she said. So he had to let his prize go. "But remember, Mr. Long," he said, "don't forget your house key again, as it will be better for us all! You won't have to wake up the town trying to get in! See? I walk round the village all night to protect every one and look out for stores in all kinds of weather. You will find me on the job at any hour! Any time if in trouble and you cannot get in your house, let me know! We will find a way to do the trick!" Sam said he has traveled many parts of the world but never found a better or kinder cop than the night man of this fishing village.

Dexton Holiday is spending a few days at Deep River.

Howard Jackson, of Lawrence, Mass., is visiting relatives in Noank for a week.

Miss C. Smith, of Hartford, is home over the week-end.

Noank Fire Co. held a dance recently at Unity hall. A crowd of fans from near and far attended so that over 175 were in the hall. Hanney's Noble Five orchestra of Niantic gave plenty of peppy music that made the jazz step along. A moonlight dance was a feature. A big round moon was in a corner shining on the dancers. The lights were worked by Sam Carson. A special cop has been sworn in by the town officials to keep order at all dances. He is Earl Foster. Floor Manager Jack Ellis called for a wild west dance and six sets were on the floor while Prof. Merton Beebe in a strong voice called off. When "Wild West" was heard, it meant get a lady and freeze the other fellow. It was a barrel of fun for those on the side lines watching to see the boys run for a partner. That was the first time that the Smoke Eaters tried out the Wild West and everybody kept saying "Have it again next week!"

The Boy Scouts' basketball team, after winning six straight games, had its record broken Thursday when the Night Owls of Mystic turned the trick before a good sized crowd. The Night Owls' team has been working hard to trim the fast-going young soldiers of the village, but the team from up the river failed to do it. Referee Tracy got the first quarter going and it was not long when Giant Sweet made a pretty shot for two points for the Scouts. Never Fail Brown, of the Night Owls, showed the Scouts how to do it and made three field goals in about four minutes. Then the quarter was over, Scouts 7, Night Owls 8. The second quarter saw them at it again. Pep Sheeman had the Indian sign on Midget Robertson, for he could not get a basket. Mystic was using the five-man back, while the Fighting Scouts were shooting over their heads and falling short on the shots. The first half ended, Scouts 11, Night Owls 15.

In the third quarter, the Scouts were using pass work, trying to foil their rivals, but it was no use; the Night Owls knew a trick or two about the indoor game. Lanky Chesebro was dropping them in at all shapes for Noank; but Mystic still was going strong, so that the score was Night Owls 20, Scouts 19. The final quarter found the fighting Scouts putting pep into the game, working hard for a victory, but the Night Owls had too much Brown on the team, putting in 10 field goals and 2 fouls for 22 points and this put the game on the ice. Scorer Eugene Mallett read the final score—Night Owls 27, Scouts 21. Referee Tracy; Scorer, Mallett.

SOME OF MAJESTIC'S RECIPES

Dear Social Corner Editor and Sisters: I thought I would write a few lines as I have not written in some time. Hope all the sisters are well. There is a good deal of sickness now and I will be glad when spring comes. I guess we all will, for that matter. Winter must come first, though, with its ice and snow.

I thank the Social Corner sister that sent me the lovely calendar. It was certainly a beauty and I was pleased to receive it.

Kitty Lou: How are you? Have you had much snow yet down where you are? We have had a little snow here in Rhode Island, but not very much yet. Rhody Louise is pretty well. She often speaks of you.

I am sending a few recipes. Some of the sisters may like to try them some day.

Caramel Pineapple Cake: Drain the juice from 4 slices pineapple, cut into pieces, and arrange the fruit in a greased cakepan. Sprinkle with brown sugar, and over this pour a 3-egg sponge-cake batter. Bake from 30 to 40 minutes in a moderate oven (326 degrees F.). Garnish with puffed raisins and slices of glazed pineapple.

Whipped Cream Chocolate Roll: Cream together 5 egg yolks and 6 tablespoons confectioners' sugar and add 2 squares chocolate, melted, 1 tablespoon pastry flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, and 1 teaspoon baking soda. Whip 6 egg whites very stiff and add to the mixture. Butter and flour a baking-sheet. Spread the mixture on the sheet and bake for about 7 to 10 minutes in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.). When baked place on a damp cloth and cover

Fillings: Whip 1 pint cream. Flavor it with vanilla, add powdered sugar to taste, and spread on the cake. Roll the cake with the bottom cloth. Cover with chocolate icing. Sprinkle with with a damp cloth.

LESSONS

Dear Social Corner Friends: Many thanks to the editor for the December prize check, a very much appreciated surprise.

An unfortunate person recently said: "I hope my life will be a lesson to the world; if I had the chance to live it over, I would be good."

A notorious criminal said: "It does not pay to be a criminal. I began when very young to take and use small articles that were not mine, and I continued the bad habit, taking things of larger value all my life, and now I am to suffer my punishment for a life of crime. I never knew what it was to enjoy the peace and quiet and comfort of a normal individual—wrong doing, hunted, capture, confinement, escape, crime and recapture has been my life. If I could live my life over I would be an honest and law-abiding citizen."

Surely these persons were not prepared for life.

How much trouble is made because we keep on with habits and ideas which may have been suited to former generations but which are not at all sufficient in different circumstances now.

Every child should be trained to be self-governed and to decide and choose the right, to do as he would be done by. How carefully we keep the small boy by himself, not wishing him to learn anything wrong from companions, and how surprised we are when he enters school to find that he welcomes and enjoys the rough ways and language and lawless actions of untrained companions. When we remonstrate he says: "But, mother, other people do not do and think as you do; they laugh at and enjoy hearing us tell of our fun and life."

Prepare the child by teaching and practice so he will never think that wild ways are creditable. Teach him it is only low and uncultured people who like such doings. If you behave like an animal, if you do the things an animal would do, you must expect to be used like one.

The way for one to succeed, to be happy, to have one's liberty, is to do right.

Be sure the child's first impressions are good ones.

We know now that temper and anger when being crossed or restrained in any way is the natural reaction common to everyone. The important question is, has the child been trained to control his temper or has he been trained to lose his temper at every provocation?

HOW TO MAKE VALENTINES

Dear Cornerites: Someone wished to know how to make valentines. For valentines or place cards, the general instructions are these: Cards red or any color, heart-shaped or plain, flat bone buttons attached with good glue and jet dry in very firmly. Then with opaque white paint fill in the "eyeballs," let dry, put a black dot in each eye. For the rest one may trace or sketch little figures, and color any way desired. Show card ink must of course be used on colored cards and on the buttons, too, as they color better.

These cards will be infinitely more attractive when you make them yourself. Their little boneheads stand right up, natural as life; by far the most amusing thing about them is the way they roll their roly poly eyes. Turn them a bit to one side and then they give the most coquettish look; turn one down and he rolls his eyes heavenward—or, well, vice versa. You can make them as valentines or place cards.

Little figures of Eve, a sheik, a bride, a policeman, Cupid, an Eskimo, an artist, a nurse a Scotch laddie, a Romeo, may all be used with interesting results.

These little verses may be written on these cards:

Valentine gave Hearts, I believe,
Button apple came from Eve.
I choose Cupid for my master,
Button elder hands work faster.
My complexion really "ain't,"
Button artist can use paint;
By your gate I'd warble yet,
Button notice said "To Let."
I would play sheik to my honey,
Button Arab looks so funny.
I would not have teased you so
Button officer said "Go!"
Thought I'd go jump in the lake
Button nurse removed the ache.
Hoped your love for me would grow,
Button iceberg can't, you know.
Girl, I loved you from the start,
Button nother won your heart.

I think you will enjoy making these valentines.

Here is how to make comic valentines, as children will send a great many valentines to their little friends, and relatives, too. It is much more fun to make them than buy them. I have just made a number of quite pretty ones. There are a few comic ones. I cut pictures out of magazines. They should first be colored, and cut out before mounting upon card. Suitable original verses should accompany each picture. As everyone from granddad to baby appreciates the humor of "comic" valentines, they are very popular.

Here are a few suggestions: Cut out a picture of a run-about auto with accompanying verse:

"I'd run about a hundred miles
To catch and keep one of your smiles."

Cut out a picture of an airplane and the couplet:

My plane thoughts I here do plan,
Won't you be my valentine?

Picture of wagon heavily loaded with large parcels (latter may be cut from magazines and pasted in wagon) with verse:

I bring you loads of love and my—
Be my valentine today!

Picture of a crying baby and sentiment: "I'll feel like this if you won't be my valentine. Please favor me."

Ever so many more amusing valentines of this sort may be "created" with a little ingenuity and familiarity with the recipient's "whimsy."

For little girls take the little doll, gild the feet, sew them on a standard (I use cardboard), dress them in hearts, cut out hearts and paste on wire, put this over the head and make a little hole in the hand to hold the wire. In the other hand make a bouquet of hearts, paste a crown on the head of gold ribbon with hearts. This seems quite taking.

You can color pretty girl in stylish garments (preferable first in underwear found in sections of woman's magazine), mount upon cardboard and cut out; make standard of cardboard as "stand" for doll, make pretty waistcoat, hats, coats, dresses, underwear, etc., color, enclose in large addressed envelope and place slip of pink glove paper in latter upon which the following verse has been written:

You're valentine I'd like to be—
I think you'll like to play with me.

Valentines for little boys: Color, mount upon cardboard and cut out medium sized animals to be found in magazines (advertising sections). Paste wide strips of adhesive tape across the tops of two large square pieces of cardboard. These when properly placed form a tent, the adhesive tapes form a hinge at top of latter.

Send a little boy the following rhymes:

Most of the animals from the zoo
Have come to live and play with you.
With tent and all—just place it right,
And there's a home quite snug and tight.

Another most welcome valentine may be eaten afterward! Cook vanilla flavored candy until of "pulling" consistancy. Best in a teaspoon of pink coloring and mark candy with heart-shaped cutter. Remove from pan to waxed paper before candy is hard. Mark features upon hearts with confectioners' sugar and milk, using toothpick. Insert small meat skewers in "points" of hearts for holding sticks while candy is still soft, wrap in waxed paper and send in pretty box to little folks.

For mother: Buy a large heart-shaped candy box at confectioner's store. Line bottom of box with silver colored tissue paper and fill with fancy bonbons wrapped in red and silver tissue paper. Copy pretty little sentiments and mottoes upon little slips of white paper. Paste end of slips to bonbons so that she can remove them loose. Samples of sentiments suitable for slips are:

"Each day I love you more and more."
"My love for you cannot be told."
"Only one mother."

Jennie: I sent you a package; did you receive it?

KITTY LOU.

CORRECTIONS

Dear Social Corner: In last week's Bulletin there were two mistakes in my letter. It should read "movie Magazine, instead of Mecca. I never heard of such a book. Another mistake was "useful" knowledge, instead of woeful. I suppose the proofreaders have a terrible time trying to read some of the letters, and no wonder, so I'll forgive.

A HOME-MADE DUST MOP

Dear Editor and Sisters of the Corner: The season's greetings to each and all, and may the present year bring happiness, pleasure and cheer especially to the sick and shut-ins. We have had a wonderful winter, no snow, but plenty of mud on the country roads. I, too, have enjoyed the sunsets. The other morning I saw the crescent moon and morning star. I was a beautiful sight.

From my bedroom window I can see the sun rise and from my kitchen windows I've seen many a gorgeous sunset.

One time when I wanted a dust mop and didn't have it, I made one. The coat was trifling, too. I cut the feet from four pairs of old stockings. Then I cut the legs of stockings through and joined them all together in a flat seam. When finished I poured a cup of kerosene over it and rolled it tight and left it for 24 hours. I bought a mop handle for 17 cents, inserted the mop, and it has been in use for over two years. When it becomes soiled I wash it in soap shot suds, rinse and dry it, and its ready to use again, after the kerosene poured on has drawn through. Dusty mops are as unsightly as dusty furniture, and this little mop makes my kitchen linoleum look bright and clean.

Jennie: Yes! I enjoyed the old time music of merry Christmas and happy New Year, thank you.

There are so many new writers, I wonder where all the pen names come from. The more, the merrier, so come along and join the Corner for good times. Best wishes,

WILTWICK.

Feb. 14—Club No. 12 meets in Buckingham Memorial.

STRAY LINES FROM AUNT SARAH

Dear Corner Friends: What a good time we had at the last one, and how much I wished I could be there to join in and enjoy the fun. Impossible in all my life, and write it seems my letters are few and far between, this year, but I will try to do better in 1928.

Hello, Mrs. Social Corner Member, for again sending me such a pretty calendar. We all love flowers and it is great to see so many potted plants at each home. Different and changing as the months fly by, which they come and go, reminding us of our obligation to the Corner page, which cannot be maintained without our contributions.

I was glad to bring to mind to write about the very enjoyable meeting of Club No. 1 I attended at Aunt Sarah's. It was indeed the gathering we had at the old home which like a family circle, sitting around in a cozy home and having a good visit with each one. There was room enough at the tables for all in the bright and cheerful dining room and the table was filled with the delicious food provided by Club No. 3 members.

When I attended the meeting of Club No. 3 I was greatly impressed with their very pleasing program, also want to mention the most delicious and plentiful dinner I ever had in Norwich. Your system is to be commended, and the manner of serving.

Dear Bluebell: You make a good hostess. As an "old timer" you should have served before.

Photographer: What has become of you? So many new writers it might be amusing if you got started in your old pursuit again. Won't you write to me and send me your name and address, as I have lost yours.

Jennie: Your letter was just fine, Black-eyed Susie: Was glad to see you with the others at our club meeting, but did not get a chance to visit with you. I enjoyed the music so much.

Sympathy to the sorrowing and best wishes to the Editor and every Corner member.

THEODA.

WHERE ARE THE BIRDS?

Dear Social Corner Sisters and Editor: I wish to acknowledge with thanks the receipt of one of those pretty potted calendars. I had been wondering what they were, like, but did not expect one this year, as it has been so long since I wrote a letter to the Corner page.

I was amused with Pisces' idea of people having their pictures with their mouths open. I have had similar thoughts as I have looked over papers and magazines and many photographs. My children used to ask me: "Ma, why do you keep your mouth shut so tight when we are taking a picture?" So one time I tried the smiling effect. The sun was shining in my eyes, causing me to squint, and with that silly smile I looked for all the world as though I was going to sneeze! Never again!

I wonder where all the birds have gone? Last winter there were seven or eight varieties around here, but we seldom see a single bird now. I wish the wren would come back. I used to feed them with the squirrels. They were very interesting. Perhaps The Friend, our Voice, can enlighten me. I wish I might invite Aunt Sarah's guest to know how many are heading this way tomorrow. I can answer for one. I have planned four, am making the fifth, and expect to make two or three more. Last winter I made nine from the first of November up to the middle of April, and sold them all. It's a good job to keep one contented, and we are told "A contented mind is a continual feast." However, I have to have other things to feast upon.

What a fine lot of letters we had in the last Corner page. I enjoyed them all, especially Kitty Lou's. I think one must be loaded with ideas all the time. Best wishes for the year for all the members and everyone concerned.

LITTLE SISTER.

LIFE'S UNCERTAINTIES

Dear Social Corner Editor and Sisters: Will celebrate my birthday by writing to the Corner.

What a horrible accident it was that occurred on Preston bridge Monday evening! As I knew all the parties, it was somewhat of a shock. The family need across from my husband's people, and since my marriage I had gotten acquainted with them. It was quite a pleasant thought that they were at my home for a little while. I am indeed sorry for both his and her families.

It certainly goes to show that when we leave home we don't know what may happen before we return.

E. L. M.: Maybe you have the right number but I'm not there any more. We rented the house.

Phullet Phun: You certainly shouldn't be frozen up yet, but why don't you write? Look for your letters each Saturday.

Little Rhody: Come on, be a sport. Get your pen out of cold storage.

Tish: Have you been acting crazy again? By all accounts you should be ashamed of yourself. Don't you know you are grown up?

Guess Blandina must be enjoying herself so much that she has forgotten the Corner exists.

Milkmaid: Hope your family arrived Home safely Tuesday evening. You mustn't let your nerves get the best of you. Bet your pen is all clogged up for rusty. Why don't you show us it really? You have lots of good ideas tucked away. They will be thinking you're a Scotch pretty soon.

I thought that piece Kitty Lou had in last Saturday was O. K. There was a lot of truth in it. I don't think we express ourselves freely enough nowadays, although the coming generation says quite a little.

Will sign off for this time. Hope all the sick are better.

WHEN WHITEWASHING A CEILING

Dear Editor and Social Sisters: I did not intend coming so soon again. If I have started the ball rolling, let the good work go on.

I was pleased to see a well filled page this morning. The poems are fine; still we like to hear from the sisters—Providence Rose asked for the poem, Mary of the Wild Rose. I take pleasure in sending the same. I have had it many years and lots of other old ones.

Glad so many of the sisters enjoyed the Irishman's witty saying.

Marigold and Betsy Bray: I remember I owe you a letter. Thank you for remembering me at Christmas.

Scottie: I do not think you will see me again unless you come down. Why don't you come early some day and get Country Sister and go to True Blue's and see about our surprise box. It is nearing the time to see about them.

I have a bit of information for those who will soon begin to house clean.

When you whitewash a ceiling and do not wish to soil the border, (after washing the ceiling) take a small paint brush and whiten near the border for about two or three inches. Then you can go ahead and your border will be clean. I tried it last spring and my neighbor said she would try it. It was my own idea.

Milky Way: I was thinking your sister would stay another day as it rained so hard. You cannot complain so far this winter about the snow to travel through. Last Sunday a friend invited me to go with her to New London. We went to the memorial church for the 3-4 mem K was a beautiful service, but very sad. Hope we never must have occasion to attend another. The church was filled with men from the navy and their officers. The singing was very impressive.

First they sang For Those Who Perish on the Sea. The choir sang Crossing the Bar. The congregation sang Nearer, My God, to Thee and America.

The band playing so sweetly you would hardly know a band was playing. During silent prayer the organist played "Safe in the Arms of Jesus." I was pleased to have the chance to go.

Brown Eyes: Hope I shall see you. Take a trip over and bring little Brown Eyes with you.

CLUB NO. 6 HAD FINE MEETING

Dear Social Corner Members: This has been some windy day. Cosmos and I were in Norwich all day, saw May Fayre on the opposite side of the street but she did not see us. I don't mind the cold so long as it is not icy, but we get cards and letters now and then from the sunny south and we know it's summer somewhere.

Was some surprised to get a card from Slow saying she was in Florida.

Keziah: I see you have been visiting in Westerly. Why didn't you plan to be there on Club No. 6's meeting day? You may think you would not know any of the members, but guess you would find you had met some of them at grange meetings. We had about 70 at our meeting on Tuesday, and such good things to eat. Lady Lou and her helpers treated us royally. American Girl had a good program in the afternoon. To the "gentleman" of the school board we take off our hats.

We missed Zuleika. Sorry you did not feel like coming out. We missed you.

Oriole: I imagine if you were five or six miles from town you would not miss a meeting.

Milly: Where, oh! where were you? We all enjoyed hearing a letter read from Blandina, one of our members, who is spending some time in California. It must be delightful to be there.

Green Hills: So glad your daughter is doing so well. Was much surprised to hear she was in the hospital. We were glad to have so many from Club No. 6 with us.

Black-eyed Susie: Prudence gave me your message. Hope the little girl is all well now. I hope we will get up to the February meeting in Norwich, but if not then shall make an extra effort for the 7th anniversary meetings in March. That is when we will want to see a large crowd, too.

Calla Lily: I can't picture a meeting of Club No. 2 without your being present, but I see it has happened. Hope you won't have to be shut in long.

Maple Leaf: Think we met you on the road Saturday.

E. L. M.

HOME INSTRUCTION

Dear Editor and Social Friends: This is another of our dark afternoons, and I am alone again, so will try and write a little to keep me company. Here is a bit of home instruction:

Above all things, teach children what their life is. Life is a battle. All thoughtful people see it so. A battle between good and evil from childhood. Good influence drawing us up toward the divine; bad influence drawing us down toward the brute; midway we stand between the two. How to cultivate the good side of nature is the greatest lesson of life to teach. Teach children that they lead these two lives—the life without and the life within—and that the inside must be pure in sight of God and the outside in the sight of men. There are five means of learning—observation, reading, conversation, memory and reflection. Therefore, impress upon children the value of memory—for our memory is one of the most wonderful gifts that God has bestowed upon us, and one of the most mysterious.

Remember this:

Knowledge is not what, you learn, but what you remember.

It is not what you eat but what you digest that makes you grow.

It is not the money you handle but what you keep that makes you rich.

It is not what you study but what you remember and reflect upon that makes you learned.

One more suggestion: Above all things else, strive to make the children in your charge to be useful men and women, men and women you may be proud of in after life. While they are young, teach them that far above physical courage to stand fearlessly for the right (when evil has its legions) is the true moral in this life and in the life beyond the stars.

RECIPES BY TAFTS

Dear Editor and Sisters of Social Corner: Best wishes to all for the coming year. Many thanks to Social Corner Member for lovely potted plant calendar.

Minsmeat Bread: One egg, 1-2 cup sugar, 1 cup mincemeat, 1 tablespoon melted butter, 1-4 cup sweet milk, 1 1-4 cups sifted bread flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder. Stir thoroughly. Bake in loaf pan about 45 or 50 minutes. Nice for sandwiches and better a day or two after baking.

Cherry Upside Down Cake: Use medium size round or square cake pan. Put in the bottom of pan 2 tablespoons melted butter, 1-4 cup brown sugar; cover this with quartered marshmallows and 1 cup drained canned cherries and 3 tablespoons broken walnuts. Put the following batter over this and bake in slow oven until done:

Cake Batter: Two eggs, 3-4 cup of sugar, 1 cup pastry flour or cake flour sifted with 1 teaspoon baking powder, little salt. Mix with 1-2 cup very hot milk, little vanilla. Turn out when done, bottom side up. Serve with whipped cream. Very nice made with pineapple.

Floating Island: Beat whites of 5 eggs until foamy, add 1-4 teaspoon of cream tartar, beat until dry. Take 1-2 cup grape or apple jelly, melt with 2 tablespoons hot water, add 2 egg whites; beat well, turn into a greased large mold and cook 25 minutes in a steamer. Have a large mold as it rises a great deal. When done, put into a deep dish and surround with cold custard. Serve cold.

CHECKERBERRY SCHOOLHOUSE

Dear Social Corner friends: For Kochia and Peggy Alden I will write a few lines in regard to the Checkerberry schoolhouse which was destroyed by a forest fire some years ago. The old schoolhouse was a landmark here and was not only used for school but was often filled with people who held prayer meetings there. For over 20 years I was the hiring committee and I hired and boarded the teachers and I must say they were a pretty lively lot of girls. Some of them are living and will remember those days of teaching the pupils something besides picking checkerberries. The girls those days did not have bobbed hair and short dresses, but they were honest-to-goodness good girls. Some of them are Social Corner members.

I well remember one day a fine looking couple of middle age called and wanted to know the way to the Peppermint schoolhouse. When they saw a broad smile on my face they said "is this the way there?" I told them that peppermint did not grow there, but they could find plenty of checkerberries. They both said "That is the place. We knew it was some kind of essence!" With thanks they drove on to the land of Checkerberry schoolhouses.

RURAL DELIVERY.

WHEN CUTTING A BRICK OF BUTTER

Dear Social Corner Folks: What a lot of nice letters we had last Saturday—a page full to overflowing—And I was pleased to note that about one-third of them was from sisters of Club No. 4. Welcome to the many new members, the more the merrier. Rural Aunty hopes there will be a lot of picnics. I will go further and hope to attend a lot of them this year.

Now I wish to thank a Social Corner Member for my pretty potted plant calendar. I have it on my desk where I can see and use it every day. I also like the calendar from The Bulletin company with the picture of the Old Louis Barral Stocking Shop at Norwich Town.

Here is a little trick worth knowing: When cutting a brick of butter, there is a tendency for it to crumble or break at the corners if cut in the ordinary way when ice cold. This may be avoided by cutting a two-inch strip from the paper in which the butter is wrapped and folding it over the knife blade before cutting. The perfect surface thus made is a satisfaction, and the knife is left clean.

Keziah Doolittle: Glad to hear from you and know where you are.

Last Rose of Summer: Hurry up and get well. I am lost not to hear your voice.

Piscea: Your letter on condemning others brought to my mind the following Negro melody:

You say you're aimin' fer de skies;
Why don't you stop yer tellin' lies?
You say de Lord has set you free;
Why don't you let yer neighbor be?

With best wishes,

PRIMROSE.

A GOOD RESOLUTION

Dear Social Corner Friends—I will try to write a few lines for our much-loved Corner. The first thing, I wish to thank the one that sent me the pretty calendar. I think I could guess pretty near who the sister was. It is very pretty and I have got it where I can see it nearly all the time as I have to stay in the Kitchen the greater part of the day. What a nice winter we have had so far, with once in a while a cold day, but we must expect that. Am so glad the days are getting longer. I do love long days where you can sit down in the afternoon and do as you please awhile. I have finished off two rugs and made a bedquilt and they are all sold. I find a market for them as soon as I can get them done. I do like to be busy with something. I think it is much better to have our minds occupied. If we keep doing something we won't think so much about our own ailments. So blessed be work. I say keep right on and look forward to the good old summer time when we can go out and sit in the shade of the old apple tree. I love that old song they used to sing by that name.

Am so glad club No. 4 is gaining. Hope we can have a lot of picnics this year. I enjoy them very much. I will send a very good recipe molasses cookies: One small cup molasses, 1 cup of sugar, 2-3 cup of lard, 1-4 tsp. salt, 1-2 tps of ginger and nutmeg, 1-2 cup cold water, 1 heaping teaspoon soda, flour enough to roll out. I think you will like them, as they always come out good. Hope someone will try them and report. Speaking about resolutions I think at the beginning of the new year the best one, or one of the best, is that not a day be allowed to slip by until we have made it a little brighter for some one. It is so easy to make others happy. Let us all try this way and see how many we can make a little better by being in contact with them. We must not only make resolutions but we must act as well.

RURAL AUNTY.

GREETINGS FROM 1492.

Dear Sisters and Editor: First I want to thank the Social Corner sister for my pretty calendar. I have it hanging in my music room beside my piano.

Say Caro that card was a dandy. Where did you find it? But what is the use of making that request, it would only last a short time before H. C. S. would say Caro, take your own seat. How we would miss E. and A. to say nothing of Lydia and the scattered ones that are still alive!

Nonesopretty: I'm glad you like your new home. I saw you go by twice one day when you met Master Peggy Alden at my driveway, but wasn't sure it was you until Master Peggy told me.

How is your plant, Twice Twenty? Mine is branching out and has three shoots come up from the root.

I didn't get my Bulletin last Saturday so know nothing about the Corner.

How Club 4 is growing! We'll have to have outdoor picnics in order to have room.

Lydia's Daughter: I thought of you Christmas and know how lonely you were. You have my sympathy. I fully intended to write but neglected to do it. May I borrow that film so I can get some pictures printed of it?

Well, Mrs. Dan, have you recovered from your fall. Wish I had been there with my camera. Hereafter you had better cut your Christmas tree Fourth of July when it is warm. Would like to send your picture to Minnesota, Ha! Ha!

CARO ASKS QUESTIONS

Dear Social Corner Friends: I much rather sit down Saturday morning and read the nice letters than to sit down and write a letter. Some days we do not receive The Bulletin in E. K. and often it is the Saturday paper—the very one I miss the most.

As I am writing I can look up at Esmeralda's picture and I want to stop and listen as if I could hear her dear voice call to me: "Hello, there Caro!" She was such good company. I miss her jolly calls over the phone, too.

Can any sister tell me how to keep lice off from sultanas, and what makes them so sticky, like melted sugar on the leaves?

1492: When do we take our walk down Memory's lane? If we wait until I "get permission to come and sit with you," it will be too late.

Twice Twenty: I do enjoy our chats over the phone, but I would like them better if we each were in a rocker with our patchwork, sewing as we gossiped.

None-So-Pretty: What has happened to your pen? I miss your nice letters. Coming to call soon.

Barbara: Are you having winter way up north? You have not been snowed in yet?

Kind thoughts for all.

CARO.

BLACKSMITHS GETTING FEWER

Dear Editor and Friends: Sitting by the window, looking across the way at the village smithy it took one back to my childhood days when I used to trot four miles to our old home village store to get our groceries and I always stopped at the smithy to see my uncle. How I loved to watch the blazing forge and see him put the iron in. When it was red hot he took his long tongs and took it out and hammered it into shape on the anvil. But I suppose they have changed like all else. There are but a few left now where there used to be so many. In a few more years they will have passed like the old smiths themselves but I love to see the flaming forge and hear the bellows roar.

Aries: Don't think I have forgotten you. I think of you every day and will answer your letter very soon.

Kansas Lily: I am so glad your hand is so you can write. Now while you can write come on and join Club No. 4, and have some fun this summer. Get after Leah, Sally Vi and Mildred; get them to come. They will like it very much. Tell Leah I am sorry little Madeline is sick. Hope she is better now. If I knew the one who sent me the potted plant calendar I would try and return the compliment some way, but I do appreciate it very much. Many thanks, Theoda: How are you? In your new home I hope.

NONESOPRETTY.

SUGGESTIONS BY BETSY BOBBETT.

Dear Editor and Sisters of the Corner: Was much interested in the article about Ford Ned, as I have seen the place and heard it called Fort Ned. Think it would be nice to have more letters written about interesting bits of local history. More interesting than the articles on our state now running in the papers. By the way, I noticed in one of them the statement that the farming land was all in the center of the state, the eastern and western portions of the state being mountainous and not adapted to farming. I don't know about the west, but in the eastern part, I've noticed that many of the hills are crowned with beautiful farms—think of Lebanon, Franklin, Hebron, Gilead, Bolton, Storrs, Pomfret Ekonk Hill and many others, all wonderful farming sections.

My call for letters about state parks and lookout stations did not seem to arouse much interest. Now I'll throw out another line, and see if I catch anything. Who can tell us about the so-called Diamond ledge, near Moosup and Cochegan rock, between Norwich and New London?

Now I'm going to make a suggestion about the club dinner—two in fact. The first is this: Why not have the hostesses eat dinner with the rest? The hot dishes can be put on the table just as well as to be passed by the hostesses. The coffee can be poured just before sitting down to dinner. Then with two hostesses sitting at the end of each table nearest the kitchen it will be easy for them to serve more coffee when it is called for. If this is done the work can be gotten out of the way quicker and the hostesses will have a little time for visiting with the rest.

The second suggestion is about appointing the hostess for each meeting. It seems to be increasingly difficult, especially towards the end of the season, to find any one willing to assume the responsibility, or to help serve. Now our club has a good many members, and there are only eight meetings in a season, beginning with October and ending with May. I suggest that we divide our club into eight sections. Each section to be responsible of one month's entertainment. Each section to decide among themselves their particular duties,—one or two for the entertainment, if any, one to solicit food, order supplies (rolls, etc.) to collect dues and pay bills. And by the way some of the older members wou'd be just the ones for those particular duties. Some who feel they can not help as they are not strong enough, can use their heads, and so save their heels and the other fellow's also.

Think this over Sisters, and if you find it practicable, everything should be arranged for the next year before the end of the May meeting.

BETSY BOBBETT.

DOESN'T WANT TO BE FORGOTTEN.

To Social Corner Friends: On reading the items in the Social Corner, last Saturday, saw that most everybody was thanking somebody for the New Year's calendar, which they received. As I was one that didn't get any, thought it might be my own fault, as I haven't written for so long a time that they thought Viola must have been "laid on the shelf." Now I don't want to be forgotten, whether I receive a Calendar or not, so shall endeavor to write oftener, and hope my letters will be as interesting and helpful as those the faithful Cornerites have written and I have enjoyed so much.

Roberta: Can you tell us something about the birds?

Last Rose of Summer: Hope you are better and will get to the next No. 4 social.

Here's hoping to be of some use to Social Corner this year.

VIOLA.

SOME CORRECTIONS

Dear Corner Sisters—First let me correct my mistake in last week's Corner page. Club No. 2 meets always the second Tuesday in each month, the February meeting coming on the 14th, not on the 7th as my letter read. How I made the mistake I don't know. Guess my glasses needed wiping.

Some how the printer got my name separated so it read Call on Lily, which I hope anyone who cares to will do, but it was meant for Calla Lily. The mistakes will happen and we will have to straighten them out as we read them. However, the invitation stands goods to call on Lily. It is by right my own name shortened.

What has become of Biddy, Theoda, Practical Polly and a few other old writers of Club No. 1? We have two of Club 1, Amity No. 1 and Sister Ready at our club and we surely would miss them if they stayed away.

Providence Rose—Isn't there some mistake in the Lily of your letter? I do not know the other flower name of our Social Corner bouquet or can I place you. If it's Calla Lily why explain who is who.

Balsam Fir—Your card message was welcome. Daddy is feeling lots better he says. He goes to the G. A. R. rooms every day. Where is your son H. now?

Best wishes,

CALLA LILY.

RECIPES BY DEVONA

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I want to write and tell you all what a nice time we had at our last meeting of Club No. 6. We missed a good many faces that we have been in the habit of seeing there and truly hope they were not kept at home by illness. Every one seemed to have a good time, as I think they always do. The entertainment was exceptionally good. I do enjoy reading the Social Corner page in The Norwich Bulletin and I feel as if I must add my bit to help fill the page, so I will send two recipes

White Fruit Cake: 1 1-4 cups sugar and 3-4 cup of butter creamed together, 3 egg yolks beaten well, 2-3 cup of milk, 1 teaspoon of vanilla and almond each, 1 tablespoon of lemon juice, 2 1-4 cups of flour, whites of the eggs beaten stiff, 1 cup of white sultana raisins, 1-2 cup of currants, 1-2 cup candied cherries, 3-4 cup of nutmeats, 1-3 cup of angelica, flour the fruit, bake in slow oven 1 1-4 hours.

Pineapple Souffle: Beat yolks of 3 eggs slightly, add juice of 1 lemon, 1-2 cup sugar and a little salt. Cook over hot water until mixture thickens, remove from the fire and add 1 tablespoon of plain gelatine that has been soaked in 1-2 cup of cold water five minutes. Add 2-3 cup of pineapple and 1-2 cup of the pineapple juice; when mixture begins to thicken add 1-2 cup of whipped cream and the beaten whites of the 3 eggs. Serve with whipped cream and cherries.

A USE FOR THE CALENDAR FLOWERS.

Dear Social Corner Editor and Sisters: Nothing brings more real joy to the heart than flowers and to look at the pretty little potted plant calendar through the year will make me think of our dear sister of the Corner and that she surely is thinking of us all.

You can know this supreme joy through the expenditure of a little time and money in getting these little gifts to send to each of us. So the planting of the garden for spring is here in front of us on this dear little calendar. My little girl has in view what she wants to do with the flowers as they are taken off and that is to make a book mark by cutting a line over the top and bottom of the square of the calendar and putting a ribbon through, of fair length and give them away as gifts for birthdays later, which would be pretty, too. Children do love flowers.

What sorrow has come this week to have a dear family wiped out, with those little ones so well and happy when they started from home never to come back again. I hope that a gleam of comfort may come to the mother, sisters and brothers of the bereaved family with the knowledge that their friends deeply regret their misfortune.

May the dear sick ones gain each day in strength. Best wishes to all.

MOTHER PRESTON.

GREETINGS FROM MASSACHUSETTS.

Dear Social Cornerites: About time I made my appearance again. I've forgotten several names of the members and suppose they have forgotten men. We are having a snow storm up here in Massachusetts tonight. Hope it wont be deep although I would like to go coasting.

Nely Grey: Hello! Don't suppose you know who I am. Well, I'm me, that's all.

Harry E: Hope this gives you an inspiration to address a letter to Massachusetts.

Votami: Be a good girl and mind the babies. 'Bout time I got a letter from you.

Lilac Lady: Well, how's this for a letter? I'll not write you any more till you write me one.

Azlee: I'm my own stenographer this time. I'll write another for you when I come home.

Cenzie: How's the world using you? Nonsopretty: How are you and your friend down in V.?

JOHNNY ON THE SPOT

PLANS FOR CLUB NO. 2's MEETING.

Dear Editor and Sisters—First to let you know I am still in the Corner. The last time I wrote I had a yellow slip sent me and I think I must have been so overwhelmed that I haven't been able to write since. I thank the one that sent it and will try and write again. To the members of Club No. 2 and members of other clubs that care to come, if you have any of the little paper covered song books, with the old songs in such as Way Down Upon the Swanee River, My Old Kentucky Home, and the other old songs, please bring them with you Feb. 14th we intend to use them. Also, if anybody likes Washington pie, they will be served to a piece that day. It being Feb. 14th, everybody come with love in their hearts as that is the day we think quite a little about it while our thoughts go back to days When You and I Were Young.

As ever for the Corner,

RED ROSE.

ANTICIPATING THE 14th.

Dear Corner Sisters—Just a word of greeting to you all. I wish to thank the one who sent me the lovely potted plant calendar. I have quite a collection of Social Corner calendars but none so handsome as this one. Yet I prize them all, as they are a reminder of the thoughtfulness and loyalty of the Corner member who sends them.

Calla Lily—You were indeed missed very much by us all. Hope your sick ones will be all O. K. so you can be with us the 14th of February.

Unome—Glad to meet with you once more. Hope your patient is still improving.

Golden Glow—Your repast was appetizing.

Joan—Your music was fine as usual.

Blackeyed Susie—Missed you. Hope to see you and many more of the old members at our next meeting.

Bumblebee—Variety is the spice of life.

Queen Elizabeth—Hope your sick one is better.

Wishing you all a prosperous New Year with success to the Corner.

U. C. E.

REGRETS DEATH OF KASHER

Dear Editor and Social Cornerites: Here I am again to remind you one and all of the February meeting of Club No. 5 the first day of the month. Hope all will come that can and bring all the good things to eat. We are all so sorry to lose our dear sister Kasher (Susan Kampf). What is our loss is her gain, for she was a wonderfully dear soul and we were very fond of her and shall miss her so much. She was always with us and a willing worker. We send out our deepest sympathy to her dear ones left to mourn her loss. This life at its best is only a transitory one in which to live and do good to all as we have an opportunity. I only hope when I have finished this life that they can say "she hath done the best she could." May God help us all to be ever faithful, that when the time comes we shall have no fears of the future.

We are having a terrible wind storm. I hope it does not last very long.

Best wishes to all the Social Cornerites and many thanks to Social Corner sister who sent me the lovely flowers calendar.

ALTA.

GREETINGS FROM BEERS.

Dear Social Corner Sisters: How the wind is blowing tonight and has blown all day! Just wish you all could have seen the surf at the beach today, it sure was grand.

Lady Lou and E. L. M.: I want to apologize to you for the way I spoke to you after the meeting. It took all of the pleasure out of my day. We had such a nice day and dinner. The program was great and hope the next one will be as good.

Blandina: Hope you get some of those ear rings to wear home.

Minona: Have you been to Sacremento yet to call on friends of ours?

Milky Way: Don't get lost again as I like to see your name in print. Glad to see Ruthie looking better.

Interested Reader: Did you go to the grange Friday?

BEERS (Club No. 3)

DEATH OF KASHER

Dear Editor and Social Corner Friends: The angel of death has removed from our midst our loving sister Kasher, whose cheerful smiles we shall miss. Death has taken one who has ever been faithful to her trust. She has finished her course with us, and bid farewell to her earthly body, to enter upon a spirit life. There to dwell with those who have gone before. Jesus said: In my Father's house are many mansions. The angel came to her earthly home and led her spirit away, bidding farewell to her earthly body and a good morning to the heavenly hosts. If Jesus abideth in us, we also will abide in Him.

SLOW'S EXPERIENCES IN FLORIDA

Dear Sisters of the Social Corner: You don't know how much I have missed The Norwich Bulletin these days and meeting with you all at the meetings. You see, if my name is Slow, I am not so slow

POOL SPECIALTIES LED THE UPWARD MOVEMENT IN YESTERDAY'S MARKET

NEW YORK, Jan. 27—(AP)—Violent advances of 5 to nearly 15 points in about a dozen pool specialties featured the resumption of the upward movement in today's stock market. The urgent retreat of an over-extended short interest undoubtedly accelerated the rise in these shares. Standard industrials moved up in an orderly manner and the rails, with few exceptions, were sluggish in reflection of the poor December earnings statements now being published.

Retention of the 3 1-2 per cent rediscount rate by the New York Federal Reserve bank, and the unusually small increase in brokers' loans last week undoubtedly were the chief influences behind the upward movement. The firming up of time money, acceptance and commercial paper rates and the further liquidation of U. S. government securities by the Federal Reserve banks apparently were overlooked as market factors. Call money renewed at 4 per cent and then advanced to 4 1-2 as banks called about $30,000,000 in loans, presumably for out-of-town account.

There was little in the day's business news to influence the upward movement. The weekly mercantile reviews continued optimistic in tone, but presented little that was not already known. The annual report of Bethlehem Steel, while making a relatively poor showing as compared with 1926, was about in line with expectations. The first 20 railroads to report their December earnings showed aggregate net operating income nearly 28 per cent below the same month of 1926.

Montana Power continued its sensational rise by soaring 14 1-2 points to a new high record at 148 1-2, as against a low of 102 3-4 less than a month ago. A. M. Byers jumped 12 1-2 points to a new peak at 117 1-2, or 27 points above the recent low, on buying influenced by expectations of increased earnings through the recently installed Ashton process. Buying of Savage Arms, which jumped more than 4 points to a new top at 75, reflected the recent announcement that the company's development program had been completed and that profits from the sales of new products would be reflected in the current year's earnings.

American Linseed common and preferred, Greene Cananea Copper, Peoples Gas, P. G. Shattuck, Sloss Sheffield Steel, Standard Milling and Vanadium corporation all sold 5 to 8 points above yesterday's final quotations. New peak prices since 1926, or longer, also were established by Loews, International Nickel, Westinghouse Air Brake (new), American Ice (new), National Power & Light and several others.

There were a few soft spots scattered through the industrial list. National Bellas Hess broke 5 5-8 points to 35 1-8, closing at the bottom. Adams Express dropped 8 points and rallied 3 1-2. Gabriel Snubbers and Pathe A sank to new low levels for a year or more. Air Reduction slipped back 3 1-2 points.

In the rail group, Illinois Central common advanced fractionally to a new high since 1921 at 144 3-4 and then dropped to 140 1-2 while the preferred climbed 6 points to a new high record for all time at 144. Texas & Pacific also reached a new peak 111. Pittsburgh & West Virginia dropped nearly 6 points to 134 and recovered a point.

Foreign exchanges moved within rather narrow and irregular limits. Sterling exchange eased further in reflection of stiffening money rates in the New York market. Cables on London ruling 1-8 of a cent lower at $4.87 5-16.

Commodity markets were mixed. Cotton dropped about $1.50 a bale on selling inspired by unfavorable mill reports. Wheat and corn futures advanced slightly on reports of better export business. An easier undertone was apparent in the coffee and sugar markets.

GEORGE S. PALMER'S RESIDENCE, NEW LONDON, SOLD TO BOSTON MAN

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Jan. 27—George S. Palmer, one of the best known residents of New London and owner of one of the most costly residences in this city, has sold the palatial estate on Pequot avenue to Isaac Sack, wealthy Boston man. The deed has not been filed at the office of the city clerk, but will be within a few days for it is known that the instrument is being prepared. The residence which was erected by Mr. Palmer about 15 years ago, is one of the most costly in the city and its sale will bring a large figure. The property includes a large tract of land extending from Pequot to Montauk avenue together with about 300 feet frontage on the Thames river, allowing an unobstructed view of the harbor and Long Island sound. Mr. Sack, not only has purchased the property, but he has acquired the costly antiques which are a feature of the furnishings of the house. He is known to be greatly interested in antiques, but whether Mr. Sack has purchased the property for his future home is not disclosed. The sale price is not disclosed, but when it is it will be large. Mr. Palmer resigned recently as president of Palmer Brothers, manufacturers of high quality comfortables, with mills in this city, Montville and Fitchville.

NEGLIGENT HUSBAND MAKING OFFICIALS TROUBLE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Jan. 27—Frederick Matteson, alias Edward Jones, formerly of New London, is under arrest at Wickford, R. I., charged with non-support by his wife, Carrie Matteson, a resident of New London. Matteson will be brought back to New London for trial, but extradition will be necessary, for Matteson has demanded that the necessary papers be issued in order to compel him to return to this city. These are being prepared by Prosecuting Attorney Daniel M. Cronin and next week Detective Sergeant John Cavanaugh will go to Wickford and take charge of the prisoner. Matteson was formerly employed by the late George G. Avery as a hostler and latterly was in the employ of Miss F. O. Jones, of New York, a summer resident of this city, occupying a residence annually at the corner of Pequot and Glenwood avenues. The police claim that Matteson is a fictitious name, although his marriage record shows that he used that name when he was wed. The police say that he was always known as Jones when he was employed by Mr. Avery and Miss Jones. Mrs. Matteson made complaint to the police several days ago because of the failure of her husband to support her. He was located in Wickford and the police of that place were asked to arrest him.

There was the exemplification of the appentice degree on a class by Worshipful Master A. J. Phillips and officers of Union lodge, No. 31, A. F. and A. M., at a special meeting of the order last night. The meeting was attended by a representative number of members.

Teachers of the Stanton school, corner of Federal and Church streets, were given a fire scare this noon, but their alarm was only temporary. A still alarm being sent to fire headquarters to put out the slight fire which did occur was discovered to have burned itself out. All of the pupils had been dismissed for the noon recess and the teachers were assembled in two of the rooms when smoke was detected issuing through the heating vents. Then an alarm was sent in. Fire Chief Shipman and Nameaug Engine company responded but there was no need of the services of the firemen for the fire had become extinguished. Investigation revealed that the scare resulted from the blowing out of a switch on the blower of the heater system which caused the insulation on the wires to be ignited, thereby producing a quantity of smoke. The only damage was to the switch.

This morning a still alarm was received at headquarters for a grass fire on the vacant lot on Pequot avenue opposite Home Memorial hospital. A strong wind prevailed and so that property would not be damaged an alarm was sent in, which was responded to by Chief Thomas Shipman and Ockford Hose company. The blazing grass was beaten out by the firemen using fire brooms.

Francis J. Riley of Bayview house, Niantic, was presented on continuance in the New Haven city court today, charged with evasion of responsibility. The case was nolled because it could not be proven that Riley's auto had struck Mrs. Dominick Cacipoli and daughter, 2 Walcott street, New Haven, two weeks ago. Riley maintained that, although his automobile was in New Haven the day of the accident it had not struck anyone. When Mrs. Cacipoli and her daughter were struck it was claimed that the auto speeded away, but they obtained, they claimed the registration of the machine, which, it was later claimed, corresponded with that on Riley's auto. The state police were notified of the accident and Officer George Webber and a New Haven police officer arrested Riley.

There was no session of the police court today.

The funeral of Mrs. Mary L. Tinker, widow of Joseph Tinker, formerly of this city, who died at the residence of her nephew, Arthur M. Burial was in Cedar Grove cemetery.

The body of Horace S. Beebe, who died two weeks ago, was removed from the receiving vault at Cedar Grove cemetery today and was forwarded to Mr Beebe's former residence, Greenport, where burial will take place. The deferring of the burial was necessary because of the absence of Mr. Beebe's son, who did not return to New London until yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel M. Prentis have returned to their home on Federal street after having visited in New York for several days.

Joseph N. Perry, 17 Cole street, made complaint to the police shortly after last midnight that a prowler had been detected in the yard at his home. Patrolmen Lawrence Pardy and Henry Sylvia were sent to the Perry home, but no trace of the intruder was discovered although a search of the vicinity was made. Perry said that the prowler went to the rear of the yard, climbed the stairs and went to the veranda. He then descended and was seen going through Cole street, toward Mill street. Perry said the fellow was short and had dark hair and did not wear an overcoat.

FOUR-MASTER AT PIER—ANCHORS DAMAGE CABLE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Jan. 27.—The four-masted schooner Bainbridge with a half million feet cargo of yellow pine consigned to this port from Jacksonville, Fla., which had been lying at the western entrance of Fishers Island sound for nearly three days at the mercy of a terrific southwest gale which prevented her from crossing the Race and entering the harbor was docked at the state pier this afternoon. Work on the discharging of her cargo will start tomorrow. The Bainbridge was taken in tow by the Thames Towboat company's tug Miles Standish early this afternoon and arrived in port about 3 o'clock. The schooner dragged her anchors last night with the result that the anchors came in contact with one of the two telephone cables from this city to Fishers Island, ripping a section of the cable away. Repairs to the cable will be made as soon as favorable weather prevails and permits such work being carried on.

Tax Collector Allen C. Richards has started his annual task of collecting the personal tax, levy of 1927. The tax is due and payable February 1 and if it is not paid within 60 days, a levy of $1 additional will be made and collected. If necessary the bills remaining unpaid after April 1 will be given to a deputy sheriff for collection and if this course is taken the delinquent, man or woman, will be compelled to pay the fees of the collecting officer. It has become an annual task of the collector to make the personal tax collections and many will not pay until they anticipate action being taken against them.

The residence of Meyer Turetsky, 405 Jefferson avenue, was threatened with serious damage this morning when a quantity of soot in a chimney was ignited. A still alarm was sent to fire headquarters and Chief Thomas Shipman and Niagara Engine company responded. The blazing soot was extinguished with chemicals and without damage of consequence.

Patrolman John Clifford is confined to his home, Blydenburg avenue, on illness, but not believed to be of a serious nature.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel today ordered the suspension of the driver's license of Wenceslao Ca'ma, United States Coast Guard acedmy. Commissioner Stoeckel also returned the right to drive to Frank Mickek, of Home street.

The continued case of Corrine Davis, colored, a stranger in this city, charged with theft, will be tried in the police court tomorrow and, as the police anticipated when the young woman was arrested, they had apprehended one of the most desperate negresses to come into their clutches in a long time. The police this afternoon received the record of the woman in Providence where she has resided much of the time. It shows that she has been arrested there many times, fined and sentenced for the commission of crimes. The woman always gave her name as Corrine Roberts in Providence and at two or more times she gave her residence as Green street, this city. The crimes for which she has been arrested in Providence include theft, pickpocket, and immorality charges. When booked at police headquarters here, the woman gave two addresses, one at 45 West street, Newark, N. J., and the other at 193 Prince street, the same city. She was arrested early Thursday morning after she had entered the New London Parking garage, 54 Water street, having mauled George Young, white, during which performance the woman relieved Young of his wallet containing $35. The theft was not discovered until after the negress had left the garage. The police arrested the woman but a short distance from the garage and when she was searched at police headquarters, the money was found secreted on her person. When waiting to be searched by Policewoman Jane Cassidy, the negress abused the arresting officers, Patrolmen George Cockell and Frank Philopena, with a flow of words seldom heard from the lips of woman. She even challenged Philopena to fight, providing the officer would dispense with the services of his revolver and nightstick, declaring that she would administer a real chastising to the officer.

A deserter from the United States Coast Guard, state pier, who was recently courtmartialed and given a sentence, was taken to New York tonight and tomorrow will be committed to the military prison in Brooklyn where he will begin a long term of solitude.

Distributors of liquor received a scare last night for they entertained the opinion that raids were in progress on North Bank street, when, in reality, not a semblance of a raid was made, or even attempted. The report of the supposed raids was the result of Detective Sergeant Nelson Smith and two officers going to a store where liquor is sold and upon the return trip to headquarters they encountered the pripriator of a store where liquor is also sold, electing a man under the influence of liquor. The officers reprimanded the store proprietor because of the rough manner in which he handled the intoxicated man and admonished the former for not providing the fellow with transportation instead of throwing him into the street. A crowd collected and they believed that a raid was in progress and the word was speedily sent around by means of the hurried use of the telephone.

Dealers in ice are not so alarmed as is the public regarding a crop, for they declare that whether an ice crop is obtained in this vicinity or whether it fails, there will be plenty of ice, as it can be secured where there is an abundance of it for next summer. As a matter of fact much of the ice that is sold in New London comes from outside the city and at the present time the ice that is being delivered to the trade is obtained elsewhere. The ice costs a little more when it is brought in here over the railroad, but when the cost of harvesting here is considered the difference is not great.

Parties who rent rooms to transients declare that there has been a falling off in the demand of late and attribute the cause to a slackening of work in factories. Many a family added to its income by renting rooms and thus decreased the amount paid for rent of a tenement. Now the demand has fallen off.

The Coast Guard vessels have practically abandoned all hunting for vessels supposed to carry liquor into the ports along the Sound and to eastern ports this side of Boston. It has been a long time since any contraband liquor was brought into this port.

The task of repairing a section of highway in Bank street where the Belgian blocks had sunk because of the settling of the earth under the pavement, is going on slowly, but a few more days will bring the completion of it.

Alterations have begun on the Neptune building to establish four business places on the State street side of the structure and to remove what has been the entrance to the upper floors to the North Bank street side of the building. The changes will necessitate the remodeling of the upper as well as the lower floors. The work will not be compited until about the first of April.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre.

More than 1,200 cadets at West Point took part with William Haines in his latest Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture, "West Point," which will be shown at the Palace theatre on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. These included not only the men who will be Uncle Sam's officers shortly, but many from other lands, students at West Point by international courtesy. Cadets from the Orient—one of them a prince in Siam—Cuba, and other parts of the world are among the number.

The spectacular dress parade at West Point, drills and other details of cadet life are seen in a story of intimate life among the cadets, with Haines as one of their number. The big thrill comes in a reproduction of the annual Army-Navy game, and is one of the most elaborately staged sequences in the picture, most of which was taken at the academy itself.

WILLIAM HAINES

Haines, with Joan Crawford as his leading lady and a large cast, journeyed to West Point from the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios to film these scenes in the big production, as well as the scenes filmed on the Hudson river, in which the famous steamer De Witt Clinton was used. Edward Sedgwick directed the new picture from an original story by Raymond L. Schrock.

Regular army officers stationed at West Point took part in the picture as well as the cadets, and Major R. G. Mosses, U. S. A., of the tactical department at the academy, supervised all military details of the production, with the result that the film is said to be authentically exact in every respect. These military details provide a stirring and dramatic background for the romantic love story which Director Sedgwick unfolds in this instance with such compelling power.

The best place to make pictures is in your own back yard, declares Tim McCoy, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer star who is probably the only star in pictures who consistently has that experience.

McCoy makes practically all the exterior scenes of his productions, such as The Law of the Range, now playing at the Palace theatre, on his ranch in Wyoming—and is therefore in a position of appreciating the advantages of staying home to work.

The cast of The Law of the Range includes Joan Crawford, Rex Lease and Bodil Rosing. William Nigh directs from a script by Richard Schayer.

Lest anyone think that Chicago has a monopoly on underworld dramas, laong comes Gotham Productions with San Francisco Nights, and offers a really intelligent story with the major parts of the it laid on the famous old Barbary Coast and the characters all denizens of the metropolis of the western underworld—and yet does not indulge in an orgy of crime or indiscriminate bloodshed.

Broadway Theatre.

Showing for the last times today are Karl Dane and George K. Arthur, stars of Rookies, in their latest comedy production, Baby Mine. The picture is being shown with five all star acts of vaudeville, forming one of the best programs ever seen at a Norwich playhouse.

The feature photoplay booked for Sunday evening's entertainment is one that is enjoying long runs wherever played. It is Outcast Souls, with Priscilla Bonner, Charles Delaney and Ralph Lewis as the featured players.

Outcast Souls, made from the original story by John Peter Toohey, On the Back Seat, which appeared in the Collier's National Weekly, relates the story of two old people—the mother of a thoughtless daughter and the father of an indifferent son. The beautiful pathos which is woven about these two characters is so well transported to the screen by the principals in the cast, that this production is very well worth seeing. The roles of the son and daughter (not brother and sister) are taken by Charles Delaney, who has been coming to the fore lately as a "Broadway electric lights" star; and Priscilla Bonner, sweet and lovely actress. The roles of the old man and old woman are taken by those two delightful artists, Ralph Lewis and Lucy Beaumont, and their interpretation of the winsome love which springs up between them as a result of their mutual misery is a beautiful thing to see.

The direction by Louis Chaudet is very good indeed, and Jean Piannette's adaptation of the Toohey story is concise and clear. Tom O'Brien takes a minor role with great effectiveness. No true lover of movie delight should miss this fascinating screen document—it is inspiring cinematic entertainment.

Strand Theatre.

Kathryn McGuire's role in "The Shiek of Araby," showing Sunday night at the Strand, is something new in the line of a vamp portraval as Kathryn, unlike most vamps finally marries her victim. Miss McGuire as an artist first appears aboard ship on her way to the great Sahara desert. Enroute she vamps and sketches a shiek returning to his native country after a visit to America. Her charms also attract the attention of Ben Turpin. Others in the cast are Dick Sutherland, Louis Fronde, George Cooper and Ray Grey.

"The Prairie Pirate" is a western picture of real entertainment, full of thrills and action. The tranquil happiness of his life destroyed through the murder of his sister, by a gang of border bandits, Harry Carey as "Brain Delaney" devotes his life to finding the outlaw thief with only the stubs of cigarettes as a clue. His search made under the guise of "The Yellow Seal" who has won the confidence of the oppressed of the border region and the hatred of the oppressors. Further complication is added to the plot when he meets the beautiful "Teresa Esteban" played by Trilby Clark. The working out of the story with its various complications keeps the audience interested every minute and the theme has many quirks and twists which make it decidedly different.

Popular Poets, Y. M. C. A. Sunday, 4 P. M.

In the big gymnasium of the local Y. M. C. A. on the coming Sunday at 4 o'clock, four of our popular poets will be shown in moving pictures in a very interesting portrayal. Nathaniel Hawthorne's "The House of Seven Gables," one of the historic shrines of New England will be shown. This inspired the famous book and forms the basis of the dramatic portions of the picture. Henry W. Longfellow's reel will be a brief sketch of the poet's interesting life, with a dramatic portrayal of scenes from "The Village Blacksmith." The reel on Ralph Waldo Emerson is built around his birthplace and home in which he spent the latter part of his life. His poem to "Music" is interestingly illustrated.

Walt Whitman's life is best told in his works. A sample of odd but simple philosophy selected from, "Leaves of Grass," his most popular book, will be screened. The above will make a most interesting instructive and inspiring hour. Hugh Kinder will furnish music for the service, and Rev. H. H. Conklin will give a brief message in keeping with the occasion. To this service the public generally is invited, except those under fourteen. Young children are not expected.

Breed Theatre.

"Mulligan! Mulligan! Where the h—— is Mulligan?" This famous slogan, known the world over, has been brought to the screen at last. "The Gorilla," the weird, shrieking, bloodcurdling mystery comedy drama, is scheduled for the Breed theatre tomorrow night, and for thrills, chills and a thousand laughs, you are warned that you'll find them all in this hilarious Ralph Spence play.

Charlie Murray, with Fred Kelsey, play the demon detectives, Mulligan and Garrity. This, in itself, is a guarantee, but the picture includes the combined efforts of Edward Small, the producer, and the same man who made "The Cohens and the Kelys" and "McFadden's Flat," and Alfred Cantell, the director of "The Gorilla," who was the megaphone wielder of "The Patent Leather Kid." These, with the all-star cast composed of Tully Marshall, Alice Day, Claude Gillingwater, Walter Pidgeon, Brooks Benedict, Aggie Herring, Gaston Glass, Syd Crossly and, of course, the gorilla himself, promise the greatest thrill entertainment you have ever seen.

The slogan of "Mulligan! Mulligan! Where the h—— is Mulligan?" became world-famous when eight road companies, in addition to the New York and London companies, toured the United States.

If I Owned This Newspaper

If I owned it body and soul, if I could use its every inch, I would find myself cramped for space to tell you of the wondrous story that will unfold as you see Wm. Haines and Joan Crawford in "West Point."

It is without question one of the cleanest, funniest, greatest human interest stories ever put on the screen. It is without doubt one of the finest productions shown at The Palace in years.

This picture wasn't made. It was lived. Now I know why it is rated by producers as a gem.

Now I know why dramatic critics who have seen it, actors and exhibitors rave about "West Point."

Believe me this Smashing Master Picture will make you laugh and at the same time blind your eyes.

It will thrill you. You'll rock with hearty, joyous, bubbling mirth such as no slapstick comedy ever evoked.

And when you go out you'll tell me—my wife, ushers—my other fine employes — THAT WE SCORED THE GREATEST BOOKING SCOOP OF THE YEAR WHEN WE BOUGHT THIS FILM FOR THIS SHADOW SHOW-HOUSE.

THIRD BAPTIST CHURCH HOLDS ANNUAL MEETING

After the close of the prayer meeting at the Third Baptist church Thursday evening the annual business meeting of the church was held with the pastor, Rev. Harry P. Brothwell presiding. The committees as drawn up by the nominating committee were unanimously elected to office for the ensuing year. Reports given by the chairmen of different committees were heard. The church at present is found to be in good financial and spiritual condition and the reports as given were very gratifying. Of special interest was the report that outside of current and benevolent expenses during the year the trustees and music committee raised the sum of $450 in about two months time for a motor and tuning of the pipe organ. Of this amount $400 was given by the people of the church and the remaining $50 from a number of outside friends interested in the organ fund. It was also noted that a number of the men of the church take their turn doing the janitor's work thereby saving the church that expense. The members are so cooperating together and are looking forward to a very prosperous year under the guidance of the settled pastor, Rev. Henry P. Brothwell, who came here on November 1st from Pownel, Vermont. The officers and committees elected were: Clerk, Mrs. Herbert I. Peckham; trustees, George A. Howard, Albert Haydon, Irving Maynard and William Lund; treasurer, Mrs. Herbert Peckham; missionary treasurer, Mrs. Albert Haydon; membership committee, Rev. Brothwell, Mrs. Herbert I. Peckham; deacons, Mrs. George Howard and Mrs. Elmer Mulkins; finance committee, Henry Sebastian, chairman, Charles Wunderlick, Herbert I. Peckham, chairman, Albert Haydon, Elmer Mulkins, Mrs. James Spicer, Mrs. Lucy Peckham, Mrs. Frederick Laycock; music committee, Mrs. William A. Lund, chairman, Mrs. Henry Sebastian, Mrs. Alice Cousins and Mrs. George Howard; outside committee, Woodrow Sebastian, Leroy Sebastian, Willard Mulkins and Elmer Mulkins; pulpit committee, Mrs. George Howard, chairman, Albert Haydon, Mrs. Herbert I. At 6:30 supper was served at beautifully decorated tables, the color scheme being blue and white, the guild colors. The menu was fruit cup, mashed potatoes, mashed turnips, beef loaf, green peas, pickles, rolls, pie and coffee. After supper the girls played games. Those present were Mrs. Elmer Mulkins, Mrs. Harry Conklin, Misses Edna Miner, Frances Bugbee, Jennie Sebastian, Eleanor Howard, Doris Lund, Dorothy Conklin, Mrs. Valentine Sebastian and Mrs. Bruce Blackstone.

Plans were made for a card party to be held early next month and Miss Julia Chappell was elected chairman of a committee to make the necessary arrangements.

Members of the amateur theatrical troupe consisting of members of the Sacred Heart church parish who are planning to present The Dirty Dozen, a comedy-drama of the old school, have been busy all week getting into shape for the gala performance. The rehearsals have been conducted with great secrecy as the jokes and costumes will probably come as a big surprise. James H. Troland has the matter in hand as manager, and it is believed that the affair is to be one of the biggest and most amusing affairs of the winter.

Under the auspices of the United Workers of Norwich a Rocknook Well Child conference was held in the Red Cross rooms in the Ponemah building. A large number of mothers brought their babies and small children for examination by Dr. George M. Thompson who was the attending physician.

VETERAN MUSIC TEACHER VICTIM OF HIT-AND-RUN DRIVER IN CAYVILLE

DANIELSON, Jan. 27—E. O. Wood, 84, a veteran music teacher, was probably fatally injured tonight when he was struck by a hit-and-run driver on the state highway near the schoolhouse in Dayville, where Mr. Wood had gone to give some music lessons. Some time after he had been hit and left lying in the highway and only partly conscious two young men who happened along assisted him to the office of Dr. Cecil R. Garcin, a short distance away. Dr. Garcin treated the injured man for a scalp wound, extending from the forehead a distance of about seven inches, the cut down to the skull, for bad lacerations on the left hand and for injuries about the eyes and nose.

Preliminary examination showed that Mr. Wood may possibly have a broken leg. He was removed to the Day-Kimball hospital at Putnam and late tonight his condition was reported as critical.

State officers from the Danielson barracks are working on the case in an effort to establish the identity of the driver of the car responsible for Mr. Wood's injury.

Mr. Wood has been a resident of Danielson for more than half a century and has been a musician and singer of note.

SEDGWICK RELIEF CORPS ESTABLISHES HONOR ROLL

Sedgwick's Woman's Relief corps, No. 16, met at the Buckingham Memorial Friday afternoon with the president, Mrs. Inez N. Hill in the chair. The regular reports were read and approved. One of the members has reached the age of 90 years and many thought that note should be made of this fact. After much discussion it was decided to establish an honor roll with the understanding that when a member reaches the age of 75 years she may be on the honor roll and if she wishes may be exempt from paying dues for the rest of her life. The first to be so listed are Mrs. Nancy Batty, Mrs. Mary E. Beswick and Mrs. Elizabeth Butler. Mrs. Beswick received a rising vote of thanks for presenting to the corps a gift of silverware. The corps voted to send a token of comfort to Mrs. Whitaker who was tragically bereaved this week. Many spoke of the love and esteem they held for Mrs. Kampf and of her faithful and loving service. The charter was draped for Susan Kampf and Adelaide Letson. The sewing society will hold an all-day meeting Friday Feb. 3. The corps closed with the salute to the flag and singing America.

GRANTS TWO DIVORCES; RESERVES FOUR DECISIONS

Judge Christopher L. Avery at the short calendar session of the superior court here Friday, granted two divorces and took the papers in four others, all uncontested.

Divorce from Robert E. Lee, formerly of New London, now of parts unknown, was granted to Flora Spreed Lee, of Montville and she was given the custody of a son aged 6 years. The marriage of the couple took place at New London May 8, 1918 and the wife alleged cruel treatment since the marriage date and desertion Jan. 1, 1921.

Alleging cruelty since the day they were married, May 10, 1913, and desertion since Dec. 27, 1923, Grace Woodmansee Smith of Stonington was granted divorce from Samuel Gibson Smith of parts unknown.

Judge Avery took the papers in the case of Dexter Kelley, a Coast Guardsman, against Hilda H. H. Kelley, brought on the grounds of intolerable cruelty. They were married Nov. 18, 1919.

The court also took the papers in the case of Olivia Woods Andrews of New London, who sought an annulment of her marriage to Antony Andrews. The petitioner stated she was 13 years of age at the time, she said, while her husband was 21 when they were married July 3, 1922. The young girl said that she was in the fifth grade at public school, when she got married, and just prior to her marriage she was out on the street playing "hide and seek" with other girls and making "mud-pies." While making "mud-pies," she said, her grandmother, with whom she was staying called her to get ready for the wedding.

In the case of Emma Hollm of Volntown against William Hollm, brought on the grounds of intolerable cruelty, the judge took the papers and reserved decision. They were married Oct. 15, 1912.

Judge Avery also took the papers in the case of Aileen McKee Williams of Groton against William M. Williams, brought on the grounds of adultery. They were married Feb. 28, 1925.

SHOWING SMALLPOX FILMS AT BROADWAY THEATRE

Much interest has been attracted and much instruction has been given to those who have seen it by a moving picture film entitled "One Scar of Many," which is being shown at this week-end at Broadway theatre. This is a Metropolitan Life insurance company film upon smallpox, giving the history of this disease and means for its prevention and treatment.

In view of the prevalence of smallpox in some parts of the state, the showing of this reel is timely now and at the same time the agents of the company are making a special distribution of pamphlets bearing upon smallpox and also have these for distribution at the insurance company's office in the Shannon building to the public generally whether policy holders or not.

Through application from the Norwich health officers, the local office of the insurance company was able to have the film sent here at this time.

SUES FOR $3,500 FOR AUTO ACCIDENT INJURIES

Damages of $3,500 are sought in a suit brought in the superior court by Frances Shelley of this city against Charles W. Frink and James Shelley, Jr., because of injuries she received in an automobile accident on the afternoon of Nov. 11, 1927. As the plaintiff is a minor she brings suit through her next friend, Mary J. Shelley.

Frances Shelley, it is claimed, was riding on the front seat of an automobile driven by James Shelley, Sr., and owned by James Shelley, Jr., which was proceeding up Broadway and was turning to its left to go into Elmwood avenue, when it was run into by the Frink machine which Max. Feinberg, was driving down Broadway. The Frink machine hit the Shelley machine on the right rear fender and side. The injuries sustained by Miss Shelley consisted of bruises, contusions and shock, laceration of scalp at left side from ear to eyebrow to skull; severed temporal artery and facial nerve, causing permanent paralysis of the forehead at the left side and a pronounced permanent scar from ear to eyebrow to skull.

The suit is returnable in February.

ABBRUZZE IN WORCESTER ON NON-SUPPORT CHARGE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WORCESTER, Mass., Jan. 27—Julius Abbruzze of 248 Main street, Norwich, Conn., pleaded guilty in superior criminal court yesterday to an indictment for the non-support of his former wife, Mary, and was ordered held with sureties to secure payments of $8 weekly. In a workmen's compensation claim made by Phineas Wright, of Wildrose avenue, Waterford, against Booth Bros. and Hurricane Isle Granite Co., Waterford, Commissioner Albert J. Bailey has made an award that the claimant shall be paid the lump sum of $240 for 12 weeks at $20 from Nov. 5, 1927, to Jan. 28, 1928, also $20 per week thereafter, and that the respondent shall pay all reasonable medical and hospital bills.

The commissioner finds that the claimant's inability to work since Nov. 4, 1927, resulted from pneumoconiosis and pulmonary tuberculosis, which are personal injuries arising out of and in the course of his employment with Booth Brgs., and that these are occupational diseases, but not of contagious, communicable or infectious nature, and therefore compensable.

Wright, who is 61, had been employed as a stonecutter, ever since he was 17, most of that time in Waterford and vicinity and a considerable part of the time for Booth Bros. at the quarry in Waterford. IN NORWICH FIFTY YEARS AGO

Fifty years ago this week the Norwich Caledonian society held its annual ball at Union hall, Greeneville. It was the occasion of the anniversary of the birth of the famous Scottish poet, Robert Burns. Little out of the ordinary occurred that week in this city. Interesting extracts taken from the files of The Norwich Bulletin of January, 1878, follow:

Monday, Jan. 21, 1878—The retail prices of beef have been tending downward for several months past. Most of the leading markets sell the very best pieces at 20 cents a pound, while the round steak is sold at ninepence per pound, or an even 12 cents. Beef hams are from 18 to 20 cents. Pork still continues quite low, but poultry is not very abundant and quite high. Turkeys retail at 22 cents, chickens for 20 cents and geese for 18 cents a pound.

The minstrels which will appear at Breed hall on Thursday evening next are among the best troupes travelling in New England. Their program is said to be fine and chaste.

Mr. Starkwell and his bride, whose marriage was one of the good works performed on the Sabbath day, leave this morning on their wedding tour.

Wednesday, Jan. 23, 1878—Information was received by letter yesterday of the death by drowning on Dec. 31st of Mr. Edwin W. Church of Montville, who sailed from New London in July last on the schooner Eliza Potter, Pendleton master. The schooner, of which Mr. Church was first mate, and part owner, went to Patras, Greece, with refined oil, and when the accident happened was in the North sea, 35 miles from the Rotterdam coast.

Mr. George W. Miller was agreeably surprised at his residence last evening by a call from the employes of the Richmond stove works; but was more surprised when Mr. P. H. Riley stepped forward and with an appropriate speech presented him with a solid gold watch valued at about $100 as a token of their personal esteem and high regard for him in the capacity of their superintendent, from which position he is about to retire. He has been a very popular official, as his testimonial shows. Although taken by surprise, Mr. Miller found words to express his thanks and after an enjoyable social visit the gentlemanly guests departed.

The roads in every direction are exceedingly muddy and nearly impassable. Some of the streets about the city that were coated with earth in the early fall are in a mirey condition.

Thursday, Jan. 24, 1878—Last week Mr. J. G. Cooley was honored with membership on a committee of temperance resolutions, the biggest thing for the cause, he thinks, that has happened in twenty years. Now he has been successful in a lottery scheme. Some have greatness thrust upon them.

The several social entertainments of last evening included a supper at the Universalist church, which proved a very pleasant affair. All the entertainments, as well as the religious affairs, were not so well attended. The weather proved unfavorable.

People were following their hats around the streets, instead of wearing them, yesterday. We except the icemen. They were walking around with as much coolness as though Indian summer prevailed.

Friday, Jan. 25, 1878— The greenhouse at the residence of Mrs. Mary A. Chapman on Broadway caught fire from the furnace early Thursday morning. An alarm was sounded from box 34 at 20 minutes past 4 and the fire companies quickly responded. The flames were quickly extinguished but the building was pretty much destroyed.

The Greeneville Reform club gave an entertainment Wednesday evening in the Owaneco hall, President W. H. Bell in the chair. Tableaux representing "The drunkard's child as sent by him for liquor," "The drunkard's home and family, before and after reform," were presented. Appropriate music by an orchestra of four pieces was rendered in a manner creditable alike to the performers and the society they represent. The evening's entertainment closed with the drama "Are I Belle," which was well rendered and enthusiastically received.

TILSON WILL OPPOSE ANY REVISION OF THE TARIFF

Republican Leader in the House Will Support the Position Taken by President Coolidge—Declares the Tariff is a Business Matter and Should Not Be Undertaken Except Under Favorable Circumstances—Believes the Flexible Provisions of the Present Tariff Law Should Be Utilized Freely in Proper Cases.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29—(AP)—The threat of another senate move to force a revision of tariff schedules this session was followed today by a declaration from Representative Tilson of Connecticut, the republican house leader, against any readjustment of import duties at the present time.

Supporting the position of President Coolidge, the house majority leader said that attempted tariff revision four months before the first of the big political conventions "would in all human probability mean the beginning of a task that could not be completed before the presidential election."

In addition to reports from the senate of a move by the democrats and republican independents to attach tariff revision legislation to the tax reduction bill when that measure reaches the floor, republican leaders also are faced with a demand from the house republican farm bloc for a revision upward of the import duties on agricultural products.

Administration forces in the house, where tariff legislation must originate, were successful in sidetracking the recent senate request for a downward revision of "excessive" tariff rates and Tilson, today declared that a move as that suggested by the senate would be ill-advised at the present.

"A protective tariff has become what we may call the accepted American policy," he said, "so that while rates may well be changed as conditions change the policy itself should not be altered or endangered. Whenever the tariff is revised it should be revised by its friends, so that it may be done along protection lines and on protectionist principles.

"The tariff is in fact a business matter, and any revision of it should be made in as nearly a business manner as possible. It should not be undertaken except under favorable circumstances, because even when carried out under the most favorable conditions there is apt to result some business disturbance.

"Such revision should be removed as far as possible from the influence of politics, and carried on as nearly as possible on business principles.

"Changes in conditions of production at home and abroad have occurred since the last tariff revision in 1922 that doubtless call for certain readjustments of rates in the next revision, but a partial revision of any one schedule is impracticable under existing conditions. It may be safely taken for granted, however, that all who believe in protection as a principle will favor such readjustment of rates in due time as will accord with changed conditions, so that whether it be the products of our basic industry, agriculture, or some other product of American labor, that shall be reasonably and adequately protected in competition with the product of foraign labor.

"Meanwhile the flexible provisions of the present tariff law should be utilized freely in proper cases, and the relief provided should be granted as expeditiously as possible."

FIRE DESTROYED BUILDING AT VILLANOVA COLLEGE

HILADELPHIA, Jan. 29.—(AP)—Fire tonight destroyed College hall, one of the main buildings at Villanova college, and badly damaged the monastery nearby.

Fire companies from half a dozen nearby towns responded to calls for aid, but heavy snow relayed their arrivals. Students assisted in fighting the blaze, which is believed to have started in a laboratory.

College hall, one of the oldest buildings on the campus, was a long, four-story structure of gray granite and faced on Springville road. The first two floors were used as class rooms and the others as dormitories. No students were in their rooms when the blaze started.

Late tonight the loss was estimated at $2,200,000. Among the valuable articles burned were thirty oil paintings of popes and famous priests valued at $100,000 and 100 microscopes used in the biological laboratory, the value of which ranged from $100 to $200 each.

H. G. Grelis, prefect of studies, announced that no students had been injured. The condition of two overcome by smoke while fighting the blaze was said to be not serious.

Twenty four fire companies responded to the call for aid.

AMBASSADOR MORROW HAS RETURNED TO MEXICO CITY

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 29.—(AP)—Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow arrived this morning from Havana after having been delayed a full day off Vera Cruz by a severe storm. The ambassador said he felt all right despite the day of rocking in heavy seas. He was sorry that a press of business compelled him to leave Havana before the Pan-American conference ended, and expressed the belief that many worthwhile things would be accomplished by the statesmen now conferring in Havana.

In an interview given shortly after his arrival at the American embassy, Mr. Morrow said that President Coolidge and Secretary Kellogg had agreed to his return to Mexico City so soon after organization of the Pan-American conference principally because he had been at his post for so short a time.

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—(AP)—One person out of every 10 in the United States is 65 years of age or over, Anson B. Moran, chairman of the building fund of the home for old men and aged couples of New York city, said today.

America's population of aged persons is increasing by 100,000 annually, he said, due to the decline of infant mortality and the ability of science to prolong life. SEVERE DEFEAT FOR NICARAGUAN REBELS

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Jan. 29.—(AP)—While no definite details had been received regarding results of the air attack on January 14 at El Chipote when Major Ross E. Rowell with a squadron of aviators made the fiercest aerial attack on the Rebel General Augustino Sandino since the arrival of marine forces, reports from several districts in Nueva Segovia say that Sandino was badly defeated and his followers retired in disorder.

So bad was Sandino's defeat that a majority of his followers deserted him, according to statements made by Nicaraguans arriving from Condega, department of Estell. Small groups of Sandino's men are now traveling southward, anxious to get away from Nueva Segovia, it is said. One band recently passed through Condega coming from San Juan De Limay, another group arrived at Guagavcia immediately disbanding in Yaluca and Guayucula.

SEIZURE OF LIQUOR AND AUTOMOBILE AT ROCHESTER

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Jan. 29—(AP)—The first mid-winter seizure of Canadian liquor at the lake shore since the national prohibition law went into effect was made here today by members of the federal customs border patrol. Whiskey valued at $6,000 and an expensive automobile were captured just after the liquor had been unloaded from a rum runner, customs men said. The driver of the automobile was arrested on a charge of possessing and transporting liquor.

Smuggling by means of boats in the winter is unusual, customs men said, because it is expensive and hazardous. Danger from storms and being frozen in during waits is great. The rum runner was equipped with heavy iron plates to break a channel through ice.

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—(AP)—Every action and reaction of eleven-weeks-old Harriet Kallen is being studied by a group of scientists, including her father and mother, in the interests of an increased knowledge of child psychology.

Prof. John B. Watson of Columbia university is studying the mild serious emotion, and Prof. Edward B. Holt of Princeton, her physiological aspects, while Silas Bent, a newspaperman, is expected to record Harriet's reactions and the impressions gained by the others.

Mrs. Kallen believes the formation of a child's habits start at birth, and that character is formed by the time she is two years old.

MARACAY FLYING FIELD, Venezuela, Jan. 29.—(AP)—After being lost in a fog off the Venezeulan coast for an hour, Charles A. Lindbergh arrived here from Bogota, Columbia, at six p. m. eastern time today.

Through Charde D'Affaires Engert of the United States legaion, the noted flyer, who once took letters of introduction to France, apologized to President Gomez for having kept him waiting at the flying field.

The president answered that his only wish was for the aviator to arrive safely, as he had done, in order that he might embrace him, as he did when he gave him a decoration.

An anxious crowd had waited at the field, 50 miles from the Venezuelan capital, about two hours when he was reported over Higuerote, some distance west of Caracas. He was next seen over La Guaira, the port of Caracas, and followed the concrete road from the capital to the field.

As soon as he got out of the plane and had been welcomed he was decorated with the Order of the Liberator.

Although he got no sleep until after midnight when the official program was concluded with a banquet given by Foreign Minister Urbie, Lindbergh was up at 4.30 and after breakfasting at the American legation with Minister Samuel H. Piles, was driven to Madrid field. There he was surrounded by 600 or more cheering Colombians, many of whom were in evening attire having attended the dance given in his honor Saturday night. High officials of the government were on hand to bid him farewell and to express the wish that he would visit the city again for a more extended trip.

The Spirit of St. Louis responded quickly to the turn of the propeller and rose gracefully from the field under the touch o her distinguished pilot. A few minutes later a silver speck high in the sky completely disappeared beyond the mountains and the the lone eagle was winging his way to another city that eagerly awaited his presence.

BREAK IN DEMOCRATS ON THE SHIPPING BILL

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—(AP)—A break in the democratic ranks supporting the Jones shipping bill developed tonight when Senator Edwards, democrat, of New Jersey, announced his opposition to the measure on the ground that it "means not only a government owned merchant marine, but also the paralyzing of private shipping initiative both as regards ship construction and ship operation." The senate is expected to vote on the measure tomorrow.

"No private interests in this land," he said, "could have possibly made the farce of our merchant marine that the government has. I do not believe the lower house will accept any such socialistic measure as the Jones bill, but if it does President Coolidge will surely veto it and I shall be happy to support him unflinchingly in his veto."

Another democrat, Senator Copeland, of New York, has been fighting the measure, but otherwise members of the minority party are reported to be generally in favor of it, along with a group of western republicans led by Senator Jones, of Washington, its author.

The tablet which was deciphered by Prof. Sturtevant contains directions for performing two sacrifices to Innaras, the God of Manhood. The first sacrifice is to drive out the effeminate Innaras and to bring in the masculine Innaras so that sons may be born to the sacrificer. The second is designated to avert the wrath of Innaras.

"LOST" CENTURY-OLD LAND DEED FILED AT WINDHAM

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, Jan. 29—A land deed which had been "lost" for over a century among old papers, was taken to the office of the town clerk of Windham Friday and filed on the land records. The deed, executed 103 years ago, is rich in historical aspect and its resurrection and subsequent filing was one of the important steps to establish water rights in connection with the recent purchase at auction of the Quidnick-Windham Manufacturing company plant. The plant, which has now come into possession of affiliated interests of the Rockville-Willimantic Lighting company, was purchased by Aime J. Martineau, Samuel Chesbro, Ernest P. Chesbro and William E. Clark at the auction of the bankrupt cotton manufacturing concern. The purchase included water rights but these were not definitely established with clear title until the finding of the ancient deed. Alfred Young executed the deed on August 14, 1824 in favor of Aruna C. Tingley, Matthew Watson, Nathan Tingley and Hartford Tingley of Providence, assigning to the party of the second part and their heirs and assigns the right and privilege of flowing Young's land on the Willimantic river by erecting and keeping a dam at all times at their cotton factory on said river. The basis of the agreement was that the Tingleys were to pay to said Young, his assigns and heirs, the sum of $30 annually, the first payment commencing on the first day of October 1824 and continuing as long as they shall flow the land. The deed was dated at Windham, Conn., the 14th day of August, 1824.

The Tingleys, Matthew Watson and Alfred Young assigned the agre ment 32 years later to John C. Tracy, Esq., who came into possession of the mill property on March 28, 1856. Appended to the assignment appears the following release of the annual payment of $30: "The Windham Cotton Manufacturing company are hearby released from any further payments to the assigns to tract in consideration of $500 from said company for which I have given deed of said rights this 16th day of April 1856, John C. Tracy."

In avoiding a collision with a light sedan operated by William F. Henschild of 1705 West Main street, this city, Charles E. Gordon of 25 Brown street, Springfield, Mass., drove his machine to the left of West Main street and unable to stop because of the snow which covered the highway, his machine crashed into a gasoline pump at the station conducted by Morris Sussman, about 11:30 o'clock this forenoon. It is understood that Henschild, driving easterly, started to drive across the street to the gasoline station, without giving a signal. Gordon, coming in the same direction, was about to pass the local car when the latter turned to the left. He sounded his horn, causing Henschild to turn quickly back to the right, but in his attempt to avoid a collision the Springfield man ran his car diagonally across the road and into the pump. There was no damage to the car and other than a broken electric light globe, the pump was but little damaged. The car operators and Sussman made arrangements for a settlement of damages through their insurances.

Oyster and scalloped salmon supper, Pachaug church, Tues. eve. 50.—Adv.

Arrived—O. K.— although a bit late —the first touch of real winter. The light snow with the mercury at sunrise Sunday, standing at 16, was blown about in real blizzard fashion.

Strange to say, everybody who passed along the street, wore a grin of the regular sort, which seemed to tell of that winter's joy, when one steps out to face the storm Until Sunday, no juncoes (snowbirds) have been reported, but with the storm they showed up in considerable numbers, and are the first regular winter birds to be noted. A jay is spied once in a while, but not often in the central part of the borough. In several sections, partly tame gray squirrels come daily for a bit of apple or perhaps a hand-out of unroasted peanuts.

HIGH WIND ACCOMPANIES STORM AT DANIELSON

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Jan. 29—Old winter raged a bit today in Danielson and throughout the night. A northerly storm brought the first real snowfall of the winter. Clearing before noon, the storm was less violent here than at many places far to the south. The deposit of snow was between three and four inches on the level, with miniature drifts here and there.

A high wind, characteristic of the storms of the present winter hereabouts, made the storm particularly trying to be out in. Attendance at churches was thinned this morning because of the disturbance. No interruption of traffic was cause dby the storm. Motor coach lines maintained their regular schedules. State highway crews were early at work operating snow plows along the trunk line highways against the possibility of the storm continuing and blocking them. This danger passed as the storm began to wane about 10 a. m. Though there is only a comparatively small amount of snow on the ground here, there is enough to promise some coasting for the youngsters who have been denied this pleasure throughout the winter to date.

RECOVERY OF E. O. WOOD REGARDED AS PROBABLE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Wood was quoted as saying at the Day Kimball hospital in Putnam today, indicating that he felt a little improved over the condition in which he found himself after being struck by a hit and run driver at Dayville Friday and left where he fell in the highway. The cheery condition and optimism of Mr. Wood today were regarded as very favorable signs. He has no broken bones, as was at first feared, though there is the possibility of one rib being fractured. Though it was feared when he was found that he was fatally injured, his recovery is now regarded as within the realm of probabilities.

Indignation was expressed over the week end at the brutality of the driver of the car that struck Mr. Wood, who is 74 years of age. Up to this afternoon there were no developments that might buoy the hope that the driver will be ferreted out and punished.

On Hospital hill many cars skidded and turned completely around. The state highway department was out early in the afternoon sanding the roads. The police department had no reports of any accidents, during the day.

NOANK

CHILDREN BID FAREWELL TO THEIR FRIEND MRS. SMITH

Mrs. John Smith was given a send off Friday morning. She has been in the waiting room waiting on patrons every day for four years. During this week she resigned to spend the rest of the winter in New York with her son Willis. The school children heard that she was going away and it made them feel bad for Mrs. Smith was always very kind to them helping the younger ones across the street on account of the automobiles and if one of them cut a finger she would care for it. If the children lost their pennies and were crying, they would get their candy just the same. One day Max Burns did not go to school, but came into the waiting room. "Well, what is the matter with you today?" she asked. "I got a tooth ache!" "I will fix it right up." Mrs. Smith said, putting some tooth wax in the tooth. Soon the boy went to school happy again. So just before the trolley came to take her to New London where she would get a train for New York a long line of school children came marching into the waiting room to say good bye. About 100 came to shake hands with her and they were saying "Don't forget to send a post card and tell us about the big city for we will miss you awfully every day!" Then the school bell rang to call them in again. Mrs. Smith said it was some sendoff she got from the affectionate children.

It did not take long for a crowd to gather, soon the street was black with people to get a look at a Ford new special car. About 6 o'clock the head driver said "Are you ready? Let's go!" and the green automobiles were soon out of sight on the way to the Bean town.

William Plumstead has returned from New Jersey.

The fishing boat Eleanor, owner Elery Thompson also its captain is claimed to be the fastest boat among the fishing fleet. The Noank fishermen will have to take a lesson about running a boat. Capt. Thompson claimed the other day, out at the fishing ground, near Block island. After getting a good catch of flatfish, coming back home to the north dock on the boat Cannonball, Capt. Sidney Dunn said "I will race you into Noank." So the race was on. About a few feet ahead was the Cannonboat but the Eleanor and Capt. Thompson the man who never gives up was keeping his boat into the wind not opening up, while Capt. Dunn was using all his tricks about running close to shore and stepping on the gas. It was a pretty race. Men on several of the fishing fleet boats were watching it. Getting near the finish line boat Eleanor slipped ahead, through opening up the engine that has 65 horse power. She won the race by three boat lengths. The sea captains gave her skipper a big salute. He claims he can beat any fishing boat on the sound. The Noank men say "Come on with the boat Baby, Capt. R. Brocky, pride of the packing house fleet! That can step some! Bet you anything from a doughnut to a steam boat on a race with the boat Baby! So come on Noank fishing men, don't let that New Jersey fishing boat beat us!"

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Jan. 29—Ella Herrick, Mechanics Falls, Me., young woman, who was arrested in this city a week ago together with her companion, John O'Brien, and who were in the police court last Monday charged with lascivious cravings, was returned to her home today by Policewoman Jane Cassidy. The policewoman and the Herrick young woman boarded the State of Maine express for Portland, Me., Saturday night at 10.45 and arrived there this morning. The Herrick woman and O'Brien were arrested when it was discovered that they were residing as man and wife in a Masonic street rooming house. The couple had been in this city but a short time. O'Brien was supposed to be engaged in arranging for a minstrel performance for the sailors at the submarine base. He was drunk practically all the time, even when he went to the base to conduct rehearsals. He was found drunk on State street last Saturday night by Patrolman Walter O'Neill and arrested and with his arrest it was revealed that he was living out of wedlock with the Herrick woman. The latter's arrest followed.

A force of city laborers and truck drivers was engaged the entire day removing snow from State, Main and Bank streets, the snow being taken to the water front and dumped in the Thames river. The employment by the laborers in snow removal is the first time this winter, while a year ago at this time the city had expended about $8,000 for this work.

Miss Alice Onuparik, 57 Lewis street, was annoyed and given a shock Friday night and which resulted in the police making a thorough, but unsuccessful search for the young man who annoyed Miss Onuparik. The young woman was returning home about 11.30 o'clock and when on Lewis street but a short distance from home, an automobile, which was occupied by two men, drove to the corner of Crystal avenue and stopped. One of the men alighted and overtook Miss Onuparik, seizing her from behind and attempting to thrust a handkerchief into her mouth to prevent her from making an outcry. The young woman fought her assailant and got away, running to her home. She related her experience to her brother, Fred, who communicated with the police. Automobile Patrol Officer Clarence Martin and Patrolman Albert Iverson went to Lewis street and made a search for the automobile which was a Chevrolet sedan, but it was not found.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles R. B. Stoeckel has ordered the suspension of the driver's license of Pauline Clark, 127 Willetts avenue.

Corrine Davis, colored, who has been in this city but a few days will remain here longer than she anticipated, not because she is delighted with the city or its environments, but because her stay is an enforced one. Corrinne will not be surrounded by her customary friends. Corrine was presented in the police court Saturday, charged with the theft of $35 from the person of George Young, proprietor of the New London parking garage, 50 Water street. She was convicted and was sentenced to six months in jail. The incarceration of Corrine will not be new to her for she has served time in Providence where she has after been arrested for theft, pickpocketing and immorality.

Earl Parker, 46 Raymond street, has been ordered to present himself in the police court Monday and defend a charge of violation of the city's traffic laws in blocking traffic on Green street. Patrolmen Carlos Selesnitsky, Michael Dorsey and George Cockell went to the market and made a search of the yard and vicinity but did not find any suspicious acting man.

ACADEMY DECISIVELY DOWNS BULKELEY BY SCORE OF 38 TO 10

A game Bulkeley Independents Saturday night at the Y. M. C. A. gym, found out that in union there is really strength. The Whalers invaded the city with several individual stars, sorely lacking in practice and they were easy for the Academy, playing in its smoothest form. The score was 38 to 10. After a first period in which Bulkeley managed to hang on, literally so, too, the Red and White asserted itself with a vengeance and with the second team performing for more than half the remainder of the way, there was nothing to it for Whitney's men.

Of the first eight minutes Bulkeley led a little over five. A field goal by Ellis, the captain, gave them the lead early and they held it until Buck LaCroix popped in a field goal with more than half the period gone. Les Pingree converted a foul just before the whistle in this quarter to give the Academy the lead forever after.

The rest of it was little but Academy points. Bulkeley only scored twice more from the floor and Ellis likewise accounted for these field goals. Bulkeley was outscored from the floor 15 to 3 and from the foul line 8 to 4.

New Defense

The Academy's renovated defense, the five-man variety worked far above expectations. Bulkeley had all kinds of trouble in negotiating this, in fact, they never did it real successfully. On the other hand, the Academy found Bulkeley's defense full of holes and many times they dribbling or passed with little trouble around or through the opposition.

Ellis did practically all of Bulkeley's dribbling and also took the most of Bulkeley's long shots at the hoop. He scored seven points or nearly the entire points for the losers. His three field goals were the only New London contributions from the floor.

The Academy seemed to know more what they were doing Saturday than in any previous start. Once they broke the ice and scored they experienced little trouble in running up points. Les Pingree again led the scorers and again tossed in thirteen points even though he was only on the floor for about half the game.

Seconds Play

The first team started and went until the early minutes of the second quarter when they had set up a hefty lead. The seconds then went in, battled Bulkeley even until the half and then outplayed and outscored them in the entire third quarter. These seconds showed better passwork than even the first team but their passes were more of the short and snappy kind than those that meant sure scores. The Bulkeley advantage in weight and height no doubt hampered them considerably, too.

When the first team went back in the last quarter, the score was 23 to 6 and, looking something like the team fans had hoped for they showed real scoring and defensive work here and added 15 more points while holding the visitors to four.

Bulkeley can be excused some and the Academy victory should not be taken as any large owen of good luck because of the fact that the New Londoners were way on the short end of experience and coaching. Whether the Academy would have looked so good against a drilled team is another thing and we will probably get an answer this Saturday when Windham, with one of the strongest quintets in the state comes to the Y gym.

For the Academy Saturday night Les Pingree again was of the greatest help while Jim Kelly and Buck LaCroix also showed real improvement. Lynch and Henschel of the seconds also looked good. Ellis and Palmer was the only one with a shooting eye for Bulkeley. Ellis scored the most points but Palmer missed plenty of close ones, whereas Ellis made good most of his close ones.

Y Loses

The Y playing without the services of many regulars, lost a close one to the New London Marines in the preliminary by the score of 34-32. The locals used a makeshift lineup because of the absence of Harris, Brown and Lambert but even then they gave the marines plenty of trouble, the Y came up to within one point a couple times in the closing moments but excessive fouling cost them these chances. Neil, with 18 points, was the individual star of the game, while Middleton of the winners followed him in point-throwing with 13 points. Summaries:

PUTNAM HIGH SUFFERS FIRST DEFEAT OF SEASON

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Jan. 29.—Putnam High school's basketball team lost its first encounter of the season to the fast five of Tourtellotte High of North Grosvenordale on Friday evening by a score of 48 to 36. Bove starred for Putnam while Canty was high scorer for the Tourtellotte quintet. With its defeat Friday evening Putnam has its slate marred for the first time this season. Coach Noyes' team has seven victories and one defeat to its credit and the set back Friday came as a complete surprise to the fans. Bove who has been high scorer for the Putnam team all through the season was almost helpless against the fast passwork of the Grosvenordale team.

Many times throughout the game the score was tied, and up to the last eight minutes of the game Tourtellotte only had a four point lead on Putnam, but a series of consecutive baskets in the remaining few minutes gave the home team the victory. The summary:

TRIS SPEAKER MAY SIGN WITH ATHLETICS

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 29.—(AP)—Tris Speaker, baseball's gray eagle, will be a member of the Philadelphia Athletics next season if—. If, in this instance, representes a sum of money, perhaps $5,000, maybe $10,000, but if Connie Mack, astute manager of the Athletics, and the sparkling center fielder can get together on the salary question local fandom regards it as good as settled that Speaker will roam in the Athletics' outer garden the coming season.

Mack makes no secret of the fact that he wants the veteran badly to round out his outfield now that Ty Cobb and Zach Wheat, members of the club last year, are gone. He tried to get Speaker last year but Tris had made a prior promise to the Washington club.

"I expect to be in touch with Speaker by Tuesday," Mack said today. "I leave for Florida Wednesday and I would like to sign him for the Athletics before I get away."

Mack intimated that he was prepared to make asizeable bid for the Gray Eagle's services, as a big saving was effected with the release of Cobb and Wheat. Wheat was popularly supposed to draw down $15,000 last season while Cobb's recompense was considerably more than that. Accordingly, baseball writers say, Mack could offer Speaker $30,000 and still not boost the club's payroll.

PROMISING ATTRACTIONS FOR E. CONN. THIS WEEK

Eastern Connecticut's three semi-pro quintets have likely looking attractions listed for this week and no doubt the fine basketball and large houses that have been the custom to date will continue.

The Taftville Crescents, of course play first, meet the Hilltop A. C. of Winsted, Tuesday evening, at Parish hall, Wednesday at the Plainfield Community House the Plainfield Pres clash with the Philadelphia Royal Colored Giants, a nationally known quintet, and on Thursday the Danielson Town team mingles with the Williston Mass. quintet.

To add to the features for the week there are the C. F. C.-Danielson Seconds game tonight at the Y gym, the Y Seniors-Plainfield Buddies tilt Wednesday night at the Community House and the L Seniors-Mercury game Saturday night at the Y gym here.

GRANGE AND NEVERS TIE AT SAN FRANCISCO

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 29.—(AP)—Red Grange's Yankees and Ernie Nevers' Giants played a 13-13 tie on Ewing Field today, the teams made their scores in the second and fourth quarters, the first half ending with Nevers' team leading 7 to 6. Nevers was the star of the contest. Grange played only the first half.

SOCCER GAME AT JEWETT CITY POSTPONED

The snow-storm caused cancellation of the J. B. Martin-Jewett City Favorites soccer game at Ashland park, Jewett City Sunday. It may be played off later in the season.

Meanwhile the Martins busy themselves preparing for the Ledyard team at J. B. Martin park the coming Sunday.

ACADEMY-BACON GAME PUT OVER TO FEB. 28

The Academy's scheduled game with Bacon academy at Colchester Wednesday night has been shifted to Tuesday, Feb. 28, because of the examinations in progress at the local institution this week. The game with Windham here Saturday, the local's major tilt of the year, however, will go off as scheduled.

BOUT SPORTS

The past week gave the cash customers in these and outlying regions a few added features which do not ordinarily happen in the field of sport. A few of them are: In a basketball game between Bristol high, state champs and Terryville Friday night, Bristol's fiveman defense was so strong that a member of the opposition at one time was forced to hold the ball six minutes before Bristol would open up and let the game continue. Bristol, needless to say had little trouble winning. Down in Boston last week when Dark Cloud Bradley fought Harry Soo, the Chinaman, these two boys obliged with a "song and dance" after their bout. Soo played the ukelele and Bradley went through with usual Charleston; in Madison Square Garden Archie Bell and Vic Burrone fought through eight rounds and the going was so fast and clean that the referee was not forced once to break them for there were no clinches.

It must have been like old times to any Norwich fan down in Boston Thursday night at the Argonne A. C. bouts. There sure were several familiar faces in the squared circle. First of all, Dark Cloud Bradley won in the semi-final over Harry Soo, then Tony Lurgio lost a decision, following that Smoke Sylvia won a decision and to close it Tommy Lemieux won a technical K. O. All of these boys were participants on the Moose cards here last spring.

Jake Schaefer and Welker Cochran, who amazed the natives here Wednesday, were in Hartford Thursday and Waterbury Friday, doing the same thing.

Joe Faber will go under a new boss this year if he returns to York in the New York-Pennsylavania loop. Winn Clark, last year manager of the champion Harrisburg Senators, has been signed and succeeds Johnny Tillman, who pitched here during the last two Riverview-Taftville series. Tillman was playing manager during the closing part of the past campaign.

Incidentally, Joe is whiling away the winter months with a bowling match now and then intermingled with his work at the State hospital. Joe, Toney West, Dinty Moore, Erickson, Harry Mills, et al., compose quite a bunch of pin-tossers.

Memories of the old roller polo days here at Olympic hall must be brought back vividly by the American Roller Hockey league (that's its new name). Hartford, which recently acquired Holyoke's franchise, is having real success both in the percentage column and in the matter of attendance. The Indians, as the team is named, have won the majority of their home games so far and the turnouts have been so large that extra bleachers are being installed.

PAULINO KAYOES ROJAS IN THIRD

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 29.—(AP)—Paulino Uzcudun, Basque heavyweight won by a knockout in the third round of a scheduled 15 round bout today with Quintin Romero-Rojas of Chile.

Although aggressive and courageous, the Chilean was unable to stand up under the heavy body blows of the "Woodchopper of the Pyrenees" when Uzcudun suddenly began at relentless attack near the end of the third round.

Approximately 40,000 persons, many of them basques, witness the match.

The fighting was mostly at close quarters. Although Romero smashed several rights and lefts into the Basque's body he seemed unable to do any damage.

Paulino's aggressiveness quickly won the initiative for him. He drove the Chilean into corners at the beginning of the first round and continued hammering whenever an opening was presented. Romero showed no indication in the first two rounds that he was near a knockout, but the fight was actually Paulino's from the start.

Receipts were estimated at around 250,000.

Windham Whips Torington

WILLIMANTIC, Jan. 29—Windham high, which plays Norwich Free Academy at Norwich Saturday night, defeated another of the state's first-line basketball schools here last Friday, Torrington high by the score of 16 to 18. It was Windham's fifth consecutive win.

Park Church Wins

The Park Congregational church team won a Junior Church league game Saturday afternoon at the Y gym from the United Congregational quintet by the score of 16 to 10. It was an interesting encounter.

ALL-AMERICAN SELECTIONS GIVE SOME IDEA OF OLYMPIC TEAM

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—(AP)—Talent which for the most part will form the backbone of the Olympic track and field team this year is lined up in the All-American team selections for 1927, made by Daniel J. Ferris of New York, new secretary-treasurer of the Amateur Athletic union, and published in the 1928 edition of Spalding's Official Athletic Almanac.

The most significant feature of the selections is the replacement of many of the veteran standbys, former Olympic and national champions by a new crop of youthful stars.

The echoing names of such track and field heroes as Charley Paddock, Loren Murchinson, Matt McGrath, Alan Helfrich, Ray Watson and F. Morgan Taylor are absent from the list although not all of them have passed from the competitive picture, by any means. Harold Osborne, the veteran all-around star, remains as the best of the standing broad jumpers but the Illinois schoolmaster is displaced in his two favorite events, the high jump and decathlon, in both of which he holds Olympic championships.

In their places youngsters, most of them in college, such as Karl Wildermuth, Georgetown sopromore sprinter; Launcelot Ross and Sabin Carr of Yale, Ray Conger of Iowa State, Johnny Gibson of Fordham, Herman Phillips of Butler and Anton Burg of Chicago have stepped to the front.

Ritola Tops Distance Men.

The shake-up does not extend to the distance runners, however, where Willie Ritola, the iron-limbed Finnish-American, tops the list. Ritola is awarded four places by Ferris, more than any other athlete on the All-American list. The sturdy Finn retains the leadership in the 10-mile run, two-mile steeplechase and cross-country run in addition to gaining a new position as the best of the six-mile runners.

Ray Conger, Iowa State star, is the one-mile selection only because Lloyd Hahn, recognized king of the milers, did not defend his title in the National A. A. U. title meet. Hahn gets into the list at 1,000 yards.

The task of making the 1927 selections was handled by Ferris for the first time. He continued the job begun by the late James E. Sullivan and continued for the past 13 years by Frederick W. Rubien, who retired from office in the A. A. U. last November.

The complete All-American selections, together with all-college and all-scholastic choices, follow:

CENTRALS WIN OVER BROTHERS OF JOSEPH 19-12

The Central Baptist church won a fast game from the Bros. of Joseph Saturday night at the Y by the score of 19-12 in a preliminary to the Academy game. Both teams showed fine pass work but the Centrals showed more ability to drop in the counters. This was a fast and close scoring game as the score indicates. Ludlow was the high scorer of the night with nine points while Ogulnick was second with six points.

This makes one lost and two won for the Centrals while the Bros. of Joseph won one and lost one.

C. F. C. MEETS DANIELSON SECONDS THIS EVENING

The C. F. C. with a record of nine victories and but one defeat to date, line up against the Danielson Seconds tonight at the Y gym, starting at 8 o'clock. The locals appear to be in for a busy evening for this team recently battled the Plainfield Buddies to an overtime period.

The locals will lineup with Brown, Leffingwell and Lambert at the forwards, Neil at center and Ludlow, Moberg or Davis at guards.

COAST GUARDS TURN BACK WEBB INSTITUTE, 35 TO 23

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Jan. 28.—Webb Institute of New York lost a close and interesting basketball game to the Coast Guard Cadets at the Y. M. C. A. this afternoon by the score of 35 to 23. Coach Richmond of the Cadets started off his second string men, but at the end of the first quarter, sent in his regulars who led the New Yorkers by one point, 13 to 12, at the end of the first half. The Cadets gradually drew away from the Webb boys during the second half. Capt. Brown the diminutive leader of Webb was the individual star for his team, while every player for the Cadets played an excellent game.

ACTION LOOMS IN TUNNEY PROGRAM

By EDWARD J. NEIL
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, Jan. 29—(AP)—Fistic forecast, indicated today that the much discussed summer heavyweight program of Gene Tunney will become public property within the coming week.

In answer to an urgent summons from the heavyweight title-holder, Billy Gibson, his manager packed today for a hurried trip to Miami, Fla., where Tunney has been in consultation with Tex Rickard. The promoter also had called Jimmy Johnston, ten per cent manager of Jack Sharkey, to the southland. Both are scheduled to leave New York Monday night, arriving in Florida shortly before Rickard must name Tunney's opponent for at least one title match this summer.

On Feb. 1, the promoter also must post $100,000 to bind the option he holds on Tunney's services for 1928. Summoning of Johnston indicated to pugilistic elite that negotiations were under way to include in the champion's two-fight program, a bout with Sharkey if the Boston gob succeeds in whipping Johnny Risko, March 12, and the winner of the Tom Heeney-Jack Delaney battle scheduled for March 1.

Dempsey Conceded Chance

To Jack Dempsey, former titleholder, is conceded the right to battle Tunney in his second title defence of the year provided the champion successfully hurdles the elimination tournament winner. Rickard's negotiations have been hampered by Dempsey's failure to indicate whether he wishes to return to the ring for a third battle with the big marine.

Managerial jockeying between the handlers of Sharkey and Joe Jacobs, pilot of Jack Delaney, apparently has resulted in the Boston gob obtaining the post position. Jacobs has threatened to call off the match with Heeney, however, if his gladiator is overlooked this week when Tunney's first opponent is named. Tom Heeney likewise has threatened to bolt the tournament.

Possibility that Tunney would waive naming of an opponent on Feb. 1, appeared likely due to the absence of the necessary ballyhoo band from Florida shores. Rickard has asserted that the "real news" probably will await his return to New York within the next three weeks.

Light-Heavy Tourney

In the meantime, John M. (Texas) Chapman, Rickard's assistant at Madison Square Garden, left the heavyweight situation strictly to his superior and planned an elimination tournament of his own that is scheduled to produce the next aspirant for Tommy Loughran's light heavyweight crown. Mike McTigue, former titleholder, will battle Leo Lomski, unsuccessful challenger, in the Garden Friday night. The winner is scheduled to meet Jimmy Slattery and probably Joe Sekyra before the nominee finally is selected.

BASKETBALL SCRAPS

Bulkeley didn't [illegible] tion for the Academy Saturday night.

The Renaissance [illegible] Britain entirely too [illegible] Saturday night at New [illegible] the Harlem team was completely outclassed for the second time this season by the Hardware City team.

The C. F. C. and Danielson Seconds ought to give plenty of action tonight at the Y gym.

The Y Imps will probably tackle the Shamrocks of this city next Thursday night.

The Plainfield Buddies are still winning and another series between them and the C. F. C. ought to go well. The locals took two straight from this club early in the season.

Steffy Stavinitsky has a lot to do with Meriden's win over Waterbury Saturday night in a state league encounter.

Lou Gehrig's All-Stars lost out through a last minute rush by Springfield Y. M. H. A. Saturday night. Gehrig shot a basket before retiring.

With Brown and Harris present Saturday night it is doubtful if the Marines would have beaten the Y.

HACK WILSON IS ANOTHER CUB HOLDOUT

CHICAGO, Jan. 29—(AP)—The holdout family of the Chicago Cubs was increased to two today when Hack Wilson, home run hitting outfielder, returned his 1928 contract unsigned. Charlie Root, Cub pitcher, returned his unsigned contract several days ago.

STONINGTON LOSES TO NEW YORKERS

STONINGTON, Jan. 29.—Stonington High forced Fort Washington High of New York City into three overtime periods before dropping a 25 to 23 decision Saturday night. It was one of the most exciting tilts seen in the borough for some time with neither team having anything like a safe margin at any time during the torrid tilt.

SHORE DEVELOPMENT

In connection with the idea of bringing a greater number of people to New England each year for the enjoyment of its many attractions it is the town of North Kingstown, R. I., which has fallen in with the spirit of the movement and proposes to use its 15 miles of shore front for the purpose of drawing tourists and summer resort business.

It is probable that that town must do much in the way of highway facilities if it is going to offer a locality that will really attract, for in these days those going to the shore for the day or the season travel for the most part by automobile and they want good roads for quick and safe transportation.

However, North Kingstown in weighing its own attractions with those elsewhere believes that it has just as good an opportunity for doing a good summer business as any of the rest and is anxious to start. Anticipation and realization do not always go hand in hand but there are plenty of precedents to support the idea.

In the last quarter of a century great changes have taken place along the whole Connecticut shore. Where there were no cottages it is now impossible to acquire a building site on the shore front. Where a few shacks were once used there are now large colonies. These are steadily growing and others are experiencing similar development. Connecticut has even established a park on the shore to which many thousands of people go every summer. In fact there are not many places along the entire shore which are not in some stage of development. And what is true of Connecticut is also true of Rhode Island. A trip along its irregular shore line quickly proves such a claim. Still there is a demand for more and it is quite within the right of North Kingstown to believe that it has the attractions and can meet the requirements of the seeker for a cottage at the shore.

From the progress that has been made in the last quarter of a century in shore development it is quite evident that another 25 years will witness a still greater utilization of the advantages and attractions which so long stood idle until they were made available through the use of the motor vehicle.

CARING FOR THE UNFORTUNATE

Institutional life has long since been regarded as having its detrimental features. It is of course much better than the care which children in some homes have received and probably preferable to that in many others. Nevertheless there is the absence of home influences and when good home influences are not given some children they quickly reflect it.

Where homes are not what they should be, where parents are a menace to their children, where children are left without parents and no others are able to take care of them institutions are inevitable and it is a blessing that such exist to meet the situation. Nevertheless there cannot fail to be much attention given to the experiment which is about to be tried in Detroit where the Children's Home society has been given $725,000 by S. S. Kresge for the purpose of establishing a cottage colony for orphans. The cottages will be erected on a 23 acre plot and for the maintenance of this colony an annual allowance of $50,000 will be made. It is the plan to make that their home. The colony will be under the supervision of an established charitable organization.

It is the belief that cared for in this manner the orphans will come the nearest to getting real home influence that would be possible and it will be possible for them to escape the cold, institutional influence that invariably goes with those homes where all the children are kept under one roof.

Those interested in such work will be certain to give their close attention to the results that are obtained at Detroit. Apparently Mr. Kresge has had his plan in mind for some time. At any rate he is convinced that it has merits and is ready to provide the funds for giving it a real test. If it works well there will be even greater attention given to it throughout the country, although in the matter of maintenance there will be a call for greater financial support than would be needed under the institutional plan.

A MONTH TO ACT

The time is growing short in which congress can act and by its action retain the benefit of the existing parcel post exchange with Cuba. The reason for this is that Cuba has served notice that unless this country has, by the first of March, so changed its law whereby it will be possible to send cigars in small packages to the United States it will decline to renew the parcel post agreement.

As the law stands at the present time it is impossible for Cuban business houses to send cigars or cigarettes to this country in packages of less than 3000 and that bars them from the advantages of parcel post. The view that is taken in Cuba is that this regulation was adopted for and works to the advantage of the American cigar manufacturers and to the disadvantage of Cuban dealers. The required large orders limit the amount of business done, whereas if it were possible to send in small quantities there would be a chance to get the benefit of the lower rate by using the parcel post.

It is to be realized that the desired change would not make any difference in the duty. That would have to be paid on the small as well as the large shipment. It may be felt in connection with this desired change that Cuba is seeking an unusual advantage, but it must also appear that Cuba has been placed under a business handicap and if it is forced to terminate the parcel post agreement it will shut off that large volume of parcel post business with the island republic which would be a much worse situation for millions of dollars worth of goods are sent there in such a manner each year.

The change that is sought is one which was urged by the president in his last messages to congress. It has the backing of the treasury and post-office departments and with such a sentiment prevailing in this country there ought to be an effort on the part of congress to do its part within the time fixed. A month permits of plenty of time provided congress makes the best use of it and avoids the inclination to waste time and delay action.

CAPE COD CANAL

Ever since the Cape Cod canal was opened it has offered to such shipping as could use it a reduction of about 60 miles in a coastwist trip to or from Boston. It has also eliminated that highly dangerous trip around the treacherous shoals of Cape Cod and the narrow channels through Nantucket and Vineyard sounds, where so many wrecks have for years testified to the menace to shipping, especially during bad weather or storms.

Although the war department has not made any announcement to that effect, a Washington despatch carries the information on good authority that it is the intention of the department to eliminate all tolls on vessels going through the canal. This will be good news to that shipping which has been inclined to balk at the tolls and to circuit the cape shoals because of an unwillingness to meet them. This will or should mean that as soon as it goes into effect all shipping which can use the canal will do so, while the fact that all cannot be accommodated will furnish good and sufficient reason for asking for the necessary appropriations to carry out the deepening and widening of the canal so that it will in time be available to all vessels, government as well as the merchant ships.

Whatever is doing in this direction depends upon the action of congress. The necessary funds for such work would have to be appropriated, but where the canal provides for part of the shipping there is certain to be a demand for giving similar advantages to the rest.

Nothing will serve to popularize the canal like the removal of the tolls and the completion of the work that will permit any and all vessels to use it. It will be a happy day when the time comes that the circling of the cape is no longer necessary.

ACOSTA AND THE LAW

It is always so that there are some who take exception to a law such as that under which Aviator Acosta sent to jail and fined in Naugatuck. Just because he was an aviator of prominence there are those who feel called upon to express their opposition to the law and to claim that it is out of reason to expect aviators to remain 2000 feet over cities.

If it is out of reason and unjust in the opinion of some that doesn't justify complete defiance of the law. Had Acosta been flying 1500 feet perhaps above Naugatuck there might have been no objection raised, but when he was getting down close to the housetops it was taking liberties with a state law which could not be overlooked and Acosta as a flier of note should have been the first to discountenance such a thing.

Acosta may have had his machine in full control and might have been able to do such stunts without an accident, but he could give no assurance that all would be well. In case something did happen he would be in imminent danger of involving others and that is the very thing which the state law was intended to prevent. By flying high over a city it would be possible to glide to a landing place without crashing into a building or a crowd, whereas it would be less possible for the low flier to do anything of the kind.

On the other hand the law is expected to treat all alike. If Acosta was to be allowed to do as he pleased because he was Acosta, it could be expected that other fliers, even with far less experience and skill, would claim the same privilege. Acosta had no reason to expect he could ignore the law any more than others.

WOMAN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Oil pressed from walnut meats will remove small scratches from furniture.

To keep suede shoes from looking gray, rub them slightly with fine emery paper.

Waterproof chintz may be used for valances and shelf hangings in the kitchen.

Boil turnips until tender, then bake in a rich cream sauce, with strips of pimento.

A little macaroni added to chicken will increase the quantity when chicken is scarce.

Potato chips and stuffe olives go well with chicken salad.

Embroideries always should be ironed on the wrong side.

Patent leather bags will look like new if rubbed with a little milk and polished with a dry cloth.

Many repair bills may be saved by frequently oiling vacuum cleaners and other labor-saving devices in the home.

When using pickles for a garnish, slice them to the stem end without detaching and spread them like a fan.

A tasty sandwich filling may be made with a mixture of mayonnaise, chopped hard-boiled eggs, pickles and walnut meats.

A coating of liquid wax spread over newly laid linoleum will make it easy to keep clean.

Rub vaseline over scratches on shoes before blacking them and the marks will not show.

When creaming ham, add a teaspoon of Worcestershire sauce to each cup of white sauce.

A crochet hook will recover the tape or draw string which has disappeared within its casing.

Ammonia will remove iodine stains.

One way to make candles fit small holes without getting them misshapen is to dip the ends in boiling water and insert in holder while hot.

WORN-OFF FLOORS

Worn spots on polished floors in doorways or at the foot of stairs may be prevented by applying a thin cat of wax once or twice a month. Put the wax in cheesecloth and rub over the worn spot, allowing fifteen minutes for drying, then polish. In an hour or two apply a second coat of wax and polish again.

FISH-FRYING HINTS

When frying fish, instead of using an egg to brush over it, make a paste of flour and water, brush the fish over with this and then dust with bread crumbs and fry at once. It will look as nice as if done with an egg, and when eggs are dear it is a great saving.

DON'T USE SODA

A weak solution of washing soda boiled in tin and enamel cooking utensils will remove any food which may have stuck to them. Soda never should be used on aluminum.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY

Sunshine and air are enemies of germs.

People who sleep with windows wide open and plenty of covers are far healthier than those sealed up in a poorly ventilated room.

Don't guard against a draught that only lasts a minute. You are bound to be in them at times and if totally unused to a draught it is almost certain to mean trouble.

A point that the woman with weak ankles should remember is that constantly changing from high-heeled to low-heeled shoes is very bad for the ankles. Very low heels tend to thicken them, and so do extremely high heels, for the latter impose a great strain on the ligaments of the foot.

PROPERLY PLACED LIGHTS

Proper placing of lights has much to do with saving our eyesight. Electric equipment makes it easy to put the lights in just the right place. Arrange the furniture in the room, in imagination, at least, before you decide on the lightinng.

For use at the desk the light should fall over the right shoulder, so you are not in your own shadow. The light should be clear and powerful enough to illuminate perfectly, but not to glare and glaze in a way to make the eyes feel tired.

When a light is placed above or on the bed see that it shines softly and directly upon the book you may be reading, that it is well shaded with a regular reading shade, dark above and light underneath.

SOMETHING REALLY NEW

New, yet so useful that one wonders it has not been thought of before, is a ring about eight or ten inches wide covered with velvet and ornamented with a bit of gold lace. The ring, suspended from a hook by a loop of ribbon, is intended to hold a nightgown in either a closet or bathroom.

GIVES VARIETY

After your beef pot roast has thoroughly browned on both sides, season well and add two good sized onions and one-half cup pineapple juice and two cups water. Let cook until very tender. There is a perfectly delicious taste to this pot roast gravy.

TOWEL HANGER

An embroidery ring hung near the kitchen sink by a short cord makes a convenient hanger for the hand towel.

DRIED GLUE

If your glue dries up, add hot vinegar, drop by drop, until it becomes liquid again. The vinegar should be at boiling point.

BOILING OVER

Beets or other vegetables can be kept from boiling over by buttering the inside of the sauce pan for about two inches below the rim.

DICTATES OF FASHION

New and smart are frocks made of transparent flat crepe, a fabric that has just been launched.

Youthful, enchanting, is a chartreuse frock with bouffant tulle skirt, fitted bodice and jeweled suspenders set in gold.

A medium blue velvet suit has a shirred ruffle for its collar, and a shirred ruffle finishing the hip-length coat.

A dainty cape of fine mesh gold lace is worn over a flowered taffeta bouffant frock that has a gold fleck in its weave.

Hosiery is taking hints from dress goods. New shades include eggplant, ripe figs and other shades to match rich materials.

Dainty printed crepe de chine is used for some charming lingerie. A white gown, teddy and slip set is of cream, with a tiny red cherry design.

Many fabric collars add a chic note to velvet coats this winter. A bronze velvet has a self collar that resembles an old-fashioned collarette.

It is a good plan to buy two pairs of shoulder straps to every slip or chemise made. The new pair should be put on before the first ones fall to pieces.

A red leather coat gains slenderizing lines by using slot seams at the center back and both side seams. This accompanying hat also has similar trimming.

Lounging pajamas made of gold color satin are extremely chic, particularly when the coat is trimmed with gold marabou set on in small circles very close together.

A stunning gold cloth evening gown sweeps clear to the floor and barely reveals the glinting tips of brocaded gold evening slippers.

A pair of satin mules in rose color and trimmed with a large fluff of ostrich feathers is sure to delight the feminine heart.

For the slender young girl nothing could be more charming than a dance set consisting of brassiere and girdle of crepe de chine, carefully boned and shaped.

COOLIE COAT LATEST CRAZE

The coolie coat, costume of American beaches, has moved into Paris salons as a sort of tea coat and feminine smoking jacket.

Parisians make up in rich woolens and gorgeous silver embroideries what originally was an humble little blue cotton cloth coat worn by Chinese workmen. The director of a fashion house in the Place Vendome wears a coolie coat in his studio-office.

NEW STEP-IN

A most becoming new step-in is of pale pink crepe de chine piped with the same, and ornamented with a little bit of hemstitching and embroidery. The sides are cut so that there is a little pleating there, and the whole effect is of a very brief petticoat.

SEWING HINTS

Small tweezers remove the canvas from cross-stitching far more easily and surely than fingers or scissors.

When doing a hand stitch along a hem, seams or any other straight line you can place your stitches evenly if you stitch by machine first, without threading the needle.

When making eyelets to slip lacings through, outline the hole before punching, and you will find it easier to work and much firmer.

When sheets tear in the center, make pillow slips out of the ends.

Knots should always be avoided when darning—in consideration of the wearer. So just moisten the end of the darning cotton to prevent its continually slipping through. You will find a knot unnecessary.

A VELVET QUILT

The down-filled quilt that is silk velvet on one side and satin on the other is one of the newest arrivals in bedding fashion. Luxurious to the last degree, it goes equally well with French Empire or Directoire furnishings and may be used either for the chaise lounge or the bed in rooms of this period.

The colors are charming, of course—soft tones such as gold, green, mauve, pink, blue. And for those who like the idea but find the all-velvet quilt a bit over-formal for their particular rooms, there is the fashion of the velvet-bound satin quilt—smart, warm comforts that should, by all the rules of modern bedding fashion, be matched by fluffy, plain-color blankets in exactly the same soft shade.

SILK AND WOOL HOSE

Women no longer like to suffer even for fashion's sake. Consequently each wardrobe today makes ample provision for warmth at outdoor autumn sports despite the absence of the old flannel petticoat. The woolen and silk hose, however, are being made in most attractive designs and the silk and wool knickers worn above them provide more warmth than even the red flannel of grandmother's day.

TO BRIGHTEN RUGS

To brighten a dull rug or carpet, put half a cup of turpentine into a basin of warm water. Dip your broom into the water and go over the rug with the broom once or twice. This will restore the color and make the rug look like new.

DON'T ABUSE THE ICEBOX

Mistreating the refrigerator, so that it is not able to function properly, results in high temperature and a waste of ice.

The ice block never should be covered, with newspapers or otherwise, to retard its melting rate. This will result in high temperatures and spoiled food, inasmuch as there is little refrigeration without a free circulation of air around the ice cake.

Hot food should not be put into the refrigerator, as this raises the whole refrigerator temperature and may result in the deterioration of other foods. The practice also wastes ice.

The housewife or cook should train herself to open the refrigerator door as few times as possible. Food materials which will be needed at about the same time may be removed together on a tray at one time.

CONCERNING WOMEN

Since women have been given the right to vote in the United States, there have been eight women elected as members of the United States congress.

Mrs. Frank B. Willis, wife of United States Senator Willis of Ohio, who collects quilts as a hobby, has one that has been in her family for nearly a century.

A new musical typewriter, which enables composers to type their scores instead of laborious writing of them in long hand, has been invented by Katherine Gorin, composer-pianist.

Mrs. Howard Green of Long Branch, N. J., was recently appointed as official representative from America to the sixth international congress of art to be held in Prague, Hungary, in 1928.

During the seven years she has been judge of the probate court in Greenville county, S. C., Mrs. Fannie D. Scott has issued more than 10,000 marriage licenses and performed many of the ceremonies.

The council of Neustadt, a small town in Thuringia, has decided that the flapper must help support the local government, therefore taxes have been imposed on bobbed heads, walking sticks, silk stockings and patent leather shoes.

BEWARE OF MICE

Do not leave any crumbs in the tablecloth or napkins when they are placed in the hamper of soiled clothes as the mice might ruin them.

ROLLING PASTRY

Pastry must always be rolled with a light rather than a heavy motion. Rolled in this way, the air will not be rolled from it, thus robbing it of its flakiness.

RECIPES

Candied Cranberries: Two pounds cranberries, wash, drain and measure cup of sugar to each cup of cranberries; place cranberries in a long shallow pan; slice one orange thin, peeling and all, or one slice of pineapple, cut fine; lay over cranberries; also one cup chopped English walnuts; then sprinkle the sugar over all with one and one-half cups water. Cook in very slow oven one hour. Shake pan occasionally and dip syrup and pour over berries. Cook until syrup is thick. Let cool in pan. Nice for Christmas boxes.

Fudge Squares: One-fourth cup of shortening, 1 cup sugar, 2 eggs beaten, 2 squares unsweetened chocolate, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1-8 cup pastry flour, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1-2 cup chopped nut meats.

Cream shortening and sugar together thoroughly. Then add chocolate which has been melted. Stir in rest of ingredients. Mix well. Line a square pan (about 7 inches) with paper, grease, spread mixture about 1-2 inch deep in pan. Bake at 275 degrees F. for 30 minutes. Cut in squares immediately after removing from the oven.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

King Boris III., who today enters upon his 35th year, has occupied the rather shaky throne of Bulgaria since 1918, when his crafty father, Czar Ferdinand, was obliged to abdicate because he made a wrong guess as to who was going to win the big war. Boris is better liked by the mass of his subjects than was his father, yet there are those among them who would remove him from the stage, as is evidenced by the several attempts that have been made upon his life. The king is said by those who know him best to be highly educated, of pleasing address and profoundly pious like his mother, the Princess Maria Louise of Parma, who died when her son was 5 years old. King Boris is unmarried. Once it was reported that he might marry an American heiress and that he probably would visit America, but both plans were vetoed by the government.

Stories That Recall Others

A Useful Baby

A new use has been found for the baby in the modern house. In one family the new baby and the new radio set came to the house about the same time.

The baby is awakened about 1 a. m., for the night feeding and the fond father has asked his wife to awaken him at the same time so he can listen in on his radio for the programmes that are said to be unusually good at that hour.

The Wrong Mrs. Snyder

Maxine, age four, lives next door to a family named Snyder, and she is particularly fond of the feminine head of that household. Consequently when she was going down the street with her mother some days ago and a neighbor remarked, "Well, I guess they'll kill Mrs. Snyder tonight," she screamed so terror stricken that her mother was forced to take her back home. "They're going to kill Mrs. Snyder," she screamed. "They're going to kill Mrs. Snyder."

It took considerable maternal explaining to show Maxine that there were two Mrs. Snyders, and then to attempt to explain just why the other Mrs. Snyder was being killed.

With his broken neck still in a cast, but otherwise enjoying life, Lindy, a prize-winning police dog, owned by Carl Statz, has been discharged from a dog hospital at Reading, Pa. When Lindy was struck by an automobile two months ago Statz interfered as a policeman tried to shoot him. Instead the dog was strapped in a cot for four weeks, held tightly by braces. After that he was allowed to move around. And in a few weeks more the plaster cast will be removed.

Liners of the future will be "manned" and captained by women, avers Capt. Thomas Drake of Chatham, England, who piloted a 25-foot schooner from the United States to Plymouth. "The modern liner is so wonderfully equipped with every device of science that it can be navigated by women. Being captain of a liner isn't a man's job any more."

The Escape of Terror the Goshawk.

No substitute can ever be Quite the same as being free.
—Terror the Goshawk.

Perhaps you will remember that Terror the Goshawk was caught by Farmer Brown's Boy, who had set a trap for him on top of the telephone pole. Farmer Brown's Boy had done this because Terror had been catching his chickens. Having caught Terror without injury, Farmer Brown's Boy decided to keep him a prisoner. And so it came about that Terror the Goshawk, whom all the little people of the Green Forest and the Green Meadows feared greatly, became a prisoner in a cage in Farmer Brown's dooryard.

"I hate to do it, old fellow," said Farmer Brown's Boy, "but I just can't afford to have you stealing my chickens. So I am going to keep you a prisoner here until it is time for you to go back north."

So Terror was a prisoner, but he was a very well treated prisoner. Farmer Brown's Boy did everything to make him comfortable. He saw that Terror was well fed. There was a box shelter for him in bad weather and he really had nothing to complain of, excepting his lack of freedom. But nothing ever can, or ever will, make up for that. This is especially true with one who had had the freedom of the skies, as had Terror. So a ways threw as a look of longing in those fierce eyes of Terror's. He pined for the Green Forest.

But if he pined, the other little people rejoiced that he was a prisoner. The Green Forest was a safer place for them with Terror out of the way. Their one fear was that some day he might escape and return. That was their fear, but it was Terror's hope. Never did he let hope wholly die. Always he was on the watch. If chance to escape should come, he would be ready for it.

At first while he was a prisoner he was visited every day by little people from the Old Orchard and the Green Forest. They didn't come to ask after his health and tell him they were sorry he was a prisoner. Goodness, no! They came to mock and make fun of him and to tell him how glad they were that he was where he could no longer do any harm. But after a while they grew tired of this and there came a time when Terror had no visitors at all. In fact he had been quite forgotten.

Then one day as Farmer Brown's Boy was putting food and water in his cage Mother Brown called to him from the house. He shut the door to the cage in a hurry. He thought he hooked it. But he didn't hook it. That is, the hook didn't catch. Then he hurried up to the house and gave no further thought to Terror.

They came to mock and make fun of him.

Now Terror couldn't see that that door wasn't hooked, and it was some time after Farmer Brown's Boy had left that Terror discovered that there was a little ray of light around the edge of that door. He poked it. The door swung ever so little. He pushed. The door swung half open. Terror's heart gave a great leap of joy. Boldly he pushed his way out. He was free! Yoy may be sure that he wasted no time. He spread those big wings of his and away he flew, straight to the Green Forest. No one saw him. It happened that it was on the very day that Spite and Marten tried to catch Chatterer the Red Squirrel. You will remember how Chatterer was struck down in mid-air by Terror. Chatterer hadn't been watching for any such enemy as that.

Of course Terror was greatly disappointed at not catching Chatterer. For a few moments he quarrelled with Spite the Marten. Then he took to his wings. Up above the trees he flew. Up, up he went and finally headed straight into the north. Terror was leaving the Green Forest. He wanted to get away from the place where he had been a prisoner. But that was enough. Soon all the Green Forest knew that Terror had escaped from prison and also that he had left the Green Forest.

POETRY

Where Is Thy God?

"There is no God," the fool hath said—
Such empty-headed blatant claims!
A challenge worn as open sin,
Unblushing backs, unholy aims.

"Here is thy God!" the heathen cries:
This calf of gold, this man-made stock.
Thus maker bows to what he makes,
And spirit worships wood or rock.

"Where is thy God?" my deep need asks;
My thirsting soul, my burning tears
Both drive me to the house of prayer,
To faith revived and banished fears.

"I am thy God." Thus spake the Voice,
As Sinai's fires a prophet woke—
And through him God revealed His will,
And by him to the ages spoke.

"My Lord, my God!" the apostle cried;
Hands, side and visage told the strife;
Revealed the Christ as Son indeed,
And through Him, hope revived, and Life.

The Faithful Few

When the meeting's called to order,
And you look around the room,
You're sure to see some faces
That from out the shadows loom;
They are always at the meeting
And they'll stay until it's through—
The Ones that I would mention
Are The Always Faithful Few.

They fill the many offices
And are always on the spot,
No matter what the weather,
Though it may be awful hot,
It may be dark and rainy,
But they are tried and true,
The Ones that you rely on
Are The Always Faithful Few.

There are lots of worthy members
Who will come when in the mood,
When everything's convenient;
They can do a little good,
They're a factor in the meeting
And are necessary, too,
But the Ones who never fail us
Are The Always Faithful Few.

If it were not for these faithful
Whose shoulders at the wheel
Keep the institution moving,
Without a halt or reel—
What would be the fate of meetings,
Where we claim so much to do?
They surely would be failures
If we lacked The Faithful Few!
—The Bookbinder.

A man unaccustomed to praising his wife went out of his way to call her an angel.

"Mary," he said one morning, "you are an angel," and she felt charmed all day.

In the evening she ventured to ask him why she had been so honored.

"Well," said the wily one, "you are always flitting about; you are always harping on things; and, by your own account, you have nothing to wear!"—Boston Post.

Stockholm has a unique claim to glory. Dr. Karl Eden has just completed a statistical study there that shows that the birth rate of the laboring classes is about 35 per cent below that of the more affluent strata of society. Stockholm laborers are apparently willing to let their earnings determine the number of their progeny, a state of affairs in marked contrast to that which prevails in almost every country in which statistical surveys have been made. The so-called upper-classes are usually the ones that limit the size of their families.

OBITUARY.

Charles H. Standish.

Following an illness of less than a week, Charles Henry Standish, a resident of Norwich for the past 28 years, passed away at his home at 52 Asylum street shortly after 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon. In good health until last Sunday he was stricken with a slight shock and gradually failed until the end.

Born in Norwich, March 25, 1845, the son of Thomas Fitch and Ruth Anne Holden Standish, he was a direct descendent of Captain Myles Standish, of Plymouth, in the eighth generation. When about five years of age the family moved to Hanover where they resided for many years. In Hanover, on Nov. 5, 1868, he was married to Mary Josephine Corey, of Lebanon, by Rev. Charles Whitman, pastor of the Hanover Congregational church. After living in Hanover for a number of years after his marriage, Mr. Standish moved to Lisbon where he lived until November of 1900 when he came to Norwich to make his home. Giving up his agricultural pursuits upon coming to Norwich, he followed the carpentry and machinists' trades, being employed at the J. B. Martin Co. up to the time he was taken ill.

On November, 26, 1927, Mr. and Mrs. Standish quietly celebrated their 59th wedding anniversary. He leaves besides his wife, three children, Charles H. Standish, Jr., Miss Nettie L. Standish and Myles E. Standish, all of this city. There are three grandchildren.

Belonging to no organizations, Mr. Standish's chief interest centered in his home and family and it is here that his loss will be most felt. He was a man of sterling principles and commanded the esteem of all who knew him.

His wife obtained a divorce Friday in the superior court at Hartford.

WINTER SEASON FINALLY GIVES CITY WORK IN CLEARING OFF SNOW

Norwich experienced its first real snow storm of the winter Saturday night when a snowfall accompanied by a high wind, swept over this section. Between four and five inches of snow was left in the wake of the storm which came to an end early Sunday morning. At 2 o'clock Sunday morning Street Commissioner John C. Donovan ordered the city's ploughs and shovel gang out and they were kept busy all day Sunday and Sunday night. Three plows were in service all day ploughing out the main streets of the city and the driveways at the local cemeteries.

By Sunday night the street department had cleared Franklin, Main, Shetucket, and Bath streets and Franklin square and at midnight Sunday the shovel gang was at work clearing lower Broadway. Several dump carts and trucks were pressed into service to carry away the snow. Several crews were also kept at work sanding slippery sidewalks. It was the second time this winter that the street department has had its ploughs and trucks out. The first call on the street department men came several weeks ago when an ice and sleet storm hit the city.

The Connecticut company also had its ploughs and sweepers out clearing the trolley rails. At 4.30 o'clock Sunday morning, two ploughs and two sweepers were sent over the company's trolley lines in Norwich and vicinity.

The thermometer dropped rapidly Saturday night and Sunday and about midnight the mercury was down to 12 above zero in the central part of the city. Outlying districts reported readings several degrees lower.

CENTRAL AVENUE STORE SUFFERED FIRE DAMAGE

Fire starting from an oil stove when his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Victoria Wispewski, was making coffee in a rear room, did damage estimated at $2,500 Sunday afternoon at 1:30 at the store and residence property of Joseph Praczukowski, 174 Central avenue.

After Capt. Blackburn at the Greeneville station got the call from Praczukowski, he notified the central station from which Squad A, Engine No. 1 and Deputy Chief Taft responded. On arriving at the fire, Engine Company No. 2 found the smoke too thick to get into the front door of the place, but they shifted to the rear and knocked in the cellar window, using a 40-gallon tank of chemical, and running a line of hose to a hydrant on Central avenue. Squad A also had a line of hose to the hydrant at Second and Prospect streets.

The house is a two-story frame building owned by Praczukowski, who conducts a grocery store on the first floor, with two tenements above, which received only smoke damage. Mr. Praczukowski stated he had $3,000 insurance on the building but none on the grocery stock valued at about $1,500.

The funeral of John H. Kanahan of 52 Broadway was held Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Buckingham Memorial with many relatives and friends present. The Grand Army funeral service was conducted by Captain George C. Crocker, commander of Sedgwick post, No. 1, G. A. R., Henry C. Wright and George Parkinson, members of the post. The burial is to take place in Mt. Hope, N. Y., with a service conducted by members of George E. Meade post, G. A. R., of which Mr. Kanahan was adjutant at the time of his death.

Arthur Gallup

The funeral of Arthur Gallup, 21, was held Sunday, Jan. 22, at 1 p. m. at his father's home on Ekonk Hill. The burial was in the family lot in Moosup. Mr. Gallup was born on Ekonk Hill. The Gallup was born on Ekonk Hill and spent his life there. He was the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Stuart Gallup. He leaves to mourn his loss his father and mother and three sisters, and a host of relatives and friends. The funeral was one of the largest ever held in that section and the offerings in flowers were many and beautiful. He was greatly beloved by his young friends of whom he had a multitude, outside a large circle of relatives. A large delegation of his classmates from the General Electric school at Lynn, Mass., with many young men and women from various sections made up one of the largest gatherings of young people ever seen on Ekonk Hill. The circumstances surrounding his death contributed to heighten the sorrow of his friends and acquaintances. The accidental discharge of a gun tore away the calf of his leg. He was rushed to St. Joseph's hospital, Providence, R. I., but blood poisoning set in and death soon intervened.

In his passing a young man of singular charm and beauty of character has entered upon his reward. The services were conducted by Rev. Wm. J Reynolds of Newent, Lisbon.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS PLAN MEMORIAL SUNDAY

It was announced Sunday that White Cross council, Knights of Columbus, was to make Sunday next its memorial day. There are about 450 members in the council. In memorializing their dead, they will receive holy communion in a body at the 7:30 mass in St. Patrick's church. Sunday evening, at 7:30, the Knights and their friends from St. Patrick's and other parishes will attend services in the church, when the sermon will be delivered by Rev. Charles H. Corcoran, chaplain of St. John's school, Deep River, a Norwich young man and a member of White Cross council.

ANOTHER MILLION DOLLARS IS NEEDED BY THE POPE

"Last year the Pope asked for a million dollars for charity work in Russia and the Near East. He got it. Will he get it again this year?" asked Rev. John J. Reilly, from the pulpit of St. Patrick's church at the third mass Sunday. Father Reilly read the circular letter of Bishop Nilan urging the parish to again lend its benevolent support to this second drive in the interests of the Near East Welfare association, which last year enabled the spiritual head of the Catholic church throughout the world to establish what is in reality the Pope's community chest for international charities. There is special American interest in this project, because the million dollars given last year afforded the Pope a working fund so that he could bestow $100,000 of it to aid the Mississippi flood sufferers.

Bishop Nilan stated in his letter that so wholeheartedly did the people respond to this call in 1927, enrolling in the association with its membership of only $1, that the diocese of Hartford had a place of honor foremost among the dioceses of the country. Father Reilly reminded the Norwich congregation that they will continue to receive such demands to aid again and again, since the church is carrying out the command of its Divine Founder, "Go ye therefore, teach all nations."

Will the supporters of this Near East movement break down? The preacher thought not. Graphically he sketched the wondrous organization of the German army as its thousands goose-stepped through Belgium at the beginning of the World war, on the way from the Fatherland to Brussels—at first the pick of the nation, equipped to the very highest point of efficiency—even to the cobblers' wagons, the mail delivery system to the marching soldiers, the Red Cross ambulance equipment to care for those who might fall out of the ranks. But gradually the character of the troops changed, the quality of their supplies deteriorated; after boys and old men came to take the places of the dead and the support from home fell off, it was no surprise when the army began to retreat. So must it be with the mission movement in the foreign field, the preacher declared, in case those at home ever grow lax in their support. Russia and the Near East are the objective of the present drive, to offset in a measure the devastation resulting especially in Russia from the selfishness of human greed which has reacted in suffering to the common people.

The second enrollment in St. Patrick's parish will take place Sunday next, each person signing up for the second year and accompanying his enrollment by a dollar fee.

Sunday was the fourth Sunday after Epiphany, the day's gospel being Matthew 8. 23-27, the miracle of the stilling of the winds and waves. Although the rector of the great parish, Monsignor May is nearing the last week of his well earned vacation with a visit to Eustis, Florida, parish affairs are carried on with the customary system by his two assistants, who heard almost a record number of confessions at the week end, as proved by the number of penitents receiving holy communion from Rev. Myles P. Galvin and Rev. Father Reilly at the early masses—a total in fact almost as big as an ordinary congregation.

Organist Henry J. LaFontaine has returned from his vacation of a week in New York and played at the third and fourth masses of the day.

Zylstra, who has become superintendent of the Booth Mill, New Bedford.

MADE SECOND ARREST ON THEFT ACCUSATION

Joseph De Stadio, 34, of New Haven, the man on whose account Miss Gladys Waite, 18, is reported to have stolen $30 or $40 from a home on Asylum street where she was employed was arrested in this city late Saturday afternoon by Officers Keenan, Carroll and Ryan and was booked at police headquarters on the charge of theft. He was unable to furnish bonds and was held over Sunday.

Miss Waite has also been unable to furnish bonds and is held in the woman's rooms at police headquarters for a continued hearing in her case.

MOVIE ACTRESS BACK FROM WORLD TOUR

Mrs. Beatrice Palmer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Valentine, of No. 21 Happy street, has just returned from a three month's tour around the world. She sailed from Vancouver, British Columbia, to Sydney, Australia, on the R. M. M. S. Aorangi, and was met in Australia by several movie picture people. She was the guest of Eva Novak, the American movie star, who at present is making pictures in Australia with her husband, Bill Reed. Mrs. Palmer was also entertained by Hon. T. C. Mutch, Sir Charles and Mrs. Dowdell, Mr. and Mrs. Warren C. Mayor and other notables.

While in Sydney she visited Toranga park, the second zoo in the world where the animals are not caged. She also spent a few days in Auckland, New Zealand, and visited to the race track which has 260 flower beds on the grounds and is considered the most beautiful race track in the world.

She speaks of the Orient as very beautiful and says she brought back several very lovely gifts from Japan and China.

On the return trip she stopped off at Suva Fiji and visited many of the South Sea islands, where natives were used for picture work and many beautiful scenes were taken. Mrs. Palmer next visited Honolulu and the Hawaiian islands and while in Honolulu was the guest of the Royal Hawaiian hotel, where she enjoyed swimming golf and other sports, and a big dinner was given in her honor at Honolulu by Chester Doyle.

She sailed from Honolulu to San Francisco on the steamer Malolo and then went to Los Angeles where she stayed for a week at the Ambassador hotel. In Hollywood she was entertained by Harold Lloyd and his father and also by Dan Wolheim, who is starring in "Tenderloin," one of the late pictures to be released.

Mrs. Palmer will return to New York shortly to continue her work in pictures with Cosmopolitan, Famous Players, Universal and other equally well known film combinations. In the spring she will return to Hollywood to sign a contract with the Harold Lloyd company.

SIEBENDORN-ROGERS ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

Saturday evening Mr. and Mrs. Carl Young of Slater avenue gave a party at which the engagement of Miss Dorothy F. Rogers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Rogers of Spruce street, and Fred Siebenborn, formerly of New York, but now office manager of the American Thermos Bottle company, was announced.

The dining room was attractively decorated in pink and white. The centerpiece was a vase of pink in the shape of a lily from the center of which were streamers of pink and white ribbons attached to minature pink lily cups. The favors were pink horns.

After the guests, 11 in number, had eaten they were told to pull the streamers at the end of which were the cards with the names of the two young people on them. But as Miss Rogers pulled her streamer her engagement ring was found attached thereto. Thus was the engagement announced and the members of the party joined in the extension of the heartiest best wishes.

GAVE MISCELLANEOUS SHOWER FOR MRS. HARRY W. CARLSON

Forty-five girls from the local telephone exchange attended a miscellaneous shower Friday evening at the home of Mrs. Irving L. Hamilton, of Broadway, in honor of her daughter, Mrs. Harry W. Carlson, a recent bride. Mrs. Carlson received many beautiful gifts, including cut-glass, silverware and linen.

Refreshments of sandwiches, cake, cookies and coffee were served by the committee. Piano selections were rendered by Miss Anna Spicer and Miss Pearl Brennan. Vocal selections were heard from Miss Obeline Lambert. All left at a late hour wishing Mr. and Mrs. Carlson a long and happy married life.

The committee in charge consisted of the Misses Agnes Gayeske, Bernice Chapman, Anna Spicer and Barbara Odgers.

COURT IMPOSES FINE FOR POISONING COWS

The continued case against Mrs. Mary Lisovsky, charged with poisoning four cows, was tried Saturday morning in the city court and she was fined $200 and costs after she promised to make restitution to Alexey Pisarko of Canterbury, owner of the cows. She was also given 10 days in jail, suspended for one year. It is understood that she is to pay Pisarko $500 for the poisoned cows.

She was accused of feeding arsenate of lead to the cows on December 16, as revenge for a fancied wrong. The penalty for a crime of this nature could have been 6 months in jail, a fine of $1,000 or both. Leniency was shown the woman in view of the fact that she is the mother of three children and also in view of the fact that she passed 10 days in jail waiting for the disposition of her case. She was arrested in New York Jan. 14.

Bought Trousers for Man.

Reporting an automobile accident Saturday in which the machine he was driving struck a man on Main street, tearing his trousers, Wilfred Brodeur, of 88 Merchants avenue, stated that he adjusted the damage by buying the man a new pair of trousers.

Of special interest in the jewelry being shown are the new triangular motifs that are brought out in silver and gold plate, in chokers, bracelets, hatpins, earrings and dress ornaments. Some of these are set with synthetic stones.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

THE TEXAS CO. INAUGURATES AERIAL SELLING

Recognizing the growing importance of the commercial aviation market for petroleum products, the Texas company has started an aggressive policy for securing its share of business from this field.

The company announces the purchase of a large plane and the employment of F. M. Hawks in its aviation division. Mr. Hawks is a well-known commercial flier whose experience dates back from the war.

The plane which has been ordered from the Ford Motor company is an all-metal Ford plane with 74 feet wing spread, equipped with three motors, viz: two Wright Whirlwind motors of 200 H. P. each and one Pratt and Whitney 400 H. P. Wasp motor. The Wright motors will be built onto the wings, the Pratt and Whitney on the nose of the plane.

The plane has a cruising radius of 900 miles and a ceiling rate of 15,000 feet. It weighs three tons and has a two-ton carrying capacity; or ten passengers with baggage may be comfortably accommodated.

In addition to the use of the plane in making its aviation petroleum products more available, the Texas company will use it for experimental purposes.

It is expected to be completed in early February.

Breed Theatre.

"The Gorilla," the mysterious, hilarious and thrilling mystery play which rocked Broadway for a year, has reached the screen at last, with all of the requisites that made the stage play such a tremendous success. Last night at the Breed theatre the crowds shrieked, gasped and laughed, not only at the antics of The Gorilla himself, but with Charlie Murray and Fred Kelsey, as the two dumb sleuths, Mulligan and Garrity.

The Gorilla is one of the most eerie and spooky pictures ever to reach the screen. The able direction of Alfred Santell in handling a closely knit story and the splendid camera work take the place of pistol shots and changing lights that were a feature of the stage version. It has been proven that the silent screen can produce as many thrills, with the aid of clever photography as the legitimate stage.

For those who saw the original play a fresh thrill awaits, for the ending of the screen version has been changed.

The pictorial shots and action all take place in and around a Long Island home. There are a few outside or exterior scenes, which enhance the weirdness of the darkened rooms and shadows that appear from nowhere.

The cast has been chosen with care and all give excellent performances. Charlie Murray and Fred Kelsey represent a new screen team and are the featured players. Alice Day, Tully Marshall, Claude Gillingwater, Walter Pidgeon, Gaston Glass, Brooks Benedict, Aggie Herring and Syd. Crossley complete the roster.

The Gorilla is presented by Asher, Small and Rogers and made under the management of Edward Small. It is a First National Picture.

Palace Theatre.

"West Point," Haines' new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer vehicle, which is showing today and tomorrow at the Palace theatre, is by far the most ambitious vehicle in the history of the young star.

Actually filmed at West Point, under the frowning battlements of the Military Academy, showing the cadet corps in spectacular reviews and parades—echoing all the glorious traditions of the famous old school for officers, the inception of which dates back to the days of George Washington, the new Haines picture is unique in its genuine atmosphere and its close relationship to a nation's patriotism.

Beginning tonight every Monday night will be "gift night" at the Palace. Twenty-five dollars in gold and many useful and valuable articles will be given away, absolutely free.

These gifts are now on display in the lobby of the Palace.

Strand Theatre.

A double delight is afforded picture fans at the Strand theatre with a combination of the one and only Viola Dana and a swift and exciting race horse film that is refreshingly different from the usual type of such productions. "Bred in Old Kentucky" is the title, and is an appropriate one for a story that so adequately brings out the romance of the turf and the racing ponies. As the little Irish girl who loses every cent she owns through the manipulations of a crooked gang of gamblers, and who bravely starts out to rebuild her life and fortunes, Miss Dana has a role that fits her to perfection. The supporting cast is well up to the standard set by the star, including such players as Jerry Miley, Jed Prouty, Roy Laidlaw and Josephine Crowell, and the direction, by Edward Dillon, is masterfully done.

"Busy Birds," is another delightful story of our weekly series and is acted by a popular cast.

A "Krazy Kat Kartoon" that is a scream completes this very interesting bill.

AMSTON

According to nws received by friends here, the mother of Mrs. Charles Hilding is critically ill at the home of her daughter in New York.

James Strickland and family have moved over to Hope Valley.

Ed Hilding was a caller in Willimantic Friday.

The dance given at the Amston hall was enjoyed by all present. Music was furnished by the local orchestra, Bob's Boys.

Stephen Mooney is one of the latest to have his home wired.

Philip Gross is spending a few days at his New York city home.

GRADUAL EXPANSION OF BUSINESS WAS AGAIN EVIDENT LAST WEEK

NEW YORK, Jan. 29—(AP)—Gradual expansion of American business again was evident last week. As in other periods earlier in the month, improvement was most apparent in the so-called heavy industries, the steel trade making the most noticeable strides.

The revival in the steel industry has been in progress for several weeks following the steady ebb of last year. The usual picking up of demand for railway materials developed somewhat earlier than usual this year and was largely responsible for a stepping up of operations of mills. Automobile steel has moved with gratifying briskness, and improvement of the buying power of agricultural communities has led to a growing demand for steel by farm-implement manufacturers.

Steel men predict that the market for structural materials will be particularly good throughout 1928, pointing to large engineering projects planned and under way, and to probabilities that the building industry will do at least as well as in 1927. A firming price tendency has accompanied the increased consumption of steel products, which continues to be largely of a hand-to-mouth character, and therefore indicative of a general widening of activities.

Probabilities that four large steel making companies will be consolidated into two became stronger when officials of Youngstown Sheet and Tube company announced terms of the proposed merger with Inland, and stockholders of the Republic Iron and Steel company, approved the projected consolidation with Trumbull Steel.

The automobile industry continued to make strides, partly in response to the development of the seasonal demand for cars and partly in further reflection of price reductions and the introduction of new models.

The principal development in the fuel production field was the announcement of plans to combine about 20 bituminous coal mining companies in the Virginia-West Virginia district. The lumber trade was preparing for the usual spring expansion in building activities, with comparatively little change from last week.

Buying in the textile branch was still limited, but inquiries were becoming more numerous in the principal markets. Curtailment of cotton goods output which has been in effect for several weeks, has not yet checked the gradual decline in prices, although prevailing quotations are slightly above those of a year ago.

Commodity prices were about steady except in the foodstuffs group where numerous declines were noted. Corn and oats were a shade lower and small recessions were made in live beefs and hogs.

In the banking field, quotable increases in call and time money, and bankers acceptances took place late in the week. An outstanding development was the increase by the Chicago Federal Reserve bank of its rediscount rate, followed closely by an advance by the Richmond institution. Both changes were from 3 1-2 to 4 per cent. Other federal reserve banks maintained the current rate, and unofficial assurance was given by treasury officials that an increase in New York was unlikely in the next few weeks.

Bank clearings in the leading financial centers showed a moderate-large increase over the figures for the week before, and a gain of around 11 per cent. over the corresponding period of 1927.

TWO MEN UNDER ARREST AFTER TELLING FAKED STORY OF HOLD-UP

Following admissions to the state police that the holdup story they told to the authorities was a fake from beginning to end, James Murphy, 51, of Hartford and John Faircloth, 43, of East Hartford, were arrested Sunday on charges of breach of the peace. They are locked up at police headquarters and will be presented in the city court this (Monday) morning.

About 3 o'clock Sunday morning Murphy and Faircloth appeared at police headquarters in this city and informed Capt. Thomas F. Murphy that they had been held up and robbed at the point of a gun at the foot of Franklin hill. They stated that they were driving towards this city and at the foot of the hill three men in an old touring car held them up, one of them pointing a gun at them.

Then, they said, the trio relieved Faircloth of $35, all the money he had, and took Murphy's 17-jewel Hamilton watch. They were somewhat hazy about the description of the three men. Captain Murphy immediately took the matter up and informed the state police barracks at Groton of the robbery.

During the day Faircloth and Murphy went to the state police barracks at Groton and repeated their story. Faircloth gave his address as No. 3 Avenue C, East Hartford, and Murphy stated that he lived at No. 871 Capitol avenue, Hartford. Both street addresses are believed to be ficticious. A checkup by the state police revealed the fact that one of the addresses was ficticious.

After questioning the men as to the details of the robbery the state police suspected that they were not telling the truth. Asked as to what time they left Hartford Murphy is said to have stated that he didn't know as he had no watch with him. Previously he had claimed that a Hamilton watch was taken from him. He claimed that one of the highway men grabbed the watch and in pulling it from his pocket had ripped a button off his vest. To substantiate this claim Murphy showed the button which was in the sedan. Then arose the question as to how the button was found in the sedan while the men were robbed while they were out of the machine, standing on the highway.

Other questions and answers led the police to the true solution of the robbery, which was that the men were not held up and were not robbed. Both admitted to the state police that they faked the story. They were brought here late Sunday afternoon and booked at police headquarters.

The men, who claim they were in Hartford Saturday, left that city late Saturday night to come to Norwich, giving as the reason for their trip here that they were going to apply for work at the Norwich state hospital. On the way they evidently hatched the holdup story as a play for sympathy when they arrived here. Neither had any money, it is said, and they no doubt used the holdup story as a play for free garage space, a free meal, and whatever else sympathy might bring them.

They made the trip here in a second hand Buick sedan which it is understood Faircloth claimed he purchased Friday. It is understood that he claimed to have borrowed $100 to pay for the machine.

BLAMING TROLLEY LINE FOR MISS PINEAULT'S DEATH

(Special to The Bulletin)

WORCESTER, Mass., Jan. 29—Evidence to show that the negligence or defective equipment of the Worcester Consolidated Street Railway Co., was a contributing factor in the death of Miss Victoria Pineault, 30, of 76 Boswell avenue, Norwich, Ct., was introduced at an inquest held yesterday in central district court before Judge Jacob Asher.

Miss Pineault was almost instantly killed on the night of Dec. 22 on Shrewsbury street when the automobile in which she was riding, driven by James T. Carrigan of Providence overturned. Miss Pineault was a supervisor of women patients at the Worcester state hospital, and with her at the time were her cousin, Joseph Langlois and Carrigan, all hospital staff members.

Carrigan and Langlois, together with other witnesses, all agreed that the car was made to overturn by striking a heavy steel housing which had fallen from the wheeltruck of a street car passing. A wheel on the automobile was broken as it struck the obstruction in the road, and the machine turned over in that part of the street occupied by the car rails.

A finding in the case will be handed down within a few days by Judge Asher.

DUWELL A. A. ELECTS JAMES PEDACE PRESIDENT

With practically the full membership in attendance, the Duwell A. A., the outstanding athletic organization of Norwich, unanimously elected James V. Pedace president, at the club's headquarters on the East Side, Saturday night. Mr. Pedace succeeds Frank Green, who has held the office since the reorganization of the club in 1924. Robert C. Woodmansee was elected vice president, and William Pedace and Archie Spaulding secretary and treasurer respectively.

The retiring president, Frank Green, and Walter Corrigan were made trustees for three years, William Shanley and Peter Barber for two years, and John Riley and John Williamson for one year. The appointments of the different committees will be announced at a later meeting, at which time plans will be drawn up for an extensive athletic program for the coming year.

The election of James Pedace is indicative of his popularity and a reward for his earnest efforts to help bring the club to its present high standing among the athletic associations in this part of the country. With Mr. Pedace in the chair, with his knowledge of sports and his untiring work to bring to the town the best in sports, the club looks forward to an even greater year of athletic events, and are to go into it on a greater scale than ever.

Although no official announcement has as yet been made, it is expected that the distance of the Memorial day marathon, which has been an annual and popular event for the past few years, will be extended. The club also intends to enter teams in the different branches of sports, and at this early date there is considerable talk about sponsoring baseball among the younger element of the town.

The trustees presented reports which showed that the club under the administration of Mr. Green has grown by leaps and bounds, and never in its history has the club been in such an excellent financial condition. Since 1924 the club has purchased its own home, installed their gymnasium, club room and showers, and has grown to be an institution emblematic of clean sport, which just a few years ago was started by several East Side boys with one room as a meeting place.

Just previous to the close of the meeting, the retiring president was presented with an Odd Fellows' charm by the members of the club, in token of their appreciation for his efforts in bringing the club to its present high standing.

A banquet was served by the grill committee at the close of the meeting, after which an entertainment and boxing show was staged.

TWO POPULAR STATES FOR CONNECTICUT COLLEGE GRADS.

Matrimony and Connecticut are the most popular states among the 654 graduates of Connecticut College for Women, according to the Alumnae Register just issued by the college.

Figures also indicate that Connecticut is slightly more popular than matrimony, since just under one third of the graduates have married, and just under one half of the alumnae are living in Connecticut. Of the latter, Hartford and West Hartford total 38, New London 35 and New Haven 31.

Although the alumnae of the college are scattered through 30 states and nine foreign countries, ranging from Lobster Bay, Labrador south to Puerto Barrios, Guatemala, and from Bombay, India east to Cologne, Germany, more than two thirds of the number are found in Connecticut, New York, Massachusetts and New Jersey. The greatest number of graduates in one city is in New York, where 59 live; after the Connecticut cities already mentioned, Boston claims 21.

The married graduates, of whom there are 197, boast 11 children, 34 having been born in 1927. Next to marriage, teaching is the most popular vocation of graduates, and following this in the order of popularity are social work, library, laboratory, secretarial and office work. CLEARED REV. DR. LEE OF CRIMINAL NEGLIGENCE

Rev. J. Beveridge Lee, pastor of the Second Congregational church, New London, whose automobile struck and fatally injured Simon T. Nichols, 60, of Westerly, on Fish Town hill in the town of Groton on Jan. 13, is exonerated from any criminal negligence in connection with the fatality, in a finding rendered Saturday by Coroner J. J. Desmond. In his report on the circumstances surrounding Nichols' death the coroner finds that Dr. Lee did everything possible to avoid hitting the man and declares that the death was wholly accidental.

Nichols, whose automobile had run out of gas, was struck by Dr. Lee's car as he stepped from in front of a truck, the driver of which he had hailed for a ride to the nearest gasoline station. Dr. Lee, traveling westward, had sounded his horn, signaling the truck that he was going to pass, and as the minister's car came abreast of the truck Nichols walked almost directly into the automobile. In attempting to avoid him, Dr. Lee swung his car off the highway and his automobile grazed a stone wall, tearing off a hub cap and smashing the steering gear.

PREACHING ON FIVE POINTS OF UNIVERSALISM

At the morning service Sunday at the Church of the Good Shepherd—Universalist, the pastor, Rev. A. N. Foster, began a series of sermons upon "The Five Points of Universalism Explained." They are to be given on successive Sundays.

The opening sermon in the series was upon the subject, What Do Universalists Believe About God and Man? The Note of Universality.

Rev. Mr. Foster spoke from the text, Romans VIII—39, Nor height nor depth nor any other creature can separate us from the love of God which is in Christ Jesus our Lord.

In part he said:

The conclusion of universality regarding our thought of God and our thought of man is shaped by the evidence and testimony from four different spheres of interest. The story of Christian history which shows the transition from the tribal and provincial thought of contending races to the concept of Paul—all inclusive in its scope. The range of our interest from neighborhood affairs to concerns of city and state and even international relations implies the logical larger conclusion. The evidence of the specialist telling the story of geology and biology and astronomy and archeology—all tell of the essential oneness of primal life and the common elements shared in it the present.

"It is the undevout astronomer who is mad"—since in his confusion he recognizes no orderly arrangement in the world. Calvinism presumes an absolute authority and yet between the Almighty and the greater portion of mankind—condemned to endless punishment—a great gulf is fixed. He is ruler of a divided world. Against such cruel and absolute authority, there was the protest of the sympathetic heart of humanity and also the protest of the understanding mind that the postulate of a great and good God—an almighty and all loving God—implied the logical conclusion of salvation for all; indeed, anything less would be a limitation of the Divine sovereignty. Supplementary to this is the further postulate that human nature itself is essentially noble rather than vicious and that "we are even the offspring of God."

It may be quite true that today the emphasis is placed on the love of God rather than on the Divine Power and that the universality of human brotherhood is commonly assumed; yet it is less generally recognized that the world and life are controlled by law which is universal and which allows no special providences. Our belief in universal brotherhood must keep low the barriers which wealth and social pride and racial caste and national prestige would raise. Otherwise all our professions are vain.

The series will be continued as follows:

Feb. 5—Concerning the Leadership of Jesus? Not unthinking obedience but larger self expression.

Feb. 12—Concerning the Sacred Scriptures? Not a sealed book but a continuing revelation.

Feb. 19—Concerning Sin! Not a penalty for past ignorance but salvation by character.

Feb. 26—Concerning Destiny! Not an arbitrary reward promised but life in tune with the Infinite.

Mother!

Child Gets Sick, Cross, Feverish if Constipated

Mother! Your child isn't naturally cross and peevish. See if tongue is coated; this is a sure sign the little stomach, liver and bowels need a cleansing at once.

When listless, pale, feverish, full of cold, breath bad, throat sore, doesn't eat, sleep or act naturally, has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, remember, a gentle liver and bowel cleansing should always be the first treatment given.

Nothing equals "California Fig Syrup" for children's ills; give a teaspoonful, and in a few hours all the foul waste, sour bile and fermenting food which is clogged in the bowels passes out of the system, and you have a well and playful child again. All children love this harmless, delicious, "fruity laxative," and it never fails to effect a good "inside cleansing." Directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups are plainly on the bottle.

Keep it handy in your home. A little given today saves a sick child tomorrow, but get the genuine. Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Fig Syrup," then see that it is made by "The California Fig Syrup Company."

ROOSEVELT SEES TAMMANY THREATENING THE NATION

The Colonel Carries Into the Middle West His Fight Against Gov. Al Smith—Regards the Impending Presidential Candidacy of Gov. Smith as the Design of Tammany Hall to Rule the Nation—Does Not Question the Personal Integrity of Gov. Smith—Urges Modification of the Volstead Act or Its Strict Enforcement at Any Cost—Warns Against Religious Intolerance.

TOPEKA, Kas., Jan. 30—(AP)—Carrying into the middle west his fight on Gov. Al Smith, whom he declared the democratic party "is preparing to run for president," Col. Theodore Roosevelt charged here tonight that, through the New York executive, Tammany Hall was seeking control of the White house and the nation.

Coupled with his assault on Governor Smith, the former assistant secretary of the navy struck at religious intolerance, advocating a plank in the republican platform declaring that "no man shall be given or denied public office because of his religious beliefs."

"We want no Senator Heflin in the republican party," he said in reference to the democratic senator from Alabama, who has attacked Governor Smith and the Roman Catholic church.

Colonel Roosevelt addressed 1,500 republicans as the principal speaker of the annual dinner of the Kansas Day club.

The son of the former president lauded accomplishments of the republican administration since 1921, assailed huge campaign expenditures, advocated party declarations on farm relief and prohibition enforcement, and turned his guns on policies of the democratic party.

But he reserved the heaviest fire for the democratic organization of New York city, which he declared was corrupt, and the man who defeated him for the governorship of New York in 1924.

Colonel Roosevelt declared Tammany hall had changed little from the days of "Boss" Tweed, that it had subjected New York city and state to its rule and now was "gathering itself for a further attempt, an attempt on the nation."

And Governor Smith, he added, was a product and a leader of Tammany hall, who had stated he was proud to be a member of the organization.

He said he did not question the personal integrity of Governor Smith, but that the governor was guilty at least of "sins of omission," because he had not acted when it lay in his power to prevent alleged graft by Tammany hall.

He said he was confident the voters would accept the new challenge of the organization as they did in "Boss" Tweed's day, when "American spirit flamed and Tammany and all that it stood for was driven back to the haunts on Fourteenth street."

Taking up republican problems, Colonel Roosevelt declared the party must take a firm stand on religious tolerance, corrupt elections, farm relief and the prohibition question.

"Religious tolerance is an article of our national faith," he said. "We hold above all else that our government and our religion must be kept apart. At this time there are movements in the land which endanger this American doctrine.

"We want no Senator Heflin in the republican party. As a party we should make such a declaration in our platform.

"Colossal expenditure of money in the Pennsylvania and Illinois republican primaries was only an indication of a situation that has arisen in many states and nationally.

"The unregulated use of great sums in elections and primaries is a desperate danger to a republic. As a national party we must face this.

"We must pass a federal law or may properly curb the practice nationally and thereby set an example for the states to follow."

Placing primary importance on the farmer's plight, which he said was due to lack of organization, the speaker declared the party must "make up its mind as to what should be done to help the farmer organize, and then advocate it openly as a party policy."

Discussing prohibition, he said the party must decide to repeal or modify the Volstead act, or else decide to set about enforcing it, whatever the cost.

"No law that is consistently broken can be other than a festering sore," he declared.

Reviewing the democratic administration's record from 1912 to 1921, Colonel Roosevelt charged there was a "saturnalia of extravagance, debt, expense, taxes mounted without let or hindrance. Every period of democratic control has had a period of depression."

In their foreign policy the democrats "endeavored to deliver our country as a bond slave to foreign diplomacy."

But the gravest of his charges against the opposing party, he said, was the impending candidacy of Governor Smith.

"To you in the west Tammany hall may mean little," he said. "To us in New York it means much. For years that great sinister political machine has held New York city in its grasp. Its slogan has been and is 'Patronage and Plunder.' From Tweed to the present day the dynasty of bosses has fattened at the expense of the public."

Colonel Roosevelt repeated charges that "Tammany politicians" had a hand several years ago in the sale of diluted milk for babies in New York city and that "the graft" went on unchecked until public clamor just before election forced the democrats' hands."

Further he laid at the door of Tammany hall the alleged waste of millions of dollars in the construction of school buildings and "graft by millions" in connection with sewer building in the borough of Queens.

"Do we wish this organization in the White house, beneath the shadow of Washington's monument?" he demanded.

Summing up the work of the republican administration since 1921, Colonel Roosevelt said:

"It is a record of solid accomplishment of which we may well be proud. We have made our mistakes, and some of our actions have been ill-advised. A few of our appointees have been incompetent or corrupt, but our average has been high.

"We ask no better of the nation than that they shall judge our administrative ability by the record of President Coolidge and the federal government.

"This year we must select as standard bearer a man not only of administrative ability," he said, "but one who will face the future determined that when his tenure of office is ended the nation shall be further advanced on the road to progress; a man who will strive to solve problems, not merely temporize with them."

COMMITTEE REJECTS MEXICAN AMENDMENTS

HAVANA, Jan. 30—(AP)—Considering that it had gone far enough in "democratizing" the Pan-American union by agreeing last week to special representation in this body by all the contracting governments, the committee on Pan-American union affairs, of the Pan-American conference, today decisively rejected the Mexican amendments. These amendments sought to give to each American republic in turn the chairmanship of the governing board and the director-generalship.

While this committee was thus virtually preserving intact the present organization of the Pan-American union, the committee on communications took a first step towards including Canada in the Pan-American deliberations by approving a suggestion that on account of America's northern neighbor, the proposed inter-American commercial aviation treaty be open to adherence to all countries.

After Ambassador Fletcher, of the American delegation, gave assurances that the United States had no objection to according the aviation treaty the simplest application, Felipe Espil, of Argentina, moved that its provisions be open to adherence to any country having aviation lines. He pointed out that if Canada were not allowed to subscribe to the treaty, then she would be required to conclude 21 bi-lateral treaties with the individual republics.

LINDBERGH TO HOP OFF FOR VIRGIN ISLANDS TODAY

CARACAS, Venezuela, Jan. 30—(AP)—The flag of another country graced the sides of the "Spirit of St. Louis" today as Charles A. Lindbergh made preparations, in the midst of almost delirious festivities, for a 1,000 mile hop to the Virgin Islands.

While he was receiving the homage of a city that had closed practically all its business houses to honor him, the Venezuelan flag was painted on the fusilage of his plane, by the side of the flags of others countries he has visited in the veteran half of "we".

Constantly in the midst of festivities the young flyer inquired of Venezuelan aviation officials if his plane at Maracay field were well guarded and necessary preparations for tomorrow's trip were continuing. Mechanics removed gasoline remaining in the tanks after the flight from Bogota, Colombia, yesterday and placed four drums of fresh fuel handy for loading before the take off.

After dinner at the legation tonight, the last item on the program of entertainment for him was a great ball, which he said he was compelled to leave at 10.30 as he plans to hop off at dawn tomorrow for the island of St. Thomas.

DETECTIVES GUARDING FREE STATE OFFICIAL

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Jan. 30—(AP)—Travelling under rumors of a plot against his life by Irish extremists, James McNeill, the new governor-general of the Irish Free State, arrived here safely tonight after an uneventful crossing from England. He was accompanied by detectives, sent along to guard him, and numerous police were waiting at the pier, but there was no indication that their services would be needed.

Mr. McNeill, who is to be inducted into office Wednesday, replacing Timothy Healy, appeared to be unconcerned. He told the waiting newspapermen that he was glad to be back in Ireland. Asked if he had heard of a plot, he said:

"Yes, I read about it in the newspapers. It was not true as regards Euston and Hollyhead, and I have not yet read of my death. On the whole I don't think it is to be taken too seriously."

FINAL VOTE OF SHIPPING BILL DELAYED IN SENATE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30—(AP)—Opponents of the Jones shipping bill to build up the merchant marine and maintain it under government operation forced over a final vote on the measure in the senate today with the presentation of a series of amendments requiring roll call votes.

Under a previous agreement, however, debate was limited after 5 p. m. today to five minutes for each senator, and Chairman Jones of the commerce committee, sponsor of the bill, declared a final vote tomorrow seemed certain.

Despite an all-day attack waged by the opposition, Senator Jones likewise was confident that the lineup which retained the provision in the bill requiring unanimous consent of the shipping board for the sale of any vessels hereafter would stick together and send the bill along to the house on the final vote.

FOUR PERSONS KILLED WHEN AUTO ENGINE STALLED

DETROIT, Jan. 30—(AP)—Four persons were killed instantly and a fifth seriously injured today when the automobile in which they were riding stalled on the Wabash railroad tracks here late today, and was struck by a passenger train travelling at high speed.

The dead are: Joseph Walczak, his wife and baby, and Mrs. J. Mapsora, 50 years old. Walczak's father, Joseph Walczak Sr., was seriously injured.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

BERLIN, Jan. 30.—(AP)—Secretary Kellogg's invitation to France to join with the United States in establishing a series of peace pacts, was characterized by Dr. Gustav Stresemann, the foreign minister, in the reichstag today as gratifying to Germany.

STRASBOURG, France, Jan. 30.—(AP)—This city has turned pencil peddler to raise a million francs for a cathedral organ. When the Germans ran short of ammunition materials, during the war, they took out the 2,200 pipes from the big organ here and used them for shells. It is to replace these that the city is raising an organ fund.

BUENOS AIRES, Jan. 30.—(AP)—A favorable balance of $147,000,000 on Argentina's foreign trade for 1927 is announced by the Argentine minister of finance. This figure compares favorably with the years 1926 and 1925, when imports surpassed exports by $20,500,000 and $8,000,000 respectively, but falls $30,000,000 below the record year 1924.

COSGRAVE EXPERIENCED A RAILROAD ACCIDENT

OTTAWA, Jan. 30—(AP)—William T. Cosgrave, head of the Irish Free State, arrived here today nearly three hours late after experiencing a railroad accident in which he played an active part in rescue work and in giving first aid, despite a severe shaking-up.

J. A. Boyd, of Montreal, railroad foreman, who was driving the special presidential train at a rate of about 55 miles an hour, was killed, and two other railroad employes were seriously injured when the train apparently jumped a switch at Limoges, about 23 miles from here. Charles A. Dunning, minister of railways and canals, announced that a thorough investigation of the accident will be ordered.

Mr. Cosgrave was chatting with a sister-in-law in his private car when the accident occured. Two coaches left the rails and one turned over but the presidential car remained upright. First reports that the train had run into an open switch were later discredited. None of the presidential party was injured.

Despite a heavy cold which had caused him to remain in his private car at the various stops en route from Philadelphia, the president of the executive council of the Irish Free State immediately alighted, hurried forward and assisted in extricating the injured men from the wreckage and in giving them first aid. The Irish statesman also helped to calm other passengers.

CONVICTED BANDIT PLEADS FOR HIS LIFE

BOSTON, Jan. 30—(AP)—Herbert J. Gleason, young bandit who was sentenced to die in the electric chair during the week of March 11, for the murder of James Monagle, a Medford storekeeper, today appealed to Governor Fuller to spare his life on the grounds that he is a victim of evil companions and excessive drinking. Gleason asked that his sentence of death be commuted to life imprisonment. He made his appeal through Frank A. Brooks, chairman of the board of parole.

Gleason, who is known as "Baby Face" because of his youthful appearance, said that he came to Boston from his home in Maine where he was living with his mother but was unable to obtain employment here. On the night of the murder, he said, neither he nor his companions had intended violence but that he shot Monagle when the latter, after he was held up, struck him on the wrist with a meat cleaver. "I didn't realize what I was doing," he said.

STATE REPRESENTATIVE IN PRISON FOR BURGLARY

DETROIT, Jan. 30—(AP)—Jail officials were forced to take special precautions today to protect Chester A. Good, state representative convicted on a burglary charge, from attack by other prisoners.

Good, a leading proponent during the last session of the legislature of the drastic state criminal code and of a capital punishment bill, began serving a four to 15 years sentence today. In addition to the burglary charge on which he was convicted, a bank robbery charge is pending against him. Good was acquitted on a second bank robbery charge.

Edward T. Denniston, superintendent of the jail, said prisoners were particularly aroused by Good's support of a bill that provides life imprisonment for persons convicted a third time on a felony charge.

THREE CHILDREN BURNED TO DEATH AT GARDNER, MASS.

GARDNER, Mass., Jan. 30—(AP)—The three children of Mr. and Mrs. John Szymakowski were burned to death today in a fire which ruined their three-room dwelling off West Broadway. They were Jennie, 4, Frank, 2 1-2, and Mary, 1.

The children had been left in the kitchen when the mother went to the barn in the rear of the house. A kettle of fat boiled over on the stove, starting the fire. The children retreated to a bedroom where their burned bodies were found on the bed.

Neighbors tried to rescue them but after breaking a window they were driver back by the smoke and flames.

RECRUITING STATIONS THROUGHOUT NICARAGUA

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Jan. 30—(AP)—General E. R. Beadle, chief of the Nicaraguan national guard, has established recruiting stations in all important cities of the country to stimulate enlistments of the better class of Nicaraguans in order to meet requests from all sections of Nicaragua for guardsmen.

Captain Donald J. Kendall, of the marine corps, station at Bluefields, has been commissioned a major in the national guard and will take over the policing of the city of Bluefields, as requested two weeks ago by Juan J. Estrada, political executive of the department of Bluefields.

QUARRYVILLE, PA., HAS BEEN ISOLATED BY SNOW

LANCASTER, Pa., Jan. 30 (AP)—Entirely shut off from the outside world because of deep snow, Quarryville, in southern Lancaster county, with no bread delivered since Saturday morning, when the snowstorm reached its height, was without electrical current tonight and kerosene oil was at a premium. Buckwheat cakes are replacing bread on family menus.

Street cars are not running and roads leading to nearby communities are piled high with snow.

The temperature was reported five below zero at daybreak.

Sudden Death of Earl Haig in London

Was Commander-in-Chief of British Armies in France and Belgium During the World War.

LONDON, Jan. 30—(AP)—Earl Douglas Haig, one of the most outstanding of the military leaders during the World war, his heart weakened by overstrain, died suddenly here today.

The commander-in-chief of the British armies in France and Flanders, whose name is linked with that of Marshal Foch of France and General John J. Pershing of the United States in the victory over Germany, was sixty-six years old.

With his death Great Britain bowed her head in sorrow at the passing of the man who led her king-emperor's forces to victory across the shell-torn battlefields of Flanders. Field Marshal Haig had got his call from the great commander-in-chief shortly after midnight and with his death the empire lost one whom military experts place in the first rank of England's soldiers.

Today the nation was paying tribute to its hero. Old St. Paul's cathedral with its thousand hallowed memories probably will be the last resting place of the marshal. A definite decision had not yet been made tonight, but St. Paul's has come to be regarded as England's hall of fame for her military leaders and if Earl Haig is buried in this ancient house of worship, he will lie in the company of the Duke of Wellington, Lords Roberts, Wolsey and Napier and Sir Henry Wilson as well as other distinguished fighters.

It is possible that Marshal Foch, generalissimo of the allied armies in France at the end of the World war, and King Albert of Belgium with whom Earl Haig was so closely associated during the world conflict, will come to London to give a last salute to their comrade in arms. Hundreds of other famous men and women also will pay homage at his bier.

Earl Haig died of heart disease caused by war strain and so he passed on as truly a victim of the conflict as though he had fallen on the field of battle. Death came suddenly and unexpectedly at the home of his sister, Mrs. W. G. Jameson at Prince's Gate. Countess Haig was not with him as she was visiting friends and his youthful heir, ten-year-old George Alexander, is ill at the Haig home in Bemersyde.

Since the World war, the earl had become one of the most beloved men in the empire because of his unceasing work in behalf of disabled soldiers.

Besides a son, the earl leaves three daughters, the oldest 21 years and the youngest 9.

TENEMENT HOUSES TO BE PATTERNED AFTER PYRAMIDS

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 30—(AP)—Buffalo and New York city will turn into communities of pyramid dwellers with passage of a bill introduced by the commission on revision of the tenement house law today.

And as other cities of the state reach the 500,000 population mark, or sooner if they elect, they too will raise apartment buildings somewhat similar in shape to the last resting places of the Pharaohs.

The modern pyramids will be healthier, safer, and probably cheaper to live in than the present buildings which have caused their occupants to be referred to on occasion as cliff dwellers.

The bill introduces the setback principle for tenements which has already under the zoning laws so altered the architecture of tall office buildings.

It applies this principle on front and sides at a height equal to the width of the street on which the building faces.

DISTRIBUTERS OF LOTTERY TICKETS FINED IN BOSTON

BOSTON, Jan. 30—(AP)—Ten of 11 defendants who pleaded guilty to transporting lottery tickets were fined and given three months' suspended sentences here today in federal court.

Fines of $750 were imposed on Walter Collier, of New Haven, Ray Sanderson, Cambridge, and Roland Blair, Portland, Matthew Kane, of Boston, Robert B. Gordon, New Haven, Thomas Mason, Quincy, and Joseph Henry, Springfield, were fined $500 each. Fines of $250 were imposed on Joseph E. LaCroix, of Fall River, Thomas Delapenna, of Holyoke, and Leo Bellinger, of Portland. Frederick Thirault, of Lowell, drew a three months suspended sentence.

During the trial the government alleged that these defendants sold 50,000 lottery tickets a week in and about Boston. The tickets sold for 60 cents each and prizes of $3,500 in cash and other smaller sums were offered.

LYNX PELTS ARE IN DEMAND AT HIGH PRICES

NEW YORK, Jan. 30—(AP)—The small offering and the active demand for lynx pelts sent the price to a post war record of $74 at the annual winter fur auction today. This price brought the average price 35 per cent. above the fall price of $49.50.

The sales total of the auction which closes Wednesday is $3,600,000.

Coolidge Renews Urge For Economy

Talks to Heads of Departments and Bureaus at Semi-Annual Government Business Meeting.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30—(AP)—Emphasizing anew the need for maintaining a well balanced federal budget and of reducing the national debt, President Coolidge told the heads of departments and bureaus at the semi-annual government business meeting tonight that it is far better to have no tax reduction than to have too much.

While he stressed the importance of adhearing to a constructive economy program, the president declared it would be a mistake to stint activities vital to the safety and well-being of the nation. In this connection, he mentioned national defense, calling at-

HURLEY GIVES VIEWS ON MERCHANT MARINE

CHICAGO, Jan. 30—(AP)—Forceful leaders in business, railroading and shipping can, with the aid of congress, build modern vessels and establish the American merchant marine in harmony with the views of President Coolidge, Edward N. Hurley, war time president of the United States shipping board, told the president in a letter made public here today.

The letter gave numerous suggestions which Mr. Hurley said would aid in overcoming obstacles confronting American shipping and ship operators, and also gave several remedies to invigorate commerce both in coastwise and oceanic trade.

For eight years, he said, government owned ships have operated at a loss, and this can only be remedied by private operation and the investment of private capital. Freight revenue is now insufficient to provide a fair net return to intercoastal ships, he said, because unscientific methods now are used in classifying commodities, conference agreements in which shippers voluntarily agree to abide by certain rates, also work to the detriment of shippers, as non-conference shippers may gather business by cutting rates, he added.

FOUR WOMEN AND EIGHT MEN ON HICKMAN JURY

HALL OF JUSTICE, Los Angeles, Jan. 30—(AP)—Four women and eight men will decide the fate of William Edward Hickman, youthful kidnaper and slayer of Marian Parker.

A jury so constituted was sworn in today in superior court by Judge J. J. Trabucco for Hickman's sanity trial.

It was over the protest of the defense, however, that the jury was finally accepted. Counsel for the defendant placed in the record a declaration that they were "not satisfied with the jury."

All of the twenty peremptory challenges allowed the defense were exhausted, leaving no further opportunity for the removal of jurors whom defense attorneys may have wished to keep out of the box.

Those who will sit in judgment on Hickman's plea of "not guilty by reason of insanity," are:

Mrs. Elizabeth A. Bullis, Mrs. Emily Lindrum, Mrs. Sarah A. Roach, Virginia L. Roes, Elias Kahn, Robert L. Bowman, Arlo E. Rickett, Edward Venables, J. A. Ruggles, Howard Skewes, Howard Atkinson and Harry H. Woods.

A ruling by Judge Trabuco that the prosecution should be allowed to exercise further challenges prevented swearing in the jurors accepted by both sides last Friday. Completion of the jury was accomplished swiftly, however, after court convened this morning.

THREE PASSENGERS INJURED IN TRAIN DERAILMENT

GREENEVILLE, Ills., Jan. 30—(AP)—Three passengers were injured when the last four coaches of the American, the fast New York-St. Louis Pennsylvania railroad passenger train, left the rails near here late today.

Mrs. Harry Newman, of 3326 Stuben avenue, New York, and Mrs. Anna Grisson, buyer for a store at Ardmore, Okla., were taken to a hospital at Highland, Ills. Robert Johnston of St. Louis, the third person injured, suffered only scalp wounds and continued his journey.

The derailment was attributed to a broken rail.

A SURREPTITIOUS KISS FOR THE DUKE OF YORK

LONDON, Jan. 30—(AP)—The duke of York tonight had the unprecedented experience of being kissed by one of the humblest of his royal father's subjects in the presence of the duchess.

The royal couple were attending the annual ball of the London Costermongers and were sitting on a platform watching dancers after having participated in the opening dance, when a Mrs. Palmer, dealer in second hand clothing, rushed to the platform, threw her arms around the duke's neck, and gave him a resounding kiss.

When his admirer had released him his royal highness burst into laughter and then looked quizzically at the duchess who joined in the mirth.

MAYOR OF NEW YORK FACETIOUS IN HIS GREETING TO MAYOR OF NEWBURYPORT

NEW YORK, Jan. 30—(AP)—Mayor "Bossy" Gillis, of Newburyport, Mass., went calling on Mayor "Jimmy" Walker of New York today. Former Mayor Curley, of Boston, was a spectator and seemed to have a good time.

"Why don't you finish New York?" Mayor Bossy asked, who had noticed a few streets here and there torn up.

"Why should we?" replied Mayor Jimmy. "Do you want to throw thousands of men out of work? I don't think we'll finish it until we annex Newburyport."

The former "bad boy" of Newburyport was holding forth to half a hundred reporters and photographers in the mayor's reception room when Mayor Walker entered with Mr. Curley. Mayor Walker fired the opening gun.

"Do I observe your entourage?" he asked the visiting mayor, indicating the assemblage.

Mayor Gillis gulped once and tried to say something, but it wouldn't come out.

"Surrounded by your proselytes as it were, eh, what?" Mayor Walker continued.

Mayor Gillis decided against a direct reply and asked instead where Grover Whalen was.

"Grover Whalen is always here to welcome strangers," Mayor Walker told him, "but we don't consider you a stranger. By the way, how is your Grover Whalen?"

"I haven't got one yet," Mayor Gillis acknowledged, "but I'll probably have one later."

Grover Whalen is chairman of the mayor's committee for the reception of distinguished visitors.

SAFETY OF SUB. S-3 HAS BEEN REPORTED TO THE NAVY DEPT.

Message From Admiral Brumby Said That at 8 O'Clock Last Night the Sub S-3 Had Been Found in Latitude 27.30, Longitude 74.07 and Was Proceeding to Guantanamo—Disappeared From a Flotilla at Sundown Last Saturday During a Storm 100 Miles Southeast of Cape Hatteras.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—(AP)—Safety of the missing submarine S-3 was reported to the navy department tonight by Admiral Brumby, commander of the Central force.

The admiral's message said the commander of the submarine division three, of the control force, reported that the S-3 at 8 o'clock tonight had been found in latitude 27.30, longitude 74.07 and was proceeding to Gantanamo, Cuba, destination of the convoy of which she was a part.

Admiral Brumby's report to the navy department gave no other details of the finding of the craft. The position given in the message would place the S-3 off the northern Florida coast.

The S-3 disappeared last Saturday during a storm 100 miles south of Cape Hatteras. She was with the control force of the eight submarines, the tender Camden and the airplane carrier Saratoga. The convoy lost sight of her just at sundown and nothing more was heard from her.

First word of the ship's disappearance reached the navy earlier today, saying that the remaining ships of the convoy were making a search. The department later ordered other ships from Cuban waters to assist them.

While concerned over the submarine's disappearance the navy department was inclined to believe that she was in no grave danger and that her radio apparatus was out of order, preventing her from announcing her safety and position.

REPORT OF HAVOC WROUGHT BY STORM AT SEA AND ASHORE

NEW YORK, Jan. 30—(AP)—The week end gale that lashed the eastern states from the Great Lakes to the Everglades and piled deep snow over wide areas had spent its fury tonight, but its cost was not yet counted.

The coast guard cutter 107 which was reported missing when communication with it failed, was found safe at the Delaware Capes, having suffered no worse disablement than the stilling of its wireless.

The Norwegian freighter Arica which sent out an S. O. S. yesterday had not been found.

About all that was left of the storm today was general severe cold, but in many sections the temperature was rising steadily but slowly.

The temperature was freakish. It was one degree colder in Washington than it was in Portland, Me. Temperatures throughout the eastern states varied from 30 degrees below zero, the mark recorded at Saranac Lake in upper New York, to just below freezing.

The mercury was well below freezing in Florida, Saturday and Sunday, and killing frosts, the worst in 10 years, caused heavy produce damage. Estimates of the total loss there were not available, but in Dade county alone the loss was believed to be $250,000.

Two thirds of all the tender truck crops in southern Florida was reported to have been killed when the temperature was at its lowest, and agricultural agents said that general replanting was the only course left to growers.

HELD BANK TELLER TILL TIME LOCK OPENED VAULT

CHICAGO, Jan. 30.—(AP)—Met on his way home from church yesterday, two robbers held James Dillon, 26, a bank teller, all night and sat with him in the bank today until the time lock opened the vault and gave them access to $40,000 with which they escaped.

While the robbers still were in the bank, Leon Foster, the porter, entered. They admonished him to "be a nice boy if he wanted to live." They then bound him alongside Dillon. Dillon gave the alarm by knocking over a telephone, causing the operator to investigate. The robbers had been gon 30 minutes.

This, the third time-lock robbery in a month, caused police to advise the banks to set their locks for release only when several employes had reached the institutions.

WAGE CUT CLOSES ONE FALL RIVER COTTON MILL

FALL RIVER, Mass., Jan. 30.—(AP)—One Fall River cotton mill was closed and 100 weavers employed in another plant walked out today as a wage reduction of ten per cent. became effective in the textile mills of the city.

The Davol Mills, employing approximately 850 operatives, were closed by the management when several loom-fixers employed on fancy looms walked out in protest against the wage cut. They were joined by weavers employed on one floor of the weave room. The order for closing the plant set no date for reopening.

In the Davis Mills, also employing about 850 hands, a section of the weavers left their looms. The management at this plant said it would be open as usual tomorrow.

POLAND HAVING TROUBLE IN FINDING EXECUTIONER

WARSAW, Jan. 30.—(AP)—The Polish government, which recently placed the execution of death sentences in the hands of the civil authorities instead of the army, is having difficulty in finding an executioner.

The unwillingness of soldiers to serve as the executioners of criminals was one of the reasons for the decree by the government fixing the death penalty at execution by hanging, instead of by shooting. Having changed the method of execution, the government offered 100 zloty (about $11) per execution, to perspective executioners, but no candidate could be found.

The offer then was raised to 1,000 zloty (about $110) per execution, but even this was of no avail and no candidates have appeared.

MISS ELIZABETH DUKE A PATIENT WITNESS

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Jan. 30.—(AP)—For her third day on the stand in the litigation of a $20,000,000 fund left by the late James B. Duke, for the lineal descendants of his parents, Miss Elizabeth Duke, Wichita Falls, Texas, telephone operator continued to be the protagonist.

Neither the soft, flowery oratory, nor the sarcastic references to her claim in the fund by executor's defense, could influence the calm demeanor of the woman as she patiently answered the questions of her cross-examiner.

Today, she inferred that her opponents had introduced false evidence into the proceedings to invalidate her claime. When "Carroll County And Its Settlers," a historical volume around which much of the suit has centered, was shown to her, she declared it was not the same volume she gave to the executors when she presented her first claim.

LIQUOR RAIDER JUSTIFIED IN STRIKING A WOMAN

HARTFORD, Jan. 30.—(AP)—Observing that a liquor raid is not a "social tea affair," and that raiding officers "must be supported and encouraged in the performance of their duty to the full extent of the law," Judge Thomas J. Molloy of the court of common pleas has decided that former Federal Prohibition Officer John J. Kelleher was justified in striking Mrs. Agatha Skszypcznsky, of Bristol during a raid with other officers when she repelled him in her former home in Singsbury, known as King Philip's View inn. NEW YORK, Jan. 30—(AP)—The confession today of a sailor whose oversized shoes led to his arrest as a diamond smuggler revealed details of a system whereby gems valued at hundreds of thousands of dollars had been smuggled into the country within the past year, federal officials said.

A search of the oversized shoes worn by Florent Lamotte, an assistant steward, of Antwerp, Belgium, disclosed $100,000 worth of diamonds concealed in the heels and toes of the footwear. He was arrested last November as he was leaving the Red Star liner Lapland.

VOTE TO DISSOLVE GOYER MANUFACTURING COMPANY

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Jan. 30.—Reverses during the past year induced the directors of the Goyer Manufacturing company, a radio parts and specialty hardware concern, to vote to dissolve the firm at a meeting held this forenoon. The Goyer company was organized here seven years ago for the manufacture of electrical hardware, later entering the field of radio parts and special hardware. At the outset there was much promise of a growing industry and considerable local capital. To bring about the dissolution of the company, a meeting of the stockholders was previously held at which the following directors were elected: George S. Elliott, John Reilly, James B. Fullerton, Dr. Samuel J. Turcotte, A. E. Greene, George H. Gurley and Patrick J. Twomey. The condition of the company was made known at this time and formal announcement made of the sale of the Turner mill property, where the concern had conducted business, to the town of Windham for use as a state trade school.

The directors in meeting this forenoon, elected as officers: President, Patrick J. Twomey; secretary and treasurer, Augustus E. Greene. The resolution to go out of business was based on the cost of removing the plant to some other location by reason of the sale of the building and the fact that the condition of the concern did not warrant a continuance of business. A meeting of the stockholders will be held Wednesday, February 29, to take final action on the dissolution of the corporation.

At the company offices this afternoon, it was stated that the financial reverses were caused by the imposition of royalties on certain products. Superintendent Greene said that during the past seven years the concern had paid out over $150,000 in wages, aside from taxes, purchase of materials, fuel, etc. The company was organized in 1920 when it took over the lease of the former Foster-Stewart company, a canvass weaving concern which did a thriving business during the World war. During 1924 and 1926 the Goyer company was booming with more than 40 operatives under full time employment. About two years ago, a drive for additional funds for the company was made and about $26,000 secured through subscriptions.

NOANK

Plainfield Buddies basketball team rode into the village Saturday night for the second game of the series with Noank Nuggets in the village before the smallest crowd of the season. The game was late in getting started but at 8.45 o'clock the Buddies in their red suits were in position, while the Nuggets were wearing orange and black. Then Referee Fitzpatrick tossed a coin for the captains and Bromley from the mill town picked the east side and Captain Swift Ebbetts was pulling his cards on the west side. Quick Bracci was the one the Buddies were afraid of. A one-hand shot by Bracci the length of the floor recalled the days of One-Handed Ira Stark. The fans cheered for ten minutes so the referee's whistle could not be heard, for it was some shot. The first half ended and Scorer Phelps gave the fans the good news by reading the score, Nuggetts 24, Buddies 12. When the third quarter was put aside, the score was Nuggets 38, Buddies 36. The last quarter was real basketball and with an eight point lead for Noank looked like a sure victory. But the Plainfield team stepped on the gas and Bromley dropped two in the hoop while his side kick, Mercer, was shooting his head off to beat the cod-chasers. Midget Mercer's last shot in ten seconds to play won the game for Plainfield. The score was Plainfield Buddies 50, Nuggets 48. One girl said, "What an exciting game!" and went home without her hat. Referee Fitzpatrick, timer, Swanson, scorer, Phillips. Ten minute quarters.

John Robertson of Newport, R. I. spent the week end with his family in Noank.

Frank McDonald has returned to Fall River, after a few days in the village.

Kenneth Steele has resigned at the Hadley farm.

Capt. R. Brocky was sitting around the kitchen after eating his dinner on Sunday afternoon and smelled smoke. He looked into the parlor and found the chimney ablaze. Calling up the fire rooms, Ladderman Rollin Rathbun got the message. Edgar Schoomaker rang the church bell for 25 minutes. The smoke-eaters came on the run to the fire room, as the engine was going full speed ahead, with 20 firemen aboard. It was 1.30 p. m. when Foreman Walter Palmer gave the word to start the chemical tank going with 125 feet of hose from the street to the house. The blaze was hard to handle. Walter Wells and John Cannerey chopped away the woodwork. Foreman Palmer with the hosemen put in 50 gallons of chemical. It took 40 minutes of work in the snow before the fire was out. The bell gave the signal "all over." Chief Park reported damage of $50. He used 50 gallons of chemical. The engine made good time and at the wheel was Driver Alden Brocky. If the blaze had had 10 minutes' start it would be a bad fire, with houses on both sides. Owner Brocky praised the smowe-eaters for their good work.

A large flock of wild geese was seen flying over the village Saturday morning. About 100 were in the flock, bending their wings southward. Was the snow storm in sight or did the nice January weather that they were enjoying make them so late coming from the north? It seems as though the geese were saying, "We are going to beat it! Look out people for snow!" The geese looked tired. It is the latest that geese have been in this part of the country in years. Like Paul Revere that rode the horse in Massachusetts to tell the people that war was on. Such was the warning the geese gave by flying over the village so late.

When the people got up on Sunday morning they found the world covered in four inches of snow. In some places the drifts were high. The sun came out in the afternoon shining on a real winter day.

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Jan. 30—Westerly Town Clerk Everett E. Whipple is in line for a citation or medal of some sort, and a possible matter which might come before the town council budget meeting Tuesday evening. At about 4 p. m. Monday as Col. Whipple came out of the Union street entrance to Westerly town hall he noticed the 2-ton Reo truck of the King Bottling works, parked at the curb while the driver had gone into the building in search for empty soda water crates. The truck slowly started to back down the 5 per cent. grade of Union street hill, right into the heavy traffic of Broad street on the section of the Boston Post road. With the advantage of early military training Col. Whipple jumped up on the truck step, opened the cab door and looked in vain for the emergency brake lever. Quickly he seated himself and pushed down on two foot pedals at the same time and gradually the truck with its load of filled soda water crates was brought to a stop. Highway Engineer A. L. New Hair Mode from Broadway

"Everyone admires my hair, now that I'm doing it the new way that nearly every really smart girl I know is using," says Miss Agnes Traney, popular dancer, now appearing in the Broadway hit, "Rio Rita." "My hair doesn't need shampooing more than once a month, now. My scalp feels better than it ever has felt. I have gotten rid of all my dandruff. My hair is much easier to arrange, and it stays that way. All I do to keep it like this is put a few dashes of Danderine on my brush every time I use it. It's wonderful how Danderine adds to the beauty of your hair, makes it look so silky and lustrous."

Danderine is not oily. It removes the oily film from each strand of hair and restores the natural color and lustre. It dissolves dandruff, cleanses and invigorates the scalp. It is delightfully fragranced. The big bottles are just 35c at all drug stores. Beautiful, smooth, gleaming hair and a healthy scalp for a few cents.

They took it up once more
And then they put it back again

DANIELSON

BROOKLYN REPORTS 16 DEGREES BELOW MONDAY MORNING

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Jan. 30—All cold weather records for the winter were broken this morning when the mercury dropped below zero. There were many tales as to just how low the temperature did drop, and all may be close to accurate, for the degree of cold does vary even in a comparatively small area.

The recording thermometers at Woodward's made 3 below zero the record. At the James Sayles place up in Elmville it was 6 below. At the James Danielson farm, about two miles from here, it was 9 below. At the John Weaver place at the northerly end of Day street in the town of Brooklyn the reading was 16 below. Up at East Killingly a reading of 8 degrees above was made at 4:30 a. m., and at another home up there at sunrise it was 2 above, East Killingly being in a much more elevated location than is Danielson.

Early risers relate that the mercury took a sudden downward plunge in the early morning, though it had been cold enough throughout the night.

MRS. RHODA ALDRICH IS REPORTED AS COMFORTABLE

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Jan. 30—This afternoon at the home of Mrs. Minnie Dexter Colvin on Oak street the condition of Mrs. Rhoda Aldrich, a resident in the Coomer hill section of the town, was reported as comfortable. Mrs. Aldrich is severely burned about the legs and is otherwise burned. She was injured while working about her home in the isolated section of the town mentioned last Saturday.

It appears that Mrs. Aldrich was alone and engaged with her household duties when her dress, as near as can be ascertained, accidentally swept against a very hot sheet iron stove of the type in which large sticks of wood can be used and set the garment afire.

Mrs. Aldrich's son, Proctor, who lives with her, was in Danielson on business at the time and her daughter, who lives across the highway from the Aldrich home had started on a motor trip to Providence with her husband, John Huntington. Trouble with their car developing, Mr. and Mrs. Huntington abandoned their trip in Foster and returned to their home. As they arrived they heard Mrs. Aldrich scream and found her with much of her clothing torn off, but some of what remained on her body still aflame. The room where the accident happened also had been set afire from Mrs. Aldrich's blazing clothing. Working with all speed Mr. and Mrs. Huntington gave assistance to the injured woman and also succeeded in putting out the fire that eventually would have destroyed the home.

Dr. Nathaniel Hibbard of Danielson who happened to be over in that district was located and summoned to attend Mrs. Aldrich. Her condition was such that it was necessary that she receive either hospital or graduate nurse care, so on Sunday she was brought to the home of Mrs. Colvin here.

Mrs. Aldrich, 73 years of age, is the widow of Prescott Aldrich.

Members of the Girls' Friendly society of St. Alban's met this evening at the Parish house.

The practice of abandoning good sidewalks to travel along highways of the borough grows, and is so dangerous for those who do it as to worry operators of motor cars, but, apparently, not the walkers.

Some ice for immediate use or for use in the very near future was being cut in territory hereabouts today.

It develops that there is considerable opposition among Danielson business men to the plan of keeping stores here open Wednesday evenings instead of Monday evenings, an arrangement in effect for many years.

Those who are reasonably prompt about such matters are filling out their income tax blanks and forwarding them to the collector of internal revenue.

Sour Stomach

"Phillips Milk of Magnesia"

Better than Soda

Instead of soda thereafter take a little "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" in water any time for indigestion or sour, acid, gassy stomach, and relief will come instantly.

For fifty years genuine "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gases. It neutralizes acid fermentations in the bowels and gently urges the souring waste from the system without purging. Besides, it is more pleasant to take than soda. Insist upon "Phillips." Twenty-five cent bottles any drugstore. "Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Co., and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.

Upside Down But Not For Long

The position of this advertisement is unusual — very different, as will be the appearance of the Reid & Hughes store after our alterations are finally completed.

The successful store is the one that is ready to give today what people will be asking for to-morrow. It is not a matter of merchandise alone, it's a matter of spirit, of point of view, of general outlook.

The Reid & Hughes Company has pioneered in many things in Norwich; helped to organize the Chamber of Commerce, the Retail Merchants Bureau and the credit association, the Building and Loan Association, the Farm Bureau, and other organizations. We have endeavored to faithfully serve Norwich for over fifty years. We believe in Norwich, now and for the future, and are preparing to serve even better in the years to come. A long lease enables us to anticipate the wishes and needs of Norwich people for better and more accessible accommodations; better merchandise, better display, in a better looking, better lighted store.

Right now, we are upside down, but not for long. And when we are right side up again, which will be soon, you'll notice the change and comment favorably upon it, we feel sure.

THE PRESIDENT ON THE BUDGET SYSTEM

Declaring that the annual meeting of the government's business organization is the major effort in undertaking to establish the correct relationship between needs and resources, President Coolidge in addressing the members pointed out that the efforts are not based upon any mean and sordid materialism, but are inspired by a desire to promote the mental, moral and spiritual welfare of the people.

In presenting his commendations for the results obtained in the past year, the president pointed to the fact that "the enormous importance of constructive economy in federal operations has been established. It is here to stay. The prosperity, peace and contentment of the people demand it. They furnish the money to run the government. They have a right to have it run for their benefit." The importance of such a statement cannot fail to be appreciated by every citizen, inasmuch as the administration's policy based thereon has been so influential in accomplishing the present day results.

Well does the president point to the fact that the budget system has produced manifold advantages to the people including a large reduction in the federal debt and three reductions in federal taxes. But the sympathetic support it has received from the administration and the economical and efficient administration of national affairs have furnished aid of the greatest value. There has been a fight against extravagance that has been effective and the people have gotten the benefit. The war left us with a debt of over $26,000,000,000 but $8,500,000,000 has been paid on it which means that for the next year our interest bill will be $1,000,000 a day less than would have been the case had there been no debt reduction, and that cut in the interest bill, as the president points out, is permanent.

This accomplishment has not been a stroke of good fortune. It was what was aimed at. The financial policies of the government have hit the bullseye. Carefully conducted federal business has made important contributions thereto. The various branches of the government coordinated their efforts, as there was reason to expect they would and the result is a pleasing one.

Thus when the president declares that we should not depart from the wise policy established he is on solid ground. There is the duty which rests with the business organization of the government as well as with congress. It is a time when the president fully realized that expenditures can be expected to take an upturn but even in so doing he rightly warns that that inclination needs to be held carefully in check.

There cannot fail to be approval of the president's words when he says, "Economy in federal operations is here to stay. True economy means the discouragement of unnecessary expenditures. It carries no thought of unwise, unscientific limitation. Rather it makes ample provision for things that must be done. Pressure for retrenchment, insistence upon wiser spending, have furnished capital to meet our new demands without expansion of our expenditure programme. We cannot absorb by economy all of our prospective new requirements. If we absorb as much as possible we have realized the true meaning of economy. By saving money where money can properly be saved we have developed what is more properly termed a constructive economy programme in our federal service."

The budget system was adopted only after long and persistent effort. It was urged because it was believed it would be of vast benefit to the country. It has undergone a test which has been most thorough and most satisfactory and the president hits the nail on the head when he declares that "if there is any one thing on which the people of this nation should insist, it is the continuation of this policy in the handling of their national finances."

It was a high compliment which the president paid to the work that has been done by Budget Director Lord as well as to the chairmen of the appropriations committees in both houses of congress. He was not unmindful of the fact that the budget system has been a success "because it has had the active and energetic support of the people themselves."

BOLIVIA'S PLEA

Just how much attention Bolivia will be able to command is uncertain, but its delegate to the Pan-American conference at Havana brings to attention a vital problem in his country when he declares that the establishment of continental peace would be short-lived as long as Bolivia's problem remained unsettled.

Bolivia has been handicapped for a long time. Shut in by mountains and other countries it has no access to the sea except over the territory of other countries. That is not the only country so situated but it means restrictions which any country enjoying its full sovereignty cannot fail to appreciate. Bolivia feels today that it cannot enjoy its own sovereignty and independence because it is dependent upon its neighbors. Whatever action it takes or desires to take depends upon other countries if the object lies outside its borders.

In connection with the efforts to settle the Tacna-Arica dispute it was repeatedly urged that Chile and Peru come to an understanding whereby they would sell or cede to Bolivia an avenue to the sea which would serve as a bumper state between the two countries in such a way as to overcome the friction that has lasted for many years. This would be allowing Bolivia to regain an outlet which it enjoyed at one time but which has not been possessed for years.

It doesn't appear that this matter will be adjusted at Havana. Because Bolivia has urged relief doesn't mean that it is going to get it. There may be the feeling that if Bolivia is going to be helped in any such way favors should be passed around for all. Nevertheless in the effort to establish and maintain peace on the continents there is good reason for feeling that the elimination of the Bolivian handicap is greatly to be desired. It at least is a matter that may well be kept in mind when search is being made for problems that are calling for solution and when there is a desire to do something that will strengthen Pan-Americanism. Bolivia pleads for itself, but it cannot fail to elicit full sympathy from many of the other republics even if they are not ready to take their coats off and help it.

WHEN COMPETITION BOOMS

It makes little difference whether it is oil companies, railroads or bus lines, when they get to competing there is a great opportunity for those who want the service which they have to offer.

Just now there is a hot competition between the bus lines operating between Boston and New York. It is possible because patronage is not what it was in other seasons of the year and efforts have been made to increase it by reducing the rates. The situation for the six bus lines is not so different from that which prevailed among the railroads and boat lines 50 years ago. Competition was so keen that passengers were traveling for a song. The idea of getting transportation between the two large cities for a dollar seems impossible these days, but that is what the rate fight resulted in and as might be expected it was a time when large numbers were carried. The fares did not begin to meet the expenses but in such fights profits are the last things thought of.

Just now the bus lines in question are striving for sufficient business to meet expenses while waiting for the spring and summer patronage, but the plan of getting it by going lower than the other indicates the probability that the service will be rendered for about nothing and regardless of expenses if the contest goes on without coming to an agreement. It is a situation which is inevitable where there are so many lines in competition between the same points. Like the railroads it indicates that the day will come when the number of lines will be much reduced even though the service across New England gets a steadily increasing patronage. History is repeating itself with the busses even as it did with railroad and boat transportation in this part of the country. Till it gets straightened out the advantage all lies with the traveling public, as long as safety is not sacrificed.

THE CARBON MONOXIDE PERIL

From the number of persons killed each year by monoxide gas poisoning it would appear that they had never heard of its danger, or else believed themselves immune and failed to heed the repeated warnings which have been given concerning it.

There isn't an auto owner, or driver, who ought not to understand the great menace from this gas arising from the exhausting of oxygen in a closed garage where an auto engine is allowed to run. But it is not solely in the closed garage that danger prevails for a Danbury man was found dead in his car and the belief prevails that he was overcome by the fumes from the broken exhaust of his car which he was trying to fix while the car was standing in the open.

There are many deadly poisons which no one would think of taking a chance with and yet there are large numbers who show by the way in which they add themselves to the list of victims that they do not appreciate the seriousness of the situation concerning carbon monoxide gas.

Out in the city of Detroit there has been an average of 30 deaths a year from this cause, and only once in the past six years has the number fallen below 20 for a year. What is true there is probably true elsewhere to a greater or less extent and it will have to be admitted that the number is by far too large and that it lies within the power of the individual to protect himself against such a sudden and needless end.

If there are those who carry the idea that they can escape such a fate while inviting it further sacrifices of life may be expected but with the need of giving heed to warnings so great it is an excellent service which life insurance companies and health authorities are giving, in addition to the publicity of the newspapers, in directing public attention to such a peril.

WASHINGTON AFFAIRS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30—Receptions and teas by women in high official life always draw throngs of visitors, but it is safe to say that none equal those given by Mrs. Hoover, wife of the secretary of commerce, who shines not only in her own light as wife of a cabinet member but in the possible light of the first lady of the land, should her distinguished husband carry off the honors at the national convention.

Washington society is taking no chances of never having met Mrs. Hoover should that be the case, so men and women flock to her "at homes," and the quiet street up in the exclusive residential section of the city where the Hoovers live, is lined with automobiles and people who walk, on the days of her receptions.

Out here men of the official and diplomatic set "make calls" as the women do, when the hostess is a woman of high official rank.

The Hoover home is a dignified mansion, not differing from its neighbors as seen from the outside, but it has a distinctive "air" when once you are within its doors. It is beautifully furnished and in perfect taste. There is evidence of luxury but nothing garish. It is simplicity itself in its perfect service.

As you enter the reception room where Mrs. Hoover stands chatting with friends, she quickly turns to you with a cordial greeting as the butler announces your presence.

After a few words she turns you over to one of her assistants, usually the wife or sister or daughter of some California member of congress, who smiles, says she is glad to meet you, and then in turn takes you into the great dining room, where you are introduced to the charming lady who is pouring tea or coffee, who says something pleasant as she fills the egg shell cup of beautiful design and hands it to you, whereupon a pretty girl of the congressional set, in some sort of a fluffy gown, hands you tiny sandwiches and cake. You meet and chat with people you know or others who, like yourself, are making a round of "cabinet calls."

Sometimes Secretary Hoover gets home from the department of commerce in time to greet the last of the departing guests but he does not receive with Mrs. Hoover on her "at home" days. The Hoover receptions are delightfully informal. They lack stiffness but do not lack dignity. And does some one ask about Mrs. Hoover? How she looks and what she wore?

At the reception referred to Mrs. Hoover wore a black crepe dress made on simple lines heavily embroidered with white, grey and jet beads. Mrs. Hoover has grey hair, is slightly above medium height. She is cordial but not effusive—and has the art of making one feel welcome.

Senator Bingham paid a high tribute to The Bulletin and its editorial policies, in a speech on the floor of the senate during the discussion of as to how an inquiry into the loss of the S-4 should be conducted.

Senator Binghamn urged that it be made by a commission appointed by President Coolidge, and deplored the fact that Senators Swanson of Virginia, Walsh of Massachusetts, and other democrats insisted that it should be made up of members of the senate, which would at once place it, in the estimation of the country, as being a partisan body, bent on political advantage.

Senator Bingham, in the course of debate read into the Congressional Record the tribute to The Bulletin in order to make it plain how the country stands on the question. As a preface to the editorial Senator Bingham said "those who want the S-4 inquiry made only by congress are mistaken in the belief that the country favors such a plan. The country wants expert not senatorial judgment on the matters." As proof of his assertion Senator Bingham said "for instance, here is a brief editorial from one of the oldest newspapers in the state of Connecticut, the Norwich Bulletin, a paper about 140 years old; an independent paper that ably represents public opinion throughout that section of the state. Listen to what that newspaper said under the caption of "Make It Impartial." The editorial was then read, as an argument for the administration measure, Senator Bingham adding "I submit that the editorial expresses the opinion of a large part of the American public."

Senator Heflin's tirades and bursts of personal abuse have not been confined to his career in the senate. Those of us who were in the press gallery when Heflin was a member of the house recall a tilt that occurred something like ten years ago, between Heflin, tall and over-fat, and the diminutive Judge Burnett, an able and distinguished member of the house also from Alabama.

Judge Burnett scarcely stood five feet tall, even on tip-toe, he was of stocky build, with iron grey hair and clean cut strong features, but his voice was in keeping with his small stature and a contrast to Heflin's rough roar. One day Heflin launched a vicious attack on the judge, as unscrupulously as he launches one against the Catholic church. Judge Burnett was on his feet in a minute, denouncing Heflin and all he stood for.

Then Heflin, with his fat amplitudinous figure swelled to even greater proportions, roared "What, you little shrimp, do you dare answer me? Why I could swallow you at one mouthful!"

Little Judge Burnett didn't flinch, but piped back in a shrill voice that penetrated every corner of the great room, "Well, if you did swallow me you would have more brains in your stomach than you ever had in your head!" The storm of derision that swept the chamber for once squelched the bombastic Heflin, and after that he left the little judge discreetly alone.

Congressman Tilson who is a member of the commission having in charge the 200th anniversary of the birth of Washington, was at the white house this week, arranging details with the president and other members of the commission. The matter in hand was the publication of a set of books on Washington in the various phases of his life. They will include Washington as a man, as a statesman, as an engineer, as a president, and other specific phases of his life. The works will also include all the writings of Washington whether published or unpublished, and will be compiled under the direction of Professor Alfred Businell Hart, who is designated as the historian of the commission.

In addition there will be a complete biography of Washington, which will aim to show the man as he really was, not merely as depicted by biased alleged historians, whose so-called histories or biographies cannot be accredited as true.

Congress Tilson believes the work, as outlined, will be of great value to the country. The celebration will take place in Washington in 1932.

With 150 of the 900 couples that he has wedded since his ministry at Riverside, Cal., present, Dr. Ira W. Barnett conducted his third wedding memory service. The pilgrimage to attend this annual event brings families from all parts of the state and even from abroad to renew their pledges of faith and affection before the pastor who united them. Only two divorces are known among the 900 couples the pastor has married. Many rifts have been healed between husband and wife following this service, as is attested by hundreds of letters on file in Dr. Barnett's study.

IT'S NOT WHAT BUT HOW!

Almost from the first moment he looked upon Mary Belle Bayliss, with her enormous brown eyes, skin of camellia, and soft southern drawl, Graham had been laid low. His adoration, however, had not blinded him to the fact that Mary Belle's apparent pliability was the result of training in schools which made it a point to produce "perfect ladies" and not indicative of any lack of firmness of character.

In a word, Mary Belle "seldom ever," as she phrased it, gave in once her mind was made up. No one could have applied so crude a word as "obstinate" to Mary Belle, but the fact remains that when she had decided she would do, would not do a certain thing she held on until it thundered.

When, therefore, she decided, and for what she considered an unimpeachable reason, that her engagement to Graham must be broken, Graham's stout heart sank until it rested heavily in the soles of his shoes.

"I could stand it," he said dolefully out of the depths of his despair, "if there was any sense in it. If you thought you didn't like me enough or your family objected, or"—here he grew reckless—"any one of thousands of good reasons, but just because——"

"I just wish I could make you understand, honey," Mary Belle sighed. "It's just as much for your sake as it is for mine. People can act like you know—signs and things don't mean anything, but you just can't get away from facts——" Graham agreed gloomily that you could not, provided, of course, that they were facts.

"But, listen, honey," Mary Belle urged, "you take it like it is with opals—why, I've known more cases where the most terrible things happened to people because they would wear opals. Right in our own family, my aunt had a perfectly terrible time because she would have an opal engagement ring. Her husband wouldn't let her do hardly anything she wanted to. I remembeh myself how bad she wanted to go to Europe one summeh and he said he couldn't affo'd it. She went the next yeah, but that wasn't like goin' when she really wanted to—and somethin' like that was always happenin' to her. Why, honey, I've known just hundreds of cases—so, of course, when that black cat ran right across our path the otheh night—it just about kills me to say it—but my conscience just won't let me be engaged to you any mo'——"

There was much more arguing on Graham's part, there were many glistening tears on Mary Belle's soft cheeks, but there was no yielding. She could not—she wou'd not—continue the engagement—that awful cat!

Outwardly for a time at least, things went along pretty much as they had before. Graham and Mary Belle were together about as much after the breaking of the engagement as they had been while it was on.

It was Graham who finally and definitely ended the matter. If she wouldn't be engaged to him, he said, it was nonsense not to make the inevitable break. Mary Belle went softly, thought him utterly unreasonable, but remained obdurate.

Followed gloomy days and gloomy nights for Graham. He knew he had done the only wise thing, but he couldn't help thinking about Mary Belle. He tried going about with other girls.

He tried other legitimate means of forgetting, but the kick had departed from things generally. He had almost decided that what he really needed was a change, and that he would try for a job in another town, when one day, upon answering the telephone, he heard Mary Belle's gentle voice drifting over the wire. Could he, she asked, would he, come straight up to her house? She had something perfectly wonderful to tell him! He fenced weakly. He had important work to do—he had conferences to attend—he went!

With her hand clasped in his, looking into her limpid eyes, he listened.

"And there was a kinda bumping sour," she concluded her story breathlessly, "and I reckon that was what waked me up. So I opened my eyes and there right in front of your picture on the dressin' table a black cat was sittin'—you know they're pullin' down that ol' house next door to us, and I guess it had been livin' there and got scared and jumped in through my window—and I didn't ha'dly wait to dress even—I just ran to the phone——"

"But I don't think I understand," the puzzled Graham said, "I thought it was because of the black cat——"

"But, honey, this black cat came to me—that's a sign of the very best kinda luck—and it was sittin' right in front of your picture—don't you see?"

Graham didn't really see, but he was not one to take a piece of good fortune apart to see how it worked. He was quite content to let it go at that!—Chicago News.

YOUR HEALTH

NEGLECT NOT THE WARNING OF INDIGESTION

By Simon Levin, M. D., Houghton, Mich.

Member Gorgas Memorial

On account of the development of the organs of the abdomen and the nerves to them, nature has arranged that, when there is any disease of the intestines or abdominal organs, the stomach receives the message and announcement of the same. These messages mean indigestion of some form.

By indigestion or dyspepsia we understand belching of gas, pain or distress before or after meals, or it may be without any relation to meal time whatever. To ignore this message, when we have constant or intermittent pain or distress in the stomach, may be neglecting nature's announcement of disease in the stomach, like ulcer or even cancer, diseases of the gall-bladder with or without stones, chronic appendicitis, cancer in the intestines, blood diseases affecting the abdominal organs, and diseases of the liver and kidneys.

All of us—both laymen and physicians—know of friends and patients who, after operations on the gall-bladder and appendix, say that the indigestion they have had for years has disappeared. Everyone knows of the consequences of ruptured gall-bladder or appendix. So heed the combination of pain in the abdomen and indigestion of any form.

It is a known fact among the medical profession that if we could get the diseases like chronic gall-bladder disease and ulcers of the stomach in their early states when they manifest few symptoms except indigestion, we could actually remove them completely at this time and prevent much suffering. Also, researches of late lead us to believe that the constant irritation of inflammations and ulcers will lead in some cases to cancer. One can readily appreciate how listening to the early indigestion symptoms, obtaining a medical diagnosis, and removing the diseased gall-bladder affection or curing the gnawing ulcer will prevent much disability and also the possible formation of cancer. Remember that cancer is only cured by its removal in the early or the precancerous stages. This also applies to cancer of the intestines as well and also other diseased organs.

Again we are reminded constantly by those who suffer from infected teeth of the indigestion that is present.

Permit me to emphasize the importance of attending to indigestion or dyspepsia in order to prevent serious oncoming disease, because it may be the earliest sign, especially of growths in the abdominal organs and serious inflammations.

Nearly every family can recall the early death, from a growth, of a relative who did not pay any attention to indigestion symptoms or who permitted a gall-bladder disease to get beyond control of surgery. Both could have been cured if taken early enough—at the warning.

Bear in mind that a period health examination is a real safeguard.

Stories That Recall Others

Magoway.

Bobby and Tom lived next door to each other. Bobby was outside riding his scooter when Tom came outdoors.

"Did you see my ma go 'way?" he asked.

"No," answered Bobby, hesitatingly. Tom went on and Bobby ran into the house.

"Mother," he called, "what's a magoway?"

A Way Out.

Various members of the family were tuning in on their favorite stations one evening during the holidays. The strains of "Blue Heaven" seemed to come from everywhere. The son, home from college, left the circle for a time. On his return he said, "I'm going to get Fort Worth, Tex., and get out of this 'Blue Heaven'." Fort Worth was reading the following telegram: "Thanks for not giving us 'Blue Heaven.'"

Judge Supply T. Holbrook

(From Norwich Bulletin, April 20, 1896)

The death of Judge Supply T. Holbrook occurred at his home on River avenue Friday evening after a long illness. He leaves a wife, formerly Miss Carrie Stark, and two sons and three daughters.

Judge Holbrook was born in Roxbury, Mass., Sept. 7, 1822, and received a common school education. His classical training was from private tutors. In early life he came to this city and began the study of law in the office of Hon. Jeremiah Halsey. He also resided for a time in Hartford and New London. He was admitted to the New London county bar in the year of 1856 and was immediately elected judge of probate. He was re-elected to his office again and again, serving for a period of twelve years.

He was a member of the house of representatives in 1873 and was chosen judge of the court of common pleas by that body. He was also a member of the legislature in the year of 1876. He again became judge of probate in 1879 and held the position until the year of 1892, when he reached the age limitation, and was obliged to give up the office.

The latter years of his life have been passed administering estates, acting as trustee and counsel in the settlement of estates, and in general law practice. The disastrous fire in the Central building in 1894 destroyed his valuable collection of law books and proved a great discouragement to him. The books, valuable in themselves, were priceless to him, as they were filled with notes and references made during his many years of active research and experience.

The estimation in which Judge Holbrook was held by the other probate judges and lawyers in the state may be inferred from the fact that they have several times unanimously elected him president of the Connecticut Probate assembly and that all the papers read by him before that body have been ordered printed and distributed among the other probate judges of the state. He was recognized as an authority on probate matters from one end of the commonwealth to the other.

In his twenty-six years of service in the probate court Judge Holbrook never once refused to appoint any person on account of poverty. His circle of acquaintances was notably large, for his probate duties brought him into touch with the residents of Preston, Griswold, Voluntown, Lisbon, Sprague and Franklin, as well as this town.

Judge Holbrook took a deep interest in music and at one time had pupils and was a professor of music. He attended the Second Congregational church, of which he was a member. He was a gentleman whom it was a pleasure to meet and he will be greatly missed in the community in which he was such a prominent figure. He took a thorough interest in the religious and educational affairs of the city.

Infant Care

No mother in this enlightened age would give her baby something she did not know was perfectly harmless and reliable, especially when a few drops of plain Castoria will right a baby's stomach and end almost any little ill throughout the system. Fretfulness and fever, too; it seems no time until everything is serene.

That's the beauty of Castoria; its gentle influence seems just what is needed. It does all that castor oil might accomplish, and without shock to the system. Without the evil taste. Castoria is delicious! Your own tongue will tell you why "Children Cry for it." Being purely vegetable, you can give it as often as there's the least sign of colic; constipation; diarrhea. Or whenever there's need to aid sound, natural sleep.

Only one word of warning: the above is true of genuine Castoria.* Fletcher's is the original. Other preparations may or may not be as pure, as free from a single doubtful drug. Physicians tell parents to get Fletcher's Castoria, and no child of this writer's is going to test any other kind. I'll save a dime some other way.

*SPECIAL NOTE: With every bottle of genuine Fletcher's Castoria is wrapped a book on "Care and Feeding of Babies" worth its weight in gold to every mother or prospective mother.

Reddy Fox Schemes And Plans.

'Tis only those who plan and scheme
Who ever realize half they dream.
—Reddy Fox.

Redd Fox was trotting down through the Old Pasture. He was headed toward the Green Meadows. "It is a long time," thought Reddy, since I have seen Peter Rabbit. I guess he is sticking pretty close to the dear Old Briar-patch these days. Probably Mrs. Peter won't allow him to leave it. I'll take a look over that way and see if he's there now."

So when Reddy reached the edge of the Old Pasture he paused. Very carefully, in order that he might not be seen, he poked that black nose of his between the bushes and looked over toward the dear Old Briar-patch. Reddy's eyes suddenly opened very wide. "Do I or don't I" muttered Reddy, and rubbed his eyes again. What Reddy meant was that he couldn't really believe that he was seeing what he thought he saw. What he thought he saw was Peter Rabbit just leaving the dead Old Briar-patch and heading up toward the Old Orchard.

"I wonder if my chance is coming at last," thought Reddy. "Many times I have nearly caught Peter and each time he has been lucky. But luck doesn't last forever. Some day I'm going to get that fellow. Perhaps this is the day, who knows?"

Reddy smacked his lips as he thought how good a rabbit dinner would be. You see, in the winter Reddy seldom knows what it is to be filled up. There is very little of the time that he isn't hungry. Just now he was particularly hungry.

At once Reddy began to plan. If only he could know just where Peter was going he might be able to give him a surprise party, an unpleasant surprise party. He knew how likely Peter is to change his mind. He was headed toward the Old Orchard now, but at any minute he might change his mind and start over toward the Green Forest. He might even turn back into the dear Old Briar-patch. So Reddy decided that the thing for him to do was to remain right there and watch. So he did.

Peter seemed to be in no hurry. He hopped along in a most leisurely way. To see him you would have thought that he had nothing whatever on his mind. He would hop along a few steps and then sit down. Then he would hop along a few steps farther. Sometimes he turned off to one side and sometimes he turned off to the other, which was one thing that made it so uncertain where he was bound for. Finally, when, as Reddy expressed it, "he was nowhere," he sat down very much as if he intended to stay there. He was right out in the open. There was no place for Reddy to approach him without being seen.

"I suppose," thought Reddy, "that I could run away around and get over to the Old Orchard and wait for him there. But if I should do that it would be just like him to turn around and come over here."

So for a while Reddy remained where he was. Then he discovered that Peter didn't seem to be going anywhere in particular. He remained right out where he was, in plain sight, without any shelter or place of safety that one could see.

"If I could get near enough," thought Reddy. "I might be able to walk that fellow down. The whole thing is to get near enough before he discovers me. Now, if I only had Mrs. Reddy to work with me I believe we could do it. Mrs. Reddy would show herself and while Peter was watching her I would have a chance to get fairly near. Ha! Peter sees something and now is my chance!"

Then he discovered that Peter didn't seem to be going anywhere in particular

Sure enough, Peter was sitting up with his back toward Reddy and looking very intently over toward the Green Forest. Presently Reddy made out a flat spot moving along the edge of the Green Forest. It was Black Pussy the Cat. Peter with his usual curiosity was watching her.

Little Talks on Thrift

More Efficient Labor

Recent surveys of various industries have emphasized the fact that labor has in recent months greatly increased its efficiency. Many observers have reported this as among the important developments of the past year.

This always is a characteristic of slackened industrial conditions, due to the processes of selection through which the better type of worker is retained on the job while those who are slipshod and indifferent to their employers' interests are dismissed.

It is the opinion of this writer, however, that the present increase in labor efficiency is not altogether the outcome of supply and demand. We are in a period of advancing standards of living which is exerting a reflex influence upon the outlook, attitude and ambitions of the individual.

Contrast the conditions of the so-called average American of 25 years ago with those of today. The artisan of those days necessarily lived a circumscribed life and his outlook was equally restricted. Today he has his own home, his little car, his radio, his countless conveniences and small luxuries. On his holidays he can take his family and journey many miles from home, seeing new scenes to fire his imagination and meeting a wider range of people to increase his interest in the affairs of the day. The newspaper laid at his door each morning or evening gives him not only a picture of the world's events of the last 24 hours, but a compendium of current progress in the arts and sciences.

In such an environment, it is but natural that men and women should become more ambitious and more determined to succeed. And success comes only to those who know the value of thrift.

Labor, in short, is becoming more efficient because the workers are learning that the world's rewards are for those who conserve their time and energies to useful ends, save their money, live clean lives and fill their minds with useful knowledge.—American Society for Thrift.

TAX EXEMPTION IS EXTENDED ON PROPERTY THAT CHURCHES OWN

Under the provisions of the 1927 law relating to tax exemptions, churches and other religious organizations owning property in the state are to benefit more than they ever have before. In fact all property of such ecclesiastical organizations and associations used for and in connection with religious work is exempted under the new law.

Changes in the taxation law, as embodied in chapter 319 of the public acts of 1927, are the direct results of a survey of the tax exemption situation within the state made by the tax exemption commission appointed by Governor John H. Trumbull by virtue of authority given him by the 1923 legislature. The commission named by the governor was composed of Theodore Bodenwein of New London, Thomas J. Molloy of Hartford and Ernest W. Christ of New Britain.

As a result of investigation made by the commission and recommendations contained in its report, the 1927 legislature tackled the problem and effected some sweeping changes from the old provisions.

The churches and other ecclesiastical societies of the state have just recently discovered that where a parsonage in the past was exempted to the extent of $5,000, and taxed for all valuation above that figure, they are now entirely exempt "where it is actually used by the officiating clergymen of the religious organizations owning such property."

In the old days a great many of the churches did not make it a practice to furnish their pastors with a dwelling place. Many of them couldn't afford to and such churches that did, usually provided a modest parish house. The $5,000 limit set by the legislature was then deemed sufficient and exemption up to that amount was provided by law until the 1927 legislature effected a revision.

With the building of finer and more elaborate houses of worship, greater attention has been paid to the parsonage as a dwelling place for the pastor and today such structures, in this city, as elsewhere in the state, range in valuation far in excess of the former $5,000 exemption figure.

Exemption for Parsonages

Today, not only is the church and the land upon which it stands, exempt from taxation, but also the parsonage and the land upon which it stands.

As a result of the investigation of the tax exemption commission, the 1927 legislature classified all tax exempt properties in two groups, designated as group 1 and 2.

Group 1 is subdivided into three classes, as follows: Class 1, scientific, educational, literary, historical and charitable organizations: Class 2, agricultural and horticultural societies and Class 3, cemetery associations. In each instance such organizations must be incorporated under the laws of the state of Connecticut and in order to take advantage of the exemption provisions must file its tax exempt report, "with the board of assessors of every town, consolidated town and city, or consolidated town and borough in which any of its property thought to be exempt is situated, on or before the last day required by law for the filing of assessment returns." The 1927 law provides that such properties will be taxed if the tax exempt list is not filed at the property time. If a part of the property referred to is thought to be taxable the law requires the assessors to place a valuation upon it, etc.

Where No Report Needed

In group 2, the list of tax exempt properties includes those for which the legislature decreed it unnecessary to file a tax exempt report. The law provides that any property to be exempt under group 2, must either be situated in Connecticut, or owned by a Connecticut institution or individual. The list is lengthy and includes property owned by the United States, this state, any county, city, town, borough, or other municipal tax district of Connecticut; and hospital society or sanatorium which is supported wholly, or in part, by state appropriations; a group of institutions of higher learning, including Yale university, Wesleyan university, Trinity college, Connecticut College for Women, Sheffield Scientific school, The Hartford Seminary foundation and any parochial or evangelical school; any church or house of religious worship owned by a Connecticut religious organization; any parsonage actually used by the officiating clergymen of the religious organization owning such property; any parish house, orphan asylum, home for children, reformatory, or infirmary of a religious organization.

The list also includes any ex-service man or relative provided proof has been filed as required by Section 1164 of the general statutes and Chapter 179 of the public acts of 1923; any blind person in needy circumstances provided the provisions of Section 1164 have been satisfied; any ex-servicemen's organization.

Personal Exemptions

The usual exemptions are provided for personal property in the form of household effects, farm tools, etc., cash in banks; bonds, notes and other evidence of indebtedness of the federal government or Connecticut municipalities; exempt Connecticut state bonds, property of public service, public utility or other corporations where such property is taxed by the state in lieu of local taxation; choses of action issued by public service or utility corporations made exempt by statute, owners of mortgage notes or bonds exempt to mortgage value mortgaged real estate, property of fire companies used for fire protection purposes where they receive annual appropriations from the town; property not owned by a Connecticut municipality that is exclusively used by the public in lieu of public property which would otherwise be required or authorized by any general statute or special act, and any trustee of property used by the public for public purposes, which property is by will or deed of trust being held for this state or its people; one of its counties or its people, or one of its municipal corporations or its people.

THREATENS TO SHOOT DOGS KILLING SHEEP

Renewal of attacks by dogs on sheep flocks in the town of Lyme, has resulted in a warning being issued by E. M. Marvin, of the Grassy Hill section of Lyme, that he will shoot all dogs found trespassing upon his premises without proper license tags.

Mr. Marvin issued the following statement Monday:

"My land is legally posted, so there is no excuse for hunting on it.

"Within a few days I have driven dogs away from my sheep twice, and on a third attack they have killed two. I have sixty sheep and they are all too good for dog feed.

"I have a good friend somewhere that a short time ago had the nerve to come into a field near my house, kill and butcher a good buck sheep, leaving only skin and entrails.

"Since I have raised sheep I have had 217 killed by dogs.

"Now if your dog is worth anything to you, keep him at home.

"And dog caught meddling with my sheep or trespassing on my land with no collar on, I will shoot if I can."

It was the intention of Deputy Commissioner Elliott to have his inspectors begin work in Lyme, making an investigation.

C. F. C. RALLIES IN SECOND HALF TO DEFEAT THE DANIELSON SECONDS

The C. F. C. annexed their tenth win of the season Monday night at the Y gym turning back the Danielson Seconds by a 53 to 34 score. A second half rally turned the trick for the locals and enabled them to maintain their unbeaten record on the home floor this season. The C. F. C. have lost but one game in eleven starts, that at Hartford to the Central Baptist quintet.

First Half Even

The first half of last night's game was nip and tuck all the way. Neither team had any real advantage and the whistle for intermission found the visitors ahead 13 to 12. Both teams had shown a strong defense during the first two quarters with the resultant low score.

However, in the second half the C. F. C. scoring aces were unleashed and Capt. Lambert and Aubrey Brown ran wild, soon having the game beyond all doubt.

Lambert with 27 points and Brown with 18 were the leading scorers with Barrett, Danielson center, next with 14 points.

The C. F. C. are now showing as good a game as any amateur quintet in these parts. Next week Monday they play the Mystic Shamrocks at the Y gym while on Monday, Feb. 13, the New London Marines, who recently beat the Y Seniors come for a tilt. Jan. 20 is open while on Feb. 27 the Hartford Central Baptists come here for a return tilt.

ACADEMY IN SEASON'S CLASSIC WITH WINDHAM

The Academy-Windham game here Saturday night is rapidly assuming major proportions. It will mark the third basketball clash between these old rivals and to say that it will be the best is not saying something far amiss.

Both teams are regarding this game as a most important one. For the Academy it is her objective game. For Windham it is very important for she is very anxious to strike back, in part, at least, for the defeats in baseball and football of the late seasons.

Windham will enter the game a favorite in view of her wins over South Manchester, Chapman Tech, Hartford Bulkeley and Torrington, in particular but usually that means nothing when old antagonists antagonize.

Windham plays Stonington at Willimantic Wednesday but the Academy's other game, with Bacon Academy, has been postponed.

PLAINFIELD PROS HAVE FAMOUS OPPONENT WED.

In the Philadelphia Royal Colored Giants Wednesday night at the Community House, the Plainfield Pros have one of the strongest road teams in the country as the opposition. This team is now on a tour of the Eastern states and is drawing packed galleries everywhere it shows. The Plainfield management had been attempting to land this attraction for some time and finally succeeded only last week in getting assurance of its presence.

This team vies with the Renaissance Big Five as the major teams of the colored race and is almost as equally well-known.

Plainfield is expected to use Dessinger, Normandin and Brusso at the forwards with Stavinitsky at center and Madden, Bernet and Benson at guards while the Giants' lineup has not been submitted as yet.

HOPPE TIES HALL BY BEATING WAKEFIELD

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—(AP)—Willie Hoppe tied Allen Hall for the leadership in the American league three cushion billiard tournament tonight by defeating Harry Wakefield while Hall succumbed before Johnny Layton.

Hoppe vanquished Wakefield by 50 to 30 in 55 innings, each scoring a high run of six. Layton toppled Hall by 50 to 31 in 52 innings. Layton registering a high string of seven to four for Hall. Hoppe and Hall now stand neck and neck with 21 games won and 8 lost.

Mrs. Mallory Wins.

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—(AP)—Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory, eight times American women's tennis champion, celebrated her return to indoor competition today by a cleancut victory over Mrs. H. V. Kaltenborn, prominent Brooklyn player, in the annual Heights casino invitation tournament.

TAFTVILLE CRESCENTS MEET HILLTOPS TONIGHT

The Taftville Crescents have the Hilltop A. C. of Winsted as the attraction at Parish hall this evening. Although little is known of this team in this section, it comes to Taftville with a good record and should be able to make the Crescents travel hard all the way.

Included in the visiting quintet will be Vic Radzevich, former Hartford Blues football star and Torrington High all-round athlete, Roy Williams and Fitch Gaghan at forwards, Hayward at center with Sullivan and Capt. Buck Carroll at guards. Schultz will be in reserve.

The Crescents, who of late have been going great guns, will take the floor with Normandin and Brown at forwards, Harris at center, and Jim Murphy and Eccleston at guards, with Coleman and Gauthier in reserve.

There will be a fast preliminary game starting at 8 o'clock and dancing with Bourden's orchestra will follow the main game.

SCHAEFER WASN'T SO BRILLIANT IN WATERBURY

Jake Schaefer evidently didn't thrill Waterbury fans with his play as he did when he was here last week. The following comment on the match appeared in a Waterbury paper:

Jake Schaefer may be the world's 18.2 balkline billiard champion, but he failed to match the cue skill of Walker Cochran, the man he dethroned last month in New York, in their two exhibition matches at Geniot's Recreation parlors. In the afternoon match, Cochran put on a brilliant display of 18.2 billiards to trounce the present champion, 200 to 100, but Jake managed to edge out a win in the three-cushion competition which followed, 20 to 13. In the evening, it was all Cochran. The former champion had the upper hand most of the way in the 18.2 play to win, 200 to 143, and then followed it up with a 20 to 18 victory in the three cushion contest. A large crowd of fans saw these two champions of the cue in action.

$50,000 OFFER MADE TO MANDELL FOR TITLE BOUT

BOSTON, Jan. 30.—(AP)—The opening wedge of a campaign to place Dick "Honeyboy" Finnegan, of Boston, in line for a shot at Sammy Mandell's lightweight title was driven here today by Matchmaker Eddie Mack, of the Argonne A. A. who telegraphed an offer of $50,000 to Eddie Kane, the lightweight king's manager, for a title bout at Braves field on June 3.

From the Boston end, the matchc would hinge on Finnegan's ability to defeat Bruce Flowers, Negro lightweight, in their 10-round bout here next Thursday. Mack agreed to post $25,000 with the Massachusetts boxing commission on May 1 and the remaining $25,000 ten days before the bout, demanding in return forfeits of $7,500 for weight and $5,000 for appearance from both fighters. Mandell was asked to agree to complete his last two weeks of training in Boston. The newly completed bleachers at Braves field would insure capacity for 80,000 spectators, Mandell was advised.

PELTZER HAS MANY INVITATIONS TO RUN HERE

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—(A.)—If Dr. Otto Peltzer doesn't get a chance to demonstrate his speed on American indoor tracks this winter it will not be for lack of invitations.

While awaiting A. A. U. sanction for the three races he has been authorized by German officials to run in this country, Peltzer has received invitations to compete in no fewer than seven meets, all to be held within the next few weeks.

This widespread demand for the German middle distance ace's services has created a new problem for A. A. U. officials. They now are confronted with the task of distributing Peltzer's three appearances among a long list of organizations who would like to have the conqueror of Paavo Nurmi and Edwin Wide run for them.

This question, along with that of formal sanction for Peltzer to compete in this country, is expected to be taken up when the German runner confers with the A. A. U.'s foreign relations committee here Wednesday.

HANK GOWDY APPOINTED DIAMOND COACH AT AMHERST

AMHERST, Mass., Jan. 30.—(AP)—Appointment of Hank Gowdy, former National league veteran, to be baseball coach at Amherst for the month of February, was announced today. Gowdy, who will work with the Amherst pitchers and catchers, is restricted to one month because of his engagements with the American association.

Brown For Davis Cup Team.

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 30.—(AP)—Wray Brown, of St. Louis, Missouri Valley tennis champion, today received a letter from Charles Garland, of New York, chairman of the Davis Cup selection committee, advising him of his designation as one of the players to try out for the United States cup team.

Interscholastic Sports

The Academy now has three wins and two losses and that percentage looks to be hoisted on the win side before many games. The locals seem to have found themselves considerably during the last few days but against Windham Saturday they will need all their ability.

Wilby continues to mow them down. She downed Crosby decisively in the first game of their annual city series Saturday night, by an 18 point margin, the same edge she held over the Academy.

Meanwhile, in another "big city" series, Warren Harding defeated Central at Bridgeport Saturday by 23 to 21. However, neither of the Park City schools are doing as well on the court as they have in other sports, lately.

St. Thomas Seminary in Hartford has lost her last three games by one-point margins.

Stonington goes to Windham Wednesday with prospects of taking a beating for O'Brien's men have shown little to warrant their beating Windham this year. Friday, Plainfield plays at Stonington and that ought to be a close one. Plainfield won in their first meeting a month or so ago.

New Haven Hillhouse, a most likely state tournament entry, polished off Leavenworth of Waterbury, 51 to 15, Saturday.

Little Tourtellotte stopped Putnam's winning streak and in doing so boosted itself into another likely state champ in Class D. Tourtellotte lost to the Academy, but in doing so, they gave a real classy exhibition.

'BOUT SPORTS

Basketball is having another successful season down through the eastern Connecticut strip. The contrast between pro and amateur rules in this region seems sto bother the fans not a whit for at both kinds of games are the turnouts large. The Plainfield Pros, Danielson Towners and the Taftville Crescents play professional rules while the high schools use the amateur code. The Pros are drawing the largest crowds in history, the India game a few weeks back jamming them to the "proverbial rafters" while other crowds have been very, very huge. Danielson Thursday night had one of her largest crowds for the Millville game, while the Crescents report excellent turnouts, with the Danielson and Manchester Recs games as the chief claims for distinction. The Academy and Windham High are packing the min every time out while Putnam and Killingly Highs recently played before one of the largest crowds to witness a scholastic clash in the Quinebaug valley.

Soccer, which is staging a comeback in eastern Connecticut ought to have a real booster in the game next Sunday at J. B. Martin park when the Martins and the strong Ledyard team furnish the attraction. The visitors come to Taftville with a strong "fep" for included in their lineup are some of the best athletes turned out in these parts. It is in reality the Riverview baseball club, according to unofficial reports and more definite information will be forthcoming in the very near future.

The Pastime A. C. is still in the field furnishing Norwich fans with their boxing. Another amateur show which comes this Friday no doubt will be well patronized for it follows a three weeks' laspe. The shows were usually semi-monthly affairs but the management gave way to the Putnam show last Friday where the Norwich team appeared.

The Industrial baseball league was such a success last summer that already we hear murmurings concerning the 1928 edition. Eight teams comprised the loop in 1927 and that it laid a good foundation is certain. Whether anything can be built on this foundation is another thing. There is talk of moving the league to Hopyhock island.

THREE AMERICANS ON HOCKEY INJURED LIST

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—(AP)—The New York American Hockey club has three players on the casualty list, adding to the heavy toll in National Hockey league ranks this season.

Eddie Bouchard, whose eye was cut when he fell on Alex Gray's skate in last night's game with the Rangers, had three stitches taken in the wound and expects to play tomorrow night at Boston.

The injury to Red Green, star right wing, as the result of receiving a heavy body-check from Ching Johnson of the Rangers, was determined today to be only a severe bruise and not a broken collar-bone, as had been feared. Green will be out of the game a week.

Joe Simpson, substitute defense player, is still laid up with an attack of appendicitis.

WILLIMANTIC TO HAVE AMATEUR BOXING SHOWS

It was learned Monday evening that Willimantic is to burst forth with amateur boxing within the next ten days. Art Miller, formerly of Springfield, and who is now handling a stable of boxers in the Thread City, is said to be behind the project. He now has fifteen boys under his wing.

The first show is expected to be run Friday, Feb. 10, and from then on the bouts will be promoted every other week, alternating with the Pastime A. C. here. Where the bouts will be held in Willimantic has not been divulged.

GIBSON, SOLD TO SAN ANTONIO, WILL MANAGE

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Jan. 30.—(AP)—Frank Gibson, veteran catcher, last year with the Boston Nationals and recently sold to the St. Louis Nationals, will manage the San Antonio Texas league club in 1928. President Harry Ables of the SSan Antonio club announced Gibson's sale was completed today when no other major league club claimed him after waivers had been asked by St. Louis. The price of $6,000 and an option on any one San Antonio player to be claimed for $15,000 by August 15, 1928.

PASTIME A. C. HAS STRONG CARD LINED UP

The makeup of the card for the Pastime A. C. amateur boxing bouts at Olympic hall Friday evening is rapidly assuming definite proportions. Teams from Willimantic, New York and New London are slated to battle local boys while a few of the bouts that ended in close decisions or in an unsatisfactory way three weeks ago, will be run off again.

DEMPSEY SAYS HE WILL NOT MEET TUNNEY UNTIL SEPTEMBER

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 30.—(AP)—Handicapped with an injury to his left eye, Jack Dempsey, erstwhile champion of pugilism, let it be known today that he probably will not be ready until next September to take another shot at Gene Tunney's heavyweight crown.

The Manassa Mauler incidentally took occasion to deny reports that the ailment was serious enough to force his retirement from the ring. It was bad enough, he said, however, to suspend his training activities.

"The injury," he said, "is of such unimportant nature that I did not mention it when I wired Tex Rickard in Miami that I would not be in condition to accept a bout in June.

"I have been working out nearly every day and physically I feel in good shape, but not quite good enough to take on a match as early as June."

There has been no definite arrangement between Dempsey and Rickard concerning another championship match, said the ex-champion, but he injected a pair of optimistic "ifs" into his conversation about the possibility of meeting Tunney again.

"If I decide to accept another bout this injury to my eye muscle will not interfere with my plans.

"If I believe I can get back in shape for another shot at the title, Rickard and I will get together without much trouble."

DR. RUSSELL SAYS DEMPSEY INJURIES NOT SERIOUS

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—(AP)—Dr. Frank H. Russell, New York physician who treated cuts about Jack Dempsey's eyes following both the former heavyweight titleholder's fights with Gene Tunney, told the Associated Press tonight that "no injury suffered in those matches would prevent Dempsey from fighting again."

"Dempsey suffered skin lacerations in the eyebrows," Dr. Russell said, "and I sutured the cuts on both occasions. Following Jack's second match with Tunney in Chicago, I treated a laceration in the right eyebrow for approximately a week. A slight infection had developed, but the wound healed perfectly before the boxer left for the west. There was no injury to the eyeball, muscles, or nerve centers.

"The cuts healed as any others would on the body. Each wound was new and was not the reopening of an old cut. The burts would not leave him susceptible to further injury if he were to fight again and would in no way prevent his fighting again.

"Dempsey's sight at no time was affected."

STRONG POSSIBILITY OF ARMY-NEBRASKA GAME

LINCOLN, Neb. Jan. 30.—(AP)—There is strong possibility of an Army-Nebraska football game next fall, it was intimated by the University of Nebraska athletic board, in session here today.

The board issued this statement:

"We are carrying on favorable negotiations for a game with the Army in West Point, November 24, and are now seeking permission of the big six conference to play a ninth game."

LATERAL PASS FROWNED ON BY COACHES-OFFICIALS

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 30.—(AP)—Eastern football coaches and officials at a round table discussion here tonight, expressed disapproval of the lateral pass and agreed unanimously that representatives of the eastern section should go before the football rules committee with the recommendation that the play be dropped and the passing game revert to the status of 1926.

Peltzer Has Workout.

CHICAGO, Jan. 30.—(AP)—Dr. Otto Peltzer, after a two-mile workout on the indoor running track of the University of Chicago gym, decided today that perhaps he will enjoy racing on board tracks. He never has competed on them before but he said after today's workout that he likes the feel of them.

Many Champs at Boston Meet.

BOSTON, Jan. 30.—(AP)—A champion, national or intercollegiate, for every invitation event on the card seems assured for the 39th annual indoor track and field games of the Boston Athletic association here, next Saturday, on the strength of the entries received to date.

SAMMY MANDELL HAS TWO OFFERS FOR TITLE BOUT

CHICAGO, Jan. 30.—(AP)—Offers for two matches in defense of his lightweight championship were received today by Sammy Mandell, and Manager Eddie Kane. They were taken under advisement, pending the completion of arrangements with Promoter Jim Mullen, who has bid for Sammy's services for an outdoor title fight here next summer.

Fifty thousand dollars was offered by Eddie Mack, of Boston, for a title contest with "Honey Boy" Finnegan, in Fenway park.

Detroit promoters requested Mandell's terms for another match with Phil McGraw, in the Olympic arena there.

"By the middle of February," Kane said today, "we expect to have our summer program in shape to announce."

JACK SHARKEY STARTS TRAINING FOR RISKO BOUT

BOSTON, Jan. 30.—(AP)—Jack Sharkey left Boston today to begin training on his grandfather's farm at Epping, N. H., for his next bout, the 15-round elimination go with Johnny Risko, of Cleveland, in New York, on March 12. Adopting his favorite form of locomotion against which reprimand or plea have no effect, the Boston heavyweight started the trip of 70 odd miles over snow covered roads by automobile.

Nothing more definite than "play around in the snow, chop wood and hunt," occupies his schedule for the rest of the week. On Saturday, he is scheduled to go up to Hanover, for an exhibition bout with Rocky Stone at a Dartmouth college boxing carnival, before returning either to Epping or Boston.

FITCHVILLE TO HAVE A BASKETBALL TEAM

The borough of Fitchville, once a strong figure in the sports life of this section but which of late years has been rather dormant in this line, seems to be staging a comeback with the announcement of a basketball team to start operations soon.

Practice is now being held by members of the newly organized club in that place and within a short time they expect to start a belated but active campaign. It is understood that a baseball team will also be promoted in Fitchville the coming season.

LITTLE HOPE HELD FOR HUGH JENNINGS' RECOVERY

SCRANTON, Pa., Jan. 30.—(AP)—Physicians tonight held out little hope for the recovery of Hughey Jennings, noted baseball star, who was stricken with an attack of meningitis last Friday. Although Mr. Jennings was conscious at intervals this afternoon, a bulletin issued tonight said that his condition is unchanged.

In 1925, Mr. Jennings, who was then assistant manager of the New York Giants, suffered a nervous breakdown. He was apparently well on the road to recovery when he was stricken with the latest attack.

CANZONERI DRAWS WITH PETE NEBO

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 30—(AP)—Tony Canzoneri, New York featherweight, and Pete Nebo, flashy Seminole Indian boxer of Key West, fought a 10-round draw here tonight. Judges of the bout disagreed and referee called it a draw. Canzoneri weighed 125 pounds, Nebo 127.

Canzoneri looked like a winner in the early rounds, jabbing Nebo around with a fast left, and occasionally sending punishing blows to the body. With the bout half over he slowed up and Nebo went after him with both hands. The Indian's punches lacked steam however, and Canzoneri was not in danger, though many blows landed on his head and ribs.

Benny Schwartz, 177, Baltimore, won the judges' decision over Pinkey May, 117, Savannah, in a 10-round bout preceding the main event.

LUIS VINCENTI LOSES TO KAUFMAN AT N. Y

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—(AP)—Joie Kaufman, New York lightweight, won a judges' decision from Luis Vicentini of Chile in a feature ten round bout at the St. Nicholas arena here tonight. The fight was close throughout and Kaufman took the verdict by a slight shade. In a previous tilt, Kaufman was victor over the Chilean on a close verdict. Both boxers tipped the scales at 135 pounds apiece.

JACK McVEY SCORES TECH. KAYO OVER NICHOLS

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Jan. 30—(AP)—Jack McVey, middleweight contender of Brooklyn, scored a technical knockout over George Nichols of Sandusky, Ohio, in the last round of a scheduled ten round bout here tonight. McVey weighed 161 1-4; Nichols 165 1-2.

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 30—(AP)—In a ten round bout, Jess Stringham, of Salt Lake city, administered a terrific beating to Frankie Senk, of Springfield, Mass., here tonight. Stringham had the New Englander down for counts of nine in the seventh and again in the ninth, but was unable to register a knockout. Stringham, however, was the winner by a wide margin.

Stribling Gets Decision

POETRY FOR THE WIDE-AWAKES

Such as These

When the Master tolled, as was His will,
In the Nazareth shop—with what rare skill
Of hammer and saw and keen-edged blade—
And peasants bought the things He made.

It must have been that, here and there,
The burden was less for some dumb pair
That turned the soil to the sweet Spring breath
Or ambled the lanes of Nazareth.

His perfect skill would He revoke,
When He turned His hand to the oxen's yoke?
Lesser workmen might never heed
Nor guess the lowly toiler's need.
—Ellen D. Masters.

Two Nests

The wonder was on me in Curraghmacall,
When I was as tall as the height of your knee,
That the wren should be building a hole in the wall
Instead of a nest in a tree.

And I still do be thinking it strange, when I pass
A pasture that has to be evenly ploughed,
That the lark should be building a hole in the grass
Instead of a nest in a cloud.
—Francis Carlin, in "A Cairn of Stars"

Perhaps

Perhaps the birds are little ones,
Whose souls were once on earth;
Perhaps their joy to music runs
In trilling songs of mirth.
Perhaps they play in Heaven high,
With all the angels there;
Perhaps they read, never die,
But wander in the air.
It may be they will hark to you,
If you make sweet their way;
Perhaps God's mysteries they know,
In Heaven's endless day.
—Dr. Rixford J. Lincoln.

On the Threshold

We are standing on the threshold, we are in the open door,
We are treading on a borderland we have never trod before;
Another year is opening, and another is gone,
We have passed the darkness of the night; we are in the early morn;
We have left the fields behind us o'er which we scattered seed;
We pass into the future, which none of us can read.
The corn among the weeds, the stones, the surface mold,
May yield a partial harvest; we hope for sixty-fold.
Then hasten to fresh labor, to reap and thresh and sow;
Then bid the New Year welcome, and let the Old Year go.
Then gather all your vigor; press forward in the fight,
And let this be your motto: "For God and for the Right."
—Lucy Larcom.

UNCLE JED'S TALK TO THE WIDE-AWAKES

Lack of water causes much suffering among the birds during the cold, wintry months. The suffering of the birds during the winter season is, in fact, as great as the suffering caused by lack of food. It is observed that during the summer months the bird bath is also used as a drinking fountain by the feathered folk. It is true that as winter approaches a number of birds fly south to the warm climates, but it is equally true that many birds remain with us throughout the cold season of the year.

When the weather grows cold, these birds, on flying to the bird bath for a morning drink, are quite likely to find, instead of a pan of water, a board on which are bread crumbs, suet, seeds or table scraps. This, of course, is excellent, and will save the birds a great deal of work and trouble in getting their food.

However, it may necessitate their flying far and searching long for water. They may, in fact, be forced to quit the neighborhood on that account. The way to prevent this is quite obvious. By placing a small pan of water beside the food, one can have a free lunch counter that no bird will scorn.

LETTERS WRITTEN BY WIDE-AWAKES

How Porcelain is Made

Dear Uncle Jed: I am a boy 12 years old and I go to the Goshen school in the town of Lebanon. I have written to you once before but I forgot to sign my name. I should like to tell the Wide-Awake boys and girls what I have just learned in school about porcelain.

In some parts of the world there is found a kind of clay called karolin. Karolin is found in some countries of Europe, also in some countries of Asia. It is found in China and Japan, in France and Germany, and some other countries.

Ages ago the Chinese learned how to make beautiful dishes and vases by mixing karolin with a little fine sand. When karolin and sand are mixed in just the right proportions the substance is called porcelain.

Porcelain dishes are very beautiful. They are light and hard and very delicate. When held to the light the sunlight passes through them readily and makes them look beautiful.

For many years the Chinese kept the manufacture of porcelain a secret and no one else knew how to make it. It was then very expensive and only kings and other wealthy people could afford to buy it. Later the Japanese became skilful in making things of porcelain.

After a time it was found that the karolin of France and Germany makes good porcelain, and French and Germans became skilful in making it. Porcelain then became cheaper and within the reach of a greater number of people.

Dishes and vases of porcelain can be purchased in the stores of our American cities.

At Coney Island

Dear Uncle Jed: I am herewith enclosing my story about my visit to Coney Island.

During the summer vacation mother and I were visiting relatives in New York. One day, as it was exceptionally hot, we thought we would go to Coney Island.

We bathed and went to several amusement places. They were Luna Park Steeple chase and a freak show.

At Luna Park I saw the Dragon's Gorge. I liked it best of all the things in Luna Park. It was a huge monster carved out of artificial rock. The eyes of this monster glared like fire and in the gorge were falls.

In Steeplechase I liked Noah's Ark the best. It was a crude boat with a house on top. In the boat were elephants, monkeys, also a giraffe and many other animals. They were real but acted by electricity.

In the freak show I saw the Spotted lady from Madagascar. She was all brown with milky white spots. The boy born without arms could do everything with his toes. There was also a lady born with four feet.

A Visit to a Lighthouse.

Dear Uncle Jed: I am telling you a story about a visit to the lighthouse. One summer while visiting Long Island I was near a lighthouse. I was staying with my cousin. I wanted to see the lighthouse. My cousin hired a boat for us and at 2 o'clock we were going up the walk to the lighthouse. The lighthouse keeper knew my cousin and admitted us into his house. We were shown through the keeper's house and then we went up four flights of stairs to the lighthouse room.

While we were in the lighthouse a storm came up from the west.

The lighthouse keeper said we had better wait until the storm was over. We tried to call my aunt to tell her that we would be late in coming home but the telephone would not work.

The light in the lighthouse had to be lighted as it was growing dark. However, the storm continued until long after 5 o'clock. When the storm was over it was too dark to leave the lighthouse. I called my aunt again and this time I got her. In the morning I returned with my cousin to her house but I liked my visit to the lighthouse very much.

Our Trip to the Beach.

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you about my trip to the seashore last summer. We left home very early in the morning as it was a long trip. We arrived there in the afternoon. My aunt met us when we got there. After we had dinner we all went down on the beach. Brother and I went in bathing and we had a good time. The breakers were lovely. We would sit down and let the breakers roll over us. After supper that evening we went on the beach again, and saw the moon rise. It looked nice. It looked as if it was coming right up out of the ocean. We thought it was a pretty sight. We stayed for a week and had a nice time. I felt sorry when it was time to come home. I expect to go again next summer.

A Lovely Surprise

Dear Uncle Jed: For a long time I have wanted a new sled and before Christmas I asked my dad for one. He tried to fool me, saying he could not afford it, but I am used to such tricks and I did not believe him.

When Christmas came I was very happy and could hardly wait for my gifts. When the presents were given out I received so many that I forgot all about the sled.

Then all of a sudden I heard a loud noise and my sister came thumping down the stairs with a large sled.

"Oh Boy!" I shouted, then all the rest looked at me and laughed. Then my mother said: "You don't know who it's for yet." But I didn't pay any attention to her because I knew it was for me.

Now I am waiting for snow so I can slide on my new sled, and I hope it will snow soon.

A Good Watch Dog

Dear Uncle Jed: I just got through reading the letters in The Norwich Bulletin. I like them very much, so thought I would try to write and tell you about our dog. Our dog's name is Chummy. He is a German police dog, very gentle and kind; we are very fond of him. What a pal he is to all of us, and a mighty good watch dog. He met with a painful accident last summer. One of his paws was cut off. We all felt very sorry for him. He has limped ever since, but still gets around nicely, and can even go to pasture to drive the cows home.

Now don't you think, Uncle Jed, we have good reasons to be fond of him?

I hope my letter will be interesting to you.

A Geography Book

Dear Uncle Jed: Would you like to know how my friend and I made our geography lessons pleasanter? Our teacher likes to have us make compositions about our studies. One day my classmate and I decided to give her a surprise. We made a geography book. We made it in this way: Taking two heavy brown sheets of paper, we fastened them together and with a map of the U. S. on the front made a pretty cover. We wrote compositions for the book on clean white paper. It was very simple and it did not take us long to finish. I have decided that this book makes my lessons clearer than before; even the simplest things can do the world some good.

My Gun

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the second time I have written to you. I am going to tell you about my gun. I bought a BB gun for Christmas. I go hunting with it every night. I like it very much. There is another boy around here that has one, too. We go hunting together. We have good times. I hope you and the Wide-Awakes will enjoy my story.

My Trip to Vermont

Dear Uncle Jed: I want to tell you about my summer vacation. I started on the morning of July 14th. It was a very hot day. I was accompanied by my uncle. We had a very nice trip up, with lots of sightseeing. However, I was glad when I arrived in Burlington. My four cousins and their father met us with the automobile. They were very glad to see us. They live on a large farm in Colchester. I saw many different means of farming, such as binding the wheat and threshing the oats. I drove the horses and I tried milking the cows but was not very successful. I had lots of fun playing with my cousins. Later I went to my aunt's and then to another cousin's, where I had a very pleasant time. I came home through the White mountains with my elder cousins. We stopped over night in Epsom, N. H. The next morning we toured to Connecticut. We arrived in Connecticut at 5.30 p. m. I had been away so long that I was glad to get home.

Two Days in New York.

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you how I spent two days at New York.

It is very busy in the streets; there are many shops. During the day the pushcarts in some streets make the streets very dirty with paper and boxes but at night the street cleaners clean it all up again. Some of the buildings are very high. The highest of them all is the Woolworth building.

It is very noisy at daytime. The elevators make most of the noise and the street cars make some more. I don't like the city for one reason, because it is so noisy and in the country is very healthy.

REACTION IN MARKET WAS CHECKED BY THE BUYING OF PUBLIC UTILITIES

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—(AP)—A sudden outburst of buying in some of the public utilities checked a sharp reaction in today's stock market. Extreme declines in the standard industrials and rails ran from 1 to 3 points and in some of the volatile specialties from 4 to 15 points. Total sales fell short of 2 1-2 million shares.

Early selling was associated with uneasiness over the credit situation, which was emphasized by the marking up of the renewal rate on call money to 4 1-2 per cent followed by a further advance to 5 per cent. Banks called about $45,000,000 in loans, presumably in preparation for month-end currency requirements. There was no change in time money and commercial paper rates.

Predictions of a poor quarterly report by the United States Steel corporation on Tuesday, publication of another series of unfavorable December railroad earnings reports, decreasing public participation and a violent break in cotton, also contributed to the growth of bearish sentiment. The absence of any large volume of forced liquidation and an advance in the prices of fall goods by the American Woolen company, were the bright spots in the day's proceedings.

Montana Power was the sensational individual performer, dipping 4 points to 142 3-4 in the early selling movement and then bounding upward to a new record high at 156 1-2 on the urgent retreat of the short interest. Bayuk Cigars soared 13 1-2 points to a new peak at 126 1-2 and then eased to 124; Brooklyn Edison jumped more than 5 points to a new top at 150 and Columbia Gas, Federal Light & Traction, Pacific Gas and Peoples Gas all closed at net gains of a point or more.

On the other hand, Midland Steel Products preferred broke 15 points to 232 1-2, as against a recent high of 290, and rebounded to 236. American Republics collapsed nearly 8 points and rallied 4 1-4 and Adams Express, American Machine & Foundry, Cass Threshing, International Silver, Mathieson Alkali, and Wilson Company preferred showed net declines of 5 to nearly 7 points.

U. S. Steel common dipped to 144 1-4 and rallied to 145 1-8, off 1 1-4 net. General Motors fluctuated within a range of 1 1-4 points, closing 1-2 a point net lower at 132. Hudson replaced Hupp as the leader of the motor group by climbing 2 5-8 points to 38 7-8, but it reacted a point on realizing.

With the first 52 railroads to report their December earnings showing an average decline of 31.8 per cent in the net operating income, there was little speculative enthusiasm for those shares. Texas & Pacific duplicated the year's high and Illinois Central showed a moderate gain on buying influenced by the reported increase in the value of its Chicago realty holdings. Chesapeake & Ohio, Missouri Pacific common, and "Soo" common lost 2 points or more.

Foreign exchange rates were slightly irregulary, sterling cables easing still further to $4 87 3-16 Continental rates ruled a point or two lower.

Cotton opened higher, broke violently and then rallied briskly to close at net gains of 10 to 20 points on the day. Wheat prices eased fractionally. Sugar and coffee showed little change.

CHILD WELFARE STUDY INCREASES IN STATE

The annual meeting of the executive committee of the Connecticut Child Welfare association was held Wednesday at the New Haven Lawn club, when Mrs. Percy T. Walden, president, was hostess at a luncheon to this group. Mrs. Edwin W. Higgins, of Norwich, was present.

Announcement was made by Mrs Walden that Dr. Miriam Van Waters author of "Youth in Conflict" and other much discussed books on juvenile delinquency, had accepted the invitation of the association to speak in New Haven. At the suggestion of Dr. Arnold L. Gesell, it was decided to postpone the annual meeting, which was to have been held in Bridgeport late in January, until the coming of Dr. Van Waters, and to change the locale to New Haven in order to give a greater number of interested people the opportunity of hearing the speaker.

Mrs. Edith Valet Cook, executive secretary, gave a report on the work covered during the year. The speaker's bureau, maintained by the association, has supplied an almost continuous demand for lecturers on child welfare subjects, she stated. Continued calls for the association's pamphlets "Social Welfare" and "The Study of Illegitimacy" and for Miss Matthew's paper on "The Care of the Feeble-Minded" have necessitated reprints which have been ordered by the department of educational publicity.

Mrs. Cook announced plans for a state-wide study of juvenile courts and probation, which will be undertaken in cooperation with the State Federation of Women's clubs. Under the auspices of Leagues of Women Voters throughout the state, one-day schools will be held for the study of these subjects with speakers and discussion leaders to be supplied by the association.

A study of children between 14 and 16 who are not in school is going steadily forward, with 1,000 cases already completed. A decided gain in membership has been made, Mrs. Cook said, the association now having a roster of slightly over 1,300.

12 PER CENT. CHARGE LEGAL WHEN DEBT IS OVERDUE

A decision of interest to the commercial, mortgage and money-lending branches of the business world in Connecticut was handed down by the supreme court of errors in New Haven Friday, when the court decided that a lender may charge 12 per cent. interest to a borrower after the maturity of the debt, in cases where agreements have been made to that effect.

The decision, one of nine handed down by the court, applies to the Hartford case of the Globe Investment company against Frank J. Barta, an East Hartford builder. Mr. Barta agreed to pay the 12 per cent rate of interest after the maturity of the debt, but Judge Edward M. Yeomans in the superior court refused to grant that rate in the judgment.

The opinion, written by Associate Justice Hinman, was not available Friday night. It upholds, however, in its effect the contention made on behalf of the Globe Investment company by its lawyer, that a rate of interest of more than

MISS H. M. LATHROP DEAD—WAS NATIVE OR NORWICH

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Jan. 30.—Miss Helen Marshall Lathrop, 77, daughter of Jabez S. and Julia Backus Lathrop, of Norwich Town, died Saturday afternoon in this city at 81 Granite street, the home of Miss Gertrude Pringle, a nurse, who attended her during her illness. Death was due to cerebral hemorrhage, following a serious illness of two weeks. She had been under the care of Miss Pringle for nearly two months. Miss Lathrop was stricken about four weeks ago and her health had since been declining gradually.

Miss Lathrop was a native of Norwich and was educated in the public schools there. After completing her secondary education and preparing for the teaching profession, she was engaged as an instructor in the Broadway Grammar school and there she devoted 43 years of her life. She was retired with pension six years ago. Upon her retirement, Miss Lathrop sold her home in Norwich Town and came to this city. She had an apartment at the Crocker house here until her health required the attention of a nurse. She then removed to the home of Miss Pringle.

Miss Lathrop was a member of the League of Women Voters, Lucretia Shaw chapter, D. A. R., and the Saturday club until her resignation because of ill health a few weeks ago. She also was a former office holder in the League of Women Voters. She attended the Second Congregational church here.

Miss Lathrop leaves a brother, Alanson P. Lathrop, of New York, president of the American Light and Traction Co. Mr. Lathrop came to this city Saturday night upon learning of his sister's death. She leaves five nieces, Mrs. Ruth Carter Wallen, of Hartford, wife of Maurice Wallen, prominent singer; Mrs. Elizabeth Luther Lathrop, of Shrewsbury, Mass.; Mrs. Gertrude Starring, Jr., of Irvington-on-the-Hudson, N. Y.; Miss Julia B. Lathrop, of Columbus, O., and Mrs. Helen W. Aynesworth, of Harrisburg, Pa.; and a nephew, Philip Luther, of Springfield, O.

Burial is to be in Norwich.

Funeral services for Edward Carter, of Palmertown, were held this morning at 9 o'clock at St. John's church, Montville, and was attended by a large number of mourners. High mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. James A. O'Meara. The bearers were Joseph Russo, Joseph Marcox, David Cruddy, Joseph Moran, Thomas Doyle and Joseph Manville. Strand Theatre

One of the greatest horse racing stories ever filmed is Bred in Old Kentucky, Viola Dana's greatest starring picture, which is showing for the last time tonight at the Strand. The racing episodes are not only thrilling and the ultimate in entertainment but they are absolutely and painstakingly accurate. Miss Dana's interpretation of the little Irish lass whose legacy of one race horse is her sole fortune is spirited and thoroughly delightful. The picture is happily balanced with drama, comedy and a large share of romance and is the type of production that Dana fans have long wanted to see their favorite in. Much of the charm of the film is due to Edward Dillon's clever and effective direction, particularly in the nice handling of story-interest and suspense. Miss Dana's superb work is excellently supported by Jerry Miley as the turfman hero and Jed Prouty as the bookmaker. Roy Laidlaw, Jim Mason and Josephine Crowell all give splendid characterizations in their roles.

Busy Birds is another interesting and amusing story of our weekly series.

A delightfully funny Krazy Kat Kartoon completes this splendid program.

Edmund Lowe is co-starred with Miss Moran in the role of a "go-getter" salesman—a part that gives him opportunity to prove his ability as a character actor.

Besides the principals, the cast includes E. J. Ratcliffe, James Gordon, Arthur Housman, Bryan Munson and Norman Peck. This picture, which promises to give a novel angle to an old problem, is based on an original story by Anita Loos. Andrew Bennison is credited with the continuity.

"If I Were S'ngle," Warner Bros. picture starring May McAvoy and Conrad Nagel, will be the added feature on tomorrow's bill.

NUMBER ONE

tention particularly to the administration's naval building program.

"It considers our own requirements alone and carries no thought of entry into competitive construction with any other nation," he said. "The plan I have endorsed does not contemplate any limitation of time as to the beginning or the completion of this tentative program. But it does contemplate the building of the ships as fast as possible."

Cautioning against departure from the policy of keeping governmental expenditures within receipts, Mr. Coolidge pointed out that any surplus always could be applied to the public debt, the reduction of which, he said, is in itself indirect tax reduction.

"I have expressed myself in favor of further moderate tax reduction," the president said. "I have indicated the maximum reduction we can ow afford. There was no partisan thought in that recommendation. I hope there will be none in its final consideration by the congress.

"We must not depart from the wise policy established and thus far rigidly followed of keeping our expenditures within our receipts. That I had in mind in making my recommendation. It has made a rich contribution to the present splendid financial status of the country. It has enabled us to hire money at a lower rate than any other business in the world. It has been effective in the maintenance of prosperity. It has the hearty endorsement of the taxpayers.

"That policy of a balanced budget—expenditures within receipts—must not be molested. It must not be endangered. The great good which has come to this country from a balanced budget is too measureless, too far-reaching, even to suggest any other course. This nation is neither too weak nor too improvident to meet its obligations as they occur.

"The budget for 1929 which forecast a surplus of $252,540,000 is now before the congress. The action so far taken by the congress on that budget indicates no intention of diminishing the expected surplus. With a continuation of the efforts for economy in federal operations we can have a moderate reduction in taxes and at the same time adequately meet the urgent national problems which are now confronting us.

"Past economy has given us the means for internal improvements and developments and more adequate national defense. But we cannot stand the cost of the things which we should and must have, if we adopt excessive tax reduction. It is far better to have no tax reduction than to have too much. We have the public debt to which to apply every dollar of whatever surplus may accrue. That, indirectly, is tax reduction. Every dollar applied to the debt saves perpetually the interest on that dollar. It is a contribution to the welfare of the people, a logical step nearer adequate tax reduction."

That it is much easier to borrow money than to pay it, Mr. Coolidge said, is shown by the fact that the national debt was increased from slightly over $1,250,000,000 to nearly $36,600,000,000 from 1917 to 1919. Although the debt was increased approximately $25,000,000,000 in about two years, he said, it has required more than eight years to reduce it by $8,500,000,000, leaving the debt at approximately $18,000,000,000. Since the declaration of war in 1917, he pointed out more than $17,000,000,000 has been paid in interest and principal.

"We cannot overestimate or overemphasize the importance of the reduction which has been made in our debt," Mr. Coolidge added. "Our interest cost is still a great burden. This cost for next year, however, will be $1,000,000 a day less than it was at the peak of our interest charges."

Asserting that economy in federal operations is here to stay, Mr. Coolidge declared that by economy, he meant "constructive economy" that provided ample appropriations for necessary expenditures. A large source of expense, he asserted, is for national defense.

"The cost of this for next year is estimated as approximately $850,000,000," the president continued. "That means an average expenditure of $1,338 for every minute or $80.50 for every second of the year. The army program contemplates an expenditure in excess of $100,000,000 and a construction program for the navy is now receiving the consideration of the congress.

"The authorization of 1916 was the last complete navy program and that has been practically completed. The recommendation now before the congress to replace obsolete naval vessels and moderately increase our naval strength contemplates an orderly construction procedure; nothing more."

President Coolidge closed his remarks with a tribute to Director Lord, of the budget bureau, who he said had the "judgment to say yes when the facts warranted and the courage to say no when the facts warranted."

Following the president, director Lord declared that while there will be no slackening in the effort for economy, there is an irreducible minimum of expenditure below which the government cannot go.

"We may possibly have reached that terminal," the director added. "The country grows and develops. The bigger the country the bigger the operating costs. But as long as there is a federal employe not fully committed to the doctrine of honest service, as long as there is an article of federal supply wasted and not completely and properly utilized, as long as there is a taxpayer's dollar not profitably employed, the drive for constructive economy will go on. If we cannot reduce expenditure or check its growth we can and will see to it that every increase is amply justified, and if we are obliged to spend more we can and will see that that more is spent wisely."

NORWICH DOINGS 75 YEARS AGO

The main topic of controversy in Norwich three-quarters of a century ago was the proposed building of a passenger and freight depot for the Norwich, Willimantic and Palmer railroad on the West Side near Wharf bridge. The company was reported as having selected a site about a half mile below the bridge which would have been inconvenient for local business houses.

Extracts from the files of the Norwich Evening Courier of 1852 follow:

Tuesday, Jan. 25, 1853—We hear it quite currently reported that the New London, Willimantic and Palmer railroad board have selected a site for their depot, in this city, what is known as Gavitt's Wharf. As this spot is little less than half a mile below Wharf Bridge, it is fair to presume that the report is erroneous. We understand, some days since, that the company had applied to our court of common council to waive that provision of their charter which required them to build their depot below instead of above Wharf Bridge. We apprehend no barrier would be interposed on the part of this city provided the object were simply to place a passenger depot above the bridge.

L. E. MILLEA IS ELECTED PRESIDENT OF ELKS' PAST EXALTED RULERS

The mid-winter meeting of the Past Exalted Rulers' association of the state of Connecticut was held Sunday at the home of New Britain Lodge of Elks and although the snowstorm of the preceding night kept down the attendance somewhat there was a fine representative gathering of members from all the lodges in the state.

Lunch was served the visiting officers on their arrival by the members of New Britain lodge, No. 357, and the meeting was held in the lodge room at one o'clock. The exalted ruler of New Britain lodge welcomed the gathering and the president of the association, Max A. Durrschmidt, P. E. R., of Derby lodge, No. 571, called the meeting to order. Routine business was transacted and three lodges reported the deaths of one of their past exalted rulers, Middletown, New Haven and Hartford. The members stood in silence as a mark of respect to their deceased brothers and eulogies were given by members of those lodges.

Committees reported as to their work during the past six months and the Old Allingtown hospital committee was discharged after rendering their report as Allingtown hospital has been closed by the government. A new committee was created by a change in the by-laws of the association to consist of seven members and to be known as the welfare committee who will form a program for continuing the work formerly taken care of by the hospital committee. Many plans were suggested by various members as to methods and means for installing in members of the order a higher interest in the principles of the order.

The election of officers of the association for the ensuing year was taken up next and L. E. Millea, P. E. R., of Norwich lodge, No. 430, was unanimously elected president. E. J. Sullivan, of Bristol lodge, No. 100, received the election as vice president, Harry C. Brown of New Britain, was re-elected secretary and Louis Brock of Bridgeport lodge, No. 36, was re-elected treasurer.

He became an interested and active worker in the lodge and was started in offices where he served faithfully retiring as exalted ruler in 1915 and being sent as a delegate to the convention at

Baltimore that year becoming a member of the Grand lodge at that time.

His home lodge rewarded his increasing interest in his lodge by electing him to the office of treasurer in 1916 which office he has filled continuously since that year. His interest in the order and his ability as a speaker have gained him many friends about the state and he has been frequently called upon to deliver addresses both in the lodges and at public services in many of the cities of the state held by lodges of the Elks' fraternity. On Sunday at New Britain the members of the Past Exalted Ruler's association appreciating his interest in the order and his faithful service to the association elected him to their highest office.

The summer meeting of the association will be held at Lake Compounce as guests of Bristol lodge, No. 100. Attending the meeting from Norwich were James P. Hayes, past district deputy, and Felix P. Callahan, P. E. R., of the local lodge.

After the close of the regular business of the meeting a banquet was served to the visiting past exalted rulers by New Britain lodge and an entertainment of music kept them interested for two hours.

FINED ON CHARGE OF DRIVING AUTO RECKLESSLY

A previous good record saved George L'Heroux of No. 95 Dunham street from conviction on a charge of evading responsibility when the continued case against him was called up in the city court Monday morning. However, he was fined $50 and costs on a charge of reckless driving. He entered a plea of not guilty to the charge of evading responsibility but pleaded guilty to the reckless driving charge. It was last Tuesday night at Thames square that L'Heroux got into trouble.

Officer Albert Lamphere, called to the stand, testified that at 11:25 o'clock that night he observed a machine coming towards him through Thames street at a fast rate. Believing the car was going to crash into the traffic beacon at Thames square the officer blew his whistle to stop the driver. The car sideswiped the beacon, knocking off a piece of the cement base and kept going through West Main street and up Washington street. The officer followed and on arriving in the vicinity of No. 181 Washington street found that the machine had crashed into a Cadillac owned by A. P. Streeter of No. 39 East Town street. Both machines were damaged. The driver of the machine had disappeared. Bloodstains on the pavement were traced to L'Heroux' brother's home where he was found under the care of Dr. David Sussler who was dressing his injuries. L'Heroux admitted hitting the beacon but said he did not remember what happened afterwards.

Dr. Sussler stated that L'Heroux had a slight concussion and that it was possible the impact received when his machine collided with the beacon left his mind in a condition whereby he remembered nothing of what happened afterwards. L'Heroux claimed that the wheels of his machine became caught in the trolley tracks just before he collided with the beacon at Thames square.

NORWICH TOWN

MISSIONARY FROM CHINA NARRATES CONDITIONS THERE

At the Methodist church Sunday evening, Rev. Duncan Dodd of Shelton, who after ten years' service as a missionary in China returned to the United States last August, gave an address on "The Life and Ways of the Chinese People." The speaker considered the people as constituting three different classes—low, medium and high. They are human, as are we, the middle class being reached by the missionaries. There are no vehicles there, no horses, all work is done with wheelbarrows, which are pushed by the natives. Large buildings are constructed by this means. To make travel comfortable, the streets are paved with cobblestones. The wheelbarrows are made on one large wheel, with two large shelves to carry passengers or bundles, either being governed according to weight as to which location shall be used. Sometimes passengers ride on top and often times bundles are placed there. Rev. Mr. Dodd sang in Chinese to the children, "Jesus Loves Me," Before concluding his address, he mentioned briefly the Chinese war, relating his experiences and how he had worked out all day, with shots flying about him. Natives would strip people of their clothing, and on one occasion his family was obliged to be removed to a U. S. torpedo boat for safety.

The meeting opened with a hymn, followed by prayer by the pastor, Rev. A. E. Whitten. A missionary dialog by the children preceded the address. Mrs. Lewis Aldrich played for the hymns sung.

Previous to the service, Rev. Mr. Dodd was a supper guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Weaver of Huntington Green. During their residence a number of years ago in South Coventry, Rev. Mr. Dodd was pastor of the Methodist church there, where they were members of the parish.

Dorcas Home Missionary society of the Norwich Town Methodist church, is to hold its February meeting Thursday afternoon at the home of the president, Mrs. William Weaver.

"Daily Miracles," was the theme of the morning sermon, at the First Congregational church Sunday, when the pastor, Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey chose for his Scripture lesson, the 38th chapter of Isaiah. "How Our Denomination Does Its Work" was the topic of the Young People's C. E. service Sunday evening, when Rev. Mr. Bailey was the assigned leader. Eph. 4:7-16 was the scripture reference.

The Congregational Junior C. E. service Sunday afternoon was in charge of the children's department of The League of Service. Robert Hastings was leader and the topic was "Chinese Boys and Girls." During the service, a dialog by Esther O'Mara and Elaine Barrett, in Chinese costume, proved interesting. Pictures showing places in China, its peoples, also several Chinese curios, were displayed at the meeting.

Announcement was made that Mrs. Harold Muttart, corresponding secretary of Norwich Christian Endeavor union, is to speak to the children next Sunday afternoon in observance of Christian Endeavor day.

When the work committee of the League of Service of the First Congregational church held its first meeting with Mrs. Charles P. Learned of East Town street, Friday afternoon, there was a good number present. Under direction of the chairman of that committeee, Mrs. Herbert L. Yerrington, those present pasted post-cards, sewed on garments, also made patchwork.

At the banquet Wednesday evening at the Third Baptist church, Greeneville, for the executive committees of Norwich C. E. union, in observance of Christian Endeavor week, it is expected that members of the executive committee from both Norwich Town societies, will attend. Rev. Vere Abbey of Hartford, who is soon to return to Burma, Ceylon and India, as Christian Endeavor secretary, is to be the speaker at the banquet.

At the children's service Sunday afternoon, at the First Methodist church, the prelude was a piano duet played by Muriel and Clayton Rose. "The Bible Story," was told by Miss Effie Ladd. Miss Virginia Ward played the piano accompaniments for the hymns

STATE FARM SENTENCE FOR GIRL; MAN FINED

Gladys Waite, 18, charged with theft, was committed to the state farm for women Monday morning at the city court session. Joseph DeStadio, charged with receiving stolen money, was fined $100 and costs and given until today (Tuesday) to raise the money. The charge against him was fornication.

The girl was charged with stealing money from a room in an Asylum street house where she was employed. Although $100 was reported missing, she admitted taking but $30. She insisted that she gave him the $30 but he claimed that the only money he received from her was a $109 bill which he said she tucked into his pocket.

The person whose money was stolen was Miss Stella Pillar, a boarder at the home of Mrs. Waska where the Waite girl was employed.

The structure, Wilington hall, will accommodate 128 men and instructors and is to be a memorial to the Vinton and Johnson families who were missionaries to Burma from Willington.

SENATE VOTES TO EXPAND THE U. S. MERCHANT MARINE

Action Was Taken in Opposition to President Coolidge and Administration Leaders—Will be Sent to the House by a Vote of 53 to 31—Measure Was Carried by a Combination of Democrats and Western Republicans—A Long Series of Amendments Were Defeated by Overwhelming Votes.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31—(AP)—Over the opposition of President Coolidge and administration leaders, the senate today passed the Jones bill to expand the American merchant marine and to maintain it under government control.

A combination of democrats and western republican sent the measure to the house by a vote of 53 to 31 after rejecting by overwhelming votes a long series of amendments put forward in a last minute attack by those who contended the measure would establish a policy of permanent government ownership and operation of the merchant fleet.

Heeding the demands of President Coolidge for early transfer of the government fleet into private hands, administration republicans centered their attack on the provision of the bill requiring unanimous consent of the shipping board for the sale of any vessels hereafter.

An attempt, however, by Senator Edge, republican, New Jersey, to modify the bill to authorize sale of ships by majority vote of the board was rejected, 52 to 31. A move by Senator Willis, republican, Ohio, to permit sales by vote of five of the seven members of the board was then turned down, 47 to 37.

Finally, on the closest vote of the day, the senate rejected an amendment by Senator King, democrat, Utah, adding a provision that nothing in the language of the bill should be construed as committing the United States to a policy of permanent ownership and operation of the merchant marine. It lost, 43 to 38.

Senator Jones, republican, Washington, author of the bill, argued there was nothing in the measure requiring such an amendment but Senator King insisted that the provision requiring unanimous consent of the shipping board for the sale of ships established a government ownership policy.

Twelve democrats joined with 26 administration republicans in support of the King amendment while 28 democrats, 14 republicans and the lone farmer-labor senator voted against the King proposal.

The final vote on the bill found 33 democrats, 19 republicans, and the farmer-labor senator in support of it and eight democrats and 23 republicans in opposition.

The roll call follows:

For the bill:—

Republicans — Blaine, Brookhart, Capper, Couzens, Frazier, Gooding, Howell, Johnson, Jones, LaFollette, McMaster, McNary, Norbeck, Norris, Nye, Oddie, Robinson of Indiana, Schall and Willis—19.

Democrats—Ashurst, Barkely, Black, Broussard, Bruce, Caraway, Dill, Fletcher, George, Gerry, Glass, Harris, Harrison, Hawes, Hayden, Heflin, Kendrick, McKellar, Mayfield, Neely, Ransdell, Reed of Missouri, Robinson of Arkansas, Sheppard, Simmons, Smith, Swanson, Thomas, Trammell, Wagner, Walsh of Mass., Walsh of Mont., and Wheeler—33.

Farmer-labor—Shipstead, 1.

Total 53.

Against the bill:—

Republicans—Bingham, Borah, Curtis, Cutting, Deneen, Edge, Gillett, Gould, Greene, Hale, Keyes, McLean, Metcalf, Moses, Phipps, Pine, Reed of Penn., Sackett, Shortridge, Smoot, Steiwer, Waterman, and Watson—23.

Democrats—Bayard, Blease, Bratton, Copeland, Edwards, King, Steck and Tydings—8.

Total 31.

Pairs were announced as follows:

Stephens, democrat, for, with Dupont, republican, against. Ferris, democrat for, with Fess, republican against; Overman, democrat, for, with Warren, republican, against; Tyson, democrat, for, with Goff, republican, against.

Senators Dale, republican, and Pittman, democrat, were absent and without pairs.

In addition to requiring the unanimous consent of the board for the sale of any ships, the bill also would authorize an extensive program for replacement of the present government fleet. No appropriation is provided but Senator Jones announced that it would permit the shipping board to ask for funds to go through with its $250,000,000 fifteen year construction program.

Senator Copeland, democrat, New York, joined with Senators Edge, New Jersey, and Shortridge, California, republicans, in an unsuccessful all-day fight waged against the measure today, debouncing it as merely an announcement that congress favored government ownership of the merchant marine. The measure, they contended, provided nothing in reality.

Senator Fletcher, of Florida, ranking democrat, on the commerce committee and Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the minority leader, led the democrats in support of the measure.

Both complained of the present policy of the shipping board in selling government ships which they declared had amounted so far to "giving them away." Both likewise stressed the necessity for immediate action to build up the fleet if the nation is to have any merchant marine.

A series of amendments by Senator Copeland aimed to encourage private operation of ships through government aid in loans and more liberal mail contracts were among those rejected.

FACES OF COOLIDGE AND LINDBERGH BROADCAST

NEWARK, N. J., Jan. 31—(AP)—The faces of Col. Lindbergh and President Coolidge were played on a phonograph in the studio of radio station WOR today, thrown out into the ether and picked up on several receiving sets spotted about the Metropolitan district.

The picture broadcast was another form of the one demonstrated the other day from Weaf, when a picture of Mayor Walker was put on the air, but it was believed to be the first time a face had been first transferred to a phonograph record.

In the WEAF experiment the lights and shadows of a photograph of the mayor were turned from light waves into sound waves; these sounds being directly broadcast and at the receiving end turned back into light waves and photographically developed.

The WOR pictures went through a similar process but the noise of each picture was recorded on a phonograph record instead of being directly broadcast. Once imprisoned on these records the face can then be broadcast at any time from any station.

NEWCOMB, N. Y., Jan. 31—(AP)—A full grown black bear weighing over 250 pounds, which had been found starving under a ledge four miles east of Long Lake today by a party of surveyors, tamely followed the men after food from their lunch boxes had been given the animal. Tonight the animal was placed in a hotel garage here pending permission from the conservation authorities to domesticate it. Conservation officials believe that the animal was wounded during the last hunting season which accounts for it not hibernating for the winter.

Discusing the Free State's financial situation, Mr. Cosgrave said his government had followed its policy of paying its way to such an extent that in the last three years it had emerged with a surplus of approximately $17,000,000.

Mr. Cosgrave will spend three days in New York, where a number of functions have been arranged in his honor. He is scheduled to sail for home on the Olympic early Saturday.

READY FOR RECOUNT OF THE VARE-WILSON VOTE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31—(AP)—Machinery for the recount of ballots in the Vare-Wilson Pennsylvania senatorial contest was set up today by a senate elections sub-committee, which has ordered the count to start Thursday.

The recount will be in charge of Leon D. Ripley, former state senator of New Hampshire, who was appointed the elections sub-committee supervisor. He will be assisted by Algernon R. Clapp, of Philadelphia, who was named supervisor for the Reed campaign funds committee, which is aiding in the recount. Each candidate also will be represented by supervisors.

About eighty clerks are expected to be required to recount the ballots and they will be organized by Thursday, when Mr. Ripley arrives to take command.

The ballots are now impounded in the senate office building and will be kept under armed guard until the recount is completed.

EXTINCT CANADIAN CORP. PUZZLE SENATE COMMITTEE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31(AP)—Unsuccessful efforts were made again today by the senate lands committee to penetrate the veil of mystery surrounding the organization of the Continental Trading Company, Ltd., an extinct Canadian corporation which has figured extensively in the court cases growing out of the Teapot Dome naval oil reserve lease.

For two hours Senator Walsh, of Montana, the democratic prosecutor of the inquiry into what became of the $3,000,000 in profits made by this company in the sale of oil in the United States hammered away at two witnesses—A. L. Carlson, secretary and treasurer of the Sinclair Crude Oil Purchasing company, and J. D. Clark, president of the Midwest Refining company—but little additional light was shed upon the situation.

RUM RUNNERS CHARGED WITH OPERATING RADIO STATION

BOSTON, Jan. 31—(AP)—Charges that a rum-running ring established and operated a radio station on Cape Cod to keep in touch with rum vessels off shore, were made by the government at the opening in federal court of the trial of nine defendants on indictments alleging conspiracy and the smuggling of liquor. Four of the defendants are former members of the coast guard service.

In his opening address Assistant U. S. Attorney Hubert C. Thompson said that John Magnus, Boston garage owner, had obtained by bribery charts showing the positions of coast guard patrol vessels, and also the secret code used by the coast guard, and communicated to rum ships by means of his radio station such information as would aid them in landing their cargoes. Magnus is a defendant at the trial.

THREE HOUR FIRE CAUSED $200,000 DAMAGE IN NEW HAVEN

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Jn. 31—(AP)—Fire which stubbornly resisted the effort of sixteen fire companies for more than three hours swept through the Horton-Gallo-Cramer building on State street here this morning and damaged two adjoining buildings. The blaze, starting in the three story brick Fowler Printing company building a little before 2 o'clock this morning and spread quickly to the four story Cramer structure where the greatest loss was sustained.

The blaze was under control at 5.30 o'clock, and, after a tour of inspection, Martin J. Fleming, fire marshal, estimated that losses would exceed $200,000.

The Cramer building is a wholesale warehouse for automobile and radio supplies.

HAVANA, Jan. 31—(AP)—All activities in the sixth Pan-American congress were suspended today when delegates of twenty-one nations participated in a holiday trip to Mariel arranged by the state department of Cuba.

Military Funeral For Marshal Haig

The National Tribute Will Consist of a Solemn Flanders Poppy Pageant.

LO[illegible] Jan. 31—(AP)—Field Marshal [illegible]aig will, at his own ex[illegible]esire, be buried at Bemer[illegible] a estate in Scotland, bought [illegible]m by a grateful country after [illegible] World war. Interment, however, [illegible]ill be preceded by a military funeral, organized by the war office in London and a funeral service in Westminster Abbey.

This national tribute will take the form of a solemn Flanders poppy pageant, typifying the devotion of the field marshal since the war in behalf of his comrades in that struggle, and hence such a display for the financial benefit of ex-service men as he himself would have chosen.

It was Lady Haig's wish that all wreaths and floral tributes should consist of Flanders poppies, the sale of which would swell the funds of the soldier organizations. The response to this request has been immediate and splendid, hundreds of telegrams have come from all parts of the world ordering such wreaths, in addition to thousands ordered at home. Those engaged in making these wreaths will need to work day and night to be in readiness for the funeral.

The body will lie in state at St. Columba's church, with which Earl Haig was long connected, Wednesday and Thursday, with a guard of honor day and night. On Friday morning there will be a private requiem in the same church for the family and immediate friends, after which the funeral procession will leave the church for Westminster.

In the Abbey will be assembled the Prince of Wales, whose devotion to ex-service men is well known, and the highest representatives of the nation, civil and military, as well as many foreign representatives, including Marshals Foch and Petain.

After the funeral service the cortege will re-form and continue by way of Westminster bridge to Waterloo station, where the coffin will be placed on a train for Bemersyde.

JUMPED OR FELL TO HIS DEATH FROM SMOKESTACK

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 31—(AP)—Midshipman Gordon H. Kellogg of Medina, Ohio, a second class man at the United States naval academy, either jumped or fell from a smokestack adjoining the naval hospital today, Academy authorities disclosed.

Midshipmen Kellogg, who was the navy's breast stroke entry on the varsity swimming team, was one of the most popular men at the naval academy, authorities said. He was admitted to the hospital on Jan. 3 to receive treatment for a nose affliction.

A few days ago physicians said they noticed Kellogg was apparently suffering from a mental condition and authorities summoned his parents from Ohio. The youth chatted with his mother this afternoon, and a short time later his body was found at the base of the smokestack, a hundred foot structure.

A naval board of inquiry will investigate the youth's death, and report their findings to the secretary of the navy.

MAYOR OF NEWBURYPORT HAS A RIVAL IN OHIO

CLEVELAND, Jan. 31—(AP)—"Battling Tom" O'Malia, recently elected mayor of Linndale Village, assumed his executive post tonight freed of robbery and blackmail charges.

Out in Tom's bailiwick where the roundhouses and "hard guys" abound, none of the latter professes to be any "harder" than the new Linndale mayor.

O'Malia waited for an hour in court today for John Bourne, prosecuting witness, to appear. The charges were dismissed when Bourne failed to show up.

With the cloud of criminal prosecution removed from above his head, O'Malia declared he is now ready to "take on" "Bossy" Gillis, the young, fighting mayor of Newburyport, Mass.

"If Mr. Gillis would like to know, I'm 31, weigh 175, stand six feet, three inches and can hit hard," said the Linndale executive. "I'm ready for him either in a debate or a fist fight."

LEVINE TO ATTEMPT NON-STOP FLIGHT TO HAVANA

MITCHEL FIELD, N. Y., Jan. 31—(AP)—Charles A. Levine flew his trans-Atlantic monoplane Columbia today for the first time since it crashed in Italy last October, and then announced that a non-stop flight to Havana would be attempted early next week.

Levine spent four hours in the air this afternoon with Wilmer Stultz, original pilot of the ill-fated Dawn, and when they landed said that Stultz would be his co-pilot on the Havana trip.

Miss Mabel Boll, known as the Queen of Diamonds because of the profusion of her jewels, will be a passenger, Levine said, and exhibited a special compartment built into the plane for the wealthy woman.

AGED WOMAN HELPLESS AS HUSBAND BURNED TO DEATH

NEW YORK, Jan. 31—(AP)—An aged woman who was obliged to stand helplessly by and watch her bed-ridden husband burn to death tonight when an oil heater ignited the bed clothes, was sent to the psychopathic ward at Bellevue hospital, crazed by the experience.

Police and firemen found Richard Riley, 85, in a mass of flames in his bed, in the old frame house occupied by the couple. They were unable to save him. The wife, Catherine, 80, was carried to safety. A physician called to attend her ordered her sent to the mental ward of the hospital.

PLANES FAIL TO SIGHT REBELS IN NICARAGUA

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Jan. 31—(AP)—For the fourth consecutive day airplane patrols returning from flights over Quilali and El Chipote today reported the absence of any sign of rebels.

Marine corps officers here believe the rebel general, Sandino is trying to gather and reorganize his forces which were badly demoralized by an airplane attack on El Chipote two weeks ago.

Airplane ptrols now reconnoitring in trouble territory cover a greater area than formerly, as the arrival of new planes has made possible larger patrol.

Boy Sent a Ransom Letter to Parents

Said He Had Run Away From Home and Became Desperate For Money.

ALHAMBRA, Calif., Jan. 31—(AP)—Nathan Sherman, a school boy, whose parents received a letter today demanding $200 ransom after he had been missing two days, was taken into custody by authorities today when he went to the San Diego post office for a letter containing the money.

Police said the youth admitted writing the "ransom letter" himself and he was held for his parents.

The boy said he had run away from home and became desperate for money when the small amount he had with him had been spent.

The idea of "ransom money" seemed the easiest way to get money from home, he said.

NOT TO WITHHOLD PAY OF INDIANAPOLIS EMPLOYES

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 31—(AP)—The most important development in Indianapolis' mayoralty fight—at least to thousands of school teachers, policemen, firemen and other city employes—was the announcement late today by Treasurer Clyde E. Robinson that he would honor their pay vouchers tomorrow morning.

Treasurer Robinson decided to honor pay vouchers bearing the signatures of Mayor L. Ert Slack and Sterling R. Holt, city comptroller, after a conference with his attorneys. A total of approximately $200,000 was involved.

Edward H. Knight, city attorney, said the interests of the municipal employes would be protected. He held that Robinson already was under court orders to honor vouchers bearing Slack's and Holt's signitures, and promised contempt proceedings in the event the money was not given.

With Mayor Slack, a democrat, still in the executive office and ignoring the action of the city council which yesterday rescinded its election of him, the situation generally remained unchanged. Ira M. Holmes, republican attorney, said he would fight for the office only through the courts and not attempt to take charge as he did several months ago when the mixup occurred.

Joseph L. Hogue, the other republican who has laid claim to the mayoralty, remained silent. He said his whole case rested with the Indiana supreme court.

DEPOSITIONS READ IN HICKMAN SANITY TRIAL

HALL OF JUSTIC, LOS ANGELES, Jan. 31—(AP)—The asserted indications of insanity in William Edward Hickman were tracked from his Arkansas ancestors down through the troubled domestic life of his mother to center upon the mentality of the kidnaper-killer himself in his sanity trial here today.

Depositions read into the record by the defense included testimony that Hickman's grandfather, Otto Buck, was considered "crazy."

The the defendant's mother, Mrs. Eva Hickman, once was confined in the Arkansas State hospital for nervous diseases at Little Rock.

That his father, Thomas Hickman, deserted the family.

That the youth underwent a mental transformation after losing an oratorical contest while in high school in Kansas City.

In a deposition given by Don Johnson, a schoolmate of Hickman, the defendant was pictured as a brilliant scholar at Central High school in Kansas City, who turned morose over defeat in trials for the national oratorical contest in 1925.

After losing contest, Johnson said, Hickman resigned from clubs at the school, took little interest in his work and was embittered.

GROUND WAS ONCE OWNED BY JOHN QUINCY ADAMS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—(AP)—A suit to recover ground in Rock Creek park here formerly owned by John Quincy Adams, sixth president of the United States, and for 19 years used as a burial plot for negroes, was filed here today by six residents of Rhode Island, Massachusetts, New York and Georgia.

The plaintiffs, who claimed to be heirs-at-law and next of kin of President Adams, said the land, turned over to the Colored Union Benevolent association in 1870 for $2,500, had been abandoned by the latter as a burial ground since 1889 and therefore should revert to the heirs of the original owner. The land is now appraised at $285,000.

The plaintiffs are John Quincy Adams Johnson and William C. J. Doolittle, of New York; Eben S. Doolittle, of Rhode Island; Erskine Clement, Jr., and Louise C. Clement, of Massachusetts, and Charles A. Doolittle, of Georgia.

S-3 REPAIRED RADIO AND THEN REPORTED HERSELF

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31—(AP)—The submarine S-3, which was lost from sundown Saturday until last night, evidently "found herself." Secretary Wilbur said today that reports indicated the submersible repaired a broken radio and reported to sister ships in the control force, which for 24 hours had been in the midst of a frantic search for her off the North Carolina coast.

On account of the search the S-3 is expected to arrive at her destination, Guantanamo by, Cuba, well ahead of her companion craft.

While not worth a formal report, Secretary Wilbur said that the affair had "caused us to miss several heartbeats."

COMMITTEE HEARING ON FARM RELIEF BILL

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—(AP)—While the rift in the house farm bloc over the equalization fee of the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill apparently remained unchanged, advocates of that controverted provision continued today to have their innings before the agricultural committee and repeated their contention that no better price stabilization mechanism has been proposed.

Since the committee has agreed to hear the proponents of Chairman Haugen's bill, introduction of the export debenture farm relief plan of the national grange has been postponed by Representative Ketcham, republican, Mich. He said today that some minor details remain to be worked out in collaboration with grange officers.

LINDBERGH WAS PUNCTUAL IN FLIGHT TO ST. THOMAS

Made Circular Flight Covering 1,050 Miles in 10 1-4 Hours—Residents of St. Thomas Gave the Good-Will Ambassador a Rousing Welcome—The Lone Eagle Guided the Spirit of St. Louis as Steady as a Clock—A Presidential Salute of 21 Guns Announced to Virgin Islanders That Lindbergh Had Arrived.

ST. THOMAS, Virgin Islands, Jan. 31—(AP)—A presidential salute of 21 guns announced to Virgin Islanders today that Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh had completed another lap of his good will tour.

Rain cut down the size of the crowd at the golf course where he landed, but it was estimated that shouts of joy rose from 2,000 throats as he dropped out of the sky at the end of a 1,050 mile segment of the Carribean circle he is negotiating. The hop from Caracas, Venezuela, required ten hours and fifteen minutes.

The entire region was warned of his approach by the firing of two cannon and the ringing of church bells. The city of St. Thomas went wild with excitement and enthusiasm when it knew that America's favorite flyer was near.

It had rained most of the day but shortly before the arrival the sun broke through the clouds to light up the golf course three miles west of the city, where bunkers, sand taps and other hazards had been leveled to give a broad fairway for the landing. Even after the appearance of the famous Spirit of St. Louis, there was a short period of suspense, as an aviator from Porto Rico made a test flight recently to try out the field and refused to risk landing.

Lindbergh, however, who alighted on a small athletic field at Belize, British Honduras, made an excellent landing. To the immediate cheers of the throng at the golf course was quickly added a salute of 21 guns from the town battery and the raucous of steamer whistles in the harbor.

When the flyer stepped from his machine he was given a bouquet by one of the Virgin Island belles and then escorted by the government secretary and the governor's chief of staff to where Captain Waldo Evans, U. S. N. retired, governor of the islands, was waiting in an open automobile.

After the governor greeted him, a procession formed and drove through the business section of Charlotte Amalie, chief town of the Island, to the governor's residence, where Lindbergh will be a guest.

Tumultuously cheering crowds greeted the cars at every foot of the way through the city.

TO STANDARDIZE CONTRACT IN THE MOVIE INDUSTRY

CHICAGO, Jan. 31—(AP)—A standardized contract acceptable to all moving picture producers, their agencies and independent exhibitors is under consideration here by six arbitrators representing producer and exhibitor factions of the industry. Three other arbitrators representing exhibitors affiliated with producers are sitting in at the session.

Arbitration was agreed upon last year following an investigation into the affairs of the Famous Players-Lasky corporation. The conference here is expected to develop a definite code of principles which will eliminate many alleged unfair trade practices.

The independent, or small theatre owners, attach unusual importance to the conference because of their claims that they suffered from the "block booking system" under which they had to take all of the films furnished by a producer, or were not allowed a choice. They termed these methods as a monopoly operating in restraint of trade.

The federal trade commission investigation, which resulted in the arbitration meeting now in session, undoubtedly will have a far reaching effect upon the industry in the opinion of H. M. Ritchie, secretary of the Independents.

Representing the producers are Felix Feist, of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer; James Grainger, Fox Film corporation, and Philip Reisman, of Pathe Exchanges, Inc. The independents are represented by R. R. Reichele, Kansas City, Don Bernstein, Los Angeles, and Nathan Yamins, Fall River, Mass.

CUT OF $1,078,000 IN AMOUNT ASKED BY ARMY AIR CORPS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—(AP)—A cut of $1,078,000 by the budget bureau in the amount requested by the army air corps for its activities during the fiscal year beginning next July 1, was disclosed today with the report to the house of the annual war department supply bill.

Assistant Secretary Davison, in charge of army aviation, under questioning by members of the house appropriations committee which drafted the bill said that in his opinion the amount approved by the budget was inadequate to carry out the second increment of the five-year army aircraft building program.

The measure, which was called up in the house for debate within a few minutes after it had been reported, asked for the appropriation of $308,666,000 for military and $80,433,000 for on-military activities of the war department. An additional $10,000,000 is carried for permanent annual expenditures by the department.

NIGHT AIRMAIL FROM CHICAGO AND DALLAS

CHICAGO, Jan. 31.—(AP)—Night flying of airmail and express between Chicago and Dallas will be inaugurated tomorrow night over the nation's second path of light, a 995-mile stretch illuminated by seventy-five 24-inch revolving electric beacons and many lesser flashes, or blinkers. Thus the great southwest and the remainder of the country will be brought 24-hour mail hours nearer each other.

The Chicago-Dallas route has been lighted under the direction of the airways division of the bureau of aeronautics of the United States department of commerce. It is the second lighted airmail and express route of this country. The first was the transcontinental line over which night flying has been in operation three years.

Heretofore, day planes only have been operated between Chicago and Dallas.

W. C. T. U. WARNS AGAINST REPEAL OF VOLSTEAD ACT

CHICAGO, Jan. 31.—(AP)—The United States would be plunged into industrial chaos by the repeal of the Volstead act, Mrs. Ella A. Boole told prohibition leaders of the nation tonight.

Speaking at a mass meeting of Women's Christian Temperance union officers and club women from six midwestern states, gathered here to inaugurate the presidential year dry crusade, the national W. C. T. U. president charged that advocates of repeal have failed to provide any means for control of the liquor traffic.

"Those who would repeal the Volstead act," Mrs. Boole said, would also repeat state enforcement codes, and the logical sequence would be liquor traffic unrestrained by federal or state law. The government would be powerless to supervise or control the manufacture, sale or transportation of intoxicating liquor, and even before prohibition such control was necessary and was provided. Repeal would abolish federal control of industrial alcohol and create chaos in the industrial world."

State presidents of the W. C. T. U. from Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Minnesota, Michigan and Wisconsin participated in the day's campaign conferences, devoting themselves to an effort to cement the forces of women voters in behalf of dry candidates for public office and dry planks in party platforms.

TO AID THE WIDOW OF GEN. GEORGE B. BELL

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—(AP)—A willingness to give all possible aid to the widow of Major General George B. Bell in her effort to collect her husband's government insurance in a lump sum was expressed today by Director Hins of the Veterans bureau.

By failing to declare himself totally disabled when he converted his war time policy last May, the commander of the thirty-third division in the World war disqualified his wife under the law from receving the full $10,000 insurance at his death. Instead she is receiving $57.50 a month, but representations have been made to the bureau that she is in need of the full $10,000 now.

General Bell's physician certified death was caused by pernicious anemia, contracted before he applied to convert his policy. The Veterans bureau is not allowed to make full payments under such circumstances but Director Hines said he would help the widow in any possible way to produce testimony disputing the cause of death as given in the certificate.

SHIPPING BOARD STEAMER AGROUND IN BOSTON HARBOR

BOSTON, Jan. 31.—(AP)—The shipping board steamer Chickasaw, which ran aground early today in Boston harbor, still was fast on Middle Ground, a harbor shoal, tonight. Tugs failed in an attempt to pull the vessel into deep water.

The Chickasaw was being brought up the harbor by a Boston pilot when she veered over and fetched up on the shoal. The vessel swung at right angles to the channel and remained hard and fast. The accident was due to the dense haze of the early morning.

The Chickasaw had taken on 2,000 tons of cargo at Baltimore and Norfolk and was to have loaded 1,000 tons more at Boston. Part of the cargo will be lightered tomorrow if another attempt at towing fails.

MRS. MATILDA GUILFOYLE RELEASED FROM CUSTODY

HARTFORD, Jan. 31.—(AP)—The state released Mrs. Matilda Guilfoyle from custody this morning after holding her since January 18 on a charge of breach of the peace following the mysterious shooting of Mrs. Clare Gaudet in a Maple avenue apartment house. The woman's husband, Dr. Harold N. Guilfoyle, a federal veterinary, is charged with the murder.

Dr. Guilfoyle, whose right eye was removed because of the bullet wound which the state claims was self-inflicted after he shot Mrs. Gaudet, is expected to be able to leave the hospital in a week, Judge Rosenthal said. The veterinary is reported to be rapidly improving.

MENTIONED AS CANDIDATE FOR SECRETARY OF STATE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Jan. 31.—Edwin J. Donnelly, manager of the Willimantic branch office of F. E. Kingston & company, of Hartford, is being mentioned in the republican political circles of Hartford as a prospective candidate for secretary of state at the next state election. Francis A. Pallotti's expressed desire to advance from the position of secretary of state has virtually left the field open for the latter office. Donnelly has taken his place as a political factor in eastern Connecticut within the last few years, coming to this section after important political affiliations in New York city. The prospective candidate is a graduate of Trinity college where he was captain of one of its greatest football elevens. He is the son of Samuel B. Donnelly, of Long Island, public printer during the Roosevelt and Taft administrations.

DECREASE OF $405,999 IN WINDHAM'S GRAND LIST

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Jan. 31.—The town of Windham's grand list, completed this morning at 2 o'clock by the town assessors, George E. Gifford, Chauncey E. Maclariane and Frank C. Smith, is now $17,743,526, a decrease of $405,999 over the list for the year 1926. The reduction, which is the first since 1919 is the result of a reduction of the list of the American Thread company, the closing of the Quidnick-Windham Manufacturing company and the removal from the city of the S. C. S. Box shop. The list is compiled on the basis of divisions, the west division including the city of Willimantic and the east division the three Windhams, known as North, South and Windham Center. While the west division shows a loss of $418,167, for the reasons stated above, the east division has increased $14,164 over 1926.

In 1911 the grand list was but $6,859,693. In 1912 a revaluation of the property was made and this resulted in a notable increase to $14,147,188 for that year. There has been a gradual increase annually since 1912 with the exception of 1919 when a decrease of $75,859 was noted. The total increase during the past 15 years has been $3,696,837.

The loss in valuation is accompanied by a halt in the steady increase in the number of the lists. For 1927 there are 3,690 lists, as compared to 3,693 in 1926. The lists have been filed by 3,439 residents and 251 non-resident taxpayers.

A greater decline in property valuations is expected when the board of relief has completed its work. About $160,000 will comprise exceptions granted to ex-service men and others as allowed by law. The 1927 grand list has been turned over to Town Clerk Frank P. Fenton who will hand it to the board of relief for the first session of that body at the town building Wednesday. When the relief work is completed a special city meeting will be called to levy a tax on the list. At present the tax rate is 14 1-2 mills. On the 1927 list this tax would net about $256,000. To this amount is added miscellaneous sources of income including school tuition, personal tax, etc. It is interesting to note that in 1926 there were 341 non-resident taxpayers in the west division assessed at $1,360,660, while for 1927 in that division there are but 180 assessed at $1,453,929.

Walter S. Barnes, manager of the local Church-Reed company, was heard in an interesting talk on Business Methods at the weekly luncheon-meeting of the Willimantic Rotary club held in the Nathan Hale hotel this noon. The program on business ethics had been arranged by Louis H. Arnold, chairman for the month, and was to have included talks by P. D. Donahue and Mr. Marnes, but the former absent due to illness. To President Richard E. Dodge's announcement of the forthcoming Rotary International convention at Minneapolis, Minn., ext Jue, four members signified their intention of attending with their wives as guests. They are: Richard E. Dodge, Dr. R. Bullock Jones, Kenneth N. Hillhouse and Louis A. Kingsbury. Kenneth N. Hillhouse was named as chairman of the On to Minneapolis committee. Aime J. Martineau was appointed as chairman of a committee to head a delegation to the charter night of the new Ware, Mass., Rotary club, Wednesday evening, February 15. Announcement was made that Willimantic continues to lead the eastern Connecticut Rotary attendance contest which now enters upon its fifth week. John C. Frazier led in special song numbers with John T. Quinlan at the piano.

Other guests were George E. Stiles of the Exchange club, accompanied by Walter Abbee, and William S. McNamara, of Boston, Mass., with George H. Shafer.

A lively hearing on the matter of claims for damages incurred through the proposed grading of Tingley street was held at the council chamber of the town building Monday night by street committee, Alderman Oliver L. Willard, William E. Jackson and Arthur J. Dubreuil. There were ten property owners present and four of these, Christopher C. Case, Willard H. Smith and Carl R. Alford, of Windham street, and A. W. French, of Prospect street, signified that they were entitled to damages, claiming that the rear sections of their property would be affected by the proposed new grades. Edward J. Eagan, William Piche, William F. Lenon and John Shea said that the change would put them to some expense but they would bear the cost provided that the lines and grades were carried out according to the plan of the city engineer. Alderman Willard, one of the property owners, claimed no damages or benefits. Herbert L. Sanderson said that there would be benefits and damages in any case and he expressed the hope that the street would be graded and connected with Main street. Mike Mazzola said that in order to connect the new street with Main street, a house which he had purchased from the Quidnick-Windham Manufacturing company would have to be moved about ten feet and he felt the city should bear part of the expense. In closing the hearing, the street committee reserved its decision.

Another hearing was held on the matter of regrading and reestablishing lines on Wilson street, to secure proper drainage. There were no claims for damages. The committee will make a report at the February meeting of the common council.

DANIELSON

COMMITTEE APPOINTED TO REVISE BOROUGH'S BY-LAWS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, Feb. 1—Only a score of people came out tonight for a special borough meeting held in the town hall at 7:30. Its purpose was to appoint a special committee to revise and modernize the by-laws of the borough, that they may adequately serve for use under the new charter approved for Danielson at the last session of the legislature. In 1854 Danielson was first granted a charter as a borough. Since then many by-laws have been made and in the meantime with changed conditions a great number of them have become obsolete.

The work o fthe committee appointed tonight will involve throwing out all antiquated by-laws and drawing new ones as required to cover sidewalk regulations, sewers, health, fire, building lines, etc. All of this was explained to the meeting by Judge Savin S. Russell. The committee named to do the wor kwas made up of Wardens Harry E. Back, Walter Anderson, who did months of work in preparing the new charter, R. D. Banigan, and Attorney E. L. Darbie.

Mr. Anderson said that it would be impossible for him to serve on the committee for a lack of time, but that he would render them every assistance possible. On motion of Judge Russell the meeting arranged that the committee might appoint in Mr. Anderson's place. This committee will compare a revision of the by-laws of the borough and any new ones they may regard as necessary and will report at the annual meeting in April or possibly at a special meeting prior to that time.

Warden Back presided as chairman of the meeting and Frank T. Preston as clerk.

COURT APPEARANCES FOR DELINQUENT TAX PAYERS

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Jan. 31—The drive to collect all of the personal taxes assessed in the town of Killingly will practically come to a close with the court appearances of delinquents that are scheduled for Wednesday. Collector Arthur A. Dean said this afternoon that the collections are already 99 per cent complete.

Within the past few days the alias tax warrant has been brought into use in this town to expedite collections. The use of these warrants in the hands of a constable has been effective. One such warrant developed an amusing and interesting experience and also afforded an opportunity to illustrate just how far some will go in their efforts to avoid paying a personal tax.

The alias warrants have been used only in the outlying sections of the town, to give those who would pay a chance to do so at home and at a slightly lower cost than would be involved in a court appearance. Under this process one pays immediately, turns over goods that may be sold for a sufficient sum to pay the tax—or goes to jail.

One woman served with such a warrant allowed she would not pay the tax. She said she had no money. She finally agreed that she would go to jail. She was told to make ready for the trip over to Brooklyn and proceeded to do so. When she reappeared she was wearing an expensive fur coat, which coat gave the constable a rather nifty idea.

He informed the woman that when she entered the jail the coat would be taken from her and placed in a bag with the coats of other prisoners and that as prisoners were released they took their pick of any coats happening to be in the bag at that time. "Well, I am a good sport; let's go!" the woman is quoted as having told the officer. She was well outside the door on the way to the officer's car when she suddenly flashed a $10 bill and told him to take out the tax money. He did. "You don't think I am a fool, do you?" she inquired. His answer was "No, but a mighty good actress."

So there is an illustration of how far the town has to go to get some of the money owed it on personal tax assessments. But get it it does.

A galaxy of contributors to The Bulletin's Social Corner department—the members of Club No. 4—and some visiting members, were in happy congregation here today at G. A. R. hall. About 50 were in attendance and were largely representative of Danielson, Dayville and other communities of the town of Killingly, of Putnam, Moosup, Central Village and other sections of Plainfield. At noon a dinner of such bounty was served as to attest the open handedness of the members who brought the food. The dinner hour was a happy one, indeed. At roll call the members responded and each had some interesting paper to read or some special thing to say, and it was all very pleasing. The committee in charge was made up of Mrs. Theodore Bailey, Mrs. M. Genivieve Leech, Mrs. Frances Sayles, Mrs. Ida Blanchard and Mrs. Mab Sayles.

This morning at 11 o'clock, at the home in Dayville, funeral services for Clarence C. Harris, Sr., were conducted by Rev. William Swainson, pastor of the Congregational church at that place. Mr. Harris died Sunday. The body was taken to Ashaway, R. I for burial. L. E. Kennedy was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

All shipments of the new textolite picker which E. H. Jacobs Manufacturing company is to distribute for The General Electric company and which are destined for points in the United States, South America and India are to be made from Danielson. This was made known today. The pickers are being manufactured at Lynn by The General Electric company. The shipments out of Danielson will boost the postal receipts of the Danielson office and also be beneficial to the express company having an office in this place.

With uncertainty existing as to what will be done with the plant in which operatives have earned millions of dollars in wages, Danielson, and particularly the chamber of commerce, is now concerned with finding some industry to replace that conducted by the Connecticut Mills here for nearly a score of years. This may or may not prove a difficult undertaking. It has received consideration even prior to this time, but without definite results as yet. The fact that the plant is a very good one and so well located, with a long railroad siding, are factors that will help in interesting some industry in taking it over. Only a comparatively few persons are now employed at the mill.

The plentiful and interesting publicity that Hugh Duffy, famous baseball player has received of late, recalled to the mind of Judge W. Fenner Woodward this morning that he, as a boy, saw the famed Hughie make a play that has ever since stood out above all others he has witnessed. It was at Jewett City in the days when Duffy was beginning to make his climb toward the hall of baseball fame. That particular summer Judge Woodward was staying with his grandparents over in Lisbon. Coming over to Jewett City to see a town game he was amazed as Duffy cleared a fence in a graceful leap to pull down a long, high hit that looked good for a home run. "It was an amazing play," Judge Woodward said today, "I have never seen one as good."

Today there came the suggestion that the chamber of commerce might lend its services, if it will, to a public service that would be pleasing to several hundred people throughout the town of Killingly. The plan involves the interesting of the Eastern Connecticut Power company, the Southern New England Telephone company and individuals in making a survey with a view to clearing "grounds" and other situations that make radio reception little less than terrible at times. Radio fans are requesting this survey on the very good ground that many of them use electricity in operating their sets, that the telephone company is closely allied with a great broadcasting system and that they are entitled to the good reception that would be possible if the things complained about were overcome. It is also held that the matter should be of prime interest to dealers in radio sets and supplies. It is appreciated that the wire service companies are not exclusively responsible for the disturbing noises that ruin the pleasure of receiving set owners. Here and there are privately owned electrically operated devices that are sources of trouble. Wind storms of the past fortnight that have caused limbs to fall and to make many new grounds figure in the request of the radio fans that something be done to clear them. The proposal is of interest to a great many people and likely will get consideration.

This week Wdenesday afternoon at the Methodist Episcopal church Park Pressey of Boston will address the members of the Killingly Woman's club on the subject Historic Homes of New England.

A meeting of the Woman's auxiliary of St. Alban's church is to be held Thursday afternoon at the Parish house.

W. Irving Bullard left here today for New York to sail Wednesday on the liner George Washington for a business mission in France and England.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Chadbourne of Charlotte, N. C., are visiting in Danielson.

This the last day of the ice fishing season was so ideal for an outing on lakes and ponds that an unusually large number of sportsmen went out from Danielson.

Nathan Blumenthal has been ill at his home on Winter street the past few days

The opening of this particular February brings to mind that it is of a leap year, and that it will bring a birthday to several people in this town who have not had one for four years.

The condition of E. O. Wood at the hospital in Putnam was not quite so favorable today as was the case yesterday, though hopes for his ultimate recovery are maintained.

Assistant Postmaster Earle F. Winslow has been at Carolina, R. I., on a business trip.

Attendance at the evening school, holding sessions in the high school building, is well maintained and those taking the courses are making good progress with their studies.

The Eastern Connecticut Power company is extending its line farther east on East Franklin street to bring service to a shop being built in that section for Norman Ross and to dwellings just beyond that point.

February 1, is to be marked by the holding of the county fruit institute at Masonic hall in South Woodstock under the auspices of the Windham County Farmers' association and associated organizations. It will attract a considerable attendance from this immediate vicinity.

Miss Annie Sullivan, who died at Preston, was at one time a resident of Danielson and also had been engaged as a hairdresser in Putnam.

A greater egg production than ever before in this section is forecasted by the advance orders for baby chicks and the development of poultry plants in nearby communities.

This month the regular meeting of the selectmen comes on February 8.

Some cases of chickenpox, with children as patients, require the continuance of a quarantine at the homes in which the children live.

PUTNAM

PLAY PRESENTED BY DUDLEY GRANGE MONDAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Feb. 1—Members of Dudley grange came to Putnam Monday evening and presented "An Afternoon In a District School." The play was presented in the basement of the First Baptist church to a very large attendance. Many of the audience looked back a number of pages in their lives when they saw the characters in the cast appear on the stage to the times when they were in such a school. Many of the antics the American youth boasts of accomplishing in school were demonstrated in the play.

During the time between the acts, there were musical selections by the church orchestra under the direction of Samuel Rich. The evening at the church was well enjoyed by all who attended.

A bridge whist was given for the benefit of the guild at St. Philip's church today by Mrs. Andrew V. Frost at her home on Sunnyside avenue. The party was a success financially and socially. There were 15 tables in play. At the end of play there was a prize for the highest scorer at each table.

Since the government has opened enlistments in the national guard outfit in this city, Captain John J. McGarry of the Hq. Co. of the 43rd Div., has signed up many recruits. The following have enlisted since the first of the year: Emar Hansen, Schuyler Phillips, John H. Chapman and Frederick H. Scranton.

Captain McGarry has stated that he can enlist a few more in the company before the enlistment quota is filled. There are many advantages to any boy belonging to the company and anyone interested should see Captain McGarry for further particulars concerning enlistment.

When the Hammond hall is completed, it will be one of the best armories in the state. Captain McGarry has stated that the armory will have quarters for the enlisted men set apart from the drill hall. This feature will afford many men the pleasure of a club room. In National Guard Military service a man is exempt from personal tax and each man receives pay for the training he gets. Two weeks in the year the company is in camp for special fifteen days active training. The annual encampment is a vacation with the extra camp pay. All uniforms and equipment are free.

Patsy Pearlie was in court again today. He was arrested Monday by Captain Jarvis, of the local police. This morning his case was brought up before Judge Geissler Pearlie had three counts against him, drunkenness, assault and breach of the peace. He pleaded guilty to all three counts. Pearlie stated that he had not been working. The judge ordered the case to be put on file to be continued later.

Pearlie has been in the local police court many times He was sentenced to a prison term a few years ago for attacking a railroad officer. Since then he has appeared for other minor cases. His arrest was made upon complaint from his wife.

The installation of the L'Union St. Jean Baptist was held in St. Jeane's hall Sunday at 2 p. m. The newly elected officers were installed by Secretary General of the Order Elie Vasina and staff, of Woonsocket. Both the L'Union of St. Jeane Baptist and the women's auxiliary were installed in office by the staff. The officers of the L'Union installed were: Honorary president, A. A. Brodeur; Doyen, Joseph A. Vandale; president, Henry N. Benoit; vice president, David D. Beausoleil; recording secretary, Joseph Rivard; precepteur, Adulard Paulhus; treasurer, Adolphus Gregoir.

After the installation of officers there were talks by many of the representatives of the neighboring societies. Mr. Vasina gave a very interesting address on the work of the order throughout the country. Rev. U. O. Bellerose, pastor of St. Mary's church and chaplain of the organization, spoke briefly on the society's principals and work. After the speaking, refreshments were served by the Ladies' auxiliary.

The Garde Jeane D'Arc, the girls' drill team, gave an exhibition of their skill, which was followed by an exhibition of the Garde Foch, the boys' drill team. Both drills pleased the crowd and the steps that they exhibited were well prepared and executed.

There were many members of the organization present at the meeting and there were many from out of town; the large auditorium being filled to its capacity.

The Elks and the Masons held their weekly card tournament at the Masonic club this evening. The Elks came out ahead at the end of the play with a score of 13 to 8 in their favor. This was the eleventh encounter of the annual winter contest and so far this season it looks as if the "Brother Bills" are to win again this year. The Masons, however, have a good chance to overcome the big lead the members of the Elks club have over them, before the end of the tournament and the defeat this evening has made them more determined to give the victors a set-back next Monday evening at the Elks' club. At the end of the play, the Masons served a light lunch to the Elks at the reception room in the Masonic club.

The office of Henry N. Benoit, judge

Whether to break up a cold, or relieve the serious pain from neuritis or deep-seated rheumatism, there's nothing quite like Bayer Aspirin. Just make certain it's genuine; it must have Bayer on the box and on every tablet. REVALUATION AND EQUALIZATION

Under the laws of the state, on the statute books for over ten years, a revaluation of property for tax purposes is required of the towns every decade. Norwich has made no such revaluation since 1860. The property has been assessed each year but such valuation has not been brought up to date. The result is that a ridiculous situation in regard to tax values has existed for a long time and to the detriment of the community.

The situation is one which has long since been receiving the attention of the state tax commissioner, who has the authority and contemplates coming into Norwich and making a revaluation unless Norwich takes the initiative and complies with the law. Needless to say Norwich would be obliged to accept such action by the tax commissioner whether it liked it or not. That is not desired. Norwich can and should handle such matters itself. It has in fact gotten to the point where it must do something or it will be done for it with nothing to say except foot the bill.

When the citizens directed the assessors to make a revaluation of the town back in 1925 no definite time was set in which it should be completed. The assessors were on record at the time in favor of such work being done but by experienced outsiders, but they have given what time they could to it and now consider it indefinite as to when time will permit them to complete it. From the progress made it will take years. But in view of their efforts since, as well as their opinions before, the assessors are more convinced now than ever that such revaluation should have been undertaken by outside expert assistance. In the meantime the state tax commissioner is threatening to do what he believes has been too long delayed.

In view of the situation Norwich cannot fail to regard with interest and approval the action taken by the directors of the chamber of commerce in an endeavor to bring about a reassessment and equalization of property values through the appropriation of a sufficient sum to have this work done by outside assistance in the shortest possible time. We have dawdled long enough. We have tried a compromise recommendation against the advice of the assessors and it has not worked as desired. The desire now is to put experts on the job and have it finished possibly within a year.

Norwich has long known the situation that exists. It ought not to have waited to be prodded into action by the state, but inasmuch as it is not complying with the requirements of the state law it must appreciate the importance of putting through a revaluation by its own arrangement rather than be obliged to stand the undesirable publicity of having the state do it. Norwich has good reason to get back of this effort and obtain the remedy for a handicap which has too long prevailed.

DEER DEPREDATIONS

Many farmers in Connecticut will be interested in the efforts which are being made before the Massachusetts legislature for the adoption of new legislation which will give the tillers of the soil and orchardists better protection against deer.

Massachusetts has a limited season during which deer can be hunted, but it is claimed that deer are on the increase and that they are constantly doing much damage to the crops and trees. It is believed that the increase of the open season on deer would serve to reduce the number and give protection which is justified.

What Massachusetts will do is not indicated. The farmers and orchardists have presented their position clearly and strongly. They admit that where trees are killed by deer that it is possible to obtain compensation from the state, but when they are paid a few dollars for trees destroyed, the rate being a dollar for each year of growth, they are not compensated for the benefits that would accrue from those trees if allowed to develop. Such compensation does not replace what has been taken away while the destruction of crops means a serious loss to the farmers.

Deer have been protected out of sentiment. They are interesting to watch and the idea of harming them is not held by many, yet it rests with the farmers to stand the expense of their fodder and to tolerate whatever damage they do with slight chance of recompense. Had the idea of protection for deer never been upheld by legislation there would not exist the problem of controlling them that prevails today, there would not have been the damage to crops and trees and there would not now be a demand for a longer open season for them. They are pretty creatures but they are misplaced when the owners of farm land, gardeners and orchardists are required to tolerate their depredations. At least that is the way many Massachusetts farmers feel about it.

OUTLAWING SUBMARINES

No matter where they happen, the more accidents there are the greater is the demand for methods of preventing them. When the S-51 was sunk there was believed to be good and sufficient reason for avoiding such disasters. When the S-4 was sent to the bottom with its entire personnel more attention was directed to the dangers which surround the submarine under all conditions, and consequently there was a call for the development of better safety devices as well as additional methods of raising the underwater boats in case of such accidents.

The loss of the S-3 proved to be only temporary, but the whole series of accidents to submarines lends strength to the demand which has been freely made from time to time for the abolition of the underwater boats.

Those who have taken such an attitude in the past have had in mind the havoc which such war vessels accomplish in their attacks not only upon other warships but upon merchant vessels, and they have been actuated by a desire to have all countries abandon such naval equipment. It cannot be said that much progress has been made by such endeavors. There has been, in fact, a decided unwillingness on the part of nations to consider the limitation, to say nothing of the elimination of the submarine.

Nevertheless every time an accident of serious character happens to an underwater boat it stresses the dangers which attend such craft even during times of peace, and there cannot fail to be attention given to the conditions under which the crews of those vessels work and the perils which they have to face even though they never become involved in actual warfare.

Each accident or disaster furnishes a reason for directing attention to safety appliances, but it also lends support to the demands for the outlawing of the submarine which those advocates are bound to make the most of.

GETTING THE LATEST NEWS

New York, Boston and other large city papers coming into Norwich Tuesday morning carried the information that naval vessels were still looking for the submarine S-4 which was missing with its crew of 41 men.

Readers of The Bulletin had previously received information to the effect that the missing submarine had been located, that it was safe and proceeding on its way to Guantanamo, the point for which it was headed when it disappeared in a storm.

This brings to attention once more the fact that The Bulletin is furnishing news of important events throughout the world long after big city papers have gone to press. Printed at or about midnight, it is impossible for the papers which must come from a distance to handle events and developments which break after that hour. It is, however, a part of the regular service of The Bulletin to furnish the news of the latest developments up to within a brief time before going to press and hours after metropolitan papers have run off their mail editions.

Through the channels of the Associated Press the report of the finding of the S-3 was received about 2 o'clock Tuesday morning, but in plenty of time, as is the case each morning to be printed in the regular edition of The Bulletin. It is a service that means the latest news for the breakfast table and readers cannot be unmindful of its value. The public in general was deeply interested in the fate of the missing submarine and once more learned to look to the local paper for the correct and latest information.

FIELD MARSHAL HAIG

Field Marshal Haig, who was in command of the British forces on the western front during the World war, was one of the conspicuous leaders in that great struggle. He was guiding British expeditionary operations in the days of that famous retreat to the Marne, won honors in the Aisne campaign and successfully defended Ypres against the German attack. He succeeded Sir John French as commander in chief of the British army and held the utmost confidence of the British public even though there were influences in London which sought to replace him. He stuck to his task in spite of the failure to get much needed support and gave utterance to that famous phrase that the British were fighting with their backs to the wall. Those were dark days but there was no lapse of British courage under his leadership.

It was during this time that it became apparent that there must be unity in the direction of the allied forces. Haig lent his cooperation in the choice of Foch as the one leader of all forces and thereafter gave his steadfast support to the French general in all operations and his name was ineffaceably placed among the prominent leaders of the war. He proved himself to be one of his country's great fighters, not only against the enemy but against those who were endeavoring to undermine his influence and replace him in control of the British forces. Like others, he was not without his shortcomings, but they did not eclipse the fact that he was a leader of tact and patience and held in the highest esteem by his country men.

His death, almost ten years after the opening of the final year of the war, was unquestionably hastened by the strain of that great struggle. More than the British appreciate the part which he has played as a military figure, and recognize the loss that has been sustained in his death.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Is it going to be a winter without the jingle of the sleigh bells?

The man on the corner says: Now for February, the short month with the big birthdays.

Even if the bootlegger's prices are high he seems to be able to do a steady and profitable business.

One great trouble with the wind storms this winter is that they show no respect for speed regulations.

Would the construction by this country of the biggest navy in the world promote the cause of outlawing war?

BACK TO NATURE

"What in heaven's name," exclaimed Ma, "is that thing?"

"That," replied Pa, "is a health measure."

"Humph," said Ma. "It looks to me like a dog kennel for a dachshund." Pa gave her a wilting look, and went on unwinding wrapping paper from the spare parts of a long, thing object which looked, as Ma said, like an elongated dog kennel mounted on legs. Fully emerged, fully assembled, however, it proved to be a canvas folding cot, hooded from end to end by a canopy of heavy brown canvas, scattered here and there along its facades were screened windows, equipped with roller shades operated neatly from within. Pa was going back to nature. He was going to sleep outdoors.

"Betcha don't sleep out more 'an a week," prophesied Ma. Par bristled.

"What 'll ya bet?"

"Betcha the price of that kennel," said Ma, who had an eye to business and twenty years' experience with husbands.

"Fourteen dollars and eighty-five cents," proclaimed Pa, falling neatly into the trap. "Better start saving your money." And tying his bathrobe cord savagely about his middle, he shouldered his blankets and departed for the front porch, where, in the full glare of neighborhood curiosity, he had established his new bivouac.

Five nights slid by, and even Ma was almost ready to admit that her $14.85 had gone glimmering. And then came Saturday. Pa and his gang were going fishing, and Ma, knowing that they wouldn't be back till sundown Sunday, waved the departing car good-by from the front step, shoved the kennel back to the far end of the porch in case of rain, locked the front door and departed for Aunt Minnie's.

The rain came, wet and insistent. And in the enfolding blackness of 2 a. m. Pa slunk up his front steps. His eye lighted on the kennel. Fine! Wouldn't have to wake Ma. With the easy debonair of one who has the complete privacy of night, Pa slid out of his wet clothes, draped them over the porch swing, cantered nimbly the length of the porch, and dove into bed.

The church bells woke Pa. For a moment he lay basking in lazy luxury. Sunday! Wouldn't have to get up yet for a spell. Then another thought intruded. Clothes! Where the dickens had he left them? Great guns! On the porch swing! Cautiously he poked forth his head to gauge the sprinting distance to the swing. He withdrew it, turtlewise. The entire Jones family, in starched Sunday best, was enjoying its Sunday paper on its front porch.

Craning his neck, Pa made a survey of his audience. To the left were the Smiths, en masse. And across the street, up and down as far as Pa's limited vision served him, were families basking placidly in the Sunday morning calm, basking with the look of an all-day permanence.

Oh, well, decided Pa, Ma would be out for the milk soon. She would rescue him. He riveted his eyes on the screen door and waited—and waited.

That was funny—Ma always took in the milk before she left for church. Pa's roving eye lighted on the drawn parlor curtains. He stiffened into grim realization. Ma wasn't home!

Cold beads formed on his forehead and trickled down behind his ears. The kennel began to get uncomfortably warm. The sun was getting around to his corner of the porch. But still the neighbors read their papers on their front porches.

In desperation Pa lifted himself and gave a mighty shove. The kennel hitched a few inches. Pa hunched again. Another quarter inch. Not so bad at that! By mid-afternoon, maybe, he would get to the porch swing. Hunch, hunch, hunch.

Suddenly from Joneses' front porch rose a high treble.

"Mom, Mom, look! Mr. Porter's bed—it's movin'!" Pa sank back weakly. Excited comment from the Jones porch, surmounted by Mrs. Jones' determined, "I bet some daug or other has got into Mr. Porter's bed. I'm going right over and see."

Pa measured the distance between himself and the swing. Maybe with one good push he could reach his clothes before Mrs. Jones arrived. He lifted himself for one last, gigantic hunch. The kennel shot forward, tottered for one terrible moment, and then, kennel and Pa tilted off the top step and rolled ingloriously into the front yard.

Like a defunct warrior, they carried him, kennel and all, into his own parlor, and tactfully left him there.

Ma sauntered home in the Sunday twilight and found Pa sitting glum'y in the dining room, sucking his pipe and nursing a black and blue elbow.

"Hello, Pa," she said agreeably. Then, "Pa, the kennel ain't on the front porch. Do you suppose somebody's gone and stolen it?"

"Might have," said Pa. "I'm kind of tired sleeping in it, anyways. How would you like your bet paid? In cash?"—Exchange.

YOUR HEALTH

The Key to Health.

By A. J. Rongy, M. D., New York, Member Gorgas Memorial.

Life without health cannot be beautiful. Good health is synonymous with hope, ambition, and happiness. Illness spells despair, discouragement and misery.

A baby at birth is destined to last a certain length of time. It is nature's intention to keep everybody well. Accident, disease, and abuse often mar her plans, and the lives of many are cut short prematurely. Occupational hazards will ultimately be reduced to a minimum. Medical science is striving to eliminate disease. The abuse by the average person of his physical being can be lessened only by a proper conception of the fundamentals governing the processes of the deterioration of living things. A person under 45 years of age may take a chance at frolicking with nature, but once middle age is passed he must beware, otherwise he will be lost in the shuffle.

The key to good health cannot be found in general advertising axioms about health, nor can the conduct of life be standardized. Health is highly individualistic; every person must seek the best way for adaptation, so that he may survive. This, to the average man, is a difficult task, because he lacks the necessary knowledge. The intelligent physician should fill his gap; he, by study and observation of his patient, can guide him properly and teach him how to minimize the wear and tear on his constitution.

Medical supervision cannot and must not be impersonal. There is at present a tendency to seek medical advice from sources that have no means of familiarizing themselves with the peculiarities of the individual. It is the family physician who is trained in the part of medicine and its application to the individual.

No two human beings are alike in their physical and mental make-up. It requires a great deal of investigation on the part of the physician to acquire the necessary information, so that he may be able to institute intelligent supervision of the patient. The principles governing diet, exercises, and rest are not equally applicable to all. Certainly, the higher mechanism of life require close scrutiny. They vary in each individual. The kind of food, the type of exercise, the amount of rest cannot be prescribed in wholesale manner. Certain types of individual must not do what others may or should do. Work, play, and relaxation must not be carried on according to a stereotyped form.

Disturbance of bodily function, like loss of appetite, headaches, inability to sleep, obstinate constipation, sudden gain or loss of weight should be attended to early before organic changes actually take place. Above all, any deviation from the normal should be given immediate attention.

Medicine is an interpretative art. Each human being must be guided in accordance with his peculiarities, in that way only will good health be maintained and life prolonged.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Dr. Charles A. Eastman, who has gone to England to lecture to the school boys and girls of that country in the interest of the Brooks-Bright Foundation on the subject of Indian customs and their relations to the Caucasian, is a Sioux Indian chieftain and probably the foremost authority in America on Indian law and history. He is the author of a dozen books on Indian literature and lore. The career of Dr. Eastman has been interesting and varied. Born in Minnesota, the son of a Santee Sioux, he was graduated from Dartmouth college in 1887 and later attended Boston university. He was the representative and attorney for his tribe in Washington, and was later appointed United States Indian inspector. As national councilman of the Boy Scouts, Dr. Eastman has helped to organize Boy Scouts in many large cities of the country.

Stories That Recall Others

A Basket Full Of Air!

Mr. X. was driving a party of friends recently when the air in one of the tires leaked out. Mr. X. had no pump in the automobile. Several persons in the party offered a number of solutions to relieve the trouble. Finally Mrs. X said:

"John, leave the automobile here and you walk to the filling station for the air!".

Psychology Or Sisterhood?

Two girls, well along in their teens, who had been students of psychology and other things, were enjoying a warm drink. Close by sat a fond mother and a small boy, the boy too small to handle the responsibility of an ice-cream-laden teaspoon. The two girls put their heads together with sideway glances at the fond mother. Then one of them said: "Here's a dime that she can't do it!" Silently the other girl laid down her dime.

Patiently the fond mother plied the spoon, and presently took a good sized bite herself. "Pick up the money!" said the loser. "I might have known that she could not feed a whole dish of ice cream to that youngster without taking some of it herself!"

Former Norwich Leaders

Charles Lanman.

(From Norwich Bulletin, March 7, 1895.)

The death of Charles Lanman has recalled the following particulars in regard to that well-known author and artist. He was a student at the Norwich Academy as far back as 1833 and became a writer for The Weekly Courier in 1840, subsequently spending two years in New York city as a merchant's clerk. Of all the citizens of the metropolis he is the only one that can claim that twenty-two of his publications are to be found in the National library, and it affords us pleasure to submit the following authentic list of those productions, which, indirectly speaking, were the result of school life in Norwich, with which the Lanman family has long been identified:

WHAT A DOCTOR KNOWS ABOUT CONSTIPATION

There IS a way of overcoming the tendency to constipation. And here is how you can PROVE it.

The next time your bowels need any assistance, don't take the first laxative that comes to mind. Take one the druggist can assure you is made with CASCARA. Just as effective as using force, it helps make good blood. For cascara is nothing but the bark of a tree. The Indians chew this bark, and live to an old age without a day's sickness.

What happens when you cascarize the bowels? They will usually function well for SEVERAL DAYS. One more dose—no larger, and perhaps smaller than the first—and the bowels function of their own accord for a still longer time. Until you don't feel the need of any aid of any sort for weeks-on-end.

So, the only habit you get from cascara is that of natural and normal regularity. How different from things one must usually repeat on the morrow! Cascara is the ideal laxative; and the familiar little candy cascaret is doubtless its ideal form. Children beg for these tasty tablets, and many men and women wouldn't think of taking ANYTHING else for the purpose. And EVERY drug store has them.

CASCARETS
They Work While You Sleep!

Lady of leisure, jockey or bookkeeper—every one of us, no matter who we are, may offend unknowingly

Let's be honest about body odor

IT'S not a pleasant subject to talk about—but it's important that you face the whole truth about body odor.

You'll readily admit that body odor offends. You know you couldn't be attracted to anyone who was guilty.

But do you realize we are all subject to body odor? To live, we must perspire—constantly. And with activities indoors—in warmer, stuffier rooms—body odor is more noticeable than ever in winter.

Thousands guilty—and don't know it

Even on coldest days, our millions of pores give off invisible perspiration—often as much as a quart of waste every 24 hours.

Whether you see this body moisture or not, the odor is always there. And no one escapes it. Without taking precautions, everyone—regardless of occupation or position in life—may offend. And worst of all, we cannot tell when we are guilty.

For, once an odor becomes familiar, our own sense of smell becomes deadened to it. That's why even fastidious people often assume they are safe—when actually they do offend.

How millions prevent body odor

Yet it's easy to keep free from body odor. Just wash and bathe frequently with the most delightful toilet soap in the world—Lifebuoy—it deodorizes.

The same blandly antiseptic lather that helps protect health by removing germs—prevents body odor by purifying pores.

Millions have found that Lifebuoy also keeps complexions fresh and clear. They prefer it for every toilet purpose.

STOPS BODY ODOR PROTECTS HEALTH

KEEP STOMACH YOUNG!

Eat What You Want

When the food you eat goes into your acid-soaked stomach, it sours and can't digest, makes foul gas and souples. The blood takes these poisonous acids and carries them through the body. Naturally it makes you miserable and despondent, because your system is not nourishd—you lose weight.

Pape's Diapepsin dissolves the acids and sweetens the stomach. It digests the food; no more sour bile is taken up by the blood. Your appetite is like a youngster's again, and gradually you get back your health, flesh and energy.

Chew a tablet or two of Pape's Diapepsin after meals. It tastes good, and relieves the misery of indigestion in five minutes. It will keep your stomach young and vigorous so you can eat anything you want without being afraid of the consequences.

VERDICT FOR DEFENDANT ON HER COUNTER-CLAIM

A verdict for the defendant in the amount of $373.61 damages was returned by a jury in the court of common pleas at New London at 4:15 o'clock Tuesday afternoon in the case of Jonathan L. Johnson, of Putnam, against Margaret Curtin, of New London. The jury, which had the case under consideration for about 45 minutes, returned the defendant's verdict on a counter-claim against Mr. Johnson. The case was tried before Judge Charles B. Waller and a jury comprising the following:

New London, Francis P. D'Avignon, Edward J. Murray, Fred E. Denison, Jerome J. Collins; Groton, Philip O. Carter, George I. Burgess, Benjamin F. Allen; Montville, Raymond Palmer, Milton Mitchell; East Lyme, Clifford B. Carl; Old Lyme, Frank J. Howard; Waterford, Joseph Hardwick.

Mr. Johnson sued for damages of $500 as the result of an automobile accident in New London on September 12, 1926, and the defendant filed a counter-claim for damages of $1,000. The accident happened at the corner of Ocean and Lee avenues in New London. Mr. Johnson claimed that he was driving his machine in a northerly direction on Ocean avenue and that the defendant's machine, driven by Thomas Curtin, came out of Lee avenue at a dangerous rate of speed, without proper warning signal and crashed into his car.

Plaintiff claimed that repairs to his car amounted to $122.53, that his wearing apparel was damaged to the extent of $20, that personal injuries necessitated an outlay of $15 for medical and hospital attention and that he lost the use of the machine for 16 days, which represented a loss of $3 a day.

The defendant denied any negligence claiming that the plaintiff was negligent in the operation of the machine, that he was driving on the left hand side of the avenue and gave no warning signal. The defendant claimed to have paid out $285 for repairs on her machine, that she lost the use of the machine for a while and, that the accident depreciated the value of the machine.

Witnesses for the plaintiff included Jonathan L. Johnson, Putnam; Frank D. Bilven, No. 266 Ocean avenue, New London, brother-in-law of the plaintiff, and Geodge K. Crandall, of New London, civil engineer and surveyor. Thomas C. Curtin testified for the defense.

Attorney E. W. Perkins, of this city represented Mr. Johnson and Attorneys Arthur T. Keefe and Leon J. Beilsheim appeared for the defendant. The jury was given the case about 3:30 o'clock and returned the verdict about 4:15 o'clock.

Elmer P. Chappell and Theodore R. Chappell, both of Waterford, are made defendants in a $10,000 damage action brought as the result of a collision between the Chappell automobile and a wagon loaded with cabbages and chickens, by Wladstau Ploszay of Salem, according to papers returnable to the superior court.

According to the complaint, on Oct. 20, 1927, at 6:05 o'clock in the morning the plaintiff, was driving a wagon loaded with chickens and cabbages along the New London-Hartford turnpike in Waterford, on Flat Rock hill, when an automobile owned by Theodore Chappell and driven by Elmer P. Chappell, ran into the rear of the wagon, badly wrecking it and its contents and injuring the plaintiff.

The plaintiff claims that he lost cabbages to the value of $45.75; chickens to the value of $7.50; harness to the value of $75, and that repairs on the wagon cost him $110, while he paid $14 for veterinary services to his horse. He also claims that he was incapacitated for a long period of time, being unable to sell and deliver goods, for which work he would have received $60 a week.

MOVE TO SECURE OUTSIDE HELP TO FINISH UP PROPERTY REVALUATION

In the course of the industrial survey of Norwich, which John T. Alden of the Babson Statistical Organization is making under the auspices of the chamber of commerce, the first development to be made public is to focus attention upon completion of the work of tax equalization here. The plan favored is to secure outside help so as to have the work completed in the shortest possible time.

Consideration of this subject began after Mr. Alden and Secretary Walter H. Pilcher of the chamber of commerce had been in conference with State Tax Commissioner Blodgett in his office at Hartford, when Mr. Blodgett pointed out that immediate steps should be taken to ascertain the exact status of the re-assessment or tax equalization work being undertaken by the Norwich board of assessors.

Letters to Assessors

After having made a careful review of all the available data bearing on the subject, Mr. Alden addressed the following letter to Chairman Manning of the board of assessors:

Arad R. Manning, chairman, board of assessors, Norwich, Conn.

Dear Mr. Manning:

In studying local conditions in Norwich which are reacting unfavorably on the growth of the town and city I find that the matter of the unequal assessment of property within the town to be in a deplorable state and may be classed as a distinctly retarding factor. The citizens of Norwich have evidently given considerable attention to the matter and their committee held many meetings at which outside parties were invited to speak. The general sentiment appeared to be favorable to having the work done by outside parties who are experts in their line of work. The records show however, that the resolutions finally adopted at the special town meeting on June 2, 1925, were somewhat modified from those contained in the report of the citizens' committee.

The citizens at this meeting passed a vote directing the board of assessors to make a revaluation of all the taxable property in the town of Norwich, the work to be started immediately and be carried out as expeditiously as possible. As there has been no comprehensive revaluation in Norwich since 1860 and the state law passed in 1917 requires such work to be done once every 10 years, it is evident that Norwich should perform this task immediately, not only to remedy inequalities which have crept in through the course of time but to conform to the requirements of the state law.

There are a number of reasons why existing conditions should be remedied as soon as possible. The tax burden is not being borne in the proper proportion by the property owners of Norwich. Norwich has borrowed to the legal limit of its capacity and therefore its credit is impaired. The tax rate is the second highest in the state of Connecticut and this is keeping manufacturing concerns from establishing plants here.

It is now over two and one-half years since the citizens at a town meeting directed your board to proceed with the work of reassessment. Due to the importance of the subject, I would appreciate it very much if you could give me a statement showing what progress has been made in this work and just how long, in your opinion, it will take to complete the job.

Very truly yours,

(Signed) JOHN T. ALDEN.

Reply From Assessors

The reply of the assessors to this communication was made in the following letter under date of Jan. 18:

Mr. John T. Alden, care chamber of commerce, Norwich, Conn.

Dear Sir:

We carefully note the remarks in your letter of the 17th and would answer your questions as follows:

Soon after we were instructed to revalue the taxable property of the town, we began to study and look up methods and equipment. This occupied all of our time up to Oct. 1st of that year. On that date we were obliged to drop this matter and devote all of our time to the routine work of this office, receiving lists and perfecting the grand list, until Feb. 1st of the following year.

In the meantime, the office equipment and supplies were installed, so that during the spring of 1926 we were ready and did start to re-value the property. We continued on this work all the time when not interrupted with other necessary work of our office. One must remember that there has been a large amount of building and alterations going on in Norwich during the last several years. The assessors felt it their duty to follow up and personally inspect all of this work, and did so, and this has taken a large part of our time each year.

Up to date, we have placed land values on territory covered by five maps—this covers property lying between South and Asylum streets, and from the Shetucket river to a line east and west, running through Union square.

As to "how long it will take us to complete this work," we cannot say. We have started this work as above stated, and expect to continue, devoting all of our time to it when not engaged in routine work.

We are more and more convinced that we were right regarding the way this should be done, and refer you to our report to the special tax analysis committee, under date of Feb. 6th, 1925. This report you no doubt have on file in your office.

Trust this gives you the information desired, we remain

Your very truly,
ARAD R. MANNING,
FRED G. PROTHERO,
JOHN E. OAT,
Board of Assessors.

The statement referred to in the last paragraph of the letter has to do with a report made by the assessors to the tax equalization committee which served about two and a half years ago. In this letter the assessors gave it as their opinion that the "work of revaluation can be much more rapidly accomplished and better results obtained, if qualified experts can be secured to assist the assessors. Only such experts who have operated under some approved and well tried system should be chosen, for it is essential that the entire work should be completely within a comparatively few months."

The letter concluded as follows:

"From what we have learned of results accomplished in other cities, we believe that such appraisals will stand any test to which they may be subjected.

"As to the difference in cost between the work done by the assessors, and the work done by the assessors with the assistance of a firm of experts, we do not attempt to estimate, but we do believe that the saving in time, and the fact that when a re valuation is accomplished, Norwich would have a modern and up-to-date system, are both considerations worth far more than any difference there might be in the cost of the two methods."

Chamber Committee Acts

After consideration of this information on the subject, President H. D. Larrabee recently appointed a committee on taxation before which the recommendation of Tax Commissioner Blodgett and the other material came for consideration. Three meetings were held by the committee, one of these being with the members of the board of directors and other citizens.

At a special meeting of the directors at noon Tuesday, this special tax committee made its report which was accepted by the board. The report made the recommendation that the chamber of commerce take immediate action designed to bring about re-assessment and equalization through the appropriation by the town of sufficient funds to enable the town to engage outside assistance to complete the work within the shortest possible time, under a definite plan to be submitted by the chamber to a town meeting.

Plans are now being made to enlist the support of the chamber members in carrying out the committee's recommendations.

SUES HER LANDLADY FOR BEING EJECTED

Claiming that she was unlawfully ejected from her home at 1 o'clock in the morning; that her landlady wantonly and maliciously called her "bad names" and pulled out her hair, Evelyn L. DuMond, of Lyme, has instituted a $5,000 damage action against Sadie Weckler, of the same town, returnable to the superior court the first Tuesday in February.

The plaintiff claims that on Dec. 11, 1927, and for some time prior, she occupied and paid rent for a house owned by the defendant; that at 1 a. m. of the above date, the defendant "wilfully, maliciously and intentionally" threatened "to do the plaintiff bodily harm;" ordered her to leave the house at once; threatened and frightened her; pulled out her hair and humiliated her.

It is further alleged that the plaintiff was forced out of the house with her child and no place to go, without her goods and that she was compelled to beg a place to stay for the night. The plaintiff claims that she was obliged to employ a constable to regain her possessions.

AIRPLANES WILL FLY HARTFORD TO NORWICH

A squadron of airplanes is slated to arrive over the fair grounds this (Wednesday) afternoon at 1:50, flying here from Hartford to deliver to the local Hupmobile dealer a package of tickets for the Hupmobile treasure chest. The tickets had to be delivered to the local dealer in the shortest possible time and the flight of the planes from Hartford to this city was made partly with the idea of demonstrating the value of air transportation for speedy delivery of mail or merchandise.

Simultaneous with the appearance of the planes over the city, many local motorists received a letter from the local Hupmobile dealer, "Joe" Moore's garage, inviting them to participate in the Hupmobile treasure chest plan for Feb. 22, recipients of the letters being requested to obtain their tickets at the Hupmobile agency. Hupmobile dealers of Connecticut are cooperating to put on this event for the purpose of directing attention to the new Hupmbile sixes and eights.

BULLETIN HAD LATEST NEWS ABOUT SUBMARINE

The Norwich Bulletin is one of the few New England papers that carried the news of the safety of the submarine S-3 in the news columns Tuesday morning. None of the New York morning newspapers carried the news and it is said that only one Boston morning newspaper arriving here Tuesday published in its columns the news that the sub was safe and proceeding on its southern trip. In fact nearly all out of town papers carried stories to the effect that the navy was still conducting an intensive search for the missing sub. The Bulletin, as usual, gave its readers last minute information.

Helen Kendzior of Colchester sues for $5,000 injuries received when the automobile owned by Wojenti Malaczewski in which she was riding as a guest, was alleged to have been struck in the rear by the defendant car.

She alleges that the highway was icy and that the accident occurred about three-quarters of a mile south of Colchester, near Governor's Brook. It was alleged that the Malaczewski car came to a complete stop, while the defendant car, which was traveling behind it, failed to stop in time to avoid the collision.

Marion Kendzior, who was also in the Malaczewski car sues for $15,000 damages for personal injuries alleged to have been received.

NOLLE IN CASES OF FAKIRS OF HOLD-UP

At the Tuesday morning session of the city court the breach of the peace charges against James Murphy, 51, Hartford, and John Faircloth, 43, East Hartford, were nolled. They were arrested Sunday by the state police after they had confessed that a story they had told of being held up and robbed at the foot of Franklin hill, was false. They passed two days locked up at police headquarters as their cases were continued Monday until Tuesday morning to allow the authorities time to check up on the men's records.

The Buick sedan in which they drove to this city early Sunday morning has been attached by the Sallinger corporation of Boston and is held in storage at New London. The attachment is for a bill of $137 which Faircloth is said to owe the Boston corporation.

Mrs. Walter C. Robinson.

(Contributed.)

The community was saddened to hear of the death of Mrs. Robinson in Hartford last Thursday. Although being in poor health for a year or more, she bore it patiently, always praying and trusting in our Lord to help her. As a member of the Central Baptist church she always took so much interest in it, and in Class 32, of which she was a member. She always attended services while she lived in Norwich. She made many friends since she went to Hartford and where she will be sadly missed also.

She took so much comfort in her home and was always trying to make things pleasant for those around her. As a wife no one knows how she will be missed, and a truer, nobler mother never lived. Her heart and soul were devoted to her two girls, Pearle and Edna. She leaves five little grandchildren, Lucille, Walter, Doris, Junior and Carolyn Porter. What a lot of comfort she took when they were with her. She would always look forward to their visits when she knew they were coming and would have pleasant memories to stay with her for days after they had gone home. But God knows best, and as Rev. Dr. Pitt said at the funeral services and asked us all to remember, "Her Lent is over, her Easter begun."

FUNERALS.

Charles H. Standish.

Many relatives and friends attended the funeral of Charles Henry Standish which was held Tuesday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock at the parlors of Undertakers Church and Allen, No. 15 Main street. Rev. Dwight C. Stone of Hanover conducted the services and burial took place in the family plot at Hanover cemetery. Rev. Mr. Stone conducted the committal service. The bearers were Charles H., and Myles E. Standish, sons of the deceased, Norman S. Standish of Baltimore, Md., Walter Standish of Orange, N. J., and Edward H. Bingham of Hartford, nephews, and William G. Park of Hanover. There was a wealth of floral tributes of esteem.

WHITE LEGHORNS LOSE PLACE IN HONOR ROLL

The record breaking string of honor roll winnings by Broadview White Leghorns in the Storrs laying contest has been snapped at last. After eleven weeks, during which time these birds from Winsted, Conn., headed the honor roll for the greater part of the time, they slackened their efforts in the twelfth week and seven other entries registered better scores for the week. So outstanding has been the performance of the Broadview birds since the present competition started, a brief summary of their record to date may be of interest. In twelve weeks these pullets have headed the honor roll eight times, tied for first once, placed second two times, and in the past week they finished fourth. Their production of practically 86 per cent since the first of last November has enabled them to lay 722 eggs in twelve weeks, a score that places them first among all competitors for total production. They have piled up a 70-egg lead over the second high pen in the contest, and a 74-egg gain over the leading pen in last year's competition for a similar period of time. Moreover, their present score is 138 eggs better than first 12 weeks' lay of the Hollywood farm entry that last year set up a new Storrs record for pen production.

Two pens of White Leghorns owned by George Lowry of West Willington, Conn., and George B. Ferris of Grand Rapids, Mich., each laid 64 eggs during the past week to tie for first place on the honor roll. This is the highest weekly score made to date in the present contest, and it is a day of better than 91 per cent. Mention should also be made of the Amakasin farm entry of White Leghorns from Yonkers, N. Y., that placed third for the week with an output of 58 eggs. These birds stand fifth among the Leghorns and ninth among all competitors. Four entries tied for third place each with a score of 57 eggs. They include the Barred Rock pens owned by R. W. Davis and Sons from Rockland, Me., and R. Walter Bishop of Guilford, Conn., Rhode Island Reds entered by F. S. Chapin of Longmeadow, Mass., and White Wyandottes entered by Fisher Farm of Ayton, Ontario. The Broadview White Leghorns, as already mentioned, placed fourth for the week and with a score of 56 eggs.

In laying 5,590 eggs during the twelfth week the contest laid at a 55 per cent. rate, another increase in production. This is a gain of 274 eggs over the lay for last week and 888 eggs more than the score for the corresponding week a year ago.

TRUCK ON A RAMPAGE ENDS UP IN THE RIVER

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Jan. 31—A ton Ford coal truck of Frank N. Wilcox cut up didoes in Pawcatuck Tuesday forenoon and stopped only when it had broken through the ice and into the Pawcatuck river.

Driver Raymond T. Brown and helper delivered coal at the residence of James L. Savage, 60 Stillman avenue, Pawcatuck, and everything went well until the driver entered the house, just before starting away. He came out in time to see the empty truck without occupant dart across the lawn and pass over a wall into Stillman avenue. Crossing the street the truck headed down a steep bank into the empty lot across from the house, proceeding about fifty feet in a straight line toward the Pawcatuck river, a hundred feet away. A sharp left turn was made and the truck paralleled the river for a hundred feet and then making a quick right turn went through the shrubbery and onto the ice in the tail race of the Pawcatuck mill of The Fisk Rubber company. The weighty truck broke through the ice and stopped, right side up, in the center of the race with the radiator hood just below the surface of the water. Two planks laid from the canal bank permitted the operator to pass dry-shod into the truck body to salvage what he could from the cab. Later a wrecker derrick was backed up and the truck pulled out of the river without much damage.

Mrs. Fannie Surber, entertained callers Monday in celebration of her 82nd birthday which occurred the day previous. Among his guests was her daughter, Mrs. William C. Smith from New York. Cards, flowers, and other gifts were received. Refreshments were served to relatives, neighbors and friends.

SOUTHERN CHICKEN FISH CAUGHT BY SCHOONER BABY

The boat Baby was out to the fishing grounds near Block Island Monday morning and got 12 barrels of flatfish. Captain R. Brocky caught a southern halibut that weighed 14 pounds. It is called a chicken fish. To catch a fish like that in this part of the ocean has the old sea captains guessing. Never saw any thing like it for this is a southern fish running where the water is warm. The last southern fish was taken into the North dock by Boat Ada Bell 40 years ago and weighed nine pounds. Down at the packing house market the fish will be on exhibition to show how a southern fish looks in the water up north. Mate Brocky has sailed on the salt water over the white caps for the last 12 years and did not know what kind of a fish it was until the captain told him and now the blackfish fishermen can sit on the cracker barrels in the general store and wonder how that fish got up north so late in the season.

Mrs. Elizabeth Troland has returned to Lebanon after visiting her mother, Mrs. Susan Morgan for a few days.

Aunt Sarah Peabody club went by automobile to Waterford Monday evening and held a meeting at the home of Roy Olavson. Twenty no tobacco users gathered to hear George Phillips of New York tell how tobacco will hurt those that use it. "Look at me!" he said. "I have chewed snuff and even corn-silk and leaves since I was 12 years old until ten years ago when I had to get up during the night to have a smoke before I could close my eyes to the world. I feel great today, have gained ten pounds. I think this club is going to help the young set in the fishing village of Noank." For 30 minutes Mr. Phillips had the floor and was given a big hand as he finished his talk. President Flash McDonald asked the committee of three, Stretch Moran, William Franklin and Harry Johnson, "Have you gentlemen landed any more new members?" "Yes, we have—four new ones!" It was voted to put on a play in two weeks, to put money in the treasury. After the meeting a social hour was spent in the parlor. The Waterford Speed Boys' Singing orchestra, Welles Dimmock, leader, played for dancing. Miss Alice Hall and Miss Marguerite English sang several songs—"Not a Cough in a Carload—For We Don't Use Tobacco!" Edwin Thibodeau had a new saxaphone from England and he wanted to show the members how well he could play; so Miss Phylis Baunn was at the piano when Edwin gave a solo. Miss Florine Dimmock gave a hot dog coast, with cake and Niantic cream puffs to the members. Then as the clock struck one everybory sang "Good Night Waterford! Hello Noank!" and the automobiles left for this village.

Frank Muse has gone on a few days' visit in New York with friends.

Miss Dorothy Rathbun, after a short visit in Noank with her aunt, Mrs. Henry Langworthy, has returned to Norwich.

Captain Charles T. Potter of Norwich spent Tuesday in the village.

Fishing schooner B. M. Latham, owned by the late Capt. Latham, was purchased several years ago by a New York party. Coming from Georges Banks after a fishing trip she got caught in the winter's worst storm. She lost part of her sail and some rope. Coming into Fulton Market, her flag was half mast, telling the rest of the fishing boats that a member of the crew had been lost overboard. The wind blew him off the deck. The craft was covered with ice and was battered from the rough weather. Capt. Jackson said he never had put in such a trip at sea in his life. The boat tied up and unloaded her large catch of fish. The picture of the boat was in the New York papers and it recalled past years to the old sea captains that knew the boat so well and did not have to look twice to tell it was once a Noank fishing boat.

A meeting of the Modern Woodmen of America was held recently in Mechanics' hall. The lodge is trying to get back its old members who dropped out. The Woodmen is the oldest lodge in the village and District Deputy Joe Lynch, of New Haven, told how he would like to see young fellows in and have Noank go over the top on members. "That is the goal to reach," he said. "You can do it!" He installed the following officers: Councillor, Charles Butson; advisor, William Ellis; banker, William Holiday; clerk, Charles Zuccardy; sentry, John McDonald; escort, Charles Specht; watchman, Edward Hollins; trustees, John McDonald, for one year; Edward Rollins, for three years. About 50 attended the meeting. A lunch provided by the committee was corned beer sandwiches, cookies and cake, with coffee.

Frank Barlow of Ledyard was a recent caller on Noank friends.

Reddy Trots in Circles.

The roundabout way you will find, I suspect,
Will often prove better than one more direct.
—Reddy Fox.

Out on the Green Meadows sat Peter Rabbit. He was sitting up in the way that Peter does sit up. You would have known, even at a long distance, that Peter was fairly burning up with curiosity. His two long ears pointed straight up to the sky. He was gazing across the snow-covered Green Meadows to the edge of the Green Forest, where a little black speck was moving along. That black speck was Black Pussy the Cat. Peter knew who it was. That was one reason he was so curious. Black Pussy was hunting, and Peter was very curious as to whom she was hunting.

Out from the edge of the Old Pasture moved Reddy Fox. He was crouched low and he was moving very fast. He was moving straight toward Peter. Now, Reddy knew better than to think that he could steal up on Peter in the open. Yes, indeed, he knew better than that. He knew that before he could get near enough Peter would be likely to turn and see him. He would be likely to have one of those inside warnings, which we call feeling that danger is about.

So when Reddy was about half way to Peter he turned and began to walk instead of run. He walked off at right angles. That is to say, he wasn't walking toward Peter any more. Just as Reddy had felt sure would happen, Peter suddenly turned his head and looked. Reddy saw it out of the corner of one eye, for he was not looking toward Peter. He kept right on walking. Presently he stopped for a moment and looked over toward the dear Old Briar-patch. Then he kept on. Not once did he look toward Peter.

Now, if you had been there to watch you would have seen that Reddy was not walking in a straight line. He was all the time gradually turning in, so that he was walking in a big circle. Peter was in the middle of that big circle. Reddy paid no attention whatever to Peter. He kept right on walking. Now and then he would stop to look anywhere but at Peter. Once or twice he sat down for a moment or two. Presently he was back where he had started from. That isn't quite true. He wasn't quite where he started from, because he had all the time been narrowing that circle a little bit, so that when he got back opposite the place where he started he was a little bit nearer Peter.

Reddy turned his head and grinned. He had walked completely around Peter and Peter hadn't attempted to run. "He thinks I don't see him," chuckled Reddy. "He's playing that old trick of freezing." You know, "freezing" means sitting motionless.

"He thinks," continued Reddy, "that if he doesn't move I won't see him. Now, we'll see what will happen when I go around again. By and by he'll get so curious over what I'm doing that he'll forget everything else. Each time I go around him I'll make my circle a little smaller. In this way by and by I will get near enough to rush him and catch him. He thinks he's fooling me by keeping perfectly still, and all the time I'm fooling him. He'll be a surprised rabbit by and by. Yes, sir, Peter will be a surprised rabbit. It is about time I caught that fellow. He has too good an opinion of himself. He's boasted a whole lot that I haven't been smart enough to catch him. I would rather catch Peter than any one I can think of."

Reddy paid no attention whatever to Peter.

All the time that Reddy was saying these things to himself he was continuing on around in a circle. Never once did he look toward Peter. And all the time he was making the circles smaller and smaller. All the time he was drawing nearer and nearer to Peter. And all the time Peter was sitting motionless, just as if he was positive that Reddy hadn't seen him.

ROCKVILLE

Rev. Paul S. Burdick returned home Friday from a week's trip to Little Genesee, N. Y., to visit his mother, who has been seriously ill. She was somewhat improved when he left.

Mrs. Burdick and five children came home Friday, aftr a visit of a week with relatives in Wateford, Conn.

The dwelling on the Thomas Wright farm, about a mile from here, was totally destroyed by fire Wednesday night of last week, after midnight. Very little of the contents of the house were saved. The Richmond fire truck was called, but the house was too far gone to be saved, so then efforts were directed toward saving other buildings. The wood house containing several cords of wood was burned. Sparks from the burning building set fire to the grass and several acres were burned over before the blaze was extinguished. The house was one of the landmarks which are getting to be so few. It was built in 1792, had the old style stone chimney of that age from which the fire is supposed to have started. There was said to be a small insurance on the house.

There was a misprint in one of the items from this place last week. In the item about the funeral of Mrs. Mary Jane Crandall, the bearers were her son, Samuel Crandall, two grandsons and a grandson-in-law, and granddaughter as it read in the paper; he was the husband of a granddaughter.

PUBLIC UTILITIES AND SPECIALTIES FEATURED STOCK MARKET YESTERDAY

NEW YORK, Jan. 31—(AP)—Selling pressure was lifted from today's stock market and prices moved upward under the stimulus of pool operations and short covering. Most of the standard industrials gained a point or two, but a sizeable number of public utilities and specialties were marked up 3 to 10 points. Trading showed a marked reduction in volume, although the day's sales crossed the 2,000,000 share mark.

With the month-end currency requirements apparently satisfied call money dropped from the renewal figure of 5 to 4 1-2 per cent. with a plentiful supply available at the lower figure. This may have been an influence in the day's buying movement, although time money and commercial paper rates held firm, and considerable uneasiness still was apparent over the credit situation.

Publication of the quarterly statement of the United States Steel corporation after the close of the market showed ne earnings of $1.05 a share, as against $2.14 in the preceding quarter and $4.88 in the final quarter of 1926 when a smaller amount of stock was outstanding. This is the first time in a couple of years that the corporation had failed to earn its quarterly dividend. Covering of nervous shorts sent the stock for a net gain of 1 1-4 points to 146 1-4 just before the close of the market.

Spirited bidding for the public utilities was variously attributed to earnings and merger reports and the running in of an over-extended short interest. Montana Power was again in the forefront of the advance, climbing 6 1-2 points to a new high record at 161 1-4, as against a low of 102 1-2 earlier in the month, and then easing to 159. Brooklyn Union Gas, Brooklyn Edison, Columbia Gas, Peoples Gas and Philadelphia Co. all advanced 2 to nearly 5 points to new high levels for the year, or longer.

Motors were churned about in brisk fashion, but failed to make much headway. General Motors and Mack Trucks recorded the best gains while Hudson, after attaining a new 1928 top at 89, slipped back to 87 3-8 for a small fractional loss.

American Zinc and Lead preferred soared 10 points to a new peak at 74. Auto sales reached new high ground on buying influenced by expanding earnings. Bullish demonstrations also were strikingly effective in Air Reduction, American Linseed, Continental Baking A, Endicott Johnson, Mullins and U. S. Leather A.

Pure Oil broke 3 points to a new low at 22 1-8 and other oils eased in sympathy. Marked heaviness also was shown by Christie Brown, American Railway Express and American Sugar Refining.

Establishment of a new high record by Texas & Pacific at 117 was the only outstanding feature in the rail group, prices in which were mixed.

Foreign exchanges were slightly easier, with sterling cables quoted around $4.87 5-32.

Commodity markets were irregular. Fractional losses in wheat futures were offset by slightly higher prices for corn and oats. Cotton advanced 50 cents to nearly $1 a bale in quiet trading. Coffee advanced slightly and raw sugar futures showed an easier undertone.

PROS MEET PHILADELPHIA COLORED GIANTS AT PLAINFIELD THIS EVENING

Plainfield.		Giants.
Normandin, lf		lf, Beckard
Dessinger, rf		rf, Chambers
Stavinsky, c		c, Cooper
Bernot, lg		lg, Jackman
Madden, rg		rg, Yancey

Tonight at the Plainfield Community house the Plainfield Pros face the Royal Colored Giants from Philadelphia in what promises to be one of the best games of the season. This team comes to Plainfield with a fine record and strong reputation and it seems well capable of giving the Pros a stiff test throughout.

The Giants are now on a tour of the eastern states and since they left home have won 23 games and lost six. They have drawn packed houses at almost every stop and there is not an instance where the crowd went away dissatisfied with their play. Working hard and with cleverness this team has proved a big feature in their appearances along the Atlantic seaboard this season. Their fine sportsmanship has been another factor in their favor.

At forwards will be Chambers and Beckard: Chambers is an all-round athlete while Beckhard makes basketball his specialty. In settling arrangements for this game with the Plainfield management the Giant's manager warned that Beckard should be watched tonight. That is all the information that was dropped and fans will have to wait till tonight to find out what this hint means.

At center is Cooper, 6 feet, 3 inches, and a real rival for Stretch Saunders of the Renaissance Five. Cooper is the pivot of the team and about him all plays function.

At one of the guards is Will Jackman, who is known as the best basketball twirler in the colored race. Jackman also is rated highly on the chalked court as the many comments by observers will testify. Jackiman also injects a bit of comedy into the game now and then as he is well known for his funny antics in the field of sport. The other guard is Billy Yancey, the captain of the team, who is regarded as one of the fastest men in the game. He is also another baseball star. For reserve material the Giants carry Mitchell and Davis.

The Pros will use their regular lineup in a strong endeavor to gain the verdict over this team. A win for the Plainfield team tonight will be a big boost and the regular lineup of Mondi Normandin, Roy Dessinger, Steffy Stavinitsky, Hap Madden and Whitey Bernot is expected to start with Brusso and Benson in reserve. A fast preliminary will start at 8 o'clock.

BANNER CROWD IS IN PROSPECT HERE SATURDAY

Present indications tend to show a packed house at the Y gym Saturday evening when the Academy clashes with Windham in the first game of their series. Interest is running high in both Norwich and Willimantic and it looks like both teams will have many supporters on hand.

The Academy is taking it easy during the first few days of the week because of examinations. However, the team is keeping its hand in with light practice especially at the foul line where a strong weakness has been shown. Coach Whitney will probably have his squad out Thursday for a short drill but it is safe to say that no scrimmage will be held before this game.

Windham is playing Stonington tonight figures on beating this team and getting itself in first class shape for the game here. Windham will probably take it easy after tonight's game so as to elude the possibility of going stale.

The starting lineups will probably not be announced until the day before the game.

DR. PELTZER, HOPEFUL, LEAVES OF NEW YORK

CHICAGO, Jan. 31.—(AP)—Being a doctor of philosophy, Dr. Otto Peltzer, noted German runner, left for New York today hopeful that his differences with the Amateur Athletic union over participation in American track meets would be smoothed out some way.

The A. A. U. order to come to New York and talk over the situation was the act which strained the doctor's philosophical attitude to the limit. It was not clear to him, he said, why he could not run in races he chose to and stay out of those meets in which he did not wish to participate.

If he has his way, Dr. Peltzer said he would run in the Millrose games at New York February 2, the Illinois A. C. meet here February 16, and the K. of C. meet at New York, February 19.

CRUSADER WILL CARY TOP WEIGHT IN BELMONT MEETING

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—(AP)—Crusader, Man O'War's most famous son, will carry top weight in the Metropolitan handicap, $5,000 added for three year olds and upwards, classic feature of the Belmont park spring meeting.

The handicaps, announced today by Walter S. Vosburgh, official handicapper for the Jockey club, assigned Crusader the heavy impost of 128 pounds, two more than the Arden Farm's Chance Play which ranks second on the list.

Third from the top is another son of Man O'War, Scapa Flow, leading money winner of 1926. Scapa Flow will carry 129 pounds, one more than the Fair stables' veteran, Sarazen.

LOU GEHRIG'S TEAM TO PLAY DANIELSON

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Jan. 31—The imagination of basketball fans in Danielson was stirred today when Managers Gerald Bowlaine and C. Clinton Cleveland of the Danielson Town team announced that they had signed up Lou Gehrig's All Stars for an appearance here during February. It is already apparent that many fans are as much allured by the prospect of seeing the famous first sacker of the New York Yankees—Babe Ruth's home run twin—as they are over the playing of the team that he is to bring here. Larruping Lou likely will have a team made up of major league baseball players, but this is not definitely known to the local management as yet. The contract for the game was closed this morning.

SPORT SLANTS

By ALAN J. GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, Jan. 31—(AP)—The United States already is calling the roll of its forces for two of the main cup clashes of 1928—the defense of the Walker cup in golf and the challenge for the Davis cup in tennis.

Except for a probable choice between Bobby Jones and Francis Ouimet for the captaincy, there isn't much of a problem to selection of the golf team that will meet the British invaders at Chicago, next August. The Walker cup has yet to repose on a foreign shelf. America, although hard-pressed at St. Andrews in 1926 and again in 1926, has won all four tussles for the trophy and will be favored to keep it at home again with such stalwarts to depend on as Jones, Ouimet, George Von Elm, Watts Gunn, Roland Mackenzie, Chick Evans, possibly Jess Sweetser and others.

The Davis cup campaign is a horse of another color, after seven years of supremacy, the United States is in the unaccustomed position of starting at the bottom of the heap, along with some thirty other nations. The old guard's effectiveness has dwindled. Tilden and Johnston, the erstwhile main defenders, are not out of the picture altogether, but it is upon more youthful shoulders that Davis cup hopes are being rebuilt. Where since 1920 it has been a foregone conclusion nearly every year that "Big Bill" and "Little Bill" would bear the brunt of battle, this season will develop an open contest for places on the team.

Recognizing this, the United States Lawn Tennis association already has notified a list of some 20 or 25 players throughout the country that they will be considered candidates for the team. Most of them will have scant prospect of being included in a potential "big four," upon which to erect future prospects, but all at least will have a chance, the younger talent will have a more stimulating prospect than at any time since the Tilden-Johnston dynasty got the upper hand.

The chance for the younger stars, such as George Lott, Bud Chandler, Johnny Doeg, Johnny Hennessey, Lewis White, John Van Ryn and others, will be heightened if Tilden and his 1927 doubles partner, Frank Hunter, stick to their determination to make an early trip abroad, thus foregoing the American zone elimination matches.

The tennis rulers feel that if Tilden and Hunter do not share in the preliminary contests they should be excluded from selection for inter-zone and possible challenge round competition, assuming that the American team wades that far through the ranks of France's challengers.

The idea behind this is that if the younger players carry the early burden it will be only fair to let them see the battle through, even though there would be an advantage in having the more experienced stars, Tilden and Hunter, pinch-hit in the important matches.

Japan looms as the only threat to a sweep by the United States, through the American zone and unless Takeichi Harada returns to his 1926 form the Japanese would not be likely to upset even a team composed of youngsters.

GROSVENORDALE QUINTET DOWNS PIN SHOP AT PUTNAM

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Jan. 31—In a Quinebaug Valley league game tonight at the Putnam High gym the Grosvenordale Five nosed out ahead of the Pin Shop team, 20 to 19. Play was nip and tuck all the way. The Pin Shop had a one point lead at the half, 11 to 10, but the Grosvenordale boys spurted after intermission to win a close decision. Although this game brought together the two lowest teams in the league standing, nevertheless it produced interesting basketball throughout.

Next Tuesday the league-leading Silk Sox meet the Headquarters company. The summary and league standing:

TAFTVILLE CRESCENTS WIN OVER HILLTOPS OF WINSTED, 50 TO 39

With Mondi Normandin taking the ball in the first minute of play and dropping it in the basket, the Taftville Crescents of Taftville piled up a lead that was never threatened by the Hilltop A. C. of Winsted, at Parish hall, tonight. Within the next minute, Brown, the sharp shooting forward sunk another into the basket and then repeated with one more a few minutes later. The Crescents continued to increase their lead, keeping the ball in their territory a good part of the time, allowing the Winsted boys only six baskets in the first half, against their twelve.

Brown led the scoring for the first half with four baskets to his credit, Normandin three, Coleman three and Murphy two.

At the end of the first period Brown was replaced by Gauthier at left forward and Eccleston relieved Murphy at right guard. They continued to pile up a lead, Normandin scoring two, Gauthier one, Harris three, Eccleston one and Coleman five.

Radzevich High Scorer

As was expected Radzevich the former Hartford Blues star playing forward was the shining light for the Hilltops. He managed to elude his opponent and several times took the ball across the floor to drop it into the basket. Out of six tries he made two goals in the first half and seven out of nine in the second. He is a fast man and was easily the outstanding player on the team. Carroll was next high with six baskets to his credit, while Haywood was the only other man to score a field goal he getting three. Shea at center managed to shoot a foul to keep from going scoreless.

The Hilltop boys took chances on landing goals from long field shots, only one of Capt. Carroll's dropping into the net. The Crescents on the other hand were content to pass the ball and play safe with short shots under the basket.

The Hilltops rallied in the second half and increased their score with the help of Radzevich's seven and Carroll's four goals, but not enough to worry the Crescents. Notwithstanding the score it was an interesting game and the Winsted boys gave battle all the way.

Crescents Play Three More.

The Crescents have three games booked for the coming week. Tuesday evening they line up against the fast traveling Gibraltar A. A., of Southbridge at Parish hall again it will be remembered that this club nosed out the Taftville team by two points last week. Saturday night they travel to South Manchester to take on the Recreation A. A. of that city Sunday afternoon they will play the St. Joseph Y. M. A. in Worcester.

"LITTLE FELLOWS" TO RECEIVE SAME TREATMENT AS HEAVIES

NEW YORK, Jan. 31—(AP)—A remedy concocted by the New York state athletic commission to cure certain types of illness among heavyweight boxers even before they occur was passed on today to fighters in lesser divisions.

The boxing fathers called upon Benny Ross, Philadelphia nominee of the National Boxing association for the featherweight championship, and Tony Canzoneri, favorite son of the New York commission, for forfeits of $5,000 apiece to ensure their going through with a title match scheduled for Feb. 10 at Madison Square Garden.

Precedent for this action was set two weeks ago, when the commission ordered Tom Heeney and Jack Delaney to post $5,000 apiece to guarantee an appearance for their heavyweight "elimination" battle here March 1. The move followed Jack Sharkey's postponement of the original date for his recent draw match with Heeney because of an injured hand. The commission thought that postponement unnecessary.

The forfeits, which must be posted by Thursday, will be split into equal sums guaranteeing appearance and weight under the 126 pound limit, in case of default, the weight forfeit will be turned over to the offender's opponent, while the appearance money will be paid the Madison Square Garden.

While not affecting the boxer's standing in New York, the commission advised Joe Sekyra, Dayton light heavyweight, to settle his differences immediately with the Montgomery county boxing commission, of Ohio, or else take the matter to court. The mid-west commission, although it has no working agreement with New York, asked assistance in forcing Sekyra to carry out a contract made with promoters for matches every 20 days throughout 1928 in Dayton.

DANIELSON TOWNERS FACE HOLLISTON THURSDAY

DANIELSON, Jan. 31—The Danielson Town Team is looking forward to a real struggle Thursday evening at the Town hall when the Holliston (Mass.) Town Team invades their camp. The Holliston team was organized back in 1914 and has been going strong ever since and is well known throughout Massachusetts as a very powerful team.

This year the team has added Daley, former Connecticut Aggies star and all round athlete to its lineup as well as Walsh of Holy Cross The remainder of the team will be composed of the old standbys of the team including the famous Hal Haley, Red Rae, Jake Cormier and Capt. Kennedy.

The Danielson management is expecting a large crowd.

'BOUT SPORTS

This Speaker and Ty Cobb are as yet with no definite baseball home for 1928. With but two weeks separating the hungry baseball fan from his first training camp news we find the two veterans "rumored and "rumored" but nothing definite as to their diamond activity comes about.

It seemed fairly certain a few week's back that Cobb would be a part of the New York Giants the coming campaign and that Speaker would be surely a player and probably manager of one of the American league clubs. But since then the Giants have stated that they are not seeking Cobb and they have also added Speaker, while Speaker has been given his release by the Senators and has not hooked on with another outfit.

Cobb has stated that he will not play in the minors, evidently being content rather to retire and let his last season be with a major club that carry on out of the "big time." Speaker has not let out any information of this kind yet and with Montreal reported in the field for him as manager it is probably that that is where he will locate during the spring and summer months. Cobb may also soften and don the uniform of a Class A club, although it is a much more uncertain quantity that the Gray Eagle.

BASKETBALL BRIEFS

The Pros seem to have a real attraction listed for tonight. The Community house will no doubt have another capacity audience.

The Danielson Towners can sure count on standing room only when Lou Gehrig's team offer the opposition.

The C. F. C. is still looking forward with much anticipation to their game with the Hartford Central Baptists the last Monday in the month. At the rate the locals are now travelling, it looks like a win for them in this important game.

The Y Seniors, who are finding the going a bit stormy this year, are now getting ready for the Mercury Five of the New London City league here Saturday night as the preliminary to the Academy-Windham game. Tonight the Yers meet the Plainfield Buddies at Plainfield.

The Taftville Crescents will probably find things hard against the Manchester Recs in Manchester Saturday night than they did in Taftville last week. The Recs are preparing steadily for this tilt.

BOXERS FROM FOUR PLACES HERE FOR PASTIME AMATEURS

The Pastime A. C. will have amateur boxers from four outlying communities for their boxing show Friday evening at Olympic hall. In the addition to the New York team coming via George Schiller's camp in Lebanon there will be boys from New London, Willimantic and Danielson with a possibility of entries from Westerly. Notice of the intentions of Danielson contingent to compete was received by the management Tuesday evening.

The Willimantic delegation is being handled by Art Miller, formerly of Springfield, who reports that he will have five strong performers. It is understood that he will bring down the following boys: Dunn, 134; Belanger, 130; Grimes, 150; Conners, 140, and Lynch, 135.

The New York team is to arrive at Lebanon today and will undergo light workouts this afternoon or evening, and then finish up training with a bit of roadwork tomorrow.

PENN FROSH BASEBALL SLATE LIMITED TO ONE GAME

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 31—(AP)—As a first step in an effort to curtail freshmen athletics at the University of Pennsylvania, the council of athletics announced tonight that the usual freshman baseball schedule will be abandoned this year. The yearlings will play but one game in 1928 against an outside team, the Cornell freshmen will be their opponents.

The announcement followed several meetings devoted to consideration of freshmen athletics, with a view to cutting down competition, as the baseball team felt the first blow.

It was understood that plan may be carried out in other sports.

TWO LEAD FIELD WITH 79 IN BERMUDA GOLF

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Jan. 31—(AP)—Miss Helen Payson, of Portland, Me, and Miss Ada MacKenzie, of Toronto, former Canadian champion, led the field in the qualifying round of the annual women's Bermuda championship at the Riddell's Bay Golf and Country club today. Each turned in a 79 for the 18 holes.

Schedule Ratification Today.

CHICAGO Jan. 31.—(AP)—Ratification of the American league schedule and "a few things I have been talking over with Commissioner Landis," form the program tomorrow of the annual spring meeting of the league. President E. S. Barnard said today Representatives of all the clubs were expected to be present.

Significant of the new regime in the league was the statement that matters discussed with Commissioner Landis were to be laid before the club owners. The commissioner and President Barnard's predecessor, Ban Johnson, were at odds from the moment of Landis' appointment to supreme power in organized baseball.

PIRATES TRIM CANADIENS IN TORRID HOCKEY TILT

MONTREAL, Jan. 31—(AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates skated out on the long end of a 2 to 1 score over the Canadiens here tonight in one of the most exciting matches of the National Hockey league at the Forum this season.

Humery Wins On Foul.

PARIS, Jan. 31—(AP)—"Tiger" Humery, French featherweight champion, defeated Henri Sollie, of Belgium, former champion of Europe, tonight, when the Belgian was disqualified in the sixth round for a foul.

Humery as winner is due to meet John Cuthbert, British featherweight champion, soon.

RICKARD HINTS DEMPSEY IS THROUGH

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 31—(AP)—Tex Rickard indicated today that Jack Dempsey had been eliminated from further consideration so far as another match with Gene Tunney is concerned.

Told by the Associated Press that the Miami Daily News was publishing a story saying it had learned through "reliable sources" that Dempsey would never fight again and adding that Rickard and Billy Gibson, Tunney's manager, were unable to announce the champion's opponent for a summer bout at present, the promoter said:

"If I were you I'd go ahead with about the same sort of story."

He declined to elaborate on this statement.

Meanwhile in New York Rickard's bankers posted the $100,000 forfeit necessary to bind the option on the champion's services for 1928 in accordance with the promoter's contract entered into last fall.

The Daily News, however, said it was in a position to say that Tunney would fight in New York in June and added:

"Dempsey, already greatly affected by punches he has absorbed, especially at the hands of Tunney at Philadelphia and Chicago, does not want to jeopardize the benefits purchasable with the million and a half dollars he is said to have amassed trading punches."

For that reason, the paper added, Dempsey will never enter the ring again.

CADILLAC - LASALLE

Their Influence on Motor Car Styles is Everywhere Apparent

CADILLAC and its companion car, the Cadillac-built LaSalle, have exerted an astonishing influence on the automobile industry. They are, in truth, creators of today's vogue in motor car styles.

But in no other automobiles in any price class—even though they resemble Cadillac or LaSalle—will you find the famous 90-degree, V-type, 8-cylinder engine. This engine is the secret of Cadillac and LaSalle performance and it can be depended upon to deliver unequaled satisfaction month after month without deviation.

Cadillac and La Salle, because of their fascinating style and incomparable performance, command an impressive preference in their respective price brackets. Cadillac is selling two to one over all other makes in its field and LaSalle better than 46 per cent of its entire market.

This preference grows stronger day by day. For now there is the added incentive of LaSalle's lower prices on its entire line; and Cadillac, offering a completeness and individuality hitherto found only in custom-built models, at its low prices is the outstanding value in the fine car field.

In addition to values only General Motors can offer, there are unexampled completeness and variety of body styles in both the Cadillac and the LaSalle lines. Choice is made easy.

Five new models have been added to the LaSalle line, including a five-passenger Family Sedan at $2350, f. o. b. Detroit. Every LaSalle model is completely manufactured by the Cadillac Motor Car Company within its own plants.
